Capacity crowd attends kickoff event for Revere's master plan

By Cary Shuman

If the size of the crowd is any indication, the city's master plan, known as Next Stop Revere, is off to a spectacular start.

Mayor Brian Arrigo stood in front of the capacity, standing-room audience inside the Rumney Marsh Academy auditorium and his optimism for the city's future was felt throughout the hall. That enthusiasm was affirmed when the mayor humbly introduced himself, and the crowd erupted in spontaneous applause.

"The city has engaged in a partnership with the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC), which is a group of expert planners in the Commonwealth, who are going to help us think about the next 20 years in the city of Revere," began Arrigo. "It's incredibly exciting to have this opportunity to think about the next 20 years of our city."

Arrigo turned the program over to MAPC officials, Ralph Willmer and Betsy Cowan, who are working with the city in preparing the master plan. Willmer was impressed with the large assemblage, calling it "a record-breaking" turnout for an event of this nature.

Willmer, co-project manager, defined a master plan as "a strategic framework for future land use decision making in the city of Revere for housing, economic development, parks and open space, things along those lines."

"We'll be looking at how the city has changed over time and with input from meetings like this and other meetings, we're going to develop a vision for the city and identify goals and objectives," said Willmer.

He said the MAPC will recommend specific strategies for the implementation of the master plan.

Cowan noted the future de-

Revere's economic development on track for 2019

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

When it comes to Revere's economic development in 2018, it's safe to say that the proposed development of Suffolk Downs was the biggest story.

A 151-arce site situated in Revere and East Boston, the Suffolk Downs property, under the watchful eyes of the developer, the HYM Investment Group, will mold the area into a new community, with Beachmont Square and Belle Isle Square serving as the front door to the development.

"We have used the word 'transformational' to describe this project, and that is no overstatement. Phase One alone will constitute the most ambitious development project in the city's history and will have tremendous influence on our city's economy and recreational environment," said Mayor Brian Arrigo.

The first phase of the development as a whole will begin in Revere, since the city was able to complete the permitting process. In November 2018 the City Council approved the entire planned urban development site (PUD).

There will be close to 1.5 million square feet of development. Construction is expected to begin by the end of 2019. Between now and then there will be the demolition of the horse barns and the preparation of the development.

The construction phase is expected to start in late 2019 or early 2020.

In other development around the city, there are about 30 projects underway in various stages; almost 23 could see completion this year. Some like Ocean 650, the Beach Club, property on Dahon Street and the Gate Residential on Revere Beach Parkway is just about complete.

The XSS Hotel near the old China Lantern site on Ocean Ave., a tandem hotel to the Gate property, will get underway. Holiday Inn and Staybridge Suites are planned with a shared lobby, amenities and facilities on the Beach.

"Beyond that we have five hotels, with over 500 rooms,

Suffolk Downs developers say thank you to Revere

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

When HYM Investment Group came to Revere with a plan to develop Suffolk Downs, Mayor Brian Arrigo said "Eelcome to history."

"It seems a little lofty to say, it seemed a little corny at first, but the fact is that statement couldn't be truer," Arrigo said. "The fact is what you all have done for this site and for the future of the city is historic. The future of the city is really transformational. I can't say enough about how professional this process has been. I relied a lot on Bob O'Brien, our economic development director. This has been a process a bit different from what the city has seen. It's a plan that has been so well thought out so organized."

Last Wednesday Arrigo and members of the project's advisory board gathered one more time at Suffolk Downs this time to be thanked by Tom O'Brien, founding partner and managing director for the assistance and input into the project. Doug Manz, HYM partner and director of development and several other HYM staff members also attended.

"This is one of the most professional processes we have been involved in," said Tom O'Brien

Arrigo also thanked the board members for their input and sacrifices.

The HYM Investment Group purchased the 161-acre property in May 2017

ence," O'Brien said.

Tom O'Brien also gave a quick update on the project.

"Now we're in the mode of how do we implement this," Tom O'Brien said. "One of the challenges with this city, as you know, is the lack of commercial space and office space its an important challenge that we need to meet on so many different levels. It's about jobs, it's about tax revenue, it's about getting a new high school as we talked about in front of the City Council, all those different pieces, that's the challenge for us."

O'Brien didn't mention Amazon by name, because it never mattered whether they did or not. The development would go on and there can be a sort of "campus" feel. They are in the process of selecting architects for the project, which will begin at the retail end of Beachmont Square. The Innovation Center is also planned for the square as is a high-end hotel. HYM just brought in a finance broker to work with them and raise capital for the hotel.

"We will probably make a selection in the next 30 days," he said. "We've also started the process to reach out to retailers (as well as interesting restaurants, a coffee place, etc.) "

The design process for the infrastructure (the roads, the parks, etc.) has also begun.

"Our objective is to get into the ground as soon as possible," Tom O'Brien said, adding that it take 10-12 months to design. "If we could start in 2019 that would be terrific but likely it will be the first quarter of 2020. You will see us beginning to demolish the horse barns in the spring. Finally, after 80 years that's all going to come down."

that are on the way," Arrigo said. "Two on Revere Beach Boulevard are under construction, and work on a hotel on Ocean Avenue, a final phase of the Waterfront Square development, will begin construction in the very near future."

The site of the former car wash on American Legion Highway will be demolished to make room for another hotel. This will become an Avid Hotel, with 100 rooms.

The site of the former Papa Gino's on Squire Road is also being prepared to become another hotel.

There is also another hotel planned for the Revere portion of the Suffolk Downs development. That would make eight hotels for the city, and there is interest in other hotels, but nothing is set in stone.

"Hotels are attractive from the city's prospective because they provide revenue in the form of property tax and also produce sales tax, room tax, meals tax revenues. Their demand on city services is relatively low, and they are a source of employment for our residents," Arrigo said, adding that Revere's proximity to Boston, the beach, the airport or the MBTA Blue Line make the city particularly attractive to the hotel industry.

On Ocean Avenue the Waterfront Square property should be completed, includes the Vanguard (under new ownership) and Ocean 650.

On Revere Beach Boulevard Gate Residential is developing the lot immediately north of Atlantic Towers as well as the parcel on Ocean Avenue immediately adjacent to Surfside Lots.

At the site of the former China Lantern on Ocean Avenue, developers plan 75 apartment units and 320 Revere Beach Blvd. can also begin construction this year. The Cove project on Revere Street by The Neighborhood Developers is expected to begin construction. There are also plans for micro-units on Dehon Street in 2019.

Elsewhere there will be the construction of 18 units on North Shore Road. The construction of a self-storage facility on Charger Road continues and tenants are also being sought by the owners of the old NECCO building.

RBC receives grant from Baker-Polito Administration

Continuing to make significant investments within the Massachusetts state parks system, the Baker-Polito Administration announced $990,582 in funding to 25 municipalities, non-profit organizations, and other entities as part of the Fiscal Year 2019 Partnerships Matching Funds Program. Including the Revere Beautification Committee (RBC). The program, which is administered by the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR), provides critical funds for projects that are proposed by park advocacy groups, civic and community organizations, institutions, non-state government partners, and individuals with an interest in improving the Commonwealth's natural, cultural, and recreational resources.

As part of the program, the (RBC) received $7,400 to fund the restoration of two historic lamp posts on Revere Beach.

"Developing public, private partnerships remains a vital component of our Administration's efforts to leverage state dollars with private funds for common goals that directly benefit the public," said Gov. Charlie Baker. "The funding provided to these 25 projects through the Partnerships Matching Funds Program will have a long lasting impact on the Commonwealth's state parks system."

Projects proposed within the state parks system are thoroughly reviewed by agency staff and the DCR Commissioner. Once selected, the agency matches the private investment in the park. All projects are managed by DCR to oversee the implementation of the project in close consultation with contributing partners and other stakeholders.

