City awarded $40,000 grant for 'Recycling IQ' kit

Mayor Brian Arrigo announced that the City was awarded a $40,000 grant by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection to implement a "Recycling IQ" kit that will bolster the city's ongoing efforts to encourage residents to recycle discarded materials properly.

"Our primary objective is to help people understand what is, and what is not, a recyclable material," said Mayor Arrigo. "Many people just assume that all plastic and plastic bags, or unclean glass or metal, are recyclable. That is not true, and the more we can reduce the amount of contamination in our residential recycling stream, the more efficient our recycling program will become."

The Grant helps fund the city's use of MassDEP's tools and resources to reach out to residents through direct mail and advertising. This will include media publicity, billboards, mailings, and social networking. "It is critical that the residents of the City know about our available recycling and trash collection programs, and our intention to vigorously enforce our rules as we improve our collection and inspection procedures," said Mayor Arrigo.

In the coming weeks, the MassDEP grant will fund advertising and help the City employ teams of inspectors who will monitor residential trash and disposal habits with curbside inspections. "In the early stages, residents will be cautioned with information about prohibited materials that were found in their recycling. Often, it's not that people are trying to disregard regulations; it's that they just are not aware of them." Disregard for the warnings will result in recycling going uncollected and, eventually, fines issued through the Department of Inspectional Services.

Disregarding proper recycling methods is costly. "When our recycling is contaminated, we pay thousands of dollars in additional fees for the disposal," said the Mayor. "Through this MassDEP grant, Revere will join many surrounding communities in taking progressive steps toward proper recycling."

Revere has been in the forefront of recycling efforts for years, being among the first communities to issue recycling bins city-wide. But the rules governing recycling have changed over the years. As the rules have changed, the likelihood that residents are improperly filling their recycling bins has increased dramatically. "Many of our residents are conscientious about using their recycling bins, but they need to be re-educated on correct use of them," the Mayor said.

The Mayor cited the City's new Trash App as one major step in educating the public about trash and recycling. "It's a pretty innovative and convenient way for people to have information about trash removal, recycling, street sweeping, and right at their fingertips," Arrigo said. "It's a free app through Google Play or the App Store and is usable on all devices."

Revere also began a Textile Recycling program on March 1 in conjunction with SimpleRecycling.com. Two pink recycling bags were delivered to every residential address in the city, and residents can fill them with unwanted clothing, jewelry, toys, blankets, drapes, pillows, and assorted small household items for separate pickup on the regular recycling day.

"Trash disposal is a major environmental threat in every community in the country, and every community faces enormous expense in dealing with it," said Mayor Arrigo. "Recycling is the best way to reduce what goes into the trash stream. When people properly recycle, it is good for the environment, and good for the community's financial commitment to trash disposal and recycling."

Powers has a vision for Wonderland Park site

Office park, hotel and restaurants part of his plan

By Cary Shuman

Ward 5 Councillor John Powers drives past the former Wonderland Greyhound Park property sometimes twice a day, if not more.

Powers and his former colleague, the late Robert Haas Jr., were the co-sponsors of a motion a few years ago to have the clubhouse and grandstand buildings and track demolished to make way for new development.

Thought the demolition project took longer than he had hoped, Powers is quite pleased the buildings are gone and prospective developers can see the 30-acre property as they pass by on the nearby VFW Parkway.

"It's ready for development," said Powers during a recent visit to the site.

Powers shared his vision for the site with the Revere Journal, calling the property "one of the prime pieces of property" in the entire Greater Boston area.

"I would envision a commercial development with perhaps, an office park, a hotel, shops, and restaurants," said Powers. "It would be

Mayor Brian Arrigo encouraged residents and community members to attend an upcoming community forum for the City's master plan, Next Stop Revere. Following a widely-attended kick-off event in January, the forum will be the first of two this spring and gather the community's goals and visions for housing, economic development and historic and cultural resources. It will take place on Wednesday, April 10 from 6-8PM at Revere High School.

Attendees will have the opportunity to provide input on future plans for housing, as well as how the city should prioritize a range of economic development goals, including increased access to regional job markets through transportation improvements, support for small businesses, workforce development and job creation. They will also be invited to provide their and simulcasting at Suffolk Downs, sold the property in East Boston and Revere to the HYM Investment Group, a Boston-based real estate developer, in 2017.

In conjunction with the New England HPBA and the Massachusetts Thoroughbred Breeders Association (MTBA), SSR announced plans last year to refurbish and return live racing to the Great Barrington Fairgrounds in Great Barrington, Mass. and to continue simulcasting operations in Boston. The track operator has renewed its option on the 55-acre Great Barrington property and is pursuing legislation in the current session in Massachusetts that would facilitate its proposal.

The average daily purse distribution for each festival weekend, including participation incentives to encourage horsemen to ship in from other circuits, will be in excess of $600,000 per day.

“We are looking forward to celebrating the rich tradition of Suffolk Downs with racing fans for one final season here as we pursue the plan to preserve thoroughbred racing and its associated agribusiness and economic benefits in the Commonwealth by restoring the racing facility at Great Barrington,” said Chip Tuttle, the Chief Operating Officer at Suffolk Downs. “We appreciate the support of the Massachusetts Gaming Commission in granting our dates and purse funding requests.”

“We appreciate Sterling Suffolk’s addition of and the MGC’s approval of extra days and purse funding for this season and Sterling Suffolk’s dedication to preserving live thoroughbred racing in the Commonwealth and the livelihoods of our members, the small businesses and family farms that depend on it,” said Anthony Spadea, president of the NEHBPA.

In 2018, the track conducted four weekends of live racing with an average daily purse in excess of $500,000, including incentives.

The $100,000 James B Moseley Stakes at five furlongs on the turf for fillies and mares will highlight the racing program of June 29.

In order to help offset shipping and travel costs for the festival weekends, Suffolk Downs will offer an incentive program similar to the last several years. In addition to customary purse distribution, owners will receive an additional $500 for horses finishing first through fifth (on top of purse money) while owners of horses finishing sixth through last will receive a payment of $1,200 for races with a purse up to $30,000 and $1,500 for races with a purse greater than $30,000. Trainers will receive participation awards of $400 per starter.

For 2019, first level allowance/optional claiming races will offer purses of $55,000, maiden special weight races will offer purses of $50,000, $12,500 claiming races will carry a purse of $32,500, $8,000 claiming races will be run for $27,500 and bottom level claiming races will now carry a purse of $20,000.

Over the course of each weekend, there will be stakes races restricted to either horses foaled in Massachusetts or sired by a Massachusetts-based stallion. Each offers a purse of $50,000 and is a showcase for the Massachusetts Thoroughbred breeding industry.

In addition to live racing, the track will be hosting a food truck festival each weekend featuring food trucks from a variety of local vendors, craft beer, live music and family fun activities.

vision for key opportunity sites for development, including: Wonderland, Waterfront Square, the former NECCO factory and Caddy Farms. Light refreshments, child care and language interpretation will be provided.

“We want the entire community’s input on these topics that are so important to the future of the city of Revere,” said Mayor Arrigo. “This master planning process gives us the opportunity to define what our city will look like for future generations. Our kick-off event showed us that so many community members are deeply invested in the success of our city and I’m looking forward to continuing that conversation next week.”

Next Stop Revere is the city’s first comprehensive master plan in more than four decades. The City has teamed with the Metropolitan Area

Planning Council (MAPC) for a six-month-long community engagement process to inform policy, which will incorporate the community’s vision for maintaining and improving quality of life, and will span topics including housing, economic development, natural resources and open space, as well as transportation, climate resiliency, land use and zoning. The plan will identify a set of actions for the City to take over the next 10-20 years: <http://www.revere.org/departments/economic-development/next-stop-revere.html>

Following the two community forums this spring, MAPC will continue to solicit and incorporate community feedback through the summer and fall of 2019, with a final plan scheduled to be presented to the City’s Planning Board in early 2020.

similar to what you see in Burlington and Woburn (off of Route 128).

Another phase of the Powers Plan would be the construction of a new commuter rail station behind the Wonderland property and close to the former NECCO site.

“That would be the perfect spot for a commuter rail station (on the Gloucester/Rockport to North Station/Boston route),” said Powers, noting that neighboring cities Lynn and Chelsea have commuter rail stations.

Power envisions a day when visitors from the North Shore would be able to disembark at the Wonderland commuter station, walk over an enclosed pedestrian footbridge to the Wonderland MBTA station, and board a train for the two-stop trip on the Blue Line to the Suffolk Downs property that is being developed by The HYM Investment Group. “Having a commuter station would also take airport-generated traffic off of Route 1A,” said Powers.

The councillor said the location of the Wonderland property is ideal. “It’s close to the airport and minutes to downtown Boston,” said Powers.

He said a new hotel would generate hundreds of jobs and hundreds of thousands of dollars in property, room-excise taxes and meal and beverage taxes.

“Comfort Inn alone gives us approximately $1 million a year in tax revenues,” said Powers.

He said most hotel rooms in Boston are very expensive and the new hotels being built in Revere are giving tourists a less expensive option.

Powers expects many inquiries from developers now that the Wonderland property is open and clearly visible from the highway.

“We’ve opened this site up, so potential developers may drive by and say, ‘that’s a wonderful piece of property, why isn’t something going there,’” said Powers.

One negative at the Wonderland site, according to Powers, is the many cars that remain parked on the Wonderland site.

“To just park cars here is not a positive use for the city of Revere,” he said.

Powers said he has discussed his plans for the development of the Wonderland site with Mayor Brian Arrigo “and we all seem to be on the same page, which is very encouraging news and very good for our city.”

Arrigo considers Wonderland an excellent site for development. “Wonderland’s location — just a walk from the Wonderland T station that connects to Logan Airport and downtown Boston—its size, and the potential for a new Commuter rail stop, raise it above other available pieces of property in the region,” said Arrigo. “While the Wonderland Dog Track served the city well during its heyday, the site now is brimming with possibility that will continue to expand Revere’s commercial tax base. In tandem with the imminent development of the Suffolk Downs site, the Wonderland site holds a key to the city’s future.”

Revere CARES Coalition presents: Bees 101

Story & Photos by Marianne Salza

The Revere CARES Coalition is expanding their Urban Agricultural Committee -- an initiative that encourages composting, backyard and rooftop gardens, and food markets -- and is in the process of recruiting community members to join the board. During the Revere CARES meeting on March 27 at the MGH Revere Health Center, beekeeper Damian DeMarco presented Bees 101 to discuss the importance of honeybees.

"Bees have been with us forever. They found a bee in amber, carbon dated 100 million years old. Bees were flying around with the dinosaurs," said DeMarco, Head Bee Keeper of Cow Hill Apiary. "As long as man has been around, we have had relationships with bees. There is a cave painting of a prehistoric person harvesting bees."

DeMarco has been a beekeeper for three years, and is a member of the Boston Area Beekeepers Association, and Essex County Beekeepers' Association. He is a lifelong Revere resident and Computer Technology Teacher at Sea-Coast High School.

"Become a beekeeper," suggested DeMarco. "It's an intriguing hobby."

In North America there are more than 4,000 native species of bees, 200 of which live in Massachusetts. DeMarco discussed the western honeybee, brought to this country in the early 1600s by European settlers, and selected for its gentle nature and ability to produce an abundance of honey.

"Honeybees are the only insects that produce food eaten by man," explained DeMarco. "They're one of the major pollinators. Honeybees are responsible for pollinating 35 percent of the crops that we eat, and about 75-90 percent of the plants we don't eat."

A virgin queen will leave the hive once or twice, and fly five mile to drone congregations, where she will mate with up to 24 male bees to maintain the genetic diversity of the hive.

A bee will fly to 5,200 flowers, return to its hive and transfer the nectar to another bee that takes that nectar to a cell in the honeycomb. Honeybees are social creatures, with 60,000 insects in a colony, which is 90 percent female.

Unfortunately, in the past five years, bee farms and backyard hobbyists have been losing 50 percent of their honeybees; and two weeks ago, DeMarco lost one of his two hives. Harmful chemicals used for pest control and loss of habitat have decreased the bee population.

"Scientists don't know what the issue is, but they classify this as colony collapse disorder," DeMarco said.

The planting of monocrops, single crops that are not rotated with others, have made large areas of land unusable for bees. Bees survive on nectar and pollen from flowers; but when pesticides are used, foraging bees may die before returning to their hives, or bring contaminated nectar to the hive, making all the bees sick.

DeMarco also pointed out that the varroa mite, a parasite that cases viruses that can deform bees' wings, can give bees diseases by laying eggs in bee larvae, and attaching themselves onto the young bees when they hatch.

