Arrigo announces for re-election

By Cary Shuman

Mayor Brian Arrigo announced his candidacy for re-election at a breakfast Saturday morning at Casa Lucia. The breakfast was part of a series of events kicking off his campaign. Many campaign volunteers had participated in a sign-holding on Broadway prior to the breakfast.

"I want to thank you all for coming out on a cold, rainy May day [to hold signs]," Arrigo said at the outset of his speech.

There was also a door-knocking event and an open house at the mayor's campaign headquarters at 26 Revere St.

Following a delicious breakfast catered by DeMaino's Restaurant, Arrigo took the podium, receiving a warm ovation from the guests, many of whom were wearing orange-and-blue "Arrigo" T-shirts.

Arrigo's speech highlighting his accomplishments as mayor was interrupted several times by applause. He received a standing ovation at the end of his remarks.

Arrigo was elected mayor in November, 2015, defeating then-incumbent Dan Rizzo in a close, hard-fought race for the corner office. Rizzo announced at his annual St. Patrick's Day Dinner April 4 that he will be a candidate for mayor.

Rep. Vincent leads effort for new park for seniors at Sullivan Field

By Cary Shuman

To the residents who expressed concern about the lack of recreational areas and green space along Revere Beach during the Metropolitan Beaches Commission meeting last Wednesday, Rep. RoseLee Vincent has already taken the initiative.

Vincent, working in coordination with Speaker of the House Robert A. DeLeo, has proposed a new park for seniors, including bocce, shuffleboard, and pickleboard courts, at Sullivan Field, where youth baseball was once played regularly, but has sat dormant for several years.

DeLeo, at the request of Vincent, put a $200,000 appropriation in the state budget for major renovations to Sullivan Field, which is located next to the former site of Bianchi's Pizza.

It has been a goal of Vincent to bring a park geared for seniors to Revere for several years. Chelsea has a bocce court at Voke Park where Revere seniors travel to compete in the popular activity.

RBC SEEKING BEAUTIFUL HOMES AND BUSINESSES

Do you know someone in Revere who you think does a wonderful job of beautifying his or her property? Are you pleased to have this home or business on your street or in your neighborhood or just somewhere in the city only because it makes your home look better?

If you do, the Revere Beautification Committee (RBC) would like to know where they are located so that their property can be considered for the "Home of the Month" or "Business of the Month" award that the RBC presents to the owners of such places.

The RBC in the process of determining which homes or businesses should receive the award uses the following guidelines:

- *Homes or businesses to be considered must be well maintained and neatly maintained.

- * Must be aesthetically pleasing and have a visible garden area, seasonal flowers and/or shrubbery.

- *Must also be clear of any trash, trash cans/bags, litter, debris, graffiti, weeds or high grass.

- *Home/Business awards will begin in May and continue through the year.

A BUSY DAY AT THE ELECTION DEPARTMENT

Nineteen candidates pull papers for 2019 election

By Cary Shuman

Many cities and towns call the first phase of the nomination process for municipal elections "pulling papers." Others call it "taking out papers" or "drawing papers."

Call it what you will, but 18 candidates for office walked in to Election Commissioner Diane Colella's office at City Hall Monday to pull nomination papers for the 2019 election. On Tuesday, a 19th candidate took out papers.

Colella said some candidates were outside the Election Office prior to the official launching time of 8:15 a.m. as listed on the Revere Election Calendar.

Eight candidates for Councilor-at-Large pulled papers seeking one of the five city-wide seats on the City Council.

Rizzo requests expanded traffic lane for entry to Northgate Shopping Plaza

By Cary Shuman

Councillor-at-Large Dan Rizzo said he has seen enough of the increased traffic on Route 60 East from Copeland Circle to Squire Road and toward the left turn lane in to Northgate Shopping Plaza.

During his remarks, Police

Chief James Guido said the situation became more pronounced during the recent Stop & Shop workers' strike when shoppers headed to the nearby Market Basket at Northgate. The 11-day strike has been settled.

The City Council approved Rizzo's motion Monday night that Mayor Arrigo request the Department of Transportation to examine, study, and implement an expanded deceleration lane turning in to Northgate.

STAMP OUT HUNGER FOOD DRIVE IS SATURDAY

With the help of sponsors, volunteer organizations and U.S. Postal Service employees in 10,000 communities nationwide, the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) will conduct its 26th annual Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive on Saturday, May 11. Stamp Out Hunger is the nation's largest single-day food drive.

Last year's drive resulted in carriers collecting 71.6 million pounds of food from local communities in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Since the drive began in 1993, total donations have surpassed 1.6 billion pounds of food. The food drive has become the nation's largest one-day campaign to collect food for distribution to needy families.

Making a donation is easy. Customers should leave their non-perishable food donations in a bag near their mailbox on Saturday, May 11, before their letter carrier arrives. In the days leading up to the food drive, letter carriers will be delivering special bags along with your mail that may be used to make donations. Food collected during Saturday's drive will be delivered to local community churches, food banks and food pantries for distribution.

While all non-perishable donations are welcome, foods that are high in protein such as canned tuna, salmon, beans and peanut butter are most needed. Canned fruits and vegetables, whole grain, low sugar cereals, macaroni and cheese dinners and 100 percent fruit juice also top the list of most needed items.

For additional info about this year's Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive, visit nalc.org/community-service/food-drive.

SPRING CLEANING
BRINGS HEALTH BENEFITS

Spring is here! This time of year offers a perfect moment to stop and enjoy the outdoors and the beautiful flowers budding, like tulips and daffodils. It's an exciting moment and welcome relief from the colder months, but it also means we should think about kicking off our spring cleaning efforts -- a dreaded task for many. However, for older folks, this chore holds especially important health benefits.

Cleaning inside the home can vastly improve indoor air quality. Increasingly, research shows that indoor air can have as much, if not more, of an impact on overall health compared to pollution outside. Poor air quality may cause irritation to the eyes or throat and worsen existing medical conditions like asthma. Older adults, and people with pre-existing conditions, should be especially mindful about ensuring the air in the house is clean since they are at greater risk.

Here are simple ways to keep the air cleaner in your home:

- Make sure that air conditioners, fans or vents are clean and dust-free before plugging them in for the season.
- Clear away clutter from surfaces (kitchen table, dresser, coffee table, etc.) and dust each at least once a week.
- If you are already suffering from allergies, remove shoes before entering the home. This small change may help to keep pollen and other allergens from impacting air quality.

While in the cleaning spirit, it's a great chance to make sure each room has a clear pathway. This is especially important for older adults since clear paths will help to reduce the likelihood of falls in the home. At the same time, open the medicine cabinet and sort through medications based on the expiration date. Be sure to open each bottle and discard pills if they smell bad or appear to be discolored. If you need to dispose of prescription drugs, see if there is a designated Prescription Dropbox Location near you.

Starting a spring cleaning project may seem like a daunting task at first but it can become easier by breaking it into smaller activities each day spread out over several weeks. Reach out to family and friends and see if they have time to help and look through old photo albums and mementos with you while cleaning. It's always easier to do chores and big tasks with loved ones. One last suggestion, while cleaning, remember to organize important documents, marriage license, birth certificate, health insurance information, and other financial information. It's helpful for family members to understand where these vital documents are in case there is an emergency.

If you are exploring options in care, meet the compassionate team at Cambridge Health Alliance by calling 617-665-1305 or visit www.challiance.org/cha/find-a-doctor.

ARRIGO ANNOUNCES
NEW TAX SAVING
POLICIES FOR GOLD
STAR FAMILIES, VETERANS AND
SMALL BUSINESSES

Mayor Brian Arrigo announced the City of Revere will return tax dollars through a package of proposals aimed at minimizing the financial burdens for Gold Star families, veterans and small businesses.

"When we have a chance to put dollars back into the pockets of those who served our country, built our community over generations and drive our economy - we do it," Mayor Brian Arrigo said. "Thank you to the City Council for their vote of support for these smart tax saving policies."

The new policies will allow:

- A real estate tax exemption for Gold Star families.
- A Veteran Work-Off program, proposed by Councillor Steven Morabito, to give veterans, the spouse of a disabled veteran, or the surviving spouse of a deceased veteran, an option to volunteer with the city in exchange for a reduction in real property tax obligations, up to $1,000 in a given tax year.
- A personal property tax exemption for the more than 500 Revere businesses with personal property valued at less than $10,000.

In addition to the tax proposals, the Mayor has also secured a designated parking space at City Hall for veterans.

ter coming from [the area] of Showcase Cinemas and Copeland Circle -- it's causing major backups," said Rizzo. "We need to be working with MassDOT to increase the size of that deceleration lane so more vehicles can queue up -- and then that traffic light is obviously going to have to be adjusted to let more people into Northgate."

Guido said two years ago he was able to get the state to widen the ramps and make two lanes coming off of Route 1 South near Showcase Cinemas heading toward Copeland Circle.

"And it stopped the backup on Route 1," Guido told the Council.

At that time, the chief said he also asked the state to increase the size of the left turn lane heading in to Market Basket.

"The work has been approved and it's supposed to start in June," said Guido. "That's going to make a significant difference to the traffic on Squire Road."

Council President Arthur Guinasso said there is often gridlock, especially on holidays, on that stretch of Squire Road near Market Basket "and it's really a dangerous situation because there are so many residents that live in close proximity to that location."

Rizzo said he would like to see a plan move forward expeditiously on the traffic congestion and the Council agreed, with all members supporting his motion.

"Every day that goes by causes further frustration for people who get caught up in that traffic," said Rizzo.

ConCom approves movie set on Revere Beach

By Sue Ellen Woodcock

The Conservation Commission has given its approval for a movie set at Revere Beach, and they have also approved a water main project in the Oak Island area.

Michael Judge, a location manager for Twentieth Century Fox told the commission they want to build a platform on Revere Beach in the vicinity of 220 Revere Beach Boulevard, near the Markey Bridge and the pavilion across the street from it.