"The Baker-Polito Administration continues to work closely with dedicated individuals and organizations to foster strong public, private partnerships in order to achieve important shared goals," said Department of Conservation and Recreation Commissioner Leo Roy. "The state parks system offers a wealth of recreational opportunities, and the DCR is proud to work with park advocates to enhance our natural, cultural, and recreation resources for all to enjoy."

DCR matches partner contributions of up to and including $25,000 at 2:1, and 1:1 for contributions above $25,000. In certain circumstances, DCR will consider a 2:1 match for contributions above $25,000, for example multi-phase projects with the same partner. Partner matches are donated to the Commonwealth's Conservation Trust.

Some of Fiscal Year 2019's Partnership Matching Funds Program projects include:

- The creation of a new trail in the Blue Hills Reservation in recognition of the 200th anniversary of the death of First Lady Abigail Adams;
- The development of new maps and brochures for the Deerfield Trails in Charlemont;
- Repairs and improvements to trails within Upton State Forest;
- The design of a community skate park in Southwest Corridor Park in Boston; and,
- ADA improvements to the Clock Tower Building at Nantasket Beach.

"I Have A Dream" Address

I am happy to join with you today in what will go down in history as the greatest demonstration for freedom in the history of our nation.

Five score years ago, a great American, in whose symbolic shadow we stand today, signed the Emancipation Proclamation. This momentous decree came as a great beacon light of hope to millions of Negro slaves [Audience:] (Yeah) who had been seared in the flames of withering injustice. It came as a joyous daybreak to end the long night of their captivity. (Hmm)

But one hundred years later (All right), the Negro still is not free. (My Lord, Yeah) One hundred years later, the life of the Negro is still sadly crippled by the manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination. (Hmm) One hundred years later (All right), the Negro lives on a lonely island of poverty in the midst of a vast ocean of material prosperity. One hundred years later (My Lord) [applause], the Negro is still languished in the corners of American society and finds himself in exile in his own land. (Yes, yes) And so we've come here today to dramatize a shameful condition.

In a sense we've come to our nation's capital to cash a check. When the architects of our republic wrote the magnificent words of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence (Yeah), they were signing a promissory note to which every American was to fall heir. This note was a promise that all men, yes, black men as well as white men (My Lord), would be guaranteed the unalienable rights of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is obvious today that America has defaulted on this promissory note insofar as her citizens of color are concerned. (My Lord) Instead of honoring this sacred obligation, America has given the Negro people a bad check, a check which has come back marked insufficient funds. (My Lord, Lead on, Speech, speech)

But we refuse to believe that the bank of justice is bankrupt. (My Lord) [laughter] (No, no) We refuse to believe that there are insufficient funds in the great vaults of opportunity of this nation. (Sure enough) And so we've come to cash this check (Yes), a check that will give us upon demand the riches of freedom (Yes) and the security of justice. (Yes Lord)

We have also come to this hallowed spot (My Lord) to remind America of the fierce urgency of now. (Mhm) This is no time (My Lord) to engage in the luxury of cooling off or to take the tranquilizing drug of gradualism. [applause] (Yes, Speak on it!) Now is the time (Yes it is) to make real the promises of democracy. (My Lord) Now is the time to rise from the dark and desolate valley of segregation to the sunlit path of racial justice. Now is the time [applause] to lift our nation from the quicksands of racial injustice to the solid rock of brotherhood. Now is the time (Yes) [applause] (Now) to make justice a reality for all of God's children.

It would be fatal for the nation to overlook the urgency of the moment. This sweltering summer of the Negro's legitimate discontent (Yes) will not pass until there is an invigorating autumn of freedom and equality. (My Lord) 1963 is not an end, but a beginning. (Yes) And those who hope that the Negro needed to blow off steam and will now be content will have a rude awakening if the nation returns to business as usual. [enthusiastic applause] There will be neither rest nor tranquility in America until the Negro is granted his citizenship rights. The whirlwinds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation until the bright day of justice emerges.

But there is something that I must say to my people, who stand on the warm threshold which leads into the palace of justice: in the process of gaining our rightful place, we must not be guilty of wrongful deeds. Let us not seek to satisfy our thirst for freedom by drinking from the cup of bitterness and hatred. (My Lord, No, no, no, no) [applause] We must forever conduct our struggle on the high plane of dignity and discipline. We must not allow our creative protest to degenerate into physical violence. (My Lord) Again and again (No, no), we must rise to the majestic heights (Yes) of meeting physical force with soul force. (My Lord) The marvelous new militancy which has engulfed the Negro community must not lead us to a distrust of all white people (Hmm), for many of our white brothers, as evidenced by their presence here today, have come to realize that their destiny is tied up with our destiny [sustained applause], and they have come to realize that their freedom is inextricably bound to our freedom. We cannot walk alone.

And as we walk, we must make the pledge that we shall always march ahead. We cannot turn back. There are those who are asking the devotees of civil rights, "When will you be satisfied?" (Never) We can never be satisfied as long as the Negro is the victim of the unspeakable horrors of police brutality. (Yes) We can never be satisfied [applause] as long as our bodies, heavy with the fatigue of travel, cannot gain lodging in the motels of the highways and the hotels of the cities. [applause] We cannot be satisfied as long as the Negro's basic mobility is from a smaller ghetto to a larger one. (Yes) We can never be satisfied as long as our children are stripped of their selfhood and robbed of their dignity by signs stating for whites only. [applause] (Yes, Hallelujah) We cannot be satisfied as long as a Negro in Mississippi cannot vote and a Negro in New York believes he has nothing for which to vote. (Yeah, That's right, Let's go) [applause] No, no, we are not satisfied and we will not be satisfied until justice rolls down like waters (Yes) and righteousness like a mighty stream. [applause] (Let's go, Tell it)

I am not unmindful that some of you have come here out of great trials and tribulations. (My Lord) Some of you have come fresh from narrow jail cells. (My Lord, That's right) Some of you have come from areas where your quest for freedom left you battered by the storms of persecution (Yeah, Yes) and staggered by the winds of police brutality. You have been the veterans of creative suffering. Continue to work with the faith (Hmm) that unearned suffering is redemptive. Go back to Mississippi (Yeah), go back to Alabama, go back to South Carolina, go back to Georgia, go back to Louisiana, go back to the slums and ghettos of our northern cities (Yes), knowing that somehow this situation can and will be changed. (Yes) Let us not wallow in the valley of despair. (My Lord)

I say to you today, my friends [applause], so even though we face the difficulties of today and tomorrow (Uh-huh), I still have a dream. (Yes) It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. (Yes)

I have a dream (Mhm) that one day (Yes) this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed (Hah): "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal." (Yeah, Uh-huh, Hear hear) [applause]

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia (Yes, Talk), the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream (Yes) [applause] that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of injustice (Yeah), sweltering with the heat of oppression (Mhm), will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream (Yeah) [applause] that my four little children (Well) will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. (My Lord) I have a dream today. [enthusiastic applause]

I have a dream that one day down in Alabama, with its vicious racists (Yes, Yeah), with its governor having his lips dripping with the words of "interposition" and "nullification" (Yes), one day right there in Alabama little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers. I have a dream today. [applause] (God help him, Preach)

I have a dream that one day every valley shall be exalted (Yes), every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plain (Yes), and the crooked places will be made straight (Yes), and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed [cheering], and all flesh shall see it together. (Yes Lord)

This is our hope. (Yes, Yes) This is the faith that I go back to the South with. (Yes) With this faith (My Lord) we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope. (Yes, All right) With this faith (Yes) we will be able to transform the jangling discords of our nation (Yes) into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood. (Talk about it) With this faith (Yes, My Lord) we will be able to work together, to pray together, to struggle together, to go to jail together (Yes), to stand up for freedom together (Yeah), knowing that we will be free one day. [sustained applause]

This will be the day, this will be the day when all of God's children (Yes, Yeah) will be able to sing with new meaning: "My country, 'tis of thee (Yeah, Yes), sweet land of liberty, of thee I sing. (Oh yes) Land where my fathers died, land of the pilgrim's pride (Yeah), from every mountainside, let freedom ring!" (Yeah)

And if America is to be a great nation (Yes), this must become true. So let freedom ring (Yes, Amen) from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire. (Uh-huh) Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania. (Yes, all right) Let freedom ring (Yes) from the snow-capped Rockies of Colorado. (Well) Let freedom ring from the curvaceous slopes of California. (Yes) But not only that: (No) Let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia. [cheering] (Yeah, Oh yes, Lord) Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain of Tennessee. (Yes) Let freedom ring from every hill and molehill of Mississippi. (Yes) From every mountainside (Yeah) [sustained applause], let freedom ring.