"The first thing we can do to save honeybees is plant wildflowers," said DeMarco, who mentioned that a honeybee's favorite habitat is marshland. "We have to support bee-friendly legislation. You can opt out of having Massachusetts spray your property. Support a bee hive, and educate citizens on the benefits of bees on ecology."

tion funding formula so that it better serves all students throughout the state.

Tonight (Wednesday, April 3) at 6:30 p.m. at Revere High School a panel of students, parents, and educators from Revere will once again advocate for ending a generations-long under-funding of local public schools and public colleges and universities.

"We believe in a public education where every student, particularly our low income and ELL populations, obtains a well-rounded education with small class sizes, music and art education, and adequate staffing of teachers, aides, guidance counselors, and nurses to meet the needs of our diverse community," said President of the Revere Teachers Association (RTA) and Seacoast High School teacher Erik Fearing.

Currently Revere Schools is running a $9.1 million school budget gap between what the state covers for education and what the Revere School District is actually spending to educate students.

"Through updating the outdated school funding formula and winning our campaign 'Fund our Future' and the legislation known as the CHERISH Act and PROMISE ACT, in Revere alone, we have the chance to gain more than $18 million for our Revere public schools," said Garfield Elementary School teacher Bria Pichette.

During the state's last legislative session a bill by State Sen. Sonia Chang-Diaz (D-Jamaica Plain) would have recalculated the cost to educate each student in public school districts known as the 'foundation budget' and poured millions of dollars into school over the next several years. However that bill failed and educators like Pichette are calling this mechanism the state uses to provide students with equitable access to educational opportunities 'obsolete' and must be revised to meet the expectations of today's economy.

Because the state has not updated its education funding formula since 1993 to reflect districts' real health insurance and special education costs, the amount of aid being provided to cover those costs is too small. To compensate, many districts like Revere end up using money that would otherwise have supported core education programs -- including Regular Ed, Teachers, Materials & Technology, and Professional Development. This also results in dramatic cuts in other areas of education.

Diaz recently filed the Education PROMISE Act, sponsored by Diaz, Representative Mary Keefe and Representative Aaron Vega reforms state education funding by fully implementing the Foundation Budget Review Commission (FBRC) recommendations and addressing the underlying inequities within the Commonwealth's education funding formulas, like Chapter 70. As a result of the bill, foundation budgets statewide will better reflect the true cost of educating students, and there will be a renewed partnership between the state and all districts in funding those foundation budgets.

"I'm proud to be from Revere and to be a Revere Public School student. I'm speaking up not just for me- I'm speaking up for all the students who follow me. Students deserve to succeed," said Revere Youth in Action Organizer and Revere High School junior Ayat Zakaria. "If there are more resources, teachers and guidance counselors, and after school programs as well as services and support for all students, especially for the ones who are often overlooked, then we all will have the opportunity to be successful. It's time to help students become successful by fully funding our education. Please 'Fund our Future'."

Real estate giant has Revere office launch party

Journal Staff Report

Keller Williams Realty (KW), the largest real estate franchise in the United States, by sales volume and units sold, as well as the largest in the world by agent count, has announced the opening of its new office at 8 Pleasant St., Revere.

The announcement came at a launch party March 28 at Antonia's on the Beach.

Revere real estate agent Gary Ferragamo of the FERRAGAMO Real Estate Group has been with Keller Williams for the past year. He had been encouraging KW to open an office in the city.

"I have been in real estate, coast to coast, for over 20 years and I have never heard of another real estate company that does more or offers more for their agents than KW does," said Ferragamo. "It is among the world's leaders in both training and technology."

Mayor Brian Arrigo welcomed Keller Williams to Revere during his remarks to the large gathering.

"On behalf of the city, I want to say welcome to the Keller Williams family," said Arrigo.

The mayor said that Ferragamo assisted him and his wife, (Daveen Arrigo) in the purchase of their new home in Revere.

"Gary was the gentleman who helped us find a nice house," said Arrigo. "I can't say enough about Gary not only somebody professionally that I had the opportunity to deal with, but from a personal perspective -- the fact that he has invested his time and energy in the city. Gary has been a tireless advocate for the city of Revere."

The mayor also noted the double significance of the date of the launch party for Ferragamo. "It is also his birthday today," said Arrigo, eliciting applause for Ferragamo, a Point of Pines resident and president of the Point of Pines Beach Association.

Arrigo said he is excited about the transformation of Revere and looks forward to getting input from Keller Williams officials about the city's master planning process, 'Next Stop Revere.'

"We offer an incredible community," said Arrigo. "There is a transformation happening here that is really special. And I'm so lucky and honored to be in the position that I am to help guide the city forward for the next 25-30 years."

Jason Parisella, operating partner and broker for KW, said the firm's success locally has been the result of a group effort. "I'm just so grateful to be in business with everybody that is here and believes in Keller Williams," said Parisella. "I'll do everything I possibly can to guide the office in the right direction for Keller Williams."

Ferragamo said he is looking for agents to join the new office.

"I am looking for agents, both existing, seasoned agents, or anyone who wants to become a real estate agent," he said. "I am excited to show other agents what opportunities KW can offer them, such as keeping 100 percent of their commission."

With Chewsi, You Can Save BIG on Dental Care

YOU KNOW THE FEELING — a nagging tooth pain. An overdue dental exam. An old crown that needs replacing. And always the question: How much is this going to cost me?

For too many people, the high cost of dental care gets in the way of good oral health. But healthy teeth and gums are about so much more than a sunny smile. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), your oral health can affect everything from the way you speak and eat to the way you work and show emotion. And, poor oral health — especially gum disease — has been linked to certain chronic diseases, including heart disease, diabetes and stroke.

Fortunately, there's a new way to save on dental care: Chewsi.

Today, people across Rhode Island and Massachusetts are seeing big results, collectively saving thousands of dollars when they use Chewsi to pay at the dentist; in fact, one person who used the app recently saved more than $6,500 on a complex dental visit by using Chewsi.

"Chewsi is a true innovation in dental care," says Joe Nagle, CEO of First Circle, Inc., parent company of Chewsi.

"With just a couple of taps on your smartphone, you can get savings on dental care that you wouldn't be able to get on your own."

Here's how it works: Download the app to your smartphone (it's free) and register with referral code LCLB1. Find a Chewsi dentist near you and see what you'd pay for your dental service before you call to make an appointment. When you see the dentist for your service, use your phone to pay through the secure, cloud-based Chewsi app and see how much you saved immediately.

Anyone can use Chewsi to save on all dental services — not just more expensive care. From routine visits like cleanings and fillings to higher-priced services like implants, crowns, dentures and braces, Chewsi helps you save on every service because there are no limits, exclusions or waiting periods. If you have dental insurance, Chewsi helps you save on any services that aren't covered by your plan, Nagle says — including cosmetic services.

"Chewsi helps remove the cost barriers to dental care by connecting you directly with dentists for savings," he says.

"Chewsi doesn't interfere in your dental care. Your care is between you and your dentist."

In addition to saving on specific dental services, people can also save by avoiding the monthly or annual costs they'd typically pay for a dental insurance policy or for membership in a discount dental plan because there are no monthly or annual fees to use Chewsi, and the app is free to download.

"Chewsi helps people get the dental care they need, when they need it, for less," Nagle says. "With Chewsi, you never have to worry about limits, exclusions or waiting periods."

To learn more, visit ChewsiDental.com or download the app in the App Store or on Google Play.

Chewsi helps you save on all dental care.

We're a whole new way to save BIG when you go to the dentist. From implants, crowns and braces, to cleanings, dentures and more, Chewsi helps you save on all dental care. Plus, it's free to download and easy to use, with no monthly fees.

BRING ON THE SPRING

Yes, we know that the calendar told us that spring officially began with the vernal equinox on March 20. And yes, the crocuses have been in full bloom, bringing a welcome burst of color to the otherwise-dreary New England landscape at this time of year.

But those of us who call Eastern Massachusetts home know all-too-well that the actual spring season does not get underway until well into April and May, thanks primarily to the sea-breezes that wash over us with air that has been cooled by ocean temperatures that are only in the high 40s.

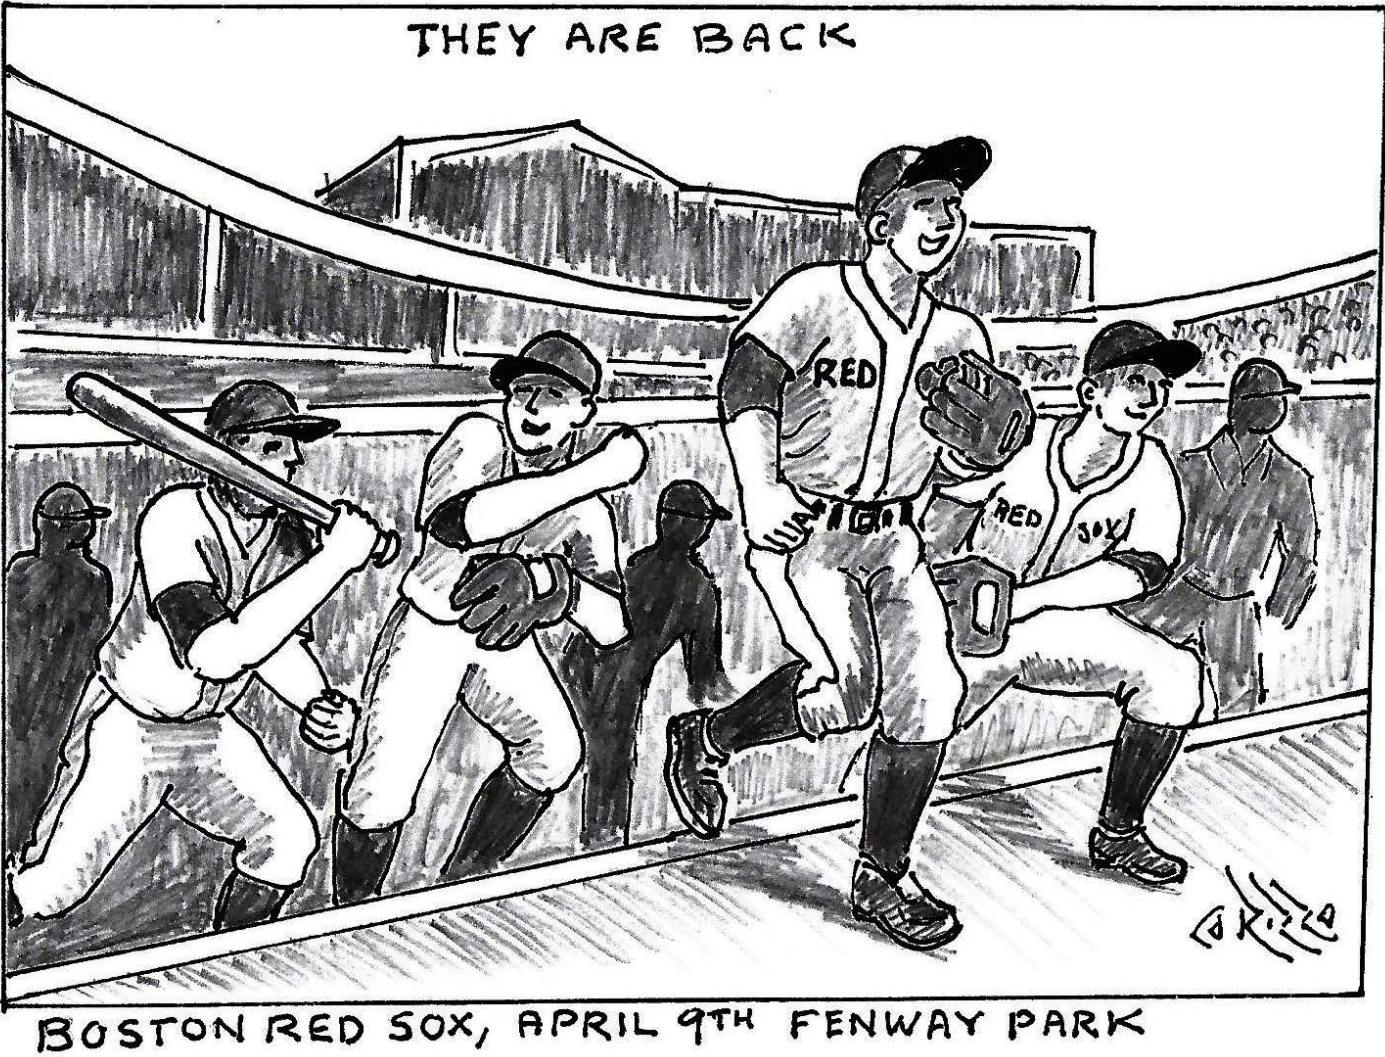

Still, with the winter of 2019 in the rear-view mirror, we can't complain too much about the weather.