"This movie is like a Spiderman movie, there's a lot of visual effects," Judge said of the movie called "Free Guy," starring Ryan Reynolds. "The clear-plexiglass platform on the beach is part of a visual effect of the actor going over a bridge. They have to create a temporary stage sitting on the sand."

Judge said crews will be filming in June 19-21, 24, 25, 27 and 28 on the beach. The will be security and the Department of Conservation and Recreation has approved the location.

The Conservation Commission also heard from CDM (Camp, Dresser, McKee) regarding a project involving a water main, pressure and service connection. The water main project will include the replacement of 400 feet of 6-inch pipe with an 8-inch pipe.

In Phase One of the project the work will occur in the area of Alice and Vera street of the Oak Island Neighborhood. The second phase work will go under the railroad tracks. The project will improve fire safety and water pressure. The line is being extended to also connect with North Shore Road. Bypass water will be provided and residents should see no interruption in service.

The commission approved both projects.

of our great city...the City of Revere.

Are you with me?

So why am I running for re-election? First and foremost, it's because of the people in this room and the people who believe that Revere is finally moving in the right direction and that it still deserves better.

I've had a lot of opportunities to talk about all the great things going on in our city, but as I told you at the State of the City address, despite all we have accomplished in the last four years – and we have accomplished a lot – We are not done.

This is a job that requires commitment, vision, and bold thinking, and over the last four years we have a record of accomplishments that proves: we get the job done.

As I look around the room, I see faces of those who have stood by me since our first race 14 years ago. And I see a lot of faces that were with me four years ago. And I see some new faces, too. But what I feel seeing all of you is an immense pride in our city and in our accomplishments.

As many of you know, in a past life I was budget guy with a lot of experience in that field.

So it's no surprise one of the first things on our agenda was to order a long-overdue comprehensive financial review of all the City's finances. We discovered nearly $2.2 million sitting in 86 different accounts that were inactive for years. We immediately put those funds to work for you.

And because of our efforts to improve our financial policies and control spending – we've reached new levels of financial stability, obtaining the highest bond rating in the history of Revere.

And we've also worked hard to put your hard-earned money back in our pockets. Thanks to our sound fiscal management, last year we were able to give Revere ratepayers their first water and sewer decrease in 20 years. And we'll be doing it again this year.

Being Mayor has been tremendously fulfilling because I get to make a difference in people's everyday lives. That's why we've made city government more responsive, more transparent, and more accountable.

We're tackling quality of life issues like pothole repair, streets and sidewalks repair, and trash cleanup. We've given the DPW new equipment and more workers. And we've made tracking all this work more effective for both our workers and our residents, by launching a new 311 system.

But the accomplishments of our first term are only just the beginning.

We are on the verge of living in the Revere we've always dreamed of. We cannot go backwards. And I'll say it louder for the people in the back. We cannot go backwards.

We put the foundation in place and we need to keep building on all of this progress.

ress.

We will not stand idly by while surrounding cities and towns flourish.

For a change, Revere is setting the pace, not lagging behind.

But now is not the time to rest on our laurels. Now is the time to challenge ourselves to do more.

The next four years provide incredible opportunities for our city. We will work together to put even more city services online. We're going to create a "mobile city hall" that brings city hall to our neighborhoods.

We are going to open a community center at the Garfield School that will provide programming for all Revere residents.

We are going to guide the development of Suffolk Downs, which will bring much-needed jobs, amenities, and revenue to our city.

We are going to implement a 10 percent residential tax exemption to owner-occupied properties in our city.

And finally we are going to build that beautiful new high school that our students, teachers and staff deserve.

But we can only accomplish these things if we come together, and if we stay committed to this movement for a better Revere.

It has been the honor of my life to serve as Mayor of our City, and it would be my honor to work with you for four more years.

We have only just begun.

So over the next six months, let's work hard – let's have some fun.

Let's make sure we get people to the polls on Election Day.

And let's keep working toward the best Revere.

Thank you.

City Council approves plan to hold 75th Anniversary observance of D-Day on June 6

By Cary Shuman

The City Council unanimously approved a motion by Councillor-at-Large Dan Rizzo to hold a City of Revere commemoration ceremony of D-Day on June 6, 2019.

The event will mark the Allied Invasion across the English Channel and on to the beaches of Normandy, France that occurred on June 6, 1944 during World War II.

"This will be the 75th anniversary of Operation Overlord, otherwise known as the Battle of Normandy, and otherwise known as D-Day," said Rizzo in presenting his motion. "Obviously it was a major milestone, not only for this country, but for the world."

Rizzo, said World War II veterans and other war veterans would be invited to the ceremony and be recognized for their service to the country.

Marc Silvestri, director of veterans services, commended Rizzo for the motion, stating to the Council, "I support it 100 percent."

Silvestri said the city is planning a June 6 breakfast honoring the 75th anniversary of D-Day.

"D-Day was an important day in history as well as it was in Revere's history," said Silvestri. "We have one or two [World War II] veterans in Revere, but several Revere residents have been highly decorated from that invasion and the following [operations] on Omaha Beach and during the rest of World War II."

Rizzo, who served six years of active duty in the U.S. Navy, said he was pleased that the city will be holding a local observance of D-Day with a breakfast and ceremony.

"I am happy that the city is going to act on my motion and I think it's very fitting that we celebrate the 75th anniversary of Operation Overlord otherwise known as the Battle of Normandy," said Rizzo. "It's a very significant date in our country's history and we in Revere should do our part in recognizing any living veterans that participated in that operation as well as honoring all veterans who have defended our country and made it today."

BIG TOBACCO: THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK OR: IS YOUR CHILD A NICOTINE ADDICT?

In the mid-1990s, our newspaper group was honored in consecutive years by the Massachusetts branch of the American Cancer Society for our reporting and editorials regarding the regulation of tobacco products in our local communities. We wrote about every aspect of the tobacco industry, from the insidious means by which the tobacco companies were pushing their products with advertising geared toward young people, to taking to task local authorities who were not doing as much as they could have (by means of ordinances limiting smoking in public places) in order to prevent young people from becoming the future tobacco addicts of America.

This exact week in 1999, we editorialized in favor of a state law to ban smoking in restaurants.

So it was with a great deal of personal satisfaction that we took some degree of pride in what seemed to be the vanquishing of a foe -- the tobacco lobby -- that for generations in this country had reigned with impunity and that had seemed invincible until there finally were laws enacted throughout the country limiting the sale and use of tobacco beginning in the mid-2000s.

Shortly after these laws went into effect, teenage cigarette smoking rates began to decline precipitously and smoking in public became an anathema.

Big Tobacco had been defeated.

Or so it seemed.

But like one of those horror-film swamp creatures that becomes resurrected in even more ominous form when exposed to seemingly deadly radiation, Big Tobacco is back -- and in a big way -- thanks to the new, so-called e-cigarettes.

A recent article in the New York Times put it this way, "Although teen cigarette smoking rates have fallen below five percent, America is now contending with an epidemic of young people using e-cigs, vapes, and other 'nicotine delivery devices,' as the tobacco industry christened them years ago in secret memos, searching for an official alternative to describing their products as cigarettes."

Nicotine is considered by some to be the most addictive substance, legal or otherwise, known to man. In previous generations, teen smokers, encouraged by images of James Dean with a cigarette hanging from his lips, became lifetime smokers, assuring Big Tobacco of a steady stream of income ad infinitum.

Teens once again have become the target consumer group for Big Tobacco, a dangerous trend on many levels. According to one study, the effects of teens using these new products are dramatic and significant: "For a teen, becoming nicotine-addicted greatly increases the likelihood that they will graduate to traditional, combustible cigarettes. Importantly, nicotine addiction during adolescence increases the vulnerability to subsequent addictions, like opioids or cocaine. For most users of illicit drugs, their initial addiction was to nicotine."

More ominously, the use of these new products, known ubiquitously as juuling, delivers as much nicotine in one pod as 200 cigarettes, all but assuring users of a fast-track to addiction.

The bottom line is that Big Tobacco (which owns or controls all of the largest of these e-cigarette companies) has found a 21st century means by which to hook a new generation of future tobacco addicts.

Parents have to take a watchful eye to make sure their children are not using these products and society needs new laws to ensure that these products cannot be sold to those under the age of 21.

Big Tobacco is back -- and we need to take action immediately.

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY MAY 12

LETTERS to the Editor

ARRIGO PROMISES TO CONTINUE TO BUILD A BETTER REVERE

Dear Editor,

With tremendous pride in Revere, and excitement about our future, I am officially running for re-election as Mayor of our great city.

Four years ago, we set off to prove that fresh, forward-thinking leadership would allow Revere to tap into its tremendous potential.

We conducted a thorough, comprehensive review of the City's finances, to make sure we are spending taxpayer dollars wisely. That audit process discovered nearly $2.2 million that had been withering in 86 different accounts that were inactive for years. We immediately put that money to work for you.

That was just the beginning. Since then, we have enacted sound financial management practices that have helped Revere achieve new levels of financial stability and its highest bond rating in history.

Due to our careful control of the city's finances, we were able to give Revere residents their first water and sewer rate decrease in 20 years - and we'll be cutting rates again this year.

We also enacted a real estate tax break for eligible seniors, supporting some of the most vulnerable members of our community.

Over the last three years, we've made record investments in city services to improve your quality of life. We've given the DPW much-needed new equipment and more workers, delivered over 16,000 heavy-duty trash containers to every residential property in the city, and increased funding to repair streets and sidewalks. We also made it easier and more transparent than ever to request a pothole repair or trash cleanup with our new 311 phone system and app.

We're rebuilding Revere's commercial tax base and making our beachfront more active and dynamic. We're in the midst of a record period of commercial investment in the city, with more to come when the redevelopment of Suffolk Downs breaks ground - bringing much needed jobs, amenities, and over $50 million annually in revenue to invest in our residents.

But the accomplishments of our first term are only just the beginning. With your help, we'll make our city even stronger over the next four years.