And when this happens [applause] (Let it ring, Let it ring), and when we allow freedom ring (Let it ring), when we let it ring from every village and every hamlet, from every state and every city (Yes Lord), we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children (Yeah), black men (Yeah) and white men (Yeah), Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics (Yes), will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual: "Free at last! (Yes) Free at last! Thank God Almighty, we are free at last!"

WHAT WOULD DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING THINK?

When one considers that it has been almost 51 years since Dr. Martin Luther King was assassinated, it is easy to understand why so many of our fellow Americans today have so little understanding of who he was and what he accomplished.

Every school child for the past generation knows well the story of Martin Luther King. But an elementary school textbook cannot truly convey the extent to which he brought about real change in our country. To anyone under the age of 50, Martin Luther King is just another historical figure. But for those of us who can recall the 1960s, a time when racial segregation prevailed throughout half of our country and overt racism throughout the other half, Martin Luther King stands out as one of the great leaders in American history, a man whose stirring words and perseverance in his cause changed forever the historical trajectory of race relations in America, a subject that some historians refer to as the Original Sin of the American experience.

However, as much as things have changed for the better in the past 50 years in terms of racial equality in our society, it also is clear that we still have a long way to go before can say that all Americans are judged not by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character, as Dr. King famously put it in his speech at the Lincoln Memorial in 1963.

It is clear that there is a movement in our country that seeks to take away many of the hard-fought gains of the past 50 years. The shootings and deaths of African-Americans while in police custody that have shocked all of us in the past few years are just the tip of the iceberg. Much more significant have been the judicial decisions that have stripped away key provisions of the voting rights act, the disproportionate treatment and incarceration of minorities for drug-related offenses, and the voter ID laws and gerrymandering in many states that, in the words of a federal court in North Carolina, attain with surgical precision the goal of preventing people of color from being fairly represented in government at all levels.

"What would Dr. Martin Luther King do?" we often ask ourselves. We can't say for sure, but we do know that he that as much as King accomplished in his lifetime, he would be the first to understand that his work for which he gave his life still is far from done -- and we can only hope that his spirit and courage can continue to inspire this and future generations to bring about a world in which all persons are treated with dignity and respect.

velopment opportunities in the city such as the Wonderland Park site, the former NECCO property, and the plans for the Suffolk Downs site, "which are going to affect the overall development of our [master] plan."

Cowan said the process will include community meetings, surveys, and workshops. There will be community forums in the spring and feedback from residents will be sought throughout the process. She said the final master plan will be submitted to the Planning Board next winter.

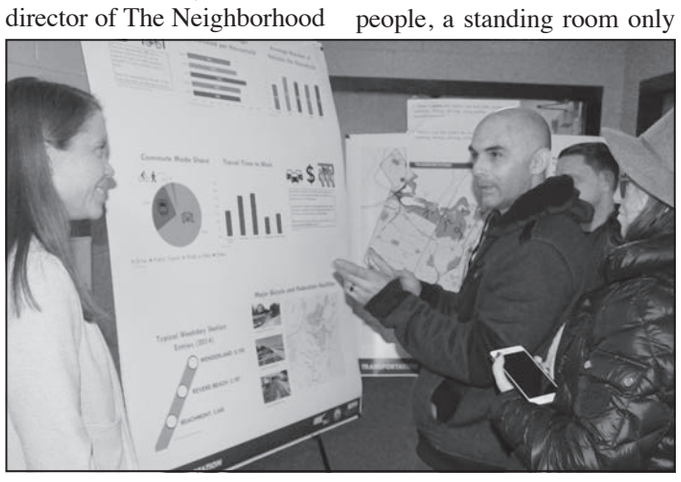
She also assured the audience that there will be an implementation plan for the master plan.

Wendy Millar-Page, executive director of the Revere Chamber of Commerce, said she was excited about the available spaces in Revere and the potential for "smart development, affordable housing as well as good retail and commercial space use, maybe some mixed-used properties."

Rafael Mares, executive director of The Neighborhood Developers and a member of the master plan steering committee, said it's important to engage the community in the process and Tuesday's event was a fantastic start.

Betsy Cowan and Ralph Willmer of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council join Mayor Brian Arrigo for a photo following an introductory presentation about the city's Master Plan, also known as Next Stop Revere, that was held Tuesday night at Rumney Marsh Academy.

"I think it's a really exciting process," said Mares. Revere hasn't done this [a master plan] since 1971. To be able to be here with a room full of people, a standing room only crowd, it's amazing to see that many showing up and being interested, and it's really what a planning process is about."



Kasia Hart (left), transportation policy and planning specialist, discusses transportation in Revere, including the Wonderland, Revere Beach, and Beachmont MBTA stations, with residents at the Open House for the city's master plan.

Ward 4 Councillor Patrick Keefe said the city has obviously been energized by the master plan and its potential to transform Revere.

"This is a tremendous turnout and it just goes to show you how invested our community is and what's happening with the future of Revere," said Keefe. "We're a city on the rise. It's a great place to live and raise a family. I'm proud of being from Revere, living in Revere, and I'm happy about the future we have in front of us. It's very exciting."

Other elected officials in attendance at the event were City Councillors Anthony Zambuto, John Powers, and Ira Novoselsky, and School Committee members Carol Tye, Michael Ferrante, Stacey Rizzo, and Gerry Visconti. Members of the master plan steering committee were also in attendance.

Councillor Keefe pleased with city's response to Vane Street runoff issue

By Cary Shuman

Ward 4 Councillor Patrick Keefe credited Water and Sewer Department Superintendent Don Ciaramella and his department for their immediate response in seeking to identify and helping to correct numerous water displacements and natural springs running off of Vane Street onto subsequent hills in the neighborhood.

Keefe made a motion at Monday's Council meeting that the city engineer and water/sewer superintendent investigate the matter.

Keefe told the Council that due to the rainy weather in the fall season there has been freezing runoffs (ice) that is posing a hazard to the neighborhood, "specifically the hills connected to Vane Street."

Keefe said there have been 4-to-6-foot wide sheets of ice are sliding down the hills.

Ciaramella said he spoke with one of the residents whose yard has been affected by the runoffs, "and he's willing to do whatever he can to mitigate the problem."

Ciaramella distributed photos to the councillors that showed that the natural spring in the resident's backyard "comes down from Reservoir and doesn't even start on his property."

"My question to the Council is, how much responsibility do we put on the resident that inherits a natural spring that is coming from his yard, but not even starting in his yard?" he asked.

Ciaramella confirmed that his department tested the water and determined that the runoffs are not from a pipe, but from a natural spring.

Keefe said it should not be the city's intention to fine residents who are not at fault for the buildup of water. He suggested that the city prioritize "the most severe situations" of natural springs causing hazards in neighborhoods.

Councillor-at-Large George Rotondo said he has seen similar problems on other streets in Revere. "Some years, it gets worse, some years they don't have much, it depends on the flow of the springs," he said.

Joseph Lake, general foreman for the Department of Public Works, said heavy rainfall exacerbates the problem with the natural springs. "I don't know who the onus goes on, the onus goes on the city or the onus goes on the homeowner."

Council President Arthur Guinasso suggested that the matter should be referred to the Council's Public Works Sub-Committee and it was so voted.

Keefe was happy with the immediate attention given to his motion.