The past winter season was easy on our backs because of the lack of snow that needed to be shoveled. Power outages were almost non-existent compared to the past few years. And coastal flooding, the bane of residents in our low-lying areas, thankfully did not occur, despite the potential that existed with the extraordinarily high tides in January, February, and March because of those super moons.

Still, we know that spring can bring its share of nasty and troublesome weather events. The bombogenesis (the term refers to a weather system that essentially explodes when the barometric pressure drops 24 millibars within 24 hours) that occurred with the coastal storm that came up the Atlantic Seaboard this week thankfully stayed out to sea.

But this near-miss served as a reminder that we may not be so lucky the next time around.

Still, with mild temperatures in the forecast for the first half of April, we can't complain -- and, like hope, our thoughts of warmer weather spring eternal.

LETTERS to the Editor

NOT YOURS TO DO WITH AS YOU WISH

Dear Editor,

In response to Mayor Arriago's letter promoting his rigorous defense and application of the notion of the redistribution and confiscation of wealth, in his March 15/19 letter entitled "Free cash."

Evidently, an over-payment of $1.2 million dollars was not quietly returned to the taxpayers as is done in any civilized exchange. Do public officials not recognize the depth of cynicism and damage this scourge of a notion causes? An ideology is corrupt when it says to a sports team of youngsters, "Your effort at self-reliance, bake-sales, house painting, etc. is 'meager'" -- and never enough -- and you are entitled to monies that belong to the people that overpaid what they were told the budget would be!

I was shocked, I had to read it twice! Also., why would the mayor think that adding staff would be a good thing? In this climate of historic low unemployment, why would any mayor think it's reasonable to condemn a young person to a dubious "make-work-plan?" Was there any thought put into the fact that us, just us folks, can spend OUR own "free money" for schooling or much needed tutoring toward meaningful work that fits OUR unique needs?

I want what I overpaid. I don't care if it's one dollar - although we know it's much more. (Do the math= 60,000 residents ÷ 15% pay taxes= divide that into 11.2 million dollars - not to mention previous years of over-payments in the millions, not returned!) Neither the City Council nor the mayor has the right or the intimate knowledge of our INDIVIDUAL lives to make correct determinations as to how we spend our hard earned lucre $$.

It still says "IN GOD WE TRUST" on all our legal tender -- there are no asterisks, quotation marks or other hidden meanings that folks are just too ignorant to grasp. Also, it says "e pluribus unum," meaning "out of many, one." This says that we are all in this together. The idea of redistribution of wealth in any form cannot ever be a positive for the mayor, for his loved ones, for my grandchildren or other living things. Confiscation and redistribution of wealth is as evil as any racism in history, with the same evil outcome: diving folks against each other -- is this what is being held up as a virtue?

If it still says IN GOD WE TRUST on the mayor's money too, then I expect him to trust the rightful owners of that wealth and protect it from those who would promote an underserving excuse for theft.

City Council members took strong exception to a story in the Boston Globe in which it was noted that seven members of the City Council, including former mayors Robert Haas and George Colella, were receiving pensions in addition to their pay as City Council members. Although there is nothing illegal or untoward about the pension and pay setup, the thrust of the Globe's story is that pension reform is needed in the state.

The Board of Health is reminding residents that despite the budget crunch that is being caused by the nationwide recession, inspectors will be on the look-out for both commercial and residential properties that do not conform to the sanitary codes.

The federal Dept. of Justice has levied a fine of $300,000 upon the city for its failure to implement a program of repairs to the city's water and sewer infrastructure in order to limit polluting of the Mystic River watershed that had been ordered by the federal government in 2007. Mayor Thomas Ambrosino, who reportedly was visibly upset with the fine, said the city was "blindsided" by the government's action.

Mass. Highway Dept. Commissioner Matt Amorello said this week that one lane of the Revere Street Bridge will remain open during reconstruction of the bridge.

Revere's community is so diverse and we need a common space where families find support by getting access to resources, getting educated, and create community. We need to put our effort together, regardless our origin, generation, or cultural group, to make of Revere a more welcoming city to families.

As a Revere resident and PLTI member, I invite my neighbors to search and know about the resources our city has in order to have better opportunities for our families. In my own research, I have discovered many nonprofit organizations with great mission and vision such WEE, CAPI, TND, Revere Park and Recreation, among others. As our Mayor said in the state of the city speech: "we are not done."

I am currently working on a community project for my PLTI class. The purpose of the project is to suggest improvements for our community. Through my project "Revere Center for the Families (RCF)," I want to advocate for a place where all families resources are together and support families to thrive, as well create inclusive activities in alliance with Revere Public Schools that cover our families' need, such educational workshop for parents which address the current issues affecting our children, for example, how to support them academically and emotionally and how to respond to social crisis. I am asking Revere residents, nonprofit organizations, and city representatives to support the RCF project to become a reality and work together to continue our progress and strive to make Revere a better place to live.

Sincerely,
Erika Jimenez

WARD 4 COMMUNITY MEETINGS

Dear Editor,

Councilor Patrick Keefe is pleased to announce continued ward 4 Community Meetings.

Our committee is focused on continuing to bring city hall to the residents and have their concerns heard. As always direct communication and collaboration works best. I think the ability to meet with residents face to face will not only give them the opportunity to be heard but also bring the community even closer together and give everyone a form of inclusion. I am happy to announce that Saturday April 6th, at 4:00pm will be our committee's 2nd quarter community meeting at LuBERTO's Bakery on Broadway. We look forward to seeing everyone for an informative gathering.

Regards,
Patrick Keefe
Ward 4 City Councillor

Revere Schools announce Middle School placement lottery

By John Lynds

At last week's Revere School Committee meeting Revere School Assistant Superintendent Dr. Josh Vadala announced that Revere will hold its annual Middle School placement lottery on Thursday, April 11 at 5 p.m. at Revere High School inside the Ferrante School Committee Room.

"As many people know we have a lottery system for our three middle schools, so our six elementary schools feed into our three middle schools," said Dr. Vadala. "This lottery will be broadcast live on Channel 22 in Revere or parents may attend here in the school committee room. However, due to capacity issues students will not be able to attend."

This year students from each 5th grade class from Revere's elementary schools were able to take a tour of all three middle schools and then were asked to choose their first, second and third choice for middle school assignment.

"Each 5th grader had that opportunity this year and one third of each 5th grade class goes on to one of the three middle schools," said Dr. Va-dala.

Dr. Vadala said this year there will be eight lotteries for middle school placement. Dr. Vadala said the order of the lottery will start with the school with the 'largest' student population numbers first.

"The lottery will be organized first by the largest and the order this year will be the Whelan, Hill, Garfield, Lincoln, Paul Revere and then finally Beachmont, which is our smallest school," said

The Middle School Lottery emerged some years ago after the schools began building new middle schools, starting with the Susan B. Anthony (SBA) Middle School about 10 years ago. That followed with the new Rumney Marsh Academy (RMA) afterward. Those two new middle schools joined the existing Garfield Middle School, while the former Beachmont Middle School was discontinued.

The new middle school configuration sparked a controversy that, on an annual basis, had become contentious at the 5th grade middle school lottery. The basis for that was that many parents wanted their kids to go to the newer schools, or they wanted them to be closer to their homes on the west side of the city. Previously, both middle schools were on the east side of Revere.

The result was scores of children annually oversubscribing the two new middle schools – the SBA and RMA – while the Garfield Middle had excess seats. That required a lottery process where some got the school they wanted, and others were forced to go to the Garfield.

The breakdown of this year's lottery is as follows:

Whelan School, two lotteries for the RMA and SBA. The RMA choice is over by 27 students and the SBA choice is over by 4 students.

The Hill, only one lottery for the SBA. The SBA choice is over by 24 students.

Garfield Elementary, only one lottery. The Garfield Middle choice is over by six student.

Lincoln, two lotteries for RMA and SBA. The RMA choice is over by 8 students and the SBA choice is over by 11 students.

Paul Revere, one lottery for RMA. The RMA choice is over by 22 students.

Beachmont, one lottery for GMS. The GMS choice is over by 4 students.

Community Needs Assessment Survey seeks more input from the public

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

Every three years health institutions are to give out a Community Needs Assessment Survey, and this time The Harvard Community Development project is now conducting a survey for Revere, Chelsea and Winthrop, according to Jeff Stone, director of the North Suffolk Public Health Collaborative.

When the survey is complete the Community Health Improvement Plan is the next step – with ways to see solutions for all three communities, Winthrop, Revere and Chelsea to collaborate on issues such as obesity, and this year "vaping". The plan will be submitted to the Attorney General's office in October.

"Vaping is an epidemic, we can use that word now," Stone said

Stone suspects respiratory issues are a concern, as is flavored nicotine use.

"This is all very preliminary," Stone said, "it could turn out differently. We hope to get 1,500 to 2,000 surveys from all three communities. We are also doing focus groups and 'key informant' interviews."

Also included in the interviews are veterans, the mentally ill disabled people, people with substance use disorder, families in poverty, families dealing with hunger, refugees from traumatic circumstances – they need health and social services.

The collaborative plan came together when Chelsea City Manager Tom Amorosino, Revere Mayor Brian Arigo and former Winthrop Town Manager James McKenna requested how they might collaborate together on these issues and asked that the healthcare providers do the same.

Survey takers hope to finish up by April 7 and there is an incentive. Everyone who gives their telephone or email at the end of the survey will be entered into a drawing of one of six, $50 Market Basket gift cards. You may opt to take the survey anonymously too. The survey began about a month and a health ago.

"It's a quality of life issue it's not just health it's also quality of life issue," said

Stone, adding that all the health and social services providers are involved.

Stone is impressed with the willingness of the major health facilities – Mass General, Cambridge Health Alliance, Beth Israel Deaconess, Melrose Wakefield and East Boston Neighborhood Health - to participate in a totally collaborative setting.

The survey, being conducted by the Harvard-Revere Community Development Project, asks people their relationship to Revere, how often you pass through Beachmont

Square, if they are familiar with the Suffolk Downs Development and how do they see the future of Beachmont

The City of Boston is undergoing similar survey with the health care providers.

"We actually have more surveys completed than the city of Boston does at this time relative to our population size," Stone said, adding that normally hospitals would conduct this survey themselves. To take the survey go to <http://www.northsuffolkassessment.org/>.

More than 70 veterans attended the City of Revere Veterans Service Office's National Vietnam War Veterans Day Commemorative Breakfast on March 29 at American Legion Post 61. Director of Veteran Services Marc Silvestri especially acknowledged Bill Reedei, Donna Dreeszen, Tom Sullivan, and Lenny Bonasoro for volunteering to make the morning celebration special.

"I was overcome by today's turnout," said Vietnam veteran, Charlie Marino, who served 1961-1964 with the 504th Expeditionary Air Support Operations Group, and was a member of the 4th Armored Division. "I thought it was fantastic seeing all these veterans who served their country. It's quite a tribute."

SPOTLIGHT

A community member has returned from a long trip to the Middle East and is excited to produce a short film series with video content he brought back with him. Cesar Agudelo's trip included visits to countries like Israel and Jordan, and he stopped by RevereTV to begin his editing process. Agudelo's first production of the series is a short sites and sounds video from his time in the ancient city of Petra in Jordan. His new program will soon be airing on RevereTV.

Kim Luiso of Kim's Got Crafts made her return to the studio as well. Luiso is on her second season of her program, and completed the first recording session of the season last week. This episode included the work of a new youth cast and production crew. Luiso has a passion for crafting and enjoys sharing projects and skills with kids around our community. Her program is fun and educational and can be viewed on RTV.

The Youth to Christ production crew was present during their usual Monday night time slot to record another episode of their religious program. This new episode is titled, "The Born Again." This will be airing on RTV at its usual time. Community member Wayne Davidson also completed a new episode of his independent program. Davidson is currently on episode fourteen of the fourth season of his show. In addition to his normal martial arts, the latest episode includes a short original rap video and music created by himself.

Revere Senior News is an informational program featuring Morris Morris and Director of Elder Services at the Rossetti-Cowan Senior Center, Stephen Fielding. They recorded the April episode of the show last week. There is a new episode each month. You can find the latest episode airing on RTV, but also on YouTube where you can catch up on all past episodes at any time.