Over the last four years, we've worked to make Revere a more modern city, making it easier and more convenient to interact with city hall. We will work over the next four years to put even more city services online, and create a "mobile city hall" to bring city services directly to each of our neighborhoods.

Later this year, we are going to open a Community Center at the Garfield school that will provide programming for Revere residents of all ages.

We are going to guide the redevelopment of Suffolk Downs and complete a comprehensive, thoughtful master plan for the city, in conjunction with the thousands of residents who have participated in our "Next Stop Revere" planning process.

We are going to continue to manage the budget effectively, so that we can provide more relief to ratepayers and taxpayers, while delivering the highest level of service to our residents.

And we are going to build a new Revere High School that will reflect the exemplary standards that our students, staff, and teachers have established in our award-winning public schools. The new Revere High School will be the kind of facility they deserve.

This is an exciting moment for Revere, but now is a time for continued bold ideas. Now is not the time to turn back the clock. Revere will continue to flourish under management that is transparent, accountable, and collaborative - and that is the kind of leadership I pledge to you over the next four years.

I encourage you to get involved in our campaign and our efforts to keep moving Revere forward. Visit www.brianarrigo.com to learn more or to sign up to volunteer.

It has been the honor of my life to serve as the Mayor of our City, and it would be my honor to work with you for four more years.

Mayor Brian Arrigo

STATEMENT ON RECENT HATE SPEECH IN REVERE

Dear Editor

Recently, East Boston's elected leaders: City Councilor Lydia Edwards, Sen. Joe Boncore, and State Rep. Adrian Madaro stood together to reject racist speech aimed at a local school's celebration of Arab-American Heritage Month.

Speech very similar to what East Boston's elected officials publicly rejected also occurred at recent public meeting here in Revere. A person at the meeting attacked our city's Muslims residents in disgusting terms during a question and answer session with a current City Councilor. So far no one in our community, including the incumbent and City Council candidates at the meeting, have made a public statement about what happened.

We can't create a tolerant and welcoming city by keeping quiet. We can only do it by following the example set by East Boston and making clear, public statements about what sort of community we want Revere to be. I hope that our state delegation, along with all the candidates for City Council, School Committee, and Mayor, reject the hate speech aimed at our city's Muslim residents, and make it clear that racism has no place in Revere.

I'll start: I reject racism directed at any member of our community, and I will not stay silent in the face of hate speech in my city.

REVERE THROUGH THE YEARS

10 years ago
May 6, 2009

The Revere Police Dept. has received a grant from the Dept. of Homeland Security that has provided funding for the reinstatement of a K-9 unit. The new K-9 officer is Mike Mason and the new dog is Walsh, a two year-old German Shepherd.

Three pre-teens from East

Boston who were caught by the rising tide on the breakers off Revere Beach were rescued by police officers Joseph Singer and Michael Bruker.

Local officials are expressing their outrage with the deluge of an estimated 3,000 students from the Boston public schools who descended on Revere Beach last week for a "skip day" that apparently was coordinated via social media. The influx of students wreaked havoc with the surrounding businesses and community. Police arrested six students, two for assaults with dangerous weapons, when the gathering turned violent and a near-riot ensued.

City Council President Dan Rizzo has been the Acting Mayor this week in the absence of Mayor Tom Ambrosino, who is on vacation.

"X-Men Origins: Wolverine," "Star Trek," and "Ghosts of Girlfriends Past" are playing at the Revere Showcase Cinemas.

Malden Catholic High School appoints William Raycraft new athletic director

After an extensive regional search that drew the interest of more than 100 candidates, Malden Catholic High School Acting Headmaster Brother Thomas J. Puccio, C.F.X., has announced that William Raycraft, athletic director, football coach and director of human performance and wellness at Windham High School (NH), has been named the school's new Athletic Director. Raycraft will assume the position on July 1, Malden Catholic, a codivisional high school, offers over 40 teams in 24 sports.

Under Raycraft's athletic leadership since the school launched in 2009, Windham High School has been one of the state's most successful athletic programs, amassing 55 individual state championships, 29 team state championships and 23 state finalists across 10 varsity sports. Over 100 student-athletes have gone on to compete at the college level.

"We have always appreciated the importance of athletics at Malden Catholic, as evidenced not only by our many championships but by the impact it has had on tens of thousands of students over the years, and we're extremely excited to have Bill lead our program with that same focus on building championship teams and well-rounded students," said Brother Puccio. "We are confident that he will leverage his vast experience in athletic administration and coaching to deliver an exceptional athletic experience for our young men and women. We know he will play an active role in building on our 87-year tradition of excellence at Malden Catholic."

"Malden Catholic has produced so many exceptional student-athletes over the years, and I am incredibly excited to help further that mission," said Raycraft. "I am looking forward to the opportunity to build on the incredible history established with the boys' programs while creating a new legacy with the girls' programs. This is an exciting time at Malden Catholic, and I am honored to be part of an institution so rich in culture, faith, mission and the pursuit of excellence through high standards."

Before his tenure at Windham, Raycraft was athletic director at John Stark Regional High School (2001-2008) in Weare (NH) and Franklin (NH) High School (1999-2001). He has served on the NHIAA Ice Hockey Committee and Scheduling Subcommittee for nearly 20 years.

As head football coach at Windham, Raycraft compiled a record of 68-11, bringing the Jaguars to the Division II State Finals in 2011, 2014, and 2015. In 2014, his program captured the State Championship. A three-time New Hampshire Coach of the Year, Raycraft has also coached softball, track and field, rugby, basketball, and rowing.

Heavily involved in curricular development and school life, Raycraft chaired both the Wellness Committee and the Curriculum Committee on Physical Education and Health for the Windham School District. He sat on Windham High School's Crisis Team, Safety Committee, and Facilities Committee, and advised the Student-Athlete Leadership Team (SALT), designed to facilitate student growth as athletic and community leaders.

In addition to his experience as an administrator and coach, Raycraft is also an accomplished workshop facilitator and public speaker. A Mentors Preventing Violence (MVP) Instructor and CoachSmart coaches' education instructor, Raycraft inaugurated Windham High School's "Life of a Jaguar" program for promoting unity and healthy choices among students. He has presented on the topic of "Teaching Games for Understanding" at the New Hampshire Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance, and has represented New Hampshire at the National Football League's Character Development Conference. Raycraft also held internships with the Miami Dolphins, the Baltimore Orioles and CBS Sports.

Raycraft holds a Bachelor of Science in Sports Management from Springfield College. He later received a Bachelor of Science in Physical Education with K-12 Teacher Certification from Plymouth State University and is currently pursuing a Master of Science in Education from the University of New England. He is a member of the National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association, a Registered Athletic Administrator and, as of May 2019, a Certified Athletic Administrator. Raycraft is also a member of the New Hampshire Athletic Directors Association and the National Football Foundation.

A product of Catholic education, Raycraft is a graduate of Bishop Brady High School in Concord, New Hampshire. His father, Joe Raycraft, was a longtime athletic director and football, basketball and softball coach at Merrimack High School in Merrimack, N.H.

As an elite college athlete, DA Rollins got a taste of the law and never turned back

By Seth Daniel

New Suffolk County DA Rachael Rollins has quickly come to be known as an agent of change, a passionate advocate for equity in the law and a solid leader ready to stand up for a cause – but few know that before all that she was an elite Division 1 college athlete, and it was on the playing field where she first gained her love and respect for the law.

Rollins grew up in a large family in Cambridge, and sports were part of her family from the beginning, long before she ever thought of the legal system.

Rollins said she was a team captain of every sport she played going back to youth soccer, and an All-Scholastic in basketball at Buckingham, Brown & Nichols School (BB&N), but it was on the lacrosse field where she was the most outstanding. The sport – which was somewhat newer to New England in the 1980s when she was in high school – was fast moving and, having been recruited to play after a basketball practice, Rollins had a great skill set to be a high achiever.

“I was the oldest of five siblings and my parents worked very hard to make sure we got a great education,” she said. “I got into BB&N after the third grade, but at one point my parents sat me down and told me I was a good athlete and a good student and needed to get a scholarship if I wanted to go to college.”

Her skills led her to a full Division 1 Scholarship to UMass-Amherst for lacrosse, this coming after winning a national championship on the high school level in 1989. After an outstanding freshman year, Rollins and her teammates were shocked to learn that their sport was being eliminated by the university due to budget cuts.

Suffolk County DA Rachel Rollins.

Though she was able to keep her scholarship, she said she eventually missed the athletic fields, and that’s when she and some other women athletes turned to the law – which she found to be a powerful leveler for those without much of a voice.

“At first, I was kind of relieved because I didn’t have to wake up at 5 a.m. for conditioning anymore, but later I began to miss sports,” she said. “I’d played sports my entire life and missed the camaraderie you feel when you have the team behind you and you score a goal.

“We only had three or four scholarship players and we were good,” she continued. “The men’s football team hadn’t won a game in years and they had 75 full-time scholarships with everything provided for them, including food and lodging. I didn’t know a lawyer or a judge, but it seemed so unfair. Myself and a few other athletes from the women’s teams, asked to meet with the Athletic Director.”

That meeting didn’t go so well, and there was no change, but DA Rollins said everything changed when they got a lawyer.

“Our lawyer threatened a Title 9 lawsuit,” she said. “The AD completely changed his tune. We got all our teams re-instituted after a while.”

Rollins – who attended Northeastern University Law School after UMass – said it was her first taste at how the law can be used to empower and bring about justice.

And it was a powerful experience.

“I saw that lawyers matter and words matter,” she said. “As a young person, I thought, ‘Oh my God, lawyers are awesome.’ They make everyone fall into line and things change.”

It was the defining moment she points to after a long legal career with MassPort, the MBTA, and now as the Suffolk District Attorney, where the law became her passion.

However, when it came to leadership – another characteristic she said has been critical as the newly-elected DA in an office that has had the same leader for almost two decades – it was what happened after the teams were re-instated that taught her the most.

She said when the team was finally brought back, she was the only player left with any real experience. Most of the players and coaches had been plucked from other sports like track and volleyball. The elite athlete soon found herself the captain of a team that couldn’t win a game to save themselves.