"Don Ciaramella and Joe Lake are very qualified individuals and I'm glad they're investigating these springs that are popping up throughout the city and causing havoc to residents," said Keefe.

Councillor-at-Large Steve Morabito also praised Ciaramella and Lake for their responsiveness.

"No matter what issue that I bring to their attention, they're always on top of it, and they always know what's going on," said Morabito. "They always know the solution and what it takes to fix the issue."

Spinazzola announces Foundation Trust grants available for Revere non-profit groups

By Cary Shuman

Joseph Spinazzola, trustee of The Foundation Trust, said that Revere-based non-profit organizations are eligible for grants from the private operating foundation.

Organizations providing services or programming in the city are also eligible for the awards.

Councillor-at-Large Dan Rizzo provided the introductory remarks for Spinazzola's thorough presentation at Monday's Council's meeting.

"Mr. Spinazzola is the executive director of the Foundation Trust and they are a charitable organization 501C3 that helps other 501C3s throughout Massachusetts," said Rizzo. "I had the chance to meet Mr. Spinazzola and as a result of our conversations, he has decided that Revere would be one of the communities from whom they would accept applications."

Rizzo noted that the grants range in the "tens of thousands of dollars, so this is a real exciting opportunity for our community and I just want to thank Mr. Spinazzola for our conversations and selecting Revere."

Spinazzola told the Council that The Foundation Trust was a philanthropic organization that was founded in 2016 by Mr. Dante Dieso, a longtime resident of Revere who passed away in the summer of 2017. The Dieso and Spinazzola families each go back four generations in Revere.

"The goal of the Foundation Trust is to support small-to-medium-size non-profits that are working to elevate marginalized and disadvantaged individuals in communities," Spinazzola explained.

He said the primary social service tracts involved with the grants are: overcoming trauma and adversity (by supporting programming in areas such as domestic violence, violence prevention, mental health and treatment services); working with youth and communities at-risk; and restoring dignity and quality of care to adults with chronic impairments (mental illness, dementia, and long-term physical impairments).

Joseph Spinazzola.

Spinazzola credited Rizzo foe for being instrumental in the Foundation Trust's decision to include Revere in the grants process.

"In our conversations with Councillor-at-Large Rizzo, it really became apparent the diversity of the communities being served by Revere and the extent of need that Revere was as, or more worthy, than any other community to be selected," said Spinazzola.

Councillor Ira Novoselsky stated that the Revere Historical Society/Rumney Marsh Burial Grounds might consider submitting an application for a grant.

Councillors Patrick Keefe said he was pleased to see a charitable organization stepping forward to help Revere groups.

"Any time that we can get charitable organizations in our city that can help some of our non-profits, it's always a great thing," said Keefe, who also serves as president of the Revere Pop Warner organization.

Spinazzola said the grant cycle has begun and letters of inquiry are due by Feb. 15, 2019.

Lawrence Barry

Longtime American Airlines employee and past secretary of K of C

Lawrence W. Barry died on Thursday, Jan. 10, at the Chelsea Soldiers' Home after a long battle with Lewy Body dementia. He was 93 years old.

Larry was a longtime Revere resident and was an alumnus of Revere High School, Class of 1943. Shortly after graduation, Larry enlisted in the U.S. Navy during the height of World War II. While in the Navy, Larry became a Seabee and took great pride in his contribution to his country during this time. He was honorably discharged in March of 1946 and when he returned home, he began to further his education at Suffolk University in Boston, where he went on to earn a bachelor's degree in Business Administration.

On Aug. 21, 1949, Larry wed his beautiful bride Antoinette "Toni" Lehmann the couple began their life in Revere, where they raised their nine children, later moving to Saugus in 1996. Larry and his family took many trips to Brewster on Cape Cod at the family's summer home.

Larry had a very long and successful 39 year career at American Airlines, Boston Logan International Airport, as a Senior Passenger Service Agent, retiring on May 1, 1999. He was also an active member of the Knights of Columbus #179 in Revere and former long time Recording Secretary.

Larry remained in his own home until three years ago when, due to declining health, he became a resident at the Chelsea Soldiers' home, where he made a new family. Larry's warm, funny and sincere personality allowed him to make friends anywhere he went.

He was a gentle man with a gentle soul. He wasthe kind of a man that made a difference simply with a greeting or a smile.

The beloved husband of the late Antoinette (Lehmann) "Toni" Barry, who passed Sept. 30, 2012, he was the cherished father of William L., Matthew M. and Laureen Barry of Saugus, Andrew J. Barry and his wife, Donna M. of Franklin, Stephen F. Barry and his wife, Marilyn Dean of Melrose, Lawrence P. Barry and his wife, Lisa F. of Methuen, Christopher J. Barry and his wife, Jacqueline L. "Jackie" of Saugus, Annette M. Barry of Merrimac and Patrick N. Barry and his wife, Kiersten of Norwood; dear brother of Ruth Mohr of Saugus; devoted grandfather to Alex, Andrew, Shauna, Kimberly, Evan, Katie, Kristen and Joseph Barry, Makena, Terence K. Reardon, Jr., Devin Cowhig and Christine and Stephanie Serrano. He is also lovingly survived by several nieces and nephews and by his newest extended family members, the wonderful 2 East staff at Chelsea Soldiers Home.

Funeral arrangements were by the Vertuccio and Smith, Home for Funerals, Revere. Interment wasnin Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden. In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to the Patients Activities Fund at Chelsea Soldier's Home, 91 Crest Ave. Chelsea, MA 02150. For more information, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY

ROBERT OSGOOD

January 16, 2016 — January 16, 2019

You never said I'm leaving,
you never said goodbye
You were gone before I knew it,
and only God knew why
A million times I needed you,
a million times I cried
If love alone could have saved
you, You never would have died.
In life i Loved you dearly,
in death I love you still
In my heart you hold a place that no one could ever fill.
It broke my heart to lose you, but you didn't go alone
For a part of us went with you, the day God took you home

We Love You,
Mom & Dad

Matilde D'Augusta

Her feisty and caring personality made her well loved by everyone

Matilde D'Augusta died on Jan. 13 at the the Kennebunk Center for Health and Rehabilitation in Kennebunk, Maine. She was 96 years old.

Matilde was born Jan. 28, 1922, in Catania Italy, one of nine children of Luigi and Rosina Pentimalli, Sr. She loved the excitement of the city and helping out in her father's coffee shop. Every summer the whole family would travel to spend the summer at the beach in Sicily. She loved the beach and loved to swim in the ocean.

She emigrated to the United States 50-plus years ago, settled in Boston with her then-husband and two children and worked many years in the Garment District of Boston as a seamstress. She would later take many trips back to Italy with her children and later in life her grandchildren.

"Nonna" loved her family and especially loved doting on her grandchildren, great-grandchildren and her great-great-grandchild. She used the talent she had to crochet many, many, blankets for all of them. She loved to cook and feed you whenever to came to visit even if you were not hungry. She would not take no for an answer. You had to have something to eat or drink. It was that feisty and caring personality that made her so well loved by everyone.

She enjoyed shopping and looking for deals. Her silk flowers and floral tablecloths always matched the season and when she moved to the nursing home that did not stop. She would make several arrangements for the common areas as well as her friends who lived there. She was always helping and making sure everyone was okay and had what they needed. That along with her spunk made her a favorite among the staff. She was often fought over between the staff as to who was going to "take care" of her as she was very independent to the very end.

She had many visits throughout the day from the girls to just chat and even taught them some Italian. The staff at Kennebunk Center for Health and Rehabilitation treated her like she was their Nonna. We could never thank them enough for the care and love she was given. She loved to tell stories from when she was young and growing up in Italy. She loved to reminisce about the little shops and cafes on the cobblestone streets of Venice and Catania.

She had a strong faith in God and would say the Rosary every night before bed. She would follow along with a Missalette during the holidays, to the masses on TV, and receive communion every week.