Diane (Hudson) Moschella of Saugus died on March 30.

She was the beloved wife of Carl Moschella, devoted mother of Lisa Hudson of Saugus and Michael Hudson of Salem, cherished grandmother of Matthew and Anastasia Hudson of Saugus and Amanda and Noah Jaynes of Revere and the dear sister of the late Michael Kaminski. She is also survived by many loving nieces and cousins.

A visitation will be held at the Paul Buonfiglio & Sons-Bruno Funeral Home, 128 Revere St, Revere on Wednesday, April 10 from 10 a.m. to noon followed by a Prayer Service in the funeral home at noon. Private interment. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Care Dimensions, 75 Sylvan St., Ste. B-102, Danvers, MA 01923. For guest book, please visit www.Buonfiglio.com.

Michael Starr

Died tragically

Family and friends are invited to attend a Memorial Visitation at the Vertuccio & Smith, Home for Funerals, 773 Broadway, Revere on Saturday, April 6 from 1 to 3 p.m. for Michael R. Starr who sadly died in a random attack in Everett on March 26 as he was leaving a convenience store. He was only 54 years old.

A Funeral Service will follow the visitation in the funeral home, at 3:15 p.m.

Michael was a lifelong resident of the North Shore. He was raised and educated in Revere and was a graduate of Revere High School, Class of 1983. Michael went on to work in the trades, mainly as an apprentice plumber. He was not limited in just one specific area, he possessed a mechanical mind. His aptitude for machinery, carpentry, electrical work and plumbing was his strong suit. Unfortunately, due to his declining health, he became disabled and was no longer able to work.

The loving son of the late Dorothy A. (Snow) Starr Strum and the late Francis W. Starr, Jr. and stepson of Joan Starr, he was the loving brother of William F. Starr and his wife, Debra of Gastonia, N.C., Ellen Murphy and her husband, Michael of Salem, Mass. and Dorothy Nicholas and her husband, Jeff of Hubert, N.C. and stepbrother of John Sousa of Charlotte, N.C., He is also lovingly survived by his longtime companion, Donna Niedzwiecki of Everett and by many aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews and cousins.

Mitchell Tobin

Registered civil engineer for J.F. White Construction

A Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Anthony of Padua Church on Thursday, March 21 for Mitchell C. Tobin who lost his intense struggle of more than four years with metastatic cancer on Sunday, March 17 at Boston's Brigham & Women's Hospital. Services concluded at Woodlawn Cemetery in Everett with Military Honors being rendered by the U.S. Navy followed by interment.

Born and raised in Warren, Ohio, he spent eight and a half years in the U.S. Navy and was a veteran of the Persian Gulf War. His commendations, medals and decorations are many: recipient of the Expert Pistol Shot Medal, Sea Service Deployment Ribbon (2), National Defense Service Medal, Southwest Asia Service Medal, Navy "E" Ribbon, Navy Unit Commendation, Kuwait Liberation Medal and the Joint Service Achievement Medal. He was discharged as an Operations Specialist, 2nd Class.

He came to Boston in 1998 and graduated from Northeastern University, Class of 2000. After his marriage to his devoted wife, Josephine M. (Filiti) Tobin in August of 2001, they lived in Revere for a short time before moving to West Peabody. Until last fall, he was still doing what he loved most after his family, working as a Registered Civil Engineer for J.F. White Construction Co., a position he held for over 20 years.

His hobbies and recreations were intense, such as an overwhelming passion for the game of golf and bowling.

He was the faithful and beloved husband of 18 years to Josephine M. (Filiti) Tobin; adored father to Joseph Michael an Anthony Simone Tobin, both at home; cherished son-in-law of Simone "Sam" and Filippa A. "Phyllis" Filiti and dear brother-in-law to Rosario S. Filiti, all of Revere. He was the devoted son of Anita C. Tobin-Drummond of Warren, OH and the late Michael J. "Mickey" Vucinich and the late Inez Vucinich. He is also lovingly survived by a sister and brother.

In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to Dana Farber Cancer Institute, Division of Development & the Jimmy Fund, P.O. Box 849168, Boston, MA 02284-9168. For more information, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com.

Dolores Nicholas

Will be dearly missed

Family and friends are invited to attend a Memorial Funeral Mass on Saturday, April 6 in St. Anthony of Padua Church, 250 Revere St., Revere at 11 a.m. for Dolores (Tata) Nicholas, of Corinth, TX who passed away peacefully on Wednesday, March 13 at her home surrounded by her immediate family. She was 90 years old.

Dolores, the youngest of six siblings, was born on Dec. 22, 1928 in Auburn, N.Y. to Giovanni and Maria Tata. When Dolores was young, her parents moved to Revere. She attended Revere schools and was a cheerleader and a graduate of Revere High School. She went on to work at Boston City Hospital as a lab technician and for Dr. Eli Freidman, Chief of Pediatrics at Boston City Hospital. During this time, Dolores was also a dance instructor and many people used to watch her while she instructed classes in Latin Dance.

Dolores had dreams of going to Broadway to be a dancer and was also offered a job as a women's clothing buyer in New York City, but her family discouraged these choices, as neither career was considered proper for a young woman at the time. Still, Dolores was always known for her impeccable taste in both fashion and home decor. Dolores met her future husband, James K. Nicholas, Jr. in September of 1960 at Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire, where they were introduced by mutual friends. On Dec. 2, 1960, James and Dolores were married.

While James served in the Army, the couple lived at Ft. Benning, Ga., Ft. Bragg, North Carolina and Ft. Campbell, Ky. The couple settled in Denton, Texas in 1971 where Dolores fully realized her dream as a wife, mother and full-time homemaker.

When her two daughters were young, she assisted as school nurse at Woodrow Wilson Elementary School for many years. She loved and served her church in many capacities, including CCD teacher.

She was preceded in death by her parents, John and Maria Tata, and her siblings, Pete Tata, Madaline Occhipinti, Buddy Tata, Malvina Cafarelli, Pat Tata and her two sons, James and Michael. Dolores is survived by her husband of 58 years, James of Corinth; her daughter, Maria Nicholas Martin and son-in-law, Ed Martin of Dallas; her daughter, Claudine Nicholas of Charleston, South Carolina and numerous nieces, nephews and a multitude of friends. She will be dearly missed.

Entombment will be private. In lieu of flowers, the family has requested that gifts be made in her honor to St. Jude Children's Hospital, 501 St. Jude's Place, Memphis, TN 38105-9959. For more information, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com.

Alec Ernesto Bruzzese

True Boston sports fan, will be sorely missed by all who knew him

Alec Ernesto Bruzzese of Peabody died surrounded by his loving family on March 30.

Alec, also known by many as "Big Al" was a true Boston sports fan. Alec's caregivers and nurses were a very special part of his short life. He will be sorely missed by all who knew him.

The beloved son of Thomas and Mary (Cataldo) Bruzzese, he was the dear brother of Emma and Anna Bruzzese, cherished grandson of Ernie and Joyce Bruzzese of Revere and Melvin Markowsky of Peabody and the late Ernestine. He is also survived by many loving aunts, uncles, and cousins, including Dorothy and Scott Wlasuk of Peabody, John and Stacey Bruzzese of North Reading and Terese Bruzzese of Woburn.

His Funeral will be held from the Paul Buonfiglio & Sons-Bruno Funeral Home, 128 Revere St, Revere on Thursday, April 4 at 9 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Anthony's Church at 10 a.m. Relatives and friends are kindly invited. A visitation will be held today, Wednesday, from 4 to 8 p.m. Interment will be in Puritan Lawn Memorial Park. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Make-A-Wish America, Gift Processing, 1702 East Highland Ave., Suite 400, Phoenix, AZ 85016. For guest book please visit www.buonfiglio.com.

Vincent Cammarata Sr.

Retired Revere Board of Health chief agent, dedicated to Revere civic activities, politics and community involvement

Family and friends are invited to attend visiting hours today, Wednesday, April 3 from 3 to 8 p.m. in the Vertuccio & Smith, Home for Funerals, 773 Broadway (Route 107) Revere for Vincent F. Cammarata, Sr. who passed on Sunday, March 31 with the comfort and presence of his God and his devoted and faithful family surrounding him. He was 95 years old.

Vincent's funeral will be conducted from the funeral home, on Thursday, April 4 at 9 a.m., followed by a Funeral Mass in St. Mary of the Assumption Church, 670 Washington Ave., Revere at 10 a.m. followed by interment in Puritan Lawn Memorial Park, Peabody.

Born and raised briefly in South Boston, the family migrated to Toscano Avenue, Revere. Little did Vincent realize that he was home for more than 70 years of the rest of his long and full life within the emerging City of Revere.

He graduated from Revere High School in 1942 and, in February of 1944, joined the U.S. Navy during World War II. He served with honor and dignity (The hallmark of his life) on board the U.S.S. LST 308. On April 15, 1946, he was discharged and released to the abundanza of love that awaited him on Toscano Avenue in Revere. He was discharged at the rank of Ship Fitter-2nd Class and was the recipient of the World War II Victory Medal, European African Middle Eastern Medal with one bronze star, American Area Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Medal and a Commendation by the C.O.

He spoke about his service-time only as of late, perhaps during the last year of his life. This indeed was another example of the intrinsic humility and dignity that ruled Vincent's life.

Vincent's time at Revere's Board of Health is legendary because of the continued respect that his name invokes. He was brilliant in the management of the countless number of complaints the Board would receive. The late Anna Flynn, Secretary to the Board, of happy remembrance, would often tell of the perfect patience that Vincent would execute in the resolution of the daily drama and problems. His time as a senior code enforcement inspector for the Revere Board of Health spanned over 18 years.

His life was dedicated to civic activities, politics and community involvement. He served as a member of the Revere Park Commission and was on the fund-raising committee for the former Revere Hospital. His life included a term as a Revere School Committeeman from 1960 to 1963. He served a 15-year term with the Revere Conservation Committee, retiring two years ago at the age of 93. Vincent gave to the city of Revere, a 45-year span of service and unparalleled dedication in the field of political and community service.

He was also a very active member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society. He maintained a membership as the senior member of the Revere Knights of Columbus #179 for over 40 years. His family were among the founders and builders of the first St. Mary's, which was then called St. Lucy's Church. Through the expertise and comradery, with his cousin, Vincent "Sonny" Cammarata, they were able to establish a committee to create and organize the new St. Lucy's Chapel.

Again, the Cammarata family was instrumental in the establishment of the Pietrapezia Lodge OSIA, Lodge 491. Pietrapezia is a village located off the coast of Italy on the island of Sicily from where the Cammarata family immigrated to America.

On July 10, 2004, the love of Vinny's life, his wife, Lucy M. (Ribaud), passed unexpectedly. The loss was great to the entire family, but especially to Vinny.

The devoted father of Dr. Salvatore L. Cammarata and his wife, Barbara A. of Lynnfield, John V. Cammarata of Revere, Rosemary S. Pisani and her husband, Paul F. of Lynnfield and Vincent F. Cammarata, Jr. and his wife, Grail of Fairport, N.Y., he was the dear brother of the late Theresa L. Cammarata and Rocco J. Cammarata and his late wife, Antonetta; cherished grandfather to Jason V. Cammarata and his wife, Liz, Paul F. Pisani, Jr. and his wife, Catherine, Erich J. Cammarata, Damian V. Pisani and his wife, Lisa, Anthony P. Pisani and his girlfriend, Vanessa Molle, Sarah E. Cammarata and her boyfriend, Chris Lewis, Tessabella M. Cammarata and Zoe E. Cammarata and beloved great-grandfather, "Pano" to Olivia, Anthony and Gia Pisani. He is also lovingly survived by a proud family of nieces, nephews and cousins. For more information, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com.

Colleen Gaeta

35-year Garfield School special needs teacher

Colleen (Cacchiotti) Gaeta of Revere, formerly of East Boston, passed away unexpectedly on March 30. She was 62 years old.

Colleen was a special needs teacher at the Garfield School in Revere for over 35 years. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her.

She was the cherished daughter of Thelma (Larson) Cacchiotti and the late Costanzo Cacchiotti; loving sister of Kathleen Landry and her husband, Brian of Burlington and the late Laraine Reed. Colleen adored her nephews, Nicholas and Jason Landry and the late Robert C. Reed. She is also survived by many cousins and friends.