Yet, she said it was the most important time of her life, leading a team that likely wasn’t going to win, but could still accomplish some goals in the meantime.

“It was one of the best learning experiences I ever had,” she said. “You show up with a smile on your face and give 100 percent even when things aren’t going well. It taught me character...Anyone can be present when things are going great, but where are you when things get hard? Do you still show up? I like to say it costs very little to pay someone a compliment or be respectful. Yet so few do it.”

That kind of optimism for a competitive person in the midst of a losing season was life changing.

“What’s beautiful is to learn not to be discouraged and to be optimistic,” she said. “Those are actually the years I broke records because the numbers of goals I scored. There are still records out there 26 or 27 years later that I set and I’m proud to say I still hold.”

Certainly, the end of her athletic career did not mean an end to those valuable lessons. In fact, she said, it has been sports that taught her about justice and leadership.

“We are breaking down barriers,” she said. “When you see a woman in leadership roles, it happens quite often that in the past that woman had some athletic ability or played some sport. It teaches us about inclusion or teamwork or perseverance. Sports doesn’t care about how much money you have or where you live, it’s about how well you perform on the field. It’s a great leveler. It’s been invaluable for me.”

And in the office, she is adjusting to being that new person who is also the leader of the office. That, she said, takes the kind of skills she honed on the athletic fields some years ago.

“I’m the new person to the team here in the DA’s office and I’m also their leader,” she said. “Change is difficult. What I try to do is show up, know the great work they do and be as encouraging and purposeful as I can.”

Nowadays, Rollins doesn’t spend much time on the playing field, but still enjoys watching her daughter run track, where she has won national championships in the 100m and 200m races. Such things are encouraging, she said, to see girls and young women have so many opportunities that were hard-fought by the generation ahead of them – a generation such as the women athletes like Rollins who used the legal system to challenge decision makers.

“It’s really exciting to see young women are getting the same opportunities men have had a long time,” she said. “Being excited for my young girls playing sports doesn’t take away from my excitement for young men playing sports. We want everyone to have the opportunity for success, on and off the field.”

DA Rollins indicates her office will be more present at crime scenes

Suffolk County District Attorney Rachael Rollins said one change she has made immediately to the office is making sure at major crime scenes, she and members of her office are on scene.

That includes homicides and other such crimes.

Whether in Boston, Chelsea, Revere or Winthrop, she said it is important to be present at the scene, even if it’s the middle of the night.

She said she has instructed everyone to call her no matter what time, and not to wait for the morning to brief her on major crimes.

“For me, it’s important to kind of be proximate and present when things happen so people know we not only handle the case, but also we had boots on the ground from the beginning. A lot of the work we do is behind the scenes and people don’t see it...So, it’s important they see us and we experience what they are dealing with because it really makes us have insight into the work we do every single day.”

She said that, particularly at homicides, she and her office would make every effort to be on scene throughout the county.

Getting Out Caroline, or Change

By Sheila Barth

Thirteen years ago, in early May, SpeakEasy Stage Company, helmed by incomparable Artistic Director-Director Paul Daigneault, presented the New England premiere of Tony Kushner's hit musical, "Caroline, or Change," in association with North Shore Music Theatre,

At the time, I heralded Kushner's two-act, 2-1/2 hour musical as "a bag full of great things. It's rife with symbolism, play on words, personification, Tony Kushner's clever lyrics, Jeanine Tesori's memorable music ... a clever, four-level set design, and talented cast."

Fast forward to now, at the same location,Stanford Calderwood Pavilion at the Boston Center for the Arts, 527 Tremont St., Boston. This time, Kushner's loosely autobiographical play is presented by Moonbox Productions, boasting an ardent, talented cast of Boston headliners, performing on Janie E. Howland's striking, layered set.

Moonbox Director Allison Olivia Choat and Company provide their own uplifting, liltng nuances, punctuating and separating people embracing modernity vs. those resistant to broadening new horizons. Set in 1963, Kushner's tale highlights JFK's assassination, Martin Luther King's peace marches, civil rights changes, and bylaws that segregated white and black bus riders.

Seated on an upper left-hand level, hidden from theatergoers, pianist conductor Dan Rodriguez and his eight musicians provide fine accompaniment to Tesori's lexicon of rhythm and blues, gospel, Judaic traditional, Motown, Zydeco, and more.

Portraying lead character Caroline Thibodeaux, Yewande Odetoyinbo is dramatically dynamic as conflicted 39-year-old housemaid-divorced, formerly abused mother of four, who does laundry in the basement o the Gellman family, while listening to the radio. At times, the washing machine personifies into a bubbles-bedecked and/or lunar, glittery figure (Pier Lamia Porter), whose operatic voice soars in her personified portrayals of the washing machine and the moon.

The dryer, personified by versatile star Davron S. Monroe, unleashes his voice too, resembling religious chanting at times. He's a hovering, "smooth-singing devil " in disguise, garbed in pure white garb. Early in Act I, Monroe, encased in a metal frame with bright headlights, doubles as a public bus.

Enlivening the 1960s, harmonic trio Maria Hendricks, Aliyah Harris and Lovely Hoffman portray Radio Voices 1,2,and 3.

Odetoyinbo dramatically and musically captures Caroline's weariness, discontent and bitterness in her hometown of Lake Charles, La., where she feels stuck. "Nothing ever happens [here]," she intones.

But she's wrong. Change pervades the country - the world-even Lake Charles in 1963, as black power gains clout, with promises of a better future. However, America's idyllic Camelot is shattered when President John F. Kennedy is assassinated.

For 21 years, Caroline, who's uneducated, worked as a housemaid. She's employed by the Gellmans, a Jewish family, composed of 8-year-old Noah, his clarinetist father, and his well-meaning, New York-raised stepmother, Rose Stopnick Gellman (Sarah Kornfeld), whose acts of kindness Noah (amazing Ben Choi-Harris) rebuffs. Noah grieves for his mother, a heavy smoker who succumbed to lung cancer.Noah longs to be part of Caroline's family, despite their poverty.They're happy, he sings.

Surprisingly, Caroline sneaks cigarettes in the basement and allows Noah to light them -but not inhale.

BOX OFFICE

Moonbox Productions presents Tony and Olivier award-winning Musical, through May 11, Boston Center for the Arts Wimberly Theater, Calderwood Pavilion, 527 Tremont St., South End, Boston: Thursday, 7:30 p.m.; Friday,Saturday, 8 p.m.; Saturday, Sunday matinees, 3 p.m.; $60; seniors, $50; students, $30. boston-theatrescene.com, 617-933-8600.

Ben Choi-Harris appears delicate, but his professionalism, especially interacting with this phenomenal cast, and ability to blend in tri-part harmony, belies his youth.

Embittered Caroline, a devout churchgoer, resents Noah's dad, who doesn't believe in God, claiming he scientific. She resents her best friend, Dotty Mof-fett (Lyndsey Allyn Cox), too, who avoids attending church,but eagerly embraces new trends Caroline's eldest child, Emmie, does, too, frequently clashing with Caroline. Kira Troiio delights theatergoers with her youthful demeanor, playing with her two adorable younger siblings, Jackie (Mark Johnson) and Jo (Razan Mohamed). She's also a banner-waver for change.

Troilo's lovely voice and dramatic fervor beautifully outline Emmie's dreams of someday owning her own home, car, and elevating her lifestyle.

In an uplifting second act scene, the Gellmans- Noah, Rose, Noah's clarinetist dad Stuart (Robert Orzalli), Stuart's parents (Ellen Peterson and Kevin C. Groppe)and Rose's dad, Mr. Stopnick (Phil Thompson) joyously celebrate Chanukah, while, on a split stage, Caroline and family's kitchen and serving chores draw a sharp contrast.

An incident between Noah and Caroline drives her to her breaking point.She storms out of the house, refusing to return.

As their door closes, another opens for Rose and Noah- and us appreciative theatergoers.

'Million Dollar Quartet' Rocks Greater Boston Stage Company

By Sheila Barth

They came by busloads, walking cautiously, touting canes, pushing walkers, chatting excitedly. Others, raring to go, pushing their way through Greater Boston Stage Company's crowded lobby at last Wednesday's senior matinee.

They were all eager for the show, Tony Award-winning musical,"Million Dollar Quartet," to start.

The lively musical features the true story of a Dec. 4, 1956 impromptu jam during a recording session at Sun Records in Memphis, Tenn. - the birthplace of rock 'n' roll - when Elvis Presley, Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash and Jerry Lee Lewis rocked together for one night, now etched in rock 'n' roll history. Colin Escott and Floyd Mutrux' take poetic license but recapture that magical, musical night in that postage-stamp size studio.

The upbeat, two-act, rhythm-laden musical evokes high-spirited memories of days of "real" music - when lyrics made sense - okay, not all of it, like Little Richard's "Tutti Frutti," etc. But there was harmony, pulsating rhythm, performed by extraordinary singers-musicians, such as Johnny Cash, the deep-throated man in black; Elvis "The King" Presley, whose sexy, hip-gyrations made teenage girls swoon, while parents, church groups, and a conservative adult population decried his "Negro, sinful music".

At least, Carl Perkins was everybody's favorite He was more morally acceptable, with his country-rock tunes, including his single biggest hit, "Blue Suede Shoes". Joining the unprecedented, impromptu, historic music event, newcomer Jerry Lee Lewis offended everybody with his unconventional piano-plinking, wacko, unbridled, swaggering, blustery, egotistical demeanor, and scandalous romances.

However, millions of fans overlooked the "morally bankrupt," iconoclastic Lewis, rising rock and roll firecracker, who shocked the world by marrying his young, teen-age cousin. Nevertheless, they reveled in his raw talent, endless energy, unconventional, movements and musicianship, which actor-music director James Scheider brilliantly recaptures in songs "Real Wild Child,"and signature, self-descriptive "Great Balls of Fire".