In addition to her siblings, Matilde was predeceased by her son, Luigi D'Augusta. Matilde is lovingly remembered by her son Peter D'Augusta and his wife, Tina, of Revere, her daughter, Rita Iannillo and her husband, Tony, of Kennebunk, Maine; three grandchildren: Louis D'Augusta (Cathy) Jessica Durfee (Chuck) and Jason Iannillo (Nicole); nine great-grandchildren, Darcie (Joe), Julie, Daniel, Amanda, Alexandria, Amy, Lily, Jace, Ella and one great-great-grandchild, Zoe.

Friends may visit on Friday, Jan. 18, from 2 to 3 p.m. at Bibber Memorial Chapel, 67 Summer St., Kennebunk, ME 04043. A memorial service will follow at 3 p.m. with Father Fred Morse from Holy Spirit Parish. To share a memory or leave a message of condolence, please visit Matilde's Book of Memories page at www.bibberfuneral.com.

Arrangements are in care of Bibber Memorial Chapel, 67 Summer St., Kennebunk, Maine.

Irene Minichiello

Passed away after a brief illness

It is with great sadness that the family of Irene Minichiello announces her passing after a brief illness, on Friday, Jan. 11, at the age of 92.

She was the beloved wife of the late Michael Minichiello Sr., devoted mother of Donna Smith and her husband, Charles of Revere, Sharlene Boudreau and her husband, Edward of Hanover and Michael Minichiello Jr. and his wife, Dawn of Saugus; cherished grandmother of Charles Smith, Shaun Smith, Christopher Smith, Edward Boudreau and his wife, Katie, Michelle Walsh, Michael Boudreau and his wife, Meghan, Heather DiLauro and her husband, Joseph, Nicole Minichiello, Michael Minichiello and adoring great-grandmother of 12. Irene had two dear sisters and two caring brothers. She is also survived by many loving nieces and nephews.

Her Funeral will be from the Paul Buonfiglio & Sons-Bruno Funeral Home 128 Revere St., Revere, today, Wednesday, Jan, 16 at 9:00 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Anthony's Chruch at 10 a.m. Relatives and friends are kindly invited. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Perkins School for the Blind, Perkins Trust, 175 North Beacon St., Watertown, Ma 02472. POLICE NEWS

DEATH OF HOMELESS MAN ON COPELAND

The Medical Examiner's Office is investigating the natural causes death of a homeless man in his 30s on Copeland Circle Jan. 5.

The man was apparently living in the middle of the circle in a makeshift living space with blankets, clothing and other items. Police were called to the scene around 4 p.m. when motorists observed a man that was not moving. Officers found the man unresponsive and was ruled dead at the scene. There were no immediate signs of physical trauma, and the man was not identified as there were no suspicious circumstances detected.

ROBBERY AT BEACHMONT

Revere Police are seeking a man that robbed the Dunkin' in Beachmont Square on Monday, Jan. 7, with a knife.

Around 10 p.m., the man came into the store with his face covered and produced a knife. After robbing the store, he fled the area.

Police did not locate him after a search and an investigation is ongoing.

WANDERING THE STREETS

A Proctor Avenue man was arrested on Sunday, Jan. 13, when he was found wandering in the middle of the Parkway after making several paranoid calls to police.

At 1 p.m., police found the man walking in the middle of the Parkway westbound, and that came after he had called the station several times in the previous 30 minutes. He had told police he was being followed and was worried.

Police tried to engage him as he walked down the busy street, but he refused. Eventually they moved in to arrest him, and that provoked a healthy scuffle.

Raymond DeFranzo, 27, of 92 Proctor Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

FOUND WITH A KNIFE

Police arrested a Mountain Avenue man who was found to be carrying a knife while they were on separate business in a Broadway apartment.

On Jan. 4, police were involved in a call at 604 Broadway when they encountered the man in the apartment.

After a search of his person, they found the knife.

Joseph Dellorfano, 22, of 165 Mountain Ave., was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon and disorderly conduct.

BAD PEDI

A unnamed woman allegedly tossed a water bottle at a Mahoney Circle nail technician when she disagreed with the amount she was charged for her salon visit.

Police were called to the salon around 6:15 p.m. on Jan. 12 for an assault that happened previously. The staff told police a woman didn't agree with her bill, and an argument ensued.

The woman allegedly then tossed a water bottle at the nail technician and left the establishment.

No criminal charges were sought, but the woman was trespassed from the property and cannot come back.

DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE... AGAIN

A Lynn man was charged with his second drunk driving charge on Saturday, Jan. 12, when he allegedly was found driving intoxicated on North Shore Road.

Officers spotted the vehicle around 9:45 p.m. on Saturday and made a vehicle stop on the Parkway.

After an investigation, the man was charged with driving under the influence.

Djamal Carlo Iddir, 52, was charged with operating under the influence of liquor (second), negligent operation, and marked lanes violation.

DA ROLLINS CHOOSES CHIEF OF STAFF

Suffolk County District Attorney Rachael Rollins announced last week that Jennifer Grace Miller will be her Chief of Staff, citing Miller's broad experience in senior government positions, including stints at two statewide law enforcement agencies.

Miller's first day will be Feb. 1.

Miller has most recently served as Counsel to the Massachusetts Senate, where she was the chief legal counsel to 40 senators and approximately 200 staff members. Prior to joining the Senate, Miller was Chief of the Government Bureau in the Massachusetts Attorney General's office. As Chief, Miller supervised roughly 100 lawyers and staff in three divisions. She previously served as the Bureau's Deputy Chief and as an assistant attorney general in the Administrative Law Division, focusing primarily on civil appellate work. Among other high-profile litigation, Miller argued the Massachusetts buffer zone case,McCullen v. Coakley, at the United States Supreme Court.

Miller began her public service career as Senior Staff Counsel at the Supreme Judicial Court. She then served as Assistant Solicitor General in the New York Attorney General's office.

"Jennifer Grace Miller is a smart, dedicated public servant with deep experience managing complex government institutions and sophisticated litigation," District Attorney Rollins said. "She has worked in all three branches of government and will bring a trusted set of skills and perspective to the District Attorney's office."

She also serves as a Commissioner on the Massachusetts Access to Justice Commission.

RHS SPORTS Roundup

RHS HOCKEY TEAM THUMPS EVERETT, 8-4

The Revere High hockey team broke into the win column in a big way with an 8-4 victory over former Greater Boston League and current Northeastern Conference rival Everett last Wednesday at Cronin Rink.

The Patriots jumped out quickly to a 5-0 lead after the first period and never looked back. RHS head coach Joe Ciccarello liberally used all of his back-up players starting in the second period.

Rick Briana and Zach Rufo scored two goals each for Revere. Wayne Cintolo, Joe Papsadora, Cam Mazza, and freshman Alexio Trichilo (Alexio's first varsity goal) all took turns lighting the lamp.

Goalies J.T. Bowdridge and Tristian Goroshko split the duties in the net to share the victory.

"It felt good to get that first win and to give all the boys some ice time," noted Ciccarello,

Three nights later, the Patriots engaged in a hard-fought encounter with Lynn, a combination of Lynn English and Lynn Classical, but came up on the short end of a 6-3 decision.

The contest was a see-saw battle for most of the game.

Lynn struck first early in the opening period, but the Patriots soon responded to deadlock matters at 1-1.

That pattern continued until the start of the third period. Lynn had scored with less than a minute to go in the second period to take a 4-3 lead and then scored the initial goal of the third stanza to take a two-goal advantage for the first time in the game.

"That goal just before the end of the second period changed the momentum of the game," said Ciccarello. "We had tied it at 3-3 and kept up the pressure in their end with some good scoring chances, but we couldn't score to take the lead."

When Lynn expanded its margin to 5-3 in the third period, the Patriots were unable to respond and Lynn added an extra insurance tally for the 6-3 finale.

"All in all, we played well," noted Ciccarello. "We fought hard and gave it our best."

Cintolo scored two goals and Briana reached the back of the net for a goal to account for the Patriots' offense.