Family and friends will honor Colleen's life by gathering in Vazza's "Beechwood" Funeral Home, 262 Beach St., Revere on Thursday, April 4 from 4 to 8 p.m. and again on Friday at 9 a.m., followed by a Service in our Chapel of the Resurrection at 10 a.m. Entombment will follow at Holy Cross Cemetery in Malden. Claire O'Brien

Retired U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. and decorated veteran

Retired Lt. Col. Clare M. O'Brien, a Revere native and a U.S. Air Force veteran of Vietnam, passed away following a long illness on Monday, March 25. She was 89 years old.

Lt. Col. O'Brien lived and was educated in Revere and was a 1948 graduate of the Immaculate Conception High School of Revere. She entered the U.S. Air Force in February of 1956 at the end of the Korean Conflict and served until and through the entire Vietnam Era, completing 20 years of service in February of 1976.

A graduate of the Chelsea Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in 1952, Lt. Col. O'Brien's service history and accomplishments were many. She was the recipient of the Bronze Star, Air Force Longevity Service Award, Air Force Commendation Medal, National Defense Service Award, Vietnam Service Medal, Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal, Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, among other commendations and achievements. After retirement, she made her home in Falmouth, remaining there until last year (2018).

Clare was the beloved daughter of the late Ret. Revere Fire Lt. Jeremiah R. O'Brien and Eleanor F. (McQueeney) O'Brien; the cherished sister of the late Richard O'Brien and his wife, Margaret Mary O'Brien of Silver Spring, Md., the late William O'Brien and his late wife, Lucille, the late Mary Jane Rainge and her late husband Hugh R. Rainge and John P. O'Brien and his wife, Mary of Norwood. She was the aunt of Eileen M. McLaughlin of Herndon, Va., the late Kathleen O'Brien, John C. O'Brien of Mansfield, Mass., William D. O'Brien of Watertown, NY, Julie O'Brien of Yarmouth, Mass., Beth M. DiBiasi of Windsor Locks, Conn., Elisabeth Rainge of Wayland, Mass., Maryellen St. George of Gainesville, Va., and Kristine R. Gatesman of Acton, Mass. She is also lovingly survived by many grand-nieces and grand-nephews.

A Funeral Mass celebrated at St. Michael the Archangel Chapel on the campus of the Chelsea Soldiers' Home, Chelsea was immediately followed by interment in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett. In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to the Catholic Appeal, P.O. Box 9134, Canton, MA 02021-9134.

Arrangements were by the Vertuccio & Smith, Home for Funerals, Revere. For more information, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com.

Maria Moscaritolo

Of Revere, formerly of East Boston

Maria G. (Carpenito) Moscaritolo of Revere, formerly of East Boston, passed away peacefully on April 1 surrounded by her loving family.

She was the beloved wife of 80 years to the late Angelo Michele Moscaritolo, loving mother of Vincenzo Moscaritolo and his companion, Lucy Leone as well as his late wife, Teresa of Revere, Teresa Buonopane and her husband, Mario of Medford and Silvana Leno and her husband, Henry of Revere and the dear sister of the late Regina Picariello. She is also survived by six loving grandchildren and six loving great grandchildren.

Family and friends will honor Maria's life by gathering on Thursday, April 4 from 4 to 8 p.m. in the Ruggiero Family Memorial Home, 971 Saratoga St. (Orient Heights) East Boston and again at 8:45 a.m. on Friday morning before leaving in funeral procession to St. Anthony of Padua Church, 250 Revere St.. Revere for a Funeral Mass in celebration of Maria's life at 10 a.m. Services will conclude with Maria being laid to rest in the Holy Cross Cemetery Mausoleum, Malden. Neil Wiener

Husband, father, grandfather, brother, friend, scholar and scientist

Neil Irving Wiener died in Los Angeles on March 18. He was 78 years old.

Neil, who was raised in Revere, the son of the late Dr. Harry and Helen Wiener, received a BA from Brandeis University and a PhD in Psychology from New York University. After a post-doctoral year at the University of California San Diego, he joined the Psychology Department at York University, Toronto.

Neil was a dedicated and creative teacher and researcher for more than 40 years, focused on issues related to the biological basis of behaviour. He was knowledgeable about human and animal behaviour, the natural environment, and broad areas of science. Neil was also an avid and eclectic reader, particularly in all aspects of history and loved gardens, art, and music.

His grandchildren gave him great joy. He was a loyal friend and colleague. Conversations with Neil were lively, challenging, and informative. The ocean and swimming had lasting appeal to Neil.

His absence is deeply felt by his wife of 52 years, Myra, his son, Benjamin and daughter-in-law, Monika, his grandchildren, Henry, Isaac, and Josephine, his brother-in-law, Joel Bernstein, his sister and brother-in-law, Judith and Leonard Freedberg and his nephews, Daniel and Andrew.

Friends and family will gather to remember Neil on April 28 in Toronto.

POLICE NEWS

POLICE ARREST TWO IN DRIVER ROBBERIES

Revere Police have arrested two individuals in a string of robberies of fast food drivers last month – arrests that came with great cooperation between Revere and Boston Police detectives.

“This case was an example of a solid investigation and work by our guys working with the Boston Police detectives as well,” said Capt. Amy O’Hara.

Both robberies happened in Beachmont last month about 30 minutes apart, and involved two individuals ordering food and then robbing the delivery driver with a knife.

Officers in Revere began an investigation and quickly found a similar incident that had happened in Boston about the same time. Reaching out and working with Boston, both departments were able to identify suspects and effect the arrests.

Alexis Feliciano,18, of Revere was charged with two counts of armed robbery.

Dante Jashone Bullock 18, of Mattapan, was charged with two counts armed robbery.

NEIGHBOR CHARGED IN VANDALISM

An Olive Street woman has been charged with slashing the tires of a neighbor on Sunday.

A woman on Vane Street called police on Sunday evening for a report of her tires being slashed. The woman told police she had video of the person who did it, and through an investigation police were able to identify a neighbor as the perpetrator.

Dora Simo, 67, of 43 Olive St., was charged with malicious damage to a motor vehicle.

WATCH FOR SCAM CALLS

Revere Police are asking the public to be aware of scam calls that are being made to residents around Revere.

Capt. Amy O’Hara said they have had a number of incidents where people are getting unsolicited calls from a third party. The calls involve scams with the IRS, lottery, and even loved ones that are in danger at another location.

“When they say they are holding someone against their will, then definitely notify the police on that one,” she said. “In general, never give out any personal information over the phone. I always say if it sounds too good to be true, then it’s probably a scam.”

FRESH & LOCAL

Salt Solutions

The three salts we use the most are French grey sea salt, a kosher salt, and Maldon flaked sea salt.

By Penny & Ed Cherubino Not well seasoned, over-seasoned, bland, perfectly seasoned, or salty are some of the words you might hear a chef use when critiquing a dish from his or her kitchen. When chefs talk about seasoning, they mean salinity or salt.

New Sodium Recommendations

In March the National Academy of Sciences released new guidelines for the “adequate intake” of sodium consumed by adults. They have reduced the daily intake guideline number from 2400 mg to 1500 mg. The report explained, “There is sufficient evidence to characterize the relationship between sodium intake and risk of chronic disease. Therefore, the committee established a Chronic Disease Risk Reduction Intake (CDRR) for sodium using evidence of the beneficial effect of reducing sodium intake on cardiovascular disease risk, hypertension risk, systolic blood pressure, and diastolic blood pressure.”

Some Salt Is Saltier

Since the publication of “Salt, Fat, Acid, Heat” by Samin Nosrat, we’ve been studying and experimenting with those four elements of cooking and learning new approaches. For example, after years of using Morton’s kosher salt, we’ve switched to Samin’s favorite Diamond Crystal. She is not alone in her preference.

In testing for Serious Eats, J. Kenji López-Alt found that a tablespoon of Morton’s weights “1/2 ounce; 14g” while the same measure of Diamond Crystal weighs, “1/3 ounce; 9g.” Table salt weighed twice that at “2/3 ounce; 18g.” Both on Serious Eats and in his own books, all recipes are tested with Diamond Crystal.

Salt Sources

The mineral version of salt in not the only source of sodium added to your food. Before you sprinkle more salt from on high, think about other ingredients in your recipe that will layer sodium into food. (By the way, sprinkling from on high is not a cheffy affectation, it is a way to produce an evenly distributed layer of seasoning.)

Ethnic cooks use a variety of salinity sources. Many of these do double duty by adding other flavor profiles, often umami and acid – think of Asian fish sauce, miso, soy sauce, anchovies, capers, olives, pickles, and cheeses like Parmesan or feta. Most condiments such as mustard, ketchup, hot sauce, and relishes are salted. Cured meats, including sausage and ham, smoked or dried fish, and canned products like tomatoes or stocks, are potential sources of salt.

We don’t salt our homemade stocks because we might be reducing them for some uses. However, if we make them using bones left over from a rotisserie chicken, we know that stock is highly seasoned and mark it as such.

You’ll see those who teach cooking adding salt in layers throughout the preparation of a dish and you may think, that is too much salt. You may hesitate when someone suggests you salt water for pasta or vegetables until it tastes like the ocean. Remember that while the pasta or green beans may take up some of that salt, most of it will go down the drain. On the other hand, if you are making a sauce using the pasta water, you’ll have to take the salt in that water into consideration.

Taste Test

To learn more about how salts differ in intensity and texture, Kenji suggest you do a tasting with a variety of salts on slices of tomato to understand the flavor profile for table salt, kosher salt, sea salt, etc. You may find yourself ready to use less plain salt and to try a few more artisan salts once you experience the taste and texture differences.

The Revere League for Special Needs has a Day at the Carnival, courtesy of Fiesta Shows and the McCarthy/Trifone Foundation

The beginning of Spring means the Fiesta Shows Carnival is in town, and that means a lot for the City of Revere. Because of the popularity of the carnival over the past 25 plus years, Fiesta Shows through the McCarthy/Trifone Foundation have contributed close to two million dollars to the many youth activity groups in Revere and directly into the City of Revere Activity Fund. There will be another very generous donation to many groups like the Revere League for Special Needs coming later this season from Fiesta Shows, I believe to between 10-12 Revere-based groups, informa-

RHS SPORTS Roundup

RHS ATHLETICS SET TO SPRING INTO ACTION

The 2019 spring sports season for Revere High athletic teams swings into high gear this week.

The RHS boys and girls outdoor track & field teams were set to kick off their seasons yesterday (Tuesday) with a meet at Medford.

The Patriot boys and girls lacrosse squads get underway this evening (Wednesday) with a doubleheader on the turf at Harry Della Russo Stadium with the girls hosting Masconomet at 5:30 and the boys meeting Lynnfield at 7:00.

The RHS baseball team will make the short trip to East Boston Saturday morning at 11:00 for opening day festivities.

“We’ve been trying to make the best of things, despite not having a playable field or any consistent practice time outdoors,” said RHS head coach Michael Manning, “but such is the case with spring baseball in the Northeast.”

The 2019 edition of the Patriots will be led by senior captain Matt Cravotta and junior captain E.J. Leone.

Manning will be counting upon Leone and seniors Frank Sims and Dayven Diaz as his principal starting pitchers. Cravotta will be the closer. Junior Kevin DePaula, sophomore Kasey Cummings, and junior Jonathon Murphy also will see some innings on the mound.

Senior John Leone will transition from the outfield to behind the plate. Murphy, junior David Guillama, DePaula, and Cummings all return from last year’s infield.

Cravotta, E.J. Leone, junior Zach Furlong, and senior Brandon Sarmanian return as outfielders.

Newcomers to the varsity for 2019 are junior Josh Laurina, senior Frankie Rodriguez, and senior Alan Giron, who will vie for time and provide depth and may be joined by one or two other players who possibly might crack the varsity roster.

“Last year’s 7-13 record was a major step forward for the program, which had gone 1-19 the two previous years,” noted Manning. “We are hoping to build upon the strides we made last year to compete in the NEC South and qualify for the state tournament.”

A veteran Revere High softball team will open its season this coming Tuesday with a non-league contest at Chelmsford. Coach Joe Ciccarello has 14 girls returning from the varsity squad that concluded last season, led by a trio of seniors, Olivia McManus, Joli Giuliano, and Danielle Dion.

“We’re still trying to figure out all of the pieces,” said Ciccarello, whose Lady Patriots have had a busy spring pre-season with a total of 12 scrimmages in the pre-season.

“We’ll be a scrappy team” added Ciccarello, whose pitchers once again will be McManus and sophomore Adrienna Fusco. “The girls know the game and play it well. It’s just a question of executing to the best of our ability.”