Portraying Johnny Cash, Austin Price's low-key persona and deep rich baritone resonates in songs, "I Walk the Line," "Folsom Prison Blues," and Tennessee Ernie Ford's hit, "Sixteen Tons".

Luke Linsteadt, doesn't resemble Elvis, but he captures the King's voice, gyrations, and gestures in "Hound Dog," "That's Alright Mama,"and "Long Tall Sally," while Nile Scott Hawver delivers a solid rendition of Perkins' "Blue Suede Shoes".

Imagine that December 1956 night at Sun Records, 70 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn., the small, corner, former auto parts store, where former WREC radio engineer/affable talent discoverer-founder Sam Phillips converted country and small-town performers into legendary superstars.

During Carl Perkins' recording session, the studio pulsates during an impromptu jam fest, as Perkins, Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley and his curvaceous, platinum blonde girlfriend Dyanne, (Melissa Geerlof), and rising wild star Jerry Lee Lewis let the music rip. Besides highlighting each star's hits, the four southern country boys musically returns to their modest roots, singing rock-ably, ballads, country-western, gospel, and more. Dyanne shares the spotlight, too, with her sizzling rendition of Peggy Lee's immortal song, "Fever".

Portraying Sam Phillips, Boston's versatile award-winning star Robert Saoud narrates and re-enacts the event.

Phillips says he had to sell Elvis' contract to raise money and keep his studio solvent. It enabled him to surprise Cash with a three-year contract and rebuild Perkins' career, but he didn't know the two had other ideas, especially Cash, who accepted a lucrative contract with RCA Records., After auditioning Lewis on the spot, Phillips comments, "In the next 10 seconds, I knew I had my next star."

Rounding out the cast are musicians Trey Lundquist and Matthew Pitts.

This wildly talented cast ignites sparks as they perform together, "Peace in the Valley,""Down by the Riverside," "Ghost Riders,"and rip-roaring "Whole Lotta Shakin' Going On," bringing the crowd to its feet, swaying and bopping.

Becoming Dr. Ruth

By Sheila Barth

At New Repertory Theater, Jeffrey Petersen's cluttered set of Dr. Ruth Westheimer's apartment has stacks of carton boxes she's filling, preparing to move elsewhere the following day. The indomitable nonagenarian is an adroit multi-tasker, too, answering one phone call after another, Born Karola Ruth Siegel of Frankfort, Germany, the renowned psychologist of human sexuality pioneer and globally-revered sex therapist busily wraps and stacks books and framed photos, while answering her frequently-ringing telephone. She suddenly becomes aware of her visiting guests - us.

Prolific award-winning writer St. Germain met Dr. Ruth in 2013 and convinced her to let him write this play. He said reliving her experience as an orphan of the Holocaust, having lost her family, "deals a blow to anyone who denies the Holocaust ever happened." Basing it partially on her 1988 autobiography, "All in a Lifetime," St. Germain adopted the contemporary, popular structure of the one-person, one-act play, in which the character welcomes us visitors while performing mundane tasks and taking phone calls. O' Sullivan occasionally makes direct eye-or conversational contact with individuals, too.

She switches back and forth through the years, her colorful biographical narrative enhanced by Jonathan Carr's enlarged images of historic, familial, and milestone color and black-and-white snapshots and videos as she encases picture frames in bubble wrap, then stacks them in cartons. Her liltng, sometimes raspy, voice elevates with excitement, her joie de vivre is infectious.

Besides acknowledging us, she directly addresses individual theatergoers.

"All of my life, I've gone to the theater; now the theater has come to me," she jokes.

Directed by award-winning, New York-based Stephen Nachamie, Anne O'Sullivan portrays the four-foot-seven inch, effervescent, energetic, and spritely 90-year-old, brilliantly, capturing Dr. Ruth Westheimer's spontaneity, rapier wit, and abundant love of life. Despite O'Sullivan's dynamic portrayal, the play drags at times.

Her boundless energy and running narrative astounds us as she traces her life - how she escaped the Holocaust when her parents moved her to a Swiss school, but her entire family perished. She immigrated to Israel, joined the underground Haganah, and trained as a sniper. She was married a few times, lived in France, rejoiced in the birth of her son and daughter, came here and earned advance degrees and recognition in America.

Regardless of her circumstances, Dr. Ruth tackled controversy, broke barriers, faced life-threatening danger, trained as a sniper in Israel, and faced other head-on obstacles.

She became a call-in radio host, TV personality, writer, and expert, handling deeply personal, intimate questions about sexuality, that was formerly taboo, and more.

4 SEASONS BOBA TEA OPENS IN REVERE

This past weekend, Mayor Brian M. Arrigo and City officials welcomed Revere's newest small business to the community, 4 Seasons Boba Tea.

"This is an important step in what we envision as a new and dynamic Shirley Ave. district" said Mayor Arrigo. "This area has great history as a gathering place and commercial destination for residents and businesses alike. We welcome 4 Seasons Boba Tea to the forefront of the Shirley Ave. revitalization."

Located at 196 Shirley Ave. near the Revere Beach MBTA station, the tea shop brings a welcoming new flavor to the community.

Officials and business owners and employees are pictured cutting the ceremonial ribbon at the new Shirley Avenue storefront.

Vincent is also hoping that benches can be installed in the area overlooking the park.

"This field is a place where we can do something really nice and impactful for seniors," said Vincent. "I know in the North End they have a nice waterfront park with bocce courts. I just envision something nice for our seniors. A lot of our seniors play bocce. This park has been underutilized."

Vincent said with the increased developments in the beach area, "my biggest concern is that Sullivan Field remains a green space and we not have another building here."

Sullivan Field was used by Little League teams in the past for practices and games. But there has been little or no baseball activity on the field in the past several years.

Vincent said while the park's activities will be geared toward seniors, people of all ages would be more than welcome to use the facility. She expects that the park would be used more often in the warmer weather, and that it would close each day at sundown.

She said in order to give Revere residents preference for use of the bocce courts at the park, a permit process could be implemented.

Vincent said she is grateful to DeLeo for his support of the project. She has also discussed the project with Mayor Brian Arrigo and Sen. Joseph Boncore.

"My hope is that we can create a partnership between the city, state, and the DCR (Department of Conservation and Recreation) to move this project forward," said Vincent.

DeLeo, who played a key role in advancing the plan, expressed his support of a new park at Sullivan Field.

"Making investments in our public spaces like this one will improve the quality of life in Revere for individuals and families for years to come," said DeLeo, who was a guest on Channel Five's "On The Record" show Sunday morning. "I'm proud to support funding for improvements to this special community gathering place."

Eric Lampedecchio, who attended the meeting at the Satter House, expressed his support for Vincent's plans for the field.

"I think it would be a fantastic addition to the beach," said Lampedecchio. "I think some activities for our seniors on the beach is long overdue. I know they do a bocce tournament once a year, but I think getting them more active and more engaged in the community is the way to go."

The state budget now proceeds to the Senate for its approval.

RHS BOYS TRACK WINS NEC FROSH/SOPH MEET

The freshmen and sophomores of the Revere High boys outdoor track and field team accomplished a first in the program's history by winning the Northeastern Conference Freshman/Sophomore Meet that was held this past Saturday in Danvers.

Coach Sam Ros's Patriots tallied 123 points, outpacing runner-up Peabody's total of 110. Swampscott was the third-place team with 75 points.

The Revere contingent turned in a dominating performance, scoring points (by placing among the top eight finishers) in 11 of the 14 individual events and winning both the 4 x 100 and 4 x 400 relays. The Patriots also garnered third place in the other Four Patriots were crowned champions. Camron Ventura took first place in the 200 dash in a time of 24.3 seconds.

Revere soccer standout De Los Santos picks Regis College

By Cary Shuman

Allen De Los Santos certainly has the right outlook as he enters the next phase of his educational experience.

While the Revere High soccer star will be continuing his career in that sport at Regis College in Weston, De Los Santos noted the importance of academics in making that decision.

"Regis has the field I want to study, which is exercise science because I'm more interested in working with the physical body itself," De Los Santos said about picking Regis over other colleges. "I plan to minor in Business and get my master's as well."

De Los Santos, 18, announced his decision at the Roland Merullo Fieldhouse during an impressive letter-of-intent signing ceremony organized by RHS Director of Athletics Frank Shea.

Among those attending the ceremony were Allen's parents, Miguel and Rosa, who are originally from Peru, and his brother, Miguel, a 22-year-old junior at Suffolk University.

Regis, a leading, Catholic coed university whose sports team are known as the Pride, is a Division 3 program that competes in the New England Collegiate Conference (NECC).

Three varsity seasons at RHS

De Los Santos played three seasons of varsity soccer at Revere High, dividing his talents between the fullback and midfielder positions.

He said beyond the actual games against other schools, he enjoyed the camaraderie of being in Coach Manny Lopes' boys soccer program.

"I feel my biggest accomplishment was just having fun with my teammates and being one of their teammates in what I call a big, happy family," said De Los Santos. "I gained all their trust and they gained all my trust."

He lauded Lopes for developing him in to a college soccer prospect.

"Mr. Lopes was very sup-Fraynel Del Rosario was another triple-scorer for Revere. Fraynel won the 110 high hurdles convincingly in a clocking of 17.0, grabbed third in the high jump with a leap of 5'-4", and ran a leg of the 4 x 100 team. Fraynel totaled 18.5 points for the Revere cause.

Augusto Goncalves also scored points in three events, winning the 400 dash in 53.7, taking fourth in the triple jump (38'-7.75"), and running a leg of the 4 x 400. Augusto netted 17.5 points for the Revere column on the scoresheet.

The fourth Patriot champion was Victor Pelatere in the 800, who outran the field with his time of 2:11.3 Victor also ran a leg of 4 x 400 to tally

12.5 points for the meet

Rayan Riazzi took home ribbons in three events with a second in the 110 hurdles (18.0), a third in the discus with a toss of 104'-2", and running a leg of the 4 x 100. Rayan contributed 16.5 points for the Patriots.