Ciccarello and his crew will engage in a rematch with Everett this evening (Wednesday) on the latter's home ice at Allied Veterans Rink. The Patriots will travel to Salem State College to meet Swampscott on Saturday afternoon and return to Cronin next Wednesday to entertain Somerville for a 5:30 p.m. face-off.

BOCKARIE KEYS PATRIOTS' RALLY DOWN THE STRETCH FOR WIN OVER MARBLEHEAD

Junior guard Amara Bockarie scored six points and dished out three assists, all coming late in the fourth quarter, to lead the Revere High boys basketball team to a hard-fought, 37-32 victory at Marblehead Friday night.

As has been the case in many games this season, the Patriots struggled to score, but their tough, hard-nosed defense kept them in the game.

Marblehead grabbed an early 9-3 lead, but sophomore forward Dillan Day nailed a three-pointer from the corner and sank two free throws to draw Revere within one, 9-8, at the first buzzer.

The second quarter proved more of the same, with the Patriots netting just five points on a three-pointer by Johnny Leone and a put-back by sophomore forward Wilfredo Martinez (four points, four rebounds for the night). But once again, the Revere defensive effort kept the Pats within striking range, as they trailed only 17-14 at halftime.

"We were searching for offense," said RHS head coach David Leary. "We were getting good looks, but just not converting. We challenged the seniors at halftime to lead us in the second half."

The members of the Class of 2019 did not disappoint. Senior center Nick Ciciulla (six points, 10 rebounds) scored all of his points in the third quarter and senior guard Scotty Montefusco (nine points for the night) drained a pair of treys and hit a free throw.

The duo combined for all of Revere's 13 points in the frame, boosting the Patriots into a 27-27 deadlock heading into the final eight minutes of play.

The Magicians opened up the fourth quarter scoring the first five points, with Revere once again going cold from the floor, to move out to a 32-27 advantage.

At that point Leary inserted Bockarie into the game and the junior soon provided the spark the Patriots had been seeking all night. Amara penetrated through the tough Marblehead defense for two quick baskets to cut the deficit to 32-31 with 2:30 left in the game.

Marblehead made an adjustment after a timeout and went to a 2-3 zone, but Bockarie calmly recognized it and hit Martinez on the baseline with a look-away bullet pass to give Revere its first lead of the night, 33-32.

After another Patriot defensive stop, Amara found senior forward Omar Bendjahene for

The RHS girls basketball team defeated Medford, 47-41, behind the 18 points of Morgan Jenkins and 12 points by Christina Bagnera. In a 61-41 runaway over Marblehead, Jenkins, who is only a sophomore, scored 22 points and grabbed 15 rebounds. Julie Lu added 12 points, a career-high.

The RHS hockey team stands at 6-1-3 after a win over Saugus and a tie with Swampscott. Sean Dean scored two goals and Chris Mastropietro and George Weiner added single goals in the 4-0 blanking of Saugus. Revere trails only 7-0-1 Winthrop in the Northeastern Conference standings.

Ruben Vargus scored 17 points to lead the RHS boys basketball team to a 74-56 win over Danvers. Paul Cinelli added 16 points, followed by Matt Handy with 12 and Trey Weathers with 11. In a tough loss to Marblehead, Minelli poured in 24 points.

Former RHS girls basketball coach Ed Leyden, who compiled an 84-36 record, including a 44-1 mark in his last three seasons at Revere, has continued with his coaching success at Suffolk University, where his women's teams have achieved great heights. Leyden has been named the GNAC Coach of the Year on four occasions.

a basket to give Revere a 35-32 lead. Then, as the shot clock ran down on Revere's next possession, Bockarie calmly swished a pull-up jump shot to complete the comeback and the win, 37-32.

"It wasn't pretty, but we'll take it," said Leary. "We were searching all night for the right combination on the floor and we found it in the fourth quarter, led by Amara of course. He was the spark we needed.

"This was a total team effort," continued the coach. "Junior forward Scott Toglan was huge for us defensively and on the boards in the last quarter. EJ Leone did a great job for us all night, holding Marblehead's leading scorer, Devin Romain (16 ppg.), to just four points. We will continue to work hard and improve, but we are proud of how these boys compete every night."

Last Tuesday the Crimson Tide of Everett came into Revere as a heavy favorite, but that did not phase the home team.

The Patriots started off ready to go and jumped out to an early 7-2 lead when Montefusco knocked down a three-pointer and junior guard EJ Leone made an athletic move to the basket.

When Martinez (seven points, four rebounds) then made a hoop with a high-light-reel spin move and pass from Day, the visitors had to call an early timeout.

Everett made some adjustments and ended up closing out the quarter with a 15-9 lead.

The second quarter proved a low-scoring, back-and-forth sort of game, but Everett would take a 25-17 lead heading into the locker room at the break.

"We really competed hard in the first half, the whole game actually, but we settled for some tough shots instead of making the extra pass," Leary said.

The third quarter was a mirror image of the second, as neither team could put together a string of baskets. Patriot senior forward Omar Bendjahene (12 points, six rebounds) got going with a few nice drives to the basket, but Everett would close out the quarter with a few offensive rebounds and put backs to move out to a 34-25 lead going into the final quarter.

Revere opened the final eight minutes with a 5-0 run behind a three-pointer from senior guard Wilkens Altenor and another basket from Bendjahene to cut the deficit to 34-30 with six minutes left, but that was as close as the Patriots would get.

Everett controlled the next few minutes and led by eight with three minutes remaining. Revere began to foul to conserve some time, but the Crimson Tide converted on their free throws down the stretch and left with a 47-30 victory.

"We do not believe in moral victories, but we showed a lot of fight tonight," said Leary. "The team executed the game plan defensively perfectly, but when you don't make shots, it's tough to sustain enough consistency to win. We will continue to work and improve our offense, but I like the way these guys are committing on the defensive end."

The win puts Revere at 4-5 (3-3 NEC) on the season. Leary and his crew will travel to Lynn Classical Friday evening and then to Winthrop Tuesday evening. Tip-off for both games is the usual 7:00.

GIRLS BASKETBALL DEFEATS MARBLEHEAD

The Revere High girls basketball team turned in a well-balanced scoring effort to defeat Marblehead, 58-37, this past Friday evening on their home floor at the Merullo Field House.

Lady Patriot junior captain Erika Cheever quickly set the tone for the night, scoring 10 points in rapid fashion to get Revere off-and-running.

The visiting Lady Magicians decided at that point to give Erika some special attention and began to face-guard her. Although Cheever finished the game in double figures with a game-high 18 points, her teammates picked up the pace in the scoring column: Emily DiGiulio and Skyla DeSimone hit for eight points apiece, followed by Chloe Giordano with seven, Carolina Bettero with six, Katie O'Donnell with five, Caroline Stasio and Alanna Nelson with three each, and Nina Cassinello with two.

The Lady Patriots' defensive effort likewise was solid, forcing Marblehead to commit 23 turnovers on the night.

Three nights earlier last Tuesday, Revere dropped a hard-fought, 43-38 battle at Everett. Cheever led Revere in scoring with 17 points and Stasio had a monster night on the boards, pulling down 21 rebounds.

Coach Matt Willis and his crew, who now are 4-4 as the season approaches the halfway mark, will host Lynn Classical this Friday. Tip-off is set for 7 p.m.

The Lady Patriots will entertain Winthrop on Tuesday and travel to non-league foe Melrose on Wednesday.

RHS SWIMMERS TOP LYNN ENGLISH, 96-77

The Revere High swim team earned a 96-77 victory over Lynn English last Tuesday.

Among the highlights for the Patriots were triumphs in all three of the relays. The foursome of David del Rio, Leila Cesic, Andrey Carvalhais, and Jeffery Martinez won the 200 medley; the quartet of William Arias, Cesic, Martinez, and Reked Caushaj captured the 200 free relay; and Del Rio, Arias, Caushaj, and Carvalhais took first in the 400 free relay.