The RHS softball program also will be fielding junior varsity and freshman squads. Lauren Hayes, a member of the 2014 championship team, will be the JV coach, assisted by former teammates Noelle MacDonald and Cassandra DiBella. RHS teacher Bryan McKenna will be the freshman coach.

The RHS boys and girls tennis teams will start their seasons on the holiday on April 15 against Everett.

RHS SOFTBALL KICKS OFF THE SEASON WITH A CAPE-TOURNEY

RHS softball started off their season with a tournament down the cape this past weekend. They played against some tough teams from across the state and N.H.. The lady Patriots won 4 out of the 6 games. RHS softball will be back at this weekend at Griswold Park at St Marys.

RPW Pres. Keefe will speak out against ban of youth tackle football in Mass.

By Cary Shuman

Revere Junior Patriots Pop Warner President Patrick Keefe is speaking out against the proposed ban of youth tackle football in Massachusetts.

Keefe will deliver remarks at an April 16 hearing at the State House on the legislation that seeks to eliminate tackle football for players in seventh grade or younger.

“I will show my opposition to the proposed bill banning youth tackle football,” said Keefe. “They want to eliminate tackle football in seventh grade and below.”

Keefe is among several youth football officials who are a part of a group called the Youth Football Alliance that is protesting the ban.

The bill, which is called an act for No Organized Head Impacts to Schoolchildren, has been referred to the state’s Joint Committee on Public Health.

Revere Pop Warner has 125 football players and between 75-100 cheerleaders set to participate in the 2019 season that begins practices on Aug. 1. “A ban would take away about 90 percent of the football players in Revere Pop Warner,” said Keefe.

Keefe, who is also the Ward 6 city councillor, said youth football has become safer for players during the past 10 years.

“Many different restrictions have been put in to keep the sport safe,” said Keefe. “The tackling and teaching methods have been completely overhauled to make the sport safer. The equipment (football helmets, shoulder pads) has been re-engineered to become safer.”

Keefe said that each organization has a player safety coach and each Pop Warner team has a player safety coach.

“Every game has to have an EMT present,” said Keefe. “The safeguards that have been put on Pop Warner and all football have been tremendous over the past 10 years.”

Revere student singled out as leader at Mass. Youth in Government Conference

Robert Graf of Revere, a senior at Boston College High School, was one of the twenty-five BC High students who participated at the annual YMCA Youth in Government Conference from March 20 to 22 at the Massachusetts State House on Beacon Hill. The young men were delighted that they were able to meet BC High graduate 4th Plymouth Representative Patrick Kearney ‘13 of Scituate.

The BC High students were singled out for leadership roles at the conference: Matt Brandi of Quincy served as Governor, Ryan Golemme of Norwell as Lt. Governor, and Colman Gillis of Quincy as Head Lobbyist. Golemme will be representing MA at the Conference on National Affairs in July and Kenny Dao ‘20 of Randolph won two awards, Outstanding Justice and Outstanding Officer.

Robert Graf.

The Youth in Government Club, moderated by faculty member Elise Wilson, is part of a Greater Boston YMCA program which allows high school students to learn about state government and participate in the process of the State House with other students from throughout Massachusetts. Students take on various roles in the state government including the legislative, executive, and judicial branches as well as lobbyists and the press corps.

Youth & Government is one of the YMCA’s oldest programs established in 1936. The program teaches young people about state government, while at the same time helps them to develop their own character through learning values stressed by the YMCA - caring, respect, honesty, and responsibility.

Boston College High School is a Jesuit, Catholic, college-preparatory school for young men in grades 7 to 12. Founded in 1863, the school enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 140 communities in eastern Massachusetts. For more <http://www.bchigh.edu>

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

HERNANDEZ RESIGNS FROM SCHOOL COMMITTEE

CHELSEA- In a sudden move, District 5 School Committee member Julio Hernandez has resigned – one of the City’s up-and-coming political figures that many thought had a big future on the Committee.

Hernandez, a Chelsea High graduate, told the Record this week that it was with a heavy heart that he resigned, and he felt it was necessary as he had to work more hours and attend college at the same time.

“When I ran for office, I had more support from my family,” he said. “As rent started getting higher, I knew that I needed more income, and while still being in college, I decided to look at other jobs.

“I loved working in the School Committee, but it also made me angry to see some members not show up to meetings, not ask questions, and not have thorough discussions regarding our students’ education,” he continued. “Student advocacy has always been my platform, to serve all students the right way. From starting the policy of an outdoor graduation, to having the opportunity to work with many teachers who really care about this community. I now believe School Committee Members should be appointed, because our student’s education is no joke.”

Hernandez, 20, said college, family and financial constraints hit all at once this year, and he couldn’t in good conscience serve on the Committee while not being able to show up.

“I know once I’m done with college, I’ll be back to serve the community I love and cherish,” he said. “I want to thank all the people who supported me, and are still supporting me in my time of sorrow.”

At Monday night’s City Council meeting, Council President Damali Vidot said Hernandez had given notice to the City Clerk that he would be stepping down as of April.

Because his resignation is more than 180 days from a City Election, Vidot said the City Charter calls for a joint meeting of the Council and the School Committee within 30 days to appoint a replacement. That replacement would serve through the city election in November, when the position will be on the ballot.

“Julio was an incredible leader during his tenure,” said District 5 City Councillor Judith Garcia. “He did an incredible job while on the School Committee and was a great representative for District 5.”

Garcia encouraged anyone from District 5 who is interested to apply for the open seat.

However, Councilor-At-Large Roy Avellaneda said the Council and the School Committee may want to leave the position open until the municipal election.

“I may have some reservations about filling the post,” said Avellaneda. “There’s only one more month until (candidates can) pull papers, and then the election is in November. I feel it may be best to leave the seat unfilled.”

Appointing someone to a short-term on the School Committee would give that person a leg up on other candidates who run for the seat in the general election, Avellaneda said.

PLANNING BOARD APPROVES MARIJUANA SHOP

CHELSEA - A retail marijuana shop on Webster Avenue near the Home Depot is one step closer to opening in Chelsea.

The Planning Board approved a site plan for a 10,000 square-foot retail marijuana facility at 121 Webster Ave. by The Western Front, LLC.

The pot shop still needs additional approvals from the state’s Cannabis Control Commission as well as the local Zoning and Licensing Boards before it can officially open its doors. But local officials have praised the plans for the facility, which is filing for a license to operate under a state economic empowerment provision.

The economic empowerment provision helps provide for minority populations that have faced the brunt of marijuana prohibition punishments achieve social and economic justice, according to Timothy Flaherty, the attorney representing the Western Front team.

The Western Front’s board includes a number of Massachusetts business and community leaders who have addressed social justice issues in the past, including board chair Marvin Gilmore.

Gilmore has a long and storied history in the Boston area and beyond. He co-founded Unity Bank and Trust, was a major real estate developer in the Southwest Corridor of Boston, owned the storied Western Front nightclub in Cambridge, and was awarded the Legion of Honor, among other awards, for helping storm the beaches of Normandy in World War II.

Economic empowerment applications get priority for consideration at the Cannabis Control Commission, Flaherty said.

As for the proposed site at 121 Webster Ave., Flaherty said as a stand-alone building in an area with adequate parking, is an optimal site for a retail marijuana facility.

All marijuana products will be shipped in pre-packaged from a wholesaler, and the facility will feature a host of security measures, from cameras the Chelsea Police can immediately access to a what Flaherty called a mind-boggling number of alarms.

Chelsea police officials were satisfied with the security measures for the building, according to John DePriest, the City’s planning director.

Inside the shop, plans also call for a future workforce development area and a work bar where consumers can gather before entering the retail sales floor.

The sales area will be like “a cross between a jewelry store and a spa,” said Flaherty.

The facility will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., seven days per week. There will be a total of about 25 employees, with eight to 10 working at any given time.

“The goal is to hire 100 percent Chelsea residents,” said Flaherty.

All those employees will be trained and certified by the Cannabis Control Commission.

“I’m impressed by the group before us and their commitment to social justice,” said Council President Damali Vidot.

District 3 City Councillor Joe Perlatonda also said he was very impressed with the organization and happy that they are committed to hiring Chelsea residents.

ORDER SEEKS TO ABOLISH LIBRARIES BOARD

EVERETT - A measure proposed by Councilor Richard Dell Isola Jr. to amend the City’s administrative code would effectively abolish the Everett Libraries Board of Trustees.

The measure wasn’t an open and shut decision, though, as it invited significant pushback from the local community, who turned out in large numbers on Monday night to speak on behalf of the public library system.

The Everett Libraries are governed by a Board of 13

Trustees nominated by the Mayor. Their extensive responsibilities include setting library policy, approving expenses, overseeing special funds, vetting candidates for Library Director and maintaining all library buildings. Trustees often advocate for public libraries and their importance to the local community.

“The Board of Trustees is a very important role,” resident Patty Cheever told Council. “It was troubling to a lot of people that this change was being made without public input.”

Resident Samantha Lambert, also a Library Trustee, said, “Libraries are more than buildings, they are contributions to the character of our city. Libraries offer our cities places of respite in times of need, a haven where people can find their own conclusions.”

Lambert urged the Council to consider input from the Board of Trustees, and also mentioned the many library resources that benefit local families that otherwise would not be available to them, like coding classes and programs for people with special needs.

Gerly Adrien, Everett resident and former candidate for state representative, also loaned her voice in support of library trustees, calling them “powerful advocates for our city.”

Councilor Rosa DiFlorio motioned to postpone the vote on this issue for another two weeks until the next Council meeting. She also agreed that there should be robust community input until that point.

Councilor Anthony DiPiero asked to amend the motion to include a detailed presentation on the “reason and rationale” behind every change to the current administrative code.

Councilor Peter Napolitano mentioned that the last time there were changes to the city code six years ago, there had been a comprehensive presentation. He urged the Council to “give the powers that be the time they need to get a decent presentation together.”

City Solicitor Colleen Mejia said she would need at least two weeks to get together the presentation requested by Council. At the close of the committee meeting, a date had still not been set, but Council President Dell Isola Jr. said that the Council would advertise the meeting in the newspaper as well as on Everett Community Television in order to ensure the opportunity for public participation

GEORGE MCCARTHY DIES at 92

EVERETT - George R. McCarthy of Hamilton, formerly of Everett, passed away peacefully on March 22 on the eve of his 92nd birthday at the Kaplan House in Danvers.

George was a long time resident and business owner in Everett. He owned and operated the Home Appliance Service for over 45 years. He dedicated his life to public service and served on the Everett School Committee, the Board of Aldermen and was elected to six terms as Mayor. During his last term, he was appointed by President Jimmy Carter to the role of Regional Representative for the United States Department of Transportation.

George and Charlotte enjoyed a friendship with President and Mrs. Carter that spanned many years and were frequent travelers to The Carter Center in Atlanta and to Plains, Ga.

In March of 1983, George was appointed by Governor Michael Dukakis to be the Chairman of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, a position he held for eight years until his retirement.

He was President of the Massachusetts Mayors’ Asso-

JOE HARVARD, FT. APACHE FOUNDER DIES

EAST BOSTON - In the 1980s an East Boston guy had an idea to create a Boston recording studio that would authentically capture the emerging alternative Boston music scene. Fort Apache in Roxbury was born and artists like The Pixies, The Lemonheads, Dinosaur Jr., Morphine, Buffalo Tom, and The Mighty Mighty Bosstones were given the freedom to experiment and capture the energy of their music without sterilization.

One can argue that without Eastie’s Joe Harvard the world may have never heard The Pixies. Without The Pixies and their influence on later artists like Kurt Cobain one can also argue there would have never been Nirvana and without Nirvana the grunge explosion of the early 1990s that defined a decade would have never occurred.

Harvard, an accomplished musician, music producer, artist and all-around great soul passed away on Sunday, March 24 after a courageous battle with cancer. He was 60 years old.

Harvard, who was born in Jeffries Point as Joe Incagnoli, had been living in Asbury Park, N.J., since 2001 where he emerged as a leading force in the town’s art and music scene renaissance.

Harvard was diagnosed with Stage 4 liver cancer late last year and documented his daily struggle with the disease through honest, and sometimes heartwrenching, social media posts.

All the while Harvard remained optimistic and continued his art and music until the end, and telling friends back in Eastie he was fighting the disease like an, “East Boston tornado!”

Sadly Harvard stopped treatment and succumbed to the disease on Sunday. His death was announced by longtime partner Mallory Messara.