Ryan Doucette finished second in his specialty, the javelin, with a toss of 126'-2", to score eight points.

Ricardo Goncalves added 7.5 points to the Revere winning effort with a fourth place in the 400 hurdles in a clocking of 64.3 and running a leg with the 4 x 400 relay quartet, which won their race by seven seconds in a time of 3:45.3.

William Ginepra earned two ribbons, taking fifth place in the 100 dash in 12.2 and running with the winning 4 x 100 relay. The fourth member of that relay, which won its race in 47.9, was Gabe Hyse-naj.

Other point-scorers for Revere were Yohec Ek with a fifth place finish in the shot put with his throw of 34'-1.5" and Elijah Nater in the discus with a toss of 91'-11."

The 4 x 800 relay quartet who earned third-place ribbons consisted of Brian Perez, Lucas Hurtado, Carlos Quintanilla, and Eiad Karageh.

"Usually this meet is a fun meet for our young kids to only compete against their peers and I take a relaxed approach to it," said Ros. "This year, I knew going into the meet that our chances of finishing in the top three as a team was a real possibility and that Peabody would be the biggest threat to how well we might do.

"We started the meet well with a second-place finish in the javelin with Ryan Doucette," Ros said. "Based on season PRs, Ryan was the top seed in that event. Finishing second isn't a disappointment at all. If anything by his performance, it showed that he is getting more consistent. As the meet progressed, the boys were doing well. We didn't think winning was possible until we had a stretch of six events in which we won every single one. It started with the 4x100 relay, then the 100mh, 400m, 800m, 200m, and 4x400 relay.

"They made an announcement for the scoring update right before the 4x800 started that didn't factor the 4x400 relay," Ros said. "At that point we were up by eight points which put us in the driver's seat for the win. We knew that Peabody needed to win the 4x800 to give them a shot to beat us. With that knowledge, we let our 4x800 team know that we didn't need anything special out of them. All they had to do was finish close to Peabody. They did even better. For 65 percent of the race, it was back and forth with us and Peabody in the second/third place behind the eventual winner, Gloucester.

"Danvers passed us at one point, but we were concentrating on Peabody," Ros continued. "Our third leg, Carlos Quintanilla, fell behind Peabody by about 20 yards on his first lap, but Carlos regained control in the second lap. From then on, we never looked back. Eiad Karageh took the baton with us ahead of Peabody and we eventually beat them by almost 30 seconds to secure the win.

"This is very exciting for us and the conference," Ros added. "Peabody has had a stranglehold on this meet ever since they've come into the NEC over 10 years ago. For us or any other team to beat them is an achievement. I have tremendous respect for the Peabody coaching staff and their team, but getting the win meant a lot. This is the first big championship win by any Revere track team in too long to remember. As long as I have been a member of our coaching staff, I don't remember us winning this big at all. We have hard-working boys and coaches on this team and this result is a testament to that work."

RHS GIRLS TENNIS TOPS MEDFORD, ENGLISH

The Revere High girls tennis team earned a pair of the victories this past week, defeating Northeastern Conference rivals Medford and Lynn English.

In a 4-1 triumph over Medford, Trang Nguyen won her match at second singles, 6-0, 6-4, and teammate senior Luisa Gil likewise dispatched her Lady Mustang counterpart in straight sets at third singles, 6-0, 6-0.

Both of the Lady Patriot doubles tandems also were victorious. The first doubles duo of junior Ayat Zakaria & sophomore Lina Nguyen defeated their Medford counterparts 6-1, 6-4, while the second doubles team of sophomore Nada Abou Hadiba & sophomore Malak Oufessa prevailed in three sets, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Revere's top player, senior Farah Selman, dropped her match at first singles, 6-1, 6-4.

Three days later the Lady Patriots defeated English by a score of 3-2.

Selman (6-3, 6-4), Nguyen (6-1, 6-2), and Gil (6-0, 6-3) all won their singles matches in straight sets. In the doubles contests, Nguyen & Zakaria came up on the short end of a 6-2, 7-5 decision and Hadiba and Oufessa fell short in a three-set match that went to a tiebreaker, 5-7, 6-3, 7-6 (7-3).

In a previous match with Lynn Classical, coach Carla Maniscalco's squad dropped a 3-2 decision. Gil, playing at second singles, defeated her Lady Ram counterpart in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4. Lina Nguyen moving up to a singles slot, defeated her Classical rival at third singles, 6-3, 6-0.

Selman (6-2, 6-2) came up short at first singles. In the doubles matches, Zakaria and Hadiba fell at first doubles, 6-0, 6-1, and at second doubles, Oufessa and sophomore Xiomara Romani Rojas dropped their match, 6-1, 6-0.

Maniscalco and her crew have a busy week ahead with six matches in 10 days. They were set to meet Marblehead this past Monday and Everett yesterday (Tuesday). They will host Everett again tomorrow (Thursday), Salem on Friday, Classical next Monday, and Medford next Wednesday.

MAHONEY IS CHAMP AT FR-SOPH MEET; GIRLS PLACE 4TH IN NEC

The Lady Patriots put together an impressive performance to finish in fourth place among the 16 NEC schools, scoring a total of 58 points and just missing out on third place by 1.5 points to Marblehead.

Revere crowned one league champion, Gianna Mahoney, who placed first in the javelin with a throw of 89'-6".

"Gianna had to rush over to the javelin event after running the 100 dash and didn't get a chance to warm up," said RHS head coach Antonio LaBruna. "She also had to deal with some muddy conditions that affected her run up, but she managed to adjust on the fly and win the event by a few feet."

In addition to Mahoney, seven other Lady Patriots earned ribbons, which are awarded to the top eight finishers in each event, to tally points for the Revere side of the scoresheet.

Carolina Bettero won two ribbons thanks to a third-place

RHS PATRIOTS BOYS LACROSSE TEAM HOLDS CAR WASH

For that past few weeks the RHS Patriots have been engaging in their Spring Sports activities, one of them Lacrosse. This fast-growing sport requires specialized equipment and numerous other incidentals. The boys despite an overcast day gathered at the rear of city hall with buckets and lots of soap and held a car wash to help raise funds for their program. The sun was popping in and out throughout the day, bringing many cars along the Broadway area to stop by and support the program. Thanks to the generosity of the many patrons that stopped the car wash was a success and the funds will be used throughout this season's program. finish in the 110 high hurdles in a time of 17.3 seconds and a fifth-place effort in the triple jump with a landing of 31'-0". Carolina's combined performances scored 10 points for the Lady Patriots.

Soleil Young scored eight points with her second-place finish in the discus with a throw of 80'-1" and then ran a leg of the Revere 4 x 800 relay quartet. The 4 x 800 foursome finished in third place to add six points to the RHS cause. Soleil earned 1.5 points as her share of the relay for a final tally of 9.5 points for the day.

Caroline Stasio took home three ribbons with a fifth-place effort in the high jump with her leap of 4'-6", a seventh place in the 400 hurdles in a clocking of 78.1, and by running a leg of the 4 x 800 relay. Caroline tallied 7.5 points for the Revere cause.

Skyla DeSimone took third spot in the shot-put with a toss of 26'-6½".

Jerelys Canales earned a pair of ribbons thanks to her fourth place leap in the high jump (14'-8") and her eighth place dash in the 100M (14.3).

Israelly Menezes grabbed a ribbon for her sixth place finish in the discus (62'-0") and Fatima Hartout earned a sixth-place ribbon in the two-mile run (13:42). Fatima also ran a leg of the 4 x 800 relay.

The fourth member of 4 x 800 quartet was Yulissa Santana.

"It was a great day," noted LaBruna. "Almost every girl achieved a personal record (PR) in their event. This is one of my favorite meets of the year. It gives us a little sneak peek into the future of our team and we are certainly set for success."

RHS SOFTBALL WINS TWO OF THREE

The Revere High softball team improved to 5-3 on the season with a pair of victories this past week.

The Lady Patriots defeated Northeastern Conference rivals, Lynn English and Malden, in convincing fashion.

In the English contest last Monday, Adriana Fusco tossed a no-hitter, striking out nine Lady Ram opponents, in a 15-0 Revere triumph that was halted after five innings because of the mercy rule.

Two days later, senior captain Olivia McManus spun a two-hit shutout in an 11-0 win over Malden that went all seven frames. Olivia fanned nine Lady Golden Tornadoes.

Danielle Dion, Alexis Iacoviello, and Fusco provided most of the offensive punch for Revere in the victories.

The lone setback for coach Joe Ciccarello's crew came in a 1-0 loss at Beverly on Friday. The host Lady Panthers scored the only run of the contest in the bottom of the first, a margin that held up the rest of the way.

McManus and Beverly hurler Rona Scott tangled in an old-fashioned pitcher's duel that was supported by stellar defense by both teams. Olivia allowed only three hits and fanned only one Lady Panther, while Scott yielded four hits and struck out three Lady Patriots.

Revere had numerous chances to get on the board, but stranded runners, most notably Dion after she had doubled. Revere hit the ball hard, but their efforts were thwarted by the Beverly defense.

"This was a great game to watch," said Ciccarello. "There was a minimum number of strikeouts which forced both teams to play error-free in the field. Obviously we would have liked to have won, but our defensive performance was a huge positive that we can carry forward as the season progresses."

Ciccarello and his squad have a busy week on tap. They were scheduled to travel to Marblehead this past Monday and will make the short trek to Everett today (Wednesday) for a rematch with the Lady Crimson Tide in which the Lady Patriots will be seeking to avenge an early-season loss.

The Revere girls then will host their next three encounters: Salem on Friday, Lynn Classical on Monday, and Medford next Wednesday.

The Salem game this Friday will be highlighted by the dedication of the field at Griswold Park to Vanessa and Tony Ardagna to recognize them for their many years of dedicated service to Revere youth softball. The dedication ceremony was postponed from its original date of April 26 when bad weather forced the cancellation of the softball game that evening.