Among the top individual performers were Arias, who took first in the 50 and 100 freestyle; Carvalhais, who continued to dominate in the 100 fly; and Del Rio, who outswam the field in the 100 backstroke.

This past Thursday the Patriots lost a very close meet with conference power Beverly, 100-81.

Among the top Revere performances, the 200 free relay team of Isabella Veraldi, Cesic, Sonia Salazar, and Olivia Winsor qualified for sectionals. The 200 medley relay was won by Del Rio, Ashton Haung, Carvalhais, and Caushaj by a massive eight seconds.

Del Rio and Carvalhais both scored wins in the 100 back and 100 fly respectively.

Coach Chris Hill and his crew were set to travel to Peabody yesterday (Tuesday).

RHS GIRLS TRACK COMPETES AT PEABODY

The Revere High girls indoor track and field team trekked to Peabody last Thursday to take on the Lady Tanners, one of the top teams in the Northeastern Conference.

Kiana Napolitano and Fatima Hartout were the top performers for the Lady Patriots with first-place finishes in their individual events.

Kiana top the field in the shot put with a toss of 27'-5". She also earned three points for a second-place finish in the 45-yard dash in a time of 6.1 seconds.

Fatima outran the field in the two-mile event in a clocking of 14:12.

Three other Lady Patriots added three points to the Revere total with second-place performances: Crystal Valente with a shot put throw of 26 feet; Jessica Vo in the 45-yard hurdles in 7.9; and Olivia Novoselsky in the 1000 in 3:14.4.

Adding single points to the Revere cause with third-place finishes were: Vivian Le in the the 45-yard hurdles in 8.3; Emily DeMauro in the 300 dash in 50.6; thalia Ramos in the 600 in 2:01.2; and Eliya Godfrey in the mile in 7:12.2.

The Lady Patriots were scheduled to host Gloucester yesterday (Tuesday) and will entertain Beverly next Wednesday.

MADRID WINS FOR RHS BOYS TRACK

Christian Madrid was the lone victor in an individual event for the Revere High boys track indoor track and field team in their meet at Peabody last week.

Christian won the two mile run with a clocking of 11:25.4. Teammate Fabio Tran took second in that race with his time of 11:32.1.

Lucas Barbosa took second place in the high jump with his leap of 5'-7" and Antony Arias earned three points for his second-place performance in the 300 dash in a clocking of 40.6.

Both also grabbed a third place in another event, with Antony scoring a point in the high jump, crossing the bar at 5'-2" and Lucas doing likewise in the 45-yard dash in 5.5.

Other Patriots who added single points to the RHS side of the scoresheet with third-place finishes were Rayan Riazi in the 45-yard hurdles in 6.7 and Augusto Conclaves in the 600 dash in 1:41.3.

The RHS 4 x 400 relay quartet defeated their Peabody counterparts with a time of 4:13.7, which was 12 seconds faster than their Tanner foes.

The Patriots were set to be back on the track yesterday (Tuesday) at the Merullo

RevereTV Your Community Source SPOTLIGHT

The RevereTV Spotlight is back! We have taken a hiatus from our recaps due to the shorter work weeks for the holidays. The RTV staff hopes everyone enjoyed a happy and healthy holiday season. 2019 has already started off as a busy year at the studio.

Most recently, we have gained quite a few new community members through the high school's Power of Know Club. Over the past few weeks, RHS students have been taking advantage of the learning opportunities RTV provides to all members. Our Community Production Coordinator, Andrew Love, taught some studio, directing, and editing classes to this group over the past few weeks. The students involved have divided themselves up into various production roles and have been working on learning the ropes of the positions they have chosen. The group will be back soon, as they have a big project on the horizon.

Some familiar faces dropped by RTV as well. Diana Cardona is working on an independent project out in the field. RHS students Elizabeth and Catie took a composition class. Ashton DeRousi, Kim Luiso, and Wayne Davidson spent time in our editing suites working on separate productions, all of which will eventually air on RTV channel 8 (RCN 3). On our YouTube page, you'll find this month's episode of Revere Senior News with Morris Morris and Stephen Fielding.

Aside from coverage of the weekly local government meetings, RevereTV was at the Revere Historical Society to cover the second preliminary design meeting for the Northern Strand Trail. We were also at the latest Suffolk Downs Development meeting. Both meetings can be viewed on RTV channel 9 (RCN 13), and our YouTube page. If you have any questions or concerns about community programming, or if you are interested in getting involved at RTV, feel free to contact us at 781-426-9498.

Superintendent Kelly demands educational equity for all Revere students

By John Lynds

Revere School Superintendent Dianne Kelly (center) was a panelists last week at Malden High School discussing school budget funding in the state.

Revere School Superintendent Dianne Kelly was a panelists last week at Malden High School during a forum calling on legislators to overhaul the state's current educational funding model to ensure equity for all students, especially those in low-income areas.

The forum last week in neighboring Malden and simultaneous forums in other cities and towns across the state hosted by the Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents spawned a statewide coalition of partners led by Superintendents like Kelley as well as legislators, cities, towns, teachers, students, and advocates who are joining together in proposing one comprehensive education finance bill to reform the Commonwealth's education funding formula so that it better serves all students throughout the state.

During the state's last legislative session a bill by State Sen. Sonia Chang-Diaz (D-Jamaica Plain) would have recalculated the cost to educate each student in public school districts known as the 'foundation budget' and poured millions of dollars into school over the next several years.

However that bill failed and educators like Kelly are calling this mechanism the state uses to provide students with equitable access to educational opportunities 'obsolete' which must be revised to meet the expectations of today's economy.

Brockton Public School Superintendent Kathleen Smith was the event's moderator.

Because the state has not updated its education funding formula since 1993 to reflect districts' real health insurance and special education costs, the amount of aid being provided to cover those costs is too small.

To compensate, many districts like Revere end up using money that would otherwise have supported core education programs—including Regular Ed. Teachers, Materials & Technology, and Professional Development. This also results in dramatic cuts in other areas of education.

"We owe it to our kids and to the future of this Commonwealth to have forward thinking of what's happening today and where do we want our kids to be 10 or 15 years from now," said Kelly. "If we are not working with our kindergarteners and our preschoolers today they are not going to be prepared to thrive. We are 15 years behind what we should be spending to prepare for the future for these students. It's getting to the point where it's going to be too late. All the work has been done and now it is time to act."

The problem for low-income school districts like Revere is there is a growing equity gap between schools in Revere and schools in more affluent areas of the state. When faced with such shortfalls, high-wealth districts can often draw on additional, local revenue. Lower-wealth districts like Revere, however, are generally unable to do so and the consequence is that they spend less on resources that are critically important to the quality of education students receive.

"I think the most important thing is opportunity for students," said Kelly. "Whatever a child's needs are those needs deserve to be met--whether it's special education needs or language needs. We need to provide those needs and these budget cuts force us to eliminate everything that is not mandated (by the state) and we can't provide other services to all students on a regular basis. So when we have to eliminate say $2 million from a budget we are mandated to provide the special education programs, the language programs but what ends up getting eliminated are extra-curricular activities and those outside the regular school day activities. So it ends up putting our students on an unlevel playing field."

However, Kelly said something has to be done and done soon because the city is running a $9.1 million school budget gap between what the state covers for education and what the Revere School District is actually spending to educate students.

However, there seems to be relief on the horizon for Revere. The Education PROMISE Act, sponsored by Chang-Diaz, Rep. Mary Keefe and Rep. Aaron Vega and supported by Kelly reforms state education funding by fully implementing the Foundation Budget Review Commission (FBRC) recommendations and addressing the underlying inequities within the Commonwealth's education funding formulas, like Chapter 70. As a result of the bill, foundation budgets statewide will better reflect the true cost of educating students, and there will be a renewed partnership between the state and all districts in funding those foundation budgets.