“Joe passed early this morning with me and his sister by his side. Aidan arrived late last night in time to say goodbye,” said Massara. “I believe Joe was waiting for her. He went very peacefully. I sang ‘Sunday Morning’ to him as the sun rose. Then opened a book of Rumi poems to read to him. He had one ‘bookmarked’, like he left it for me knowing that would be the book I picked out of the thousand on the shelf. ‘Parable of the World.’ And then I opened the sliding glass door to let his soul out. I figured if it was anywhere as big as his personality it would need more room than a window.”

Harvard was born and raised in Eastie and attended local schools. In a short YouTube documentary about his life produced by Messara, Harvard drove around his old stomping grounds in Jeffries Point, pointed out the bar where he shined shoes while his father held court inside, and visited his childhood home.

Harvard graduated from Harvard University and the Ivy Leaguer got the ‘Harvard’ nickname while working in a Cambridge record store while attending college.

In 1986, with fellow Ivy Leaguers and friends Sean Slade, Jim Fitting and Paul Kolderie, Harvard founded Fort Apache Studio in Roxbury.

If you were into music, I mean really into music in the 1980s and early 1990s, WFNX was the only station you listened to and local bands like The Pixies were your rock gods.

If you ate, slept and breathed the alternative scene during that time you knew of and respected Fort Apache for the enormous talent it recorded for over a decade. Bands like The Pixies, Juliana Hatfield, The Lemonheads, The Mighty Mighty Bosstones, Dinosaur Jr., Belly and Buffalo Tom were just some of the major groups and artists that either got their start or recorded at Fort Apache and later artists like Radiohead and Hole used the studio that became synonymous with Alternative Rock.

Harvard briefly became sole owner, and the studio became very active recording Boston-area indie-rock groups.

“We were the most grossly over educated rock music studio in the history of the f@#$ing world,” said Harvard in an article for the Consequence of Sound’s feature

Mystic Valley Elder Services hosts annual Legislative Briefing

— Legislative priorities relating to older adults hot topics of discussion —

Mystic Valley Elder Services (MVES) recently hosted its annual legislative briefing at its headquarters, located at 300 Commercial Street in Malden. MVES Board President Kathleen Beaulieu and Chief Executive Officer Daniel J. O’Leary were joined by legislative co-hosts Senator Patricia Jehlen and Representative Christine Barber to speak to a standing-room crowd of local legislators, town officials, MVES board members and MVES staff.

Mr. O’Leary and the legislators addressed three priority legislative issues that affect older people: Bill S.358—Enough Pay to Stay Initiative to increase funding for the direct home care workforce; Bill S.355—expansion of the home care program to more effectively address behavioral and mental health issues; and Bill S.354—push for an extension of the home care program “middle income” pilot program. He also outlined budget priorities for the FY20 budget, which include supporting Senate Supplemental Budget Language for Home Care Network Technology Trust, supporting House 1 Funding for Elder Nutrition Program, including Meals on Wheels and Congregate Dining, and expanding Funding for Elder Supportive Housing.

Senators Jason Lewis and Sal DiDomenico along with Representatives Paul Brodeur, Michael Day, Paul Donato, Joseph McGonagle, RoseLee Vincent and Donald Wong participated in the event with staff from the offices of Senator Bruce Tarr and Representatives Bradley Jones and Stephen Ultrino. Medford Mayor Stephanie Burke, Melrose Mayor Gail Infurna, Chelsea City Manager Tom Ambrosino, and North Reading Town Administrator Michael Gilleberto also attended.

Joining the program this year were two special guest speakers: Lionette Jasmin, a resident of Everett and home health aide with Associated Home Care, and MVES program consumer Carole Nolan, from Malden.

Ms. Jasmin, who has been a home health aide for 30 years, spoke on the passion she has for her job and her clients but also explained the challenges she faces, such as low wages, long hours and lack of training. She cares deeply for the wellbeing of her clients but needs to work two jobs and long hours seven days a week to try to make ends meet. The financial burden Ms. Jasmin faces creates a lot of stress.

Ms. Jasmin has noticed the burden of care for home health aides has demonstrably increased over the years. “Reliance on home health aides is growing, and there seems to be little progress on improving wages, training or career prospects,” she said.

The second guest speaker, Ms. Nolan, shared her inspirational story. Ms. Nolan has lived in the same apartment for 27 years and is grateful to still live independently in the community she loves. Some years ago, Ms. Nolan suffered from an acute attack of depression, which resulted in her being in bed for 3 weeks. Concerned about her onset of depression, she approached the MVES Residential Services Coordinator (RSC) at her building. Realizing Ms. Nolan’s difficulty, the RSC referred her to Amy Foreman, a clinical caseworker in the Clinical Programs Department at MVES. Amy, with Ms. Nolan’s permission, enrolled her into the Mobile Representing Revere at Mystic Valley Elder Services Annual Legislative Briefing were Rep. RoseLee Vincent and board member Carol Tye from Revere along with Legislative Briefing Co-host Sen. Patricia Jehlen.

Mystic Valley Elder Services recently hosted its Annual Legislative Briefing at its headquarters at 300 Commercial Street in Malden. Legislators who participated in the Legislative Briefing included: Representatives Paul Brodeur, Joseph McGonagle, Michael Day, Donald Wong, and RoseLee Vincent, and Senators Patricia Jehlen, Sal DiDomenico, and Jason Lewis along with Mystic Valley Elder Services CEO Daniel O’Leary.

Mental Health program, a program in which clinical caseworkers provide outreach to older adults experiencing mental health conditions that impact their functioning and ability to meet life’s daily challenges.

Since she has been enrolled in the program, her bouts of depression have declined. Ms. Nolan really likes that her counselor comes to her home once a week as part of the program. “It is much better now that my counselor comes to me. I rely on a cane now and cannot walk long distances so it works out great. I don’t have to travel as much and feel more relaxed in the setting of my own home,” she stated.

Concluding the program, Mr. O’Leary thanked those in attendance, “Each year, when we host this breakfast, I’m reminded of how fortunate we are to have representatives on Beacon Hill who truly understand the importance of home care services and behavioral and mental health issues and support our programs throughout the year.”

on the history of Fort Apache. “It was our attitude that really made people come. If you wanted to put a microphone in the toilet — which we did — or if you wanted to put a microphone down your pants — which we did — we didn’t give a s!@#. We were willing to try it and give you the benefit of the doubt. Not all of it stuck to the wall, but some of it ended up being really brilliant. I went out every night. I went to The Rat and told people, ‘We have a studio! You’ve got to come and check it out.’ Climbing that mountain was a lot of fun. It was all about, Let’s find some great bands and make some records that don’t suck.”

Harvard, who never forgot his Eastie roots, visited Zumix Firehouse in 2015 to play a show during a benefit for the community’s youth music and arts program.

After the show, Harvard mingled with guests, talked music with the younger folks, signed other people’s copies of the Legendary Locals of East Boston book (he is featured as is his father, Joe Incagnoli) and was amazed at how great the Zumix Firehouse on Sumner Street came out.

“At the height of Fort Apache I wanted to buy this old beat up firehouse in my neighborhood and turn it into Fort Apache East Teen Center,” said Harvard. “I can’t begin to say how impressed I am with what these guys (Zumix) have built there and how amazed I am at the quality of musicianship I was hearing in every classroom and studio or how proud I am as a fourth generation Jeffries Point ‘homeboy’ to see a world class facility like this in Eastie. I have a very good imagination but it would have paled in comparison to Zumix. They rock!”

SOCIAL CENTER PIZZA AND COMEDY FUNDRAISER

EAST BOSTON - East Boston Social Centers to Hold Annual Pizza and Comedy Fundraiser April 11.

The East Boston Social Center will hold its Annual Spring Fundraiser, a Pizza and Comedy night at Prince Restaurant in Saugus, on the evening of Thursday April 11, — doors open at 6:30 p.m. We look forward to seeing you and sharing a great night of laughs, pizza and friendship.

The East Boston Social Center is a 501(C) 3 non-profit multi-service agency that has served the children, families, and senior citizens of East Boston since its founding over 100 years ago, in 1918.

Net proceeds from this event will support the Social Centers’ programs, which serve over a thousand members of the East Boston and Greater Boston community each year. The Social Centers provide fully licensed and accredited Early Learning and After School programs for children ages 2 months through 14 years, free after-school programming for at-risk teens, a Summer Program, as well as nutritional and social and recreational programming for seniors, and community space for advocacy, self-help and community groups.

Ticket price of $35 per person includes unlimited cheese pizza and soft drinks and a hilarious comedy show with some of the area’s best comedians. Other menu items and a cash bar are also available for purchase.

There is also a Raffle for an assortment of gift certificates, sports tickets, baskets and much more. Chances are $20 for a book of 10 (Need not be present to win).

Thank you for your continued generosity to the East Boston Social Centers and support of the community of East Boston. We look forward to seeing you on April 11th!

To purchase tickets for the event or for raffle chances, please call Marisa at (617) 569-3221 ext. 107, email at mdipietro@ebsoc.org - or contact any of our Board members.

You may also purchase tickets online at: <https://www.ebsoc.org/new-events/>.

ANOTHER MARIJUANA SHOP SLATED FOR LYNN

LYNN - The Lynn City

Council approved another pot shop, but this one has drawn the ire of a neighboring town. In addition, a grow facility is on track for a special permit from the council.

Tuesday night the council approved a new shop at 829A Boston St., the former O’Brien’s Pub on the Saugus line.

The shop to be opened by Massachusetts Green Retail is owned by Jordan Avery, who is also the director of security at Apothca, the medical marijuana dispensary on the Lynnway.

Attorney Sam Vitali, who represents Massachusetts Green Retail, said other bonus is that Bianchi’s Pizza of Revere Beach will also be operating in the building.

Residents in Saugus are not happy about this store.

Board of Selectmen Debra Panetta sent a letter opposing the pot shop. Special Town Council for the Town of Saugus Arthur Kreiger said part of the parking lot and a corner of the building are in Saugus. Saugus as a community voted against legalizing medical marijuana and Town Meeting voted not to allow any marijuana businesses into Saugus.

Vitali didn’t question that a portion of the property is in Saugus, adding the Lynn portion is in a commercial zone.

The council also gave the go ahead for a marijuana cultivating facility Bostica, LLC to start the special permit process for a 40,000 square-foot “grow facility” on Linden Street site of the Harvard Folding Box Company.

Attorney James Smith represented Bostica, LLC, which will go forward with a public hearing on the plan. Meetings in the ward and the city’s economic development committee will follow.

Smith said the cultivation site will handle no retail and no traffic. They hope to employ about 30 people and will enter into a host community agreement.

Councilor Rick Starbard said grow facilities often have an odor. He visited one in Fitchburg and was greeted with the distinctive odor when he got out of his car.

Smith said the construction inside will made an air-tight growing space. He said the key is the HVAC system and they are looking to do some ventilation up the smoke stake that is already with the building.

AIRPORT COMMITTEE SEEKS HELP OF LEGISLATORS

WINTHROP - A letter is being sent from the Airport Hazards Committee to local and state officials asking them to support U.S. Congressman Stephen Lynch’s bill to mandate the study of the health impacts of airports with the support of government funded research.

HR976 states the research should be on the health impacts of air traffic noise and pollution.

“We’re a very impacted community,” said Board of Health vice president Dr. Astrid Weins.

“The key component is the involvement of the national academy of science and engineering,” said Airport Hazards member Gina Casetta, who lives on Point Shirley.

The letter will be sent to U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren, U.S. Sen. Ed Markey, US Congresswoman Katherine Clark and State Sen. Joseph Boncore, Speaker of the House and Winthrop’s State Rep. Robert DeLeo.

This letter comes on the heels of a meeting between Massport officials and mostly residents of Winthrop on March 18.

Weins also said she filed a public records request with Massport for two years worth of noise monitoring data. So far she has received information for noise monitors including monitor four at Point Shirley and 2,500 pages worth of events (an event is any noise made and picked up by the monitor) 36 per page.

The lower the decibel numbers the better for impacted homeowners. For outdoor noise it should not be higher than 65 dBL. The safe limit for the indoor noise level is 45 dBL or less. The report linked to single airplanes with peak exposure over 85 dBL for over 10 seconds at a time – 90,036 events in 2018 alone – Massport is cooperating in providing the information. Most of the events stem from runways 9 and 27 both departures and arrivals, Weins said.

She noted a few details from the information she received.

“By the seconds and hours of offence I can tell you that Jet Blue is the greatest offender,” Weins said of the decibel level.

Weins shared information about soundproofing in the last 10 years in Winthrop. A total of 12 homes were soundproofed in 2008 and the last home soundproofed was in 2014.