GIRLS TRACK TEAM DEFEATS ENGLISH

The Revere High girls outdoor track & field team handily ran past Lynn English, 94-37, last Thursday in a meet held at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

"It was cold and rainy so the times weren't particularly fast, but it was nice to get back in the win column, said RHS head coach Antio LaBrua, whose squad rebounded from their first loss of the season the previous week.

The Lady Patriots garnered first-place in 11 of the 14 individual events, led by Claritza Vazquez, who took top spot in three events and a second in a fourth to tally a total of 18 points on the day.

The first-place winners for Revere were:

Claritza Vazquez (Long Jump) – 15'2"; (Triple Jump) – 29'10 ½", and (200M) – 28.8; Carolina Bettero (High Hurdles) – 17.9; Lorina Tran (High Jump) – 4'4"; Olivia Novoselsky (800M) – 2:57.5; Kathy Umanzor (400) – 72.7; Valerie Moy (Discus) – 71'0"; Gianna Mahoney (Javelin) – 94'9"; Caroline Stasio (Mile) – 6:29.2; and Erika Cheever

(2 Mile) – 13:21

Second-place finishers for Revere were:

Olivia Novoselsky (2 Mile) – 14:39; Fatima Hartout (Mile) – 6:35.9; Soleil Yuong – (800M) – 3:01.7; Nubya Filho (400M) – 73.1; Claritza Vazquez (100M) – 13.8; Caroline Stasio (400M Hurdles) – 81.8; Chloe Giordano (High Hurdles) – 18.2; Skyla DeSimone (Discus) – 70 ½"; Lorina Tran (Triple Jump) – 29'6"; and Caroline Stasio (High Jump) – 4'2".

Third-place scorers for the Lady Patriots were:

Luana Barbosa (High Jump) – 4'0", (High Hurdles) -- 18.5; and (200M) -- 29.6; Chloe Giordano (Triple Jump) – 29'4 ¼"; Skyla DeSimone (Shot-Put) – 25'3"; Maria Torres (Javelin) – 70'8"; Astrid Umanzor (400M) – 73.5; Carly Bennett (800M) – 3:04.8 and Leila Cescic (Mile) – 6:40.1.

"Claritza Vazquez had a great day," said RHS head coach Antonio LaBruna. "She won three events and picked up a second in another. It was her fastest 200M time of the season and she made her season debut in triple jump and won the event by a few inches. "Erika Cheever ran a PR in the two mile despite the conditions," LaBruna added. "She injured her knee a few days earlier, but was still able to go out and not only win the race, but also run a PR. She's as tough as they come."

LaBruna and his squad were set to take on Somerville yesterday (Tuesday) and will host Malden next Monday.

BOYS TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS ENGLISH, 5-0

The Revere High boys tennis team recorded its third victory of the season with a 5-0 shutout of Lynn English last Monday.

Freshman Ashton Hoang easily handled his English counterpart at first singles with a 6-0, 6-0 shutout. David Phan won his match at second singles in nearly-total shutout fashion with a 6-1, 6-0 win. Wellan Sok captured his match at third singles by a score of 6-0, 6-2.

The Patriot doubles tandems also won their matches handily. The first doubles duo of Michael Marchese and Ergi Ismahili triumphed 6-0, 6-2. The second doubles pairing of Vincent Nguyen and Hussain Alharbi won a pro set match, 10-1, that was limited because of approaching darkness.

The Patriots did not fare as well in their two subsequent matches with Lynn Classical and Malden, dropping both contests by scores of 3-2. Hoang and Phan at first and second singles defeated their counterparts in the Classical match, while Phan at second singles (5-7, 6-4, 6-2) and Sok at third singles (6-2, 6-2) won their contests vs. Malden.

"The team is competing very well and working hard," said RHS head coach Mike Flynn. "Our best match of the year may have come against Malden, even though we lost. David gritted out a tough victory in three sets after dropping the first set and Wellan turned in his best performance of the season, coming off a disappointing loss for him in the previous match with Classical. Ashton also played well in his match (4-6, 2-6) against the Malden boy, who is one of the top players in the league."

Flynn and his crew were set to host Marblehead this past Monday and meet Beverly yesterday (Tuesday). They will entertain Everett today (Wednesday) on the courts at Gibson Park. They will trek to Salem on Friday, to Classical on Monday, and to Medford next Wednesday.

BOYS TRACK EASILY HANDLES ENGLISH

The Revere High boys outdoor track and field team maintained its unbeaten record with a 108-24 triumph over Lynn English last Thursday.

The Patriots dominated every event, save for the 100 dash.

The scoring went as follows:

Fraynel del Rosario and Antony Arias finished 1-2 in the high jump; Matthew DeRocha finished second in the long jump; the trio of Camron Ventura, Augusto Goncalves, and DeRocha swept the triple jump; Jaryd Benson and Rayan Riazzi went 1-2 in the shot put and then reversed those positions in the discus, with Elijah Nater completing the sweep; Ryan Doucette, Cristian Acuna, and Lucas Barbosa swept the javelin; Riazzi, Michael Adolphus, and Camron Ventura swept the 110 high hurdles and Adolphus, Idriss Taoujni, and Ricardo Goncalves did likewise in the 400 intermediate hurdles; Ventura, Sebastian Bolivar, and Taoujni swept the 200 dash; Augusto and Ricardo Goncalves placed 1-3 in the 400 dash; Jonathan Nushi, Fabio Tran, and Will Martinez swept the 800; Christian Madrid, James Carpinelli, and Arias went 1-2-3 in the mile; and the trio of Tran, Lucas Hurtado, and Brian Perez finished similarly in the two mile run.

"We had a couple of highlights in this meet," said RHS head coach Sam Ros. "Jaryd Benson broke 40 feet for the first time ever in the shot put. He's been our top performer in that event all season and the 40 foot barrier is something I know he has wanted for a long time. Sophomore sensation in the javelin, Ryan Doucette, notched up another PR performance by a few inches with his throw of 142'-6"."

Ros and his crew were set to travel to Somerville yesterday (Tuesday) and will meet Malden this coming Monday.

portive and very direct – he will push you in to your hearts to do your best, and that’s something I really looked forward to from a coach,” said De Los Santos. “I needed his encouragement and support. He inspired me. He wouldn’t let you play unless you had good grades.”

A passion for soccer

At the age of 8, he began playing soccer in Chelsea for Coach John Matias, devoting many days to elevating his skills. He currently trains with the Hammer Club of West Roxbury.

“Since the beginning, soccer was more like a passion for me, not a sport to me,” said De Los Santos. “It was something I wanted to do. I know after my college career and well past my 30s, I’m going to still want to play soccer. It’s something I live for. The thing I like most about soccer is that it’s a team effort, not individual. You have to make bonds and have discipline.”

Expressing gratitude to his parents

De Los Santos said his parents provided the right combination of academics and athletics.

“My mother pushes me academically and my father pushes me in athletics,” said De Los Santos. “My parents helped me grow as a person with their two ideas combined in one. They were strict about my grades. I value all I learned from mother in finance and [my father] helping me pursue my passion in soccer.”

An older brother is ‘really proud’

Allen credited his older brother, Miguel, an Accounting major at Suffolk, for being a great role model for him.

Miguel said he was “really proud” of his younger brother. “He’s the second in this generation to go college. He worked really hard for this. It’s been a long time coming. As an older brother, you try to protect him, and now he’s going away to Regis to live on campus. We’re not used to being far part, but to make his dream come true, that’s something we have to sacrifice.”

Miguel, too, said it was their parents who made their dreams attainable.

“Academics was a big part of us growing up,” said Miguel. “It was always, ‘do your homework on time and never miss a class, and it will benefit you in the long run.’

“Our parents sacrificed so much for us so we could have what we have today. They did everything they could so we could get an education here.”

Elena Nguyen, daughter of Trang and Hiep Nguyen, is a senior at Revere High School who is being recognized as the Elk's Student of the month by the faculty at RHS. Elena has been an active leader in the school's Junior ROTC program for the past four years, in which she earned the position of Battalion Commander, the highest ranking cadet in the program. She supervises, provides guidance and direction for the Battalion Staff Officers, Company Commanders, and Battalion Command Sergeant Major in ensuring that all activities and training are planned, coordinated, and executed efficiently. Within the JROTC program, she has also held various other leadership positions in the past, including being a Precinct Team Leader for the program's service learning project, Company Academic Mentor, JROTC Leadership and Academic Bowl (JLAB) Captain, and Chief Academic Officer. As Chief Academic Officer, her job was to employ strategies to provide resources and techniques for all cadets to improve themselves academically. This past March, Elena got the opportunity to compete at the Regional Drill Competition with the RHS JROTC Drill Team in New York for her fourth year in a row. She also competed at Nationals in Virginia for the first time. Along with the Drill Team, Elena has also participated on the Varsity Academic Team, Color Guard Team, and JLAB Team. Within Revere High School, Elena was also Vice President of Student council for the school year 2015-2016, a Freshman Mentor, Writing Coach, and played on the Field Hockey team and Indoor Track and Field Team. As a Freshman Mentor, Elena took her time to get to know her select group of freshman students to help aid them into a smooth transition into high school. As a Writing Coach, she guided students individually, leading them to a greater understanding of their writing, and empowered them to begin revising on their own for success in future writing projects. Not only has she been a leader in the school, but in the community as well. Through the JROTC program, Elena has conducted over 180 community service hours, in which most of her hours were earned through participation in the service learning project, Operation Snow Angel. In this project, she planned, prepared, and executed the mission to shovel snow for 60 Revere residents who met the specified eligibility requirement established by the city. Her community work earned her both the Bronze and Silver Presidential Volunteer Service Medal. Her leadership skills have also earned her the Superior Cadet Award, during school year 2015-2016, an award given to a cadet per LET level (Leadership, Education, and Training) who demonstrates good attributes of a leader and officer. She was also awarded the Daedalio Achievement Award which recognizes outstanding performance as a cadet in the JROTC program during school year 2017-2018. This year, she was awarded the Jewish War Veterans of the United States Award. Elena also got the opportunity to work in the City Hall of Revere for the past two summers, working in the City Hall's Clerk Office as well as the Health Department. When she is not helping her peers or giving back to the community, she is performing in the classroom. Elena will graduate this June with four AP courses in addition to numerous Pre-AP and Honors courses. She has also taken summer classes at North Shore Community College. Besides her courses, Elena has had the opportunity to be inducted into the National Honor Society, and the National Spanish Honor Society. She has maintained a 4.2

cumulative GPA, making herself a four-time Academic Varsity student. Elena has received awards for Excellence in English Language Arts, Excellence in Science, Achievement in Foreign Language, and Perfect Attendance. Elena Nguyen has taken advantage of all that RHS has to offer. Her maturity and leadership goes above and beyond her personal achievement and expands to a greater whole. She plans to attend UMass Lowell majoring in Clinical Laboratory Sciences and Pre-Med, with the hopes of attending medical school to become a Pediatric Anesthesiologist.