"Children across our Commonwealth are waiting for us to fulfill the promise we made in our Constitution and in the 1993 Education Reform Act: that zip code should not be destiny," said Chang-Díaz, lead Senate sponsor of the bill. "For 25 years, we have failed to live up to that promise-first unknowingly and now, for the past three years, knowingly. Our schools are suffering from death by a thousand paper cuts. This bill isn't about providing 'new' or 'extra' funds. It's about making good on what we've already promised."

Section 2. The foregoing sub-section D inserted by this amendment is hereby repealed effective nine months form the date of passage of this amendment.

A public hearing on the issue is scheduled for Feb. 25.

Councillors want campaign signs removed from properties

By Cary Shuman

The general election was Nov. 4, 2018, so why do some candidates still have their political signs on properties throughout the city?

Revere councillors addressed that issue at Monday's meeting, with Councillor Ira Novoselsky offering a motion that Mayor Brian Arrigo ask the Election Department and Inspectional Services to contact property owners to remove political signs from the election.

"In traveling around the city, there are still political signs from state and Suffolk County offices that are still up on people's fences since last November," said Novoselsky. "We're trying to keep the city clean. They want our votes, but they have no respect for us. They leave their signs up and they become ripped, hanging. It's just disgusting."

Novoselsky said he wants the property owners or the candidates themselves "to take them down."

Councillor Anthony Zambuto said the signs are "an eyesore and it's disgraceful. It's an insult to Revere."

Councillor John Powers said he spoke with Election Commissioner Diane Colella about the matter two weeks ago and she told him she would look in to it. "One of the areas in particular that really offended me, to no end, was Mahoney Circle (Bell Circle). There were five or six signs on that day, and the reason we got back from DPW was that it was private property and they couldn't go on there. They went to the business there and they said they didn't own the property. There has to be a plan to make sure that all of these signs are down seven days after an election. It makes the city look bad and it makes the statement to people coming through the city that perhaps the city just doesn't care."

Council President Arthur Guinasso said there is a city ordinance that states that after "X number of days, political signs have to come down."

"It's not that we don't have a plan in place, we just don't have enforcement of it," said Guinasso. "The right way to handle this is that we call Diane Colella and she does whatever she has to do to get those [signs] removed."

The Council unanimously approved Novoselsky's motion.

Revere School Committee discusses chronic absenteeism

By John Lynds

Revere Public School administrator Dr. Lourenco Garcia gave the School Committee an overview on understanding chronic absenteeism among students.

During Monday's Revere School Committee meeting Revere Public School administrator Dr. Lourenco Garcia gave the committee an overview on understanding chronic absenteeism among students.

Starting this year absenteeism will be measured by the state and be part of Revere School's overall accountability report.

According to Dr. Garcia Revere has been doing pretty good combating chronic absenteeism with progressive measures address the issue.

Under state regulations absenteeism becomes 'chronic' when a student misses 18 or more days of school and the state sets a benchmark for school districts to have over 90 percent or more of their students not in this state-defined chronic category.

In Revere, Dr. Garcia said overall 94.4 percent of students at all Revere schools are not defined as chronic.

However, just below chronic absenteeism is the state labels students that miss 10 to 17 days of school per year as a 'warning' to the district that some measures have to be implemented before the problem becomes chronic.

Dr. Garcia said the issue has grown in recent years especially in districts like Revere where there are a large immigrant or special education student population.

In Revere 36 to 37 percent of Latinos are in the 'warning' category and without intervention may become chronic skippers of school as their school career progresses.

"Many districts are facing the same issues with a significant percentage of students not coming to school," said Dr. Garcia. "Some of the reasons students don't come to school has to do with socio-economics and poverty because parents don't have stable job and they rely on some of their children as a source of income. There may also be a lack of engagement between teachers staff and students. If you look at Revere we are making good progress."

However, it's that level just under chronic where 37 percent of Latino students are on the verge of becoming categorized as chronic that has Dr. Garcia worried.

"When students don't come to school it's an early indicator of dropping out, academic failure or a flag for at-risk or struggling students," he said. "So we must be extremely cautious going forward."

Some of the suggestions Dr. Garcia made is implementing more open houses, one on one meetings with students and teachers or teachers and parents. Personal phone calls to either students or parents if absenteeism starts becoming a problem. Implementing more reward and incentive programs to keep students engaged and wanting to come to school. Educating students and reinforcing the school district's expectations for attendance and how it is tied to success. Also Dr. Garcia said more can be done to educate parents on the risk factors mentioned above is their child begins missing school on a regular basis.

NORTHERLY by Lot 168 on said plan, Eighty (80) feet;
EASTERLY by land of owners unknown, thirty (30) feet; and SOUTHERLY by Lot 170 on said plan, eighty (80) feet.
Said premises are conveyed subject to and with the benefit of restrictions, easements, and conditions of record, if any there be, insofar as the same now in force and applicable.
Being the same premises as conveyed to the mortgagor by deed of Francinci C. Souza, dated September 7, 2001, recorded with Suffolk County Registry of Deeds, Book 27015, Page 50.
The premises will be sold subject to and/or with the benefit of any and all restrictions, easements, improvements, covenants, municipal or zoning regulations or requirements, outstanding tax titles, condominium charges, fees, or assessments, municipal or other public or governmental taxes, assessments, outstanding orders of condition or any municipal requirements, and any liens or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, if any there be, and the rights of tenants and occupants of the premises, if any there be. No representation is made as to the status of any improvements on the mortgaged premises and the Buyer purchases subject to all requirements related thereto.
The premises are being sold with the express acknowledgment that the Mortgagee makes no representation or warranty as to the presence or absence to any wetlands or environmental issue at all, or related to the septic or well systems, if any, or as to any contaminants or other substances, as noted under M.G.L. C21E or any other Massachusetts Statute, Code or Regulation does exist, the correction thereof will be at the Buyer's sole cost and expense, and shall be separate from the purchase price. The Buyer shall indemnify and hold harmless the Mortgagee from any and all costs, expenses or liability related to any of the aforesaid.
TERMS OF SALE:
A deposit of $7,500.00 DOLLARS shall be paid by the successful bidder to the Mortgagee in cash, by certified or by cashier's check at the time and place of the sale as a deposit. The successful bidder will be required to execute an Auction Sale Agreement immediately after the close of the bidding. The balance of the purchase price shall be paid in cash, by certified check, by cashier's check, or other check satisfactory to Mortgagee's attorney within thirty (30) days thereafter at the offices of BARSH AND COHEN, P.C., Attorneys for the Mortgagee, 189 Wells Avenue, Newton, Massachusetts, in exchange for which and at such time and place, the deed shall be delivered to the purchaser for recording. The Mortgagee reserves the right to amend the foregoing terms of sale by written or oral announcement made before the auction sale, during the sale thereof or at the commencement of or during any postponed sale, the right to bid at the sale, to reject any and all bids, and to postpone the sale up until the time the property is declared sold by the auctioneer.
The description of the premises contained in said mortgage shall control in the event of an error in the Notice of Mortgagee's Sale or its publication.
OTHER TERMS TO BE ANNOUNCED AT THE TIME AND PLACE OF THE SALE.
Dated: December 19, 2018

A SHORT STORY ABOUT A MOTORCYCLE. AND A SUDDEN TURN.

When she was a young college student, Elisabeth Marra had a serious motorcycle accident that ultimately changed her life. Two years after the crash, her painful open fractures had failed to heal. Then she heard about a new and complex surgery pioneered by a surgeon who used a patient's own stem cells to concentrate the healing process. This time, her surgery and subsequent therapy were successful.
Elisabeth's experience caused her to re-direct her own career aspirations. Inspired by the medical professionals who helped her reclaim her active lifestyle, she changed her major to study physical therapy—a profession where her own experience could help other patients prevail through difficult recoveries.
We tell Elisabeth Marra's story here to illustrate two of the most profound messages we know. Don't give up, and remember to give back. If reading it inspires just one more person to achieve something special, then its telling here has been well worth while.