“Its sobering to say the least,” Weins said. “If you ask me -- I wonder if the Point will be uninhabitable soon. These numbers are really terrible.”

Weins also had a list of the loudest events in the last year in Winthrop and their decibel levels.

The 20 loudest events recorded on the number four sound monitor in town were:

The Winthrop Fireworks 113 dBL

“The following 19 are not linked to the Winthrop Fireworks,” Astrid said. “They range from 101 to 108 dBL – those are really loud damaging noises,” Astrid said.

The FAA report states everything above 65 dBL is not for residential use other than mobile homes and transient lodging “We’re way above that even in the 2016 contour, for 2017 and 2018 I know we will be way above it – probably about 70 dBL at the Point,” Weins said.

Revere Moose Hall reopens

By Cary Shuman

The Revere Moose 1272 held a grand re-opening dinner and dance Saturday night inside the well-known function hall located at 470 Broadway.

Kelly Freeman, assistant bar manager, said the organization had closed the facility for a couple of weeks due to “financial difficulties.”

If the large crowd that packed the hall for the dinner-dance fundraiser is an indication, the Moose are enjoying a strong resurgence.

The guests enjoyed a Chinese food buffet and musical entertainment by the classic-rock band, Decades of Rock Band that includes well-known resident, Al Terminiello Jr., a bass guitarist.

Freeman said the Revere Moose, part of the Loyal Order of Moose that was founded in 1888, have more than 300 members.

“It’s a whole new regime,” said Freeman. “We have all new management and all new board members.”

Bar Manager Jennifer Santana oversees the function hall that in the past has hosted sports banquets, political functions, and social gatherings. Santana said the response to the grand re-opening has been very encouraging.

“We’ve added 50 new members since we re-opened,” said Santana. “New members (men and women) can fill out an application that is reviewed by the board of officers. Members must be over 21.”

Santana said live bands will be performing every other month at the hall. “We’ll also have members’ functions, dinners, dart tournaments on Wednesdays – we’ll be scheduling events for every night of the week and members can watch Red Sox games when we’ll have specials for chicken wings and other items.”

The new Governor of the Revere Moose is Jimmy Bocchetti, who grew up next door in Chelsea and was an excellent wiffleball player as a kid.

“I’m honored and excited to be Governor,” said Bocchetti, a 23-year Moose member. “We have a lot of great things coming up. We’re going to make it work. A lot of people have put in a lot of hard work.”

Junior Governor John Goodwin said the club has made a huge comeback.

“I had been a member off and on since the early 1980s,” said Goodwin. “Jimmy has been a long-time friend of mine. We’ve worked together in the past and we’re working as a team now. This place is going to thrive.”

Lead vocalist Gardner Trask kept the crowd energized with his rendition of classic rock songs.

The Haunted Life -Jack Kerouac’s lost play

By Sheila Barth

During a sold-out, Sunday afternoon matinee, Merrimack Repertory theatergoers in Lowell eagerly awaited the opening act of Merrimack Rep Artistic Director Sean Daniels’ stage adaptation of hometown favorite son Jack Kerouac’s “lost” novel, “The Haunted Life.”

Apparently, Kerouac, whose fame is iconic in San Francisco’s North Beach, had started writing the play about his youth, growing up in Lowell, and the impact of World War II on him and his buddies. Daniels and christopher oscar pena co-direct the two-act, two-hour play, featuring an all-star cast.

The play is Daniels’ local last hurrah and gift to theatergoers. After four years of helming the theater, Daniels is leaving in May, returning to his native Arizona.

Much that’s unearthed in Daniels’ finished adaptation of Kerouac’s novella resonates with today’s audiences, including threat of war, young people entering the military, job losses, and resentment against illegal (and legal) immigration of foreigners in the US.

Taking poetic license in the play, focusing on the fictitious Martin family, Daniels masks the fact that “The Haunted Life” is based on the Kerouac family, Jack’s friends and local girlfriend. Daniels also took great pains to include the co-founder of the Beat Generation’s magnificent poetry and prose.

Produced in collaboration with the Estate of Jack Kerouac, the play focuses on young Boston College student Peter Martin, (Kerouac), in 1941 and slightly beyond, before America entered World War II. Young men were drafted into military service or eagerly enlisted to “do their part to save their country”. Daniels includes several references to Kerouac’s life - his restlessness, wanting to see and experience the world; his father’s loss of his printing business; Jack’s football scholarship to Columbia University; loss of his brother at a different age; Jack’s service with the Merchant Marines, and his love for his hometown. Theatergoers revel in his many references to Lowell and environs, and Boston sites.

Designer James J. Fenton has created a background of huge walls stacked with multi-paned large windows. He uses few props, save some chairs and a cot the ensemble carries off- and on stage. At times, lighting designer Brian J. Lilienthal punctuates scenes with bright-colored lights while sound designer David Remedios keeps action low-key, but suddenly jars the audience with an explosive barrage, ending the first act.

The story unfolds as cast members - Raviv Ullman (Peter Martin); Joel Colodner (Joe Martin); Vichet Chum (Garabed and other cameo roles); Broadway’s Tina Fabrique Vivienne Martin); Caroline Neff (Peter’s hometown sweetheart, Eleanor) -interchange their roles as narrators, in Greek ensemble style.

The play keeps the audience rapt, but a few aspects are jarring. Kudos to Daniels for his multi-racial cast. However, theatergoers are stunned when Peter’s father- a conservative, anti-President Roosevelt, anti-immigrants, isolationist and more, rants and rages about the Jews, Italians, Armenians, African-Americans overtaking our country, running and destroying it. During one rant, it’s incongruous when he spouts the despicable N-word, while his wife, portrayed by African-American Tina Fabrique, placates him.

Joe Martin’s rant about

Armenians, including Peter’s best hometown friend, (Vichet Chum), inspired chuckles among theatergoers when the Cambodian-American actor-writer-director-theater-maker emphatically declares to Peter, “Your dad’s right about one thing- I am Armenian!”

Regardless, it’s a treat to hear Kerouac’s artistic, poetic language infused throughout the play, and experience the mounting tension as America stood on the brink of entering World War II. Many of the predominantly senior citizen audience identified with the era, while others, especially local residents, reveled in Kerouac’s fame and literary accomplishments.

‘CARDBOARD PIANO,’ Powerful, Award-Worthy Drama

By Sheila Barth

If you appreciate compelling drama, you don’t want to miss New Repertory Theatre’s captivating, New England premiere of Hansol Jung’s socio-political drama, “Cardboard Piano”.

Renowned Director Benny Sato Ambush deftly helms this superb cast and production through April 14, at Mosesian Center for the Arts, MainStage Theater.

Set in 1999 and later, in 2014, writer Hansol Jung’s play tackles painful issues -an insurgent army’s ruthless abduction of thousands of young children, their brutal induction and training as child soldiers, and Uganda’s violent homophobia.

The play opens gleefully, inside designer Jon Savage’s rudimentary thin metal, corrugated church with rain pouring through a large hole in the roof. Two 16-year-old girls banter playfully, lovingly, in the closed church on New Year’s Eve, 1999. Under der Scott Pinkney’s carefully-placed spotlight, Ugandan Adiel prepares a charming scene of scattered floral petals and illuminated candles, while waiting for the church missionaries’ daughter, Christine (Marge Dunn), who insists on being called Chris. The girls are lovers, planning to run away and get married.

Eagerly, with childlike joy, they abandon fear, conduct and record their own marriage ceremony in the empty church.

Portraying Adiel, bright star Rachel Cognata charmingly captures every scene in Act 1. She’s overjoyed, so in love with Chris, but pragmatic, too. Orphaned by a military village scourge that killed her parents, Adiel is very devoted to her aunt, with whom she lives. She’s also acutely aware of the danger looming around her because of her lesbianism.

The girls’ ceremony is jarred by an injured child soldier’s intrusion, who holds a gun to Chris’ head, covering her mouth to silence her. Weakened by his injuries, the girls overtake him, tie him up, and Adiel administers first aid to stop his bleeding. Pika, 13-year-old soldier, explains he didn’t mean to harm them. The orphaned youngster escaped from his military group, that’s searching for him, to re-capture or kill him. “I’ve done many bad things,” he laments.

Two-act, two-hour New England premiere of Hansol Jung’s socio-political drama, directed by Benny Sato Ambush through April 14: April 4,12,6:30 p.m.; April 5,12, at 8 p.m.; April 6,13, at 3,8 p.m.; April 7,14, at 2 p.m. April 10,11, 7:30 p.m. at New Repertory Theatre’s Mosesian Center for the Arts, MainStage Theater, 321 Arsenal St., Watertown. $25-$67, student, senior, group discounts. 617-923-8487, enwrap.org.

Chris relates a story of her bad deed- tearing up a small cardboard piano her father created for her to pretend playing, because they couldn’t obtain a real one. Her dad repaired the piano, gave it back to her, and explained all bad deeds can be fixed and forgiven.

The girls conduct another ceremony, in which Pika expunge himself on tape, with intentions of being a “family” with the girls and escaping with them.

Mark Pierre is compelling as Pika in the first act, and Adiel’s gay cousin, Francis, in the second act. Michael Ofori also is commanding in dual roles of a ruthless soldier murderer and later as happily married church pastor Paul.

When Pika’s rifle-toting captor crashes through the door, Pika and Chris hide on the roof; but Adiel has returned from her village. Suddenly encountering the soldier, she bravely confronts him and offers to go with him in lieu of Pika. A scuffle ensues among the four, ending Act I tragically.

The second act opens happily in 2014, after the government adopted its anti-homosexuality bill. Pastor Paul (Ofori) busily rehearses his sermon and banters with his wife, Ruth (Cognata), on their second anniversary. The mood swiftly changes when a white female stranger enters the church with an unusual request, followed by threatened gay churchgoer, Francis (Pierre).

Jung ties everything together as the plot deepens more darkly, revealing characters’ identities and unraveling the rest of this edge-of-your-seat story.

BOOK REVIEW

'Capitalism in America: A History'

By Alan Greenspan and Adrian Woodbridge

Reviewed By Bernie Kelly

“Capitalism in America is an excellent book which delineates a history of American manufacturing and investment. Greenspan is well known to us as a result of his tenure as Chairman of the United States Federal Reserve Board. Adrian Woodbridge is a prominent contributor to the Economist Magazine and the author of several books.

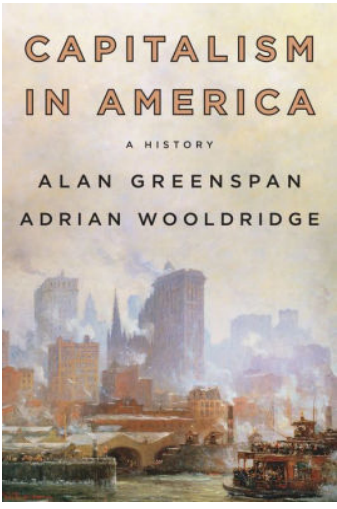

Together they have compiled an interesting compendium of capitalism in America. The book includes a detailed study of the age of laissez-faire economics in the era of the great tycoons who developed many industrial innovations in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The authors continue on into the Great Depression, a period which eviscerated the industrial sector and engendered many alternative responses to capitalism. The narrative continues into the post World War 2 years, when the economy recovered and capitalistic industrialism once again flourished.

The book is full of anecdotes about industrial magnates and famous inventors, but critics might rail at the lack of concern for the every-day worker and the common man, without whose contributions many of these great achievements would not have been possible. The authors seem to extol those presidents and politicians who embrace the governmental policies that encourage business, sometimes to the detriment of the lower and working classes. This might seem like an obvious course of action, but one would think that a more humane approach would have been more amenable to the general public.

Nevertheless, Greenspan and Woodbridge do a commendable job in recreating the fascinating world of commerce and industry. Both authors are world acclaimed leaders in their respective genre's and their work is exemplary.

Greenspan reprises his years in the Federal Reserve, particularly in the period of the Clinton presidency. The book continues on into the Great Recession and the years following it. It's hard to say how much of these fiscal drags come about as a result of governmental policy or how much they are part of a financial cycle, but authors like Greenspan and Woodbridge go a long way toward explicating the various nuances of the fiscal sequences.

This is an important book -one which will enhance the reader's understanding of capitalism and its attendant virtues and vices. The tome is a neat summation of U.S. history, especially as it involves economic factors which are so important to all of us.

You'll enjoy reading this book, since it is so light and informative. It was published in 2018 and you can pick it up at your local library or at a nearby bookstore. Hopefully, you will indulge your appetite for knowledge by giving “Capitalism in America” a perusal.