Raymond Ou, son of Ron Ou and Nann Hou, both graduates from Revere High in 1998 and 1999. Currently, their son is a senior, who is being recognized as the Elk's teenager of the month. Raymond not only contributed his efforts through his academics but also the town he grew up in, Revere. He was always a social butterfly and loved meeting people so he took that part of him as in advantage to spread himself in the JROTC program in his sophomore year. Not only that, he managed to join the track and field team and stayed consistently for three years. Participating in the 50-100 meter dashes, the 400-meter relay races and even went to support his peers at the NEC's competition. After three years of being in Revere High, he was appointed a mentor in his junior year to support and guide the incoming freshman class. He took his time out of his day and meets up with some of the freshmen and help boost up their confidence to make their high school experience better. Raymond did that for his entire year and now his senior year, he has other priorities to do but manages to come to the meetings and catches up with the new freshmen. Throughout his four years of high school, Raymond really wanted to make an impact on the school and the community. Therefore he joined the JROTC program because he heard that they have this service learning project where they shovel homes for the elderly. That right there, motivated Raymond to be apart of that service learning project and also learn skills he can use after high school. The JROTC program also provides teams throughout the seasons, such as the Drill and MAP season. Raymond competed Drill in 2017 and that year, the Patriot Battalion was able to compete further into the competition by going to New York. After Drill season was over, he wanted to do more things in the program to stay around. He joined the Academic Team to be apart of the MAP season and again competed with other schools. Raymond is willing to do anything and doesn't take no for answer. For the language course, he decided to take Mandarin as his language choice. Raymond knew that it'll be difficult because mandarin was considered a hard language to learn. However, within his three years of taking it, he managed to pass the class with a (B) and higher. He was always an honor student, maintaining an accumulative GPA of 3.67. He reached and passed the requirement of community service hours. Instead of him getting 72 hours, he managed to receive 72 hours by tutoring, activities in the JROTC and of course supporting the track team. Raymond's dedication also leads him not only being a mentor but also a member of the National Honor Society. Raymond took the opportunities that Revere High has to offer and always appreciated the moment and will take it with him into the future. He'll continue that and hopes for the best when he attends Emmanuel College to study Business and Administration.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

SUPERINTENDENT FINALISTS AT COMMUNITY FORUMS

CHELSEA - The three finalists for the position of superintendent of schools have been on whirlwind tours of the district last week, concluding the day with a community forum at the Williams School. On Monday, Weston High Principal Anthony Parker visited Chelsea and spoke with teachers/staff, business leaders and at a community forum in the evening. On Tuesday, Ligia Noriega-Murphy, currently the assistant superintendent of secondary schools in Boston Public Schools, went through the same agenda. Finally, today (May 2), Almudena Abeyta, currently the assistant superintendent of Curriculum, Instruction and Assessment for the Somerville Public Schools, will visit the city and have a forum at 4:30 p.m.

School Committeewoman Jeannette Velez said the School Committee would start with separate rounds of public interviews with the candidates. They would follow the same order as this week. All interviews are open to the public. Interviews will be held at City Hall Council Chambers in the evening. The goal of the Committee is to have a vote on May 9 – after the final interview – to decide who to pick and negotiate a contract with. If all goes well, that person would likely begin on July 1. At Monday’s community forum, Parker said he was very interested in Chelsea because it was a challenge and a place to learn. Though he has spent most of his career in suburban schools like Newton and Weston, he said he feels like he could be very successful in Chelsea. “I like what I read about Chelsea and I like the emphasis on building bridges and the pathways,” he said. “I like the diversity of it...It was different enough for me to be interesting. I think any district is a challenge. It’s the opportunity to build on what is here. What you have is Chelsea is you have a great district that wants to be excellent in many ways. I believe I can help you do that.” He also said he hasn’t applied to any other districts, only Chelsea. “This is where I want to be,” he said. The forum was sparsely attended, and likely because it wasn’t well publicized ahead of the beginning of the forums by the Collins Center – which is running the superintendent search process. However, numerous students from the Chelsea Collaborative and organizers from the Collaborative did show up with many questions. The conversation went from opinions on expulsion to outside opportunities to gun violence. At that, Parker said his students – like Chelsea last year – organized a walkout for school safety. He said he believes in supporting student voices – something that has grown to be very important to students at the high school over the last year. Students at Chelsea High have successfully organized the walk-out, and also successfully advocated to move graduation back outside on the new turf field. “I walked out with them,” he said. “We knew it was happening and supported it. It was a genuinely student-led effort. We need to support that even if we disagree with that they want to do. I think if a district didn’t support students on that particular situation, I think they missed out.” When it came to challenges between suburban Weston and urban Chelsea, Parker said he would likely have a learning period with getting community and parent participation – which often lacks in Chelsea but is strong in Weston. “If our parents cannot make meetings or conferences because they are working multiple jobs or are too busy, then we need to go to them,” he said. “I would spend time finding out where they are and where I need to go to engage them.” The process with the School Committee next week on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday is open to the public.

MBTA AWARDS CONTRACT FOR RAIL STATION

CHELSEA - The MBTA’s Fiscal and Management Control Board approved a $32.3 million contract that will result in the relocation and construction of a new, fully accessible Chelsea Commuter Rail Station. When complete, the new Chelsea Station will be an intermodal facility that connects the Newburyport/Rockport Commuter Rail Lines to the Silver Line 3-Chelsea service, which began operating in April 2018. “This is a key investment in our Commuter Rail infrastructure that will allow for faster boarding and improved accessibility for people of all abilities,” said MBTA General Manager Steve Pofnak. “Once complete, the new station will serve as a multimodal connection that will give our customers the choice of traveling to North Station on the Commuter Rail or South Station on SL3 from a single point.” Featuring high-level platforms, canopies, benches, and windscreens, the brand new station will also include new sidewalks, landscaping, stairways, lighting, communications systems, and structures for maintenance and bus operations personnel. The project also includes the demolition of the existing Chelsea Station, upgrades to railroad signal systems, and new traffic signal system installations at local intersections. The project to construct and relocate Chelsea Station aims to relieve traffic congestion and overcrowding on existing area bus routes in Chelsea while also providing better transit options to environmental justice populations through improved accessibility to employment opportunities in downtown Boston and the Seaport district. The project also includes the installation of transit signal priority improvements for the SL3-Chelsea along with improved operational efficiency and the incorporation of green operations elements at the new Chelsea Station. Greenhouse gas emissions will also be reduced by increasing the transit mode share and decreasing the idle time of commuter rail and BRT vehicles. The Chelsea Commuter Rail Station Project was advertised in February 2019 with bids open in April 2019. After six bids were received, the Chelsea Commuter Rail Station contract was awarded to A.A. Will Corporation for $32,367,200. Construction could start as early as this summer, with project completion estimated for late 2021.

The charges were brought earlier this year, and Forestiere was only just now arraigned on those charges – which followed a lengthy Everett Police investigation. Among the charges described at the arraignment were “mouth on breast,” “hand on buttocks,” and “pulling clothes down to expose the body.” There are three victims making the allegations. Judge Benjamin Barnes presided over the arraignment session and let Forestiere, 76, go on his own personal recognizance – meaning no bail was imposed. He was ordered not to have any contact with victims or witnesses, and not to go near school property or school events.

Attorney Malone told the Independent they had no additional comment for the moment on the charges, and Foresteire walked out of the courthouse silently while swarmed by television reporters from Boston.

He did not speak at the arraignment either.

Attorney Malone did ask for permission for himself, and his investigator, to get entry into the School Administration Building so that they could see where the allegations were made.

While the prosecution objected on principle, Judge Barnes allowed them access with 48-hours notice.

All of the information regarding the charges was impounded from the public by Judge Barnes, a move to protect the alleged victims from public disclosure.

A Pre-Trial hearing was established for Aug. 8, which would be Foresteire's next official court date.

Attorney Tara Swartz, who represents some of the victims, said she didn't have a comment after the arraignment.

Attorney Mark Rotondo, who also represents some of the victims, said he believed it was time for a complete overhaul of the Everett Public Schools' administration as a result of the charges brought against Foresteire. Rotondo is also an Everett native and a former School Committee-man.

"The allegations speak for themselves, and a jury will dictate Foresteire's guilt or innocence," he said. "What needs to be done is there needs to be a serious indictment of the Everett Public Schools including the current administration, which has perpetuated the code of silence for more than 30 years. The members of the School Committee should give serious consideration in determining whether or not current administrators should be placed on leave pending the conclusion of their investigation of the alleged wrongdoing of the administrative staff. As a former member of the Everett School Committee, the fiduciary duty is one of the duties held in highest regard. They owe it to the taxpayers, students, parents and teachers in the district."

SEVERAL GANG MEMBERS ARRESTED

EVERETT - Federal agents descended upon Everett, Malden and other locales April 25 to arrest 14 members of a violent Brazilian street gang - with one member being apprehended in the garage of Councilor Wayne Matewsky.

Members and associates of Primeiro Comando da Massachusettis (PCM) - most of whom were in the country illegally - were charged April 25 in federal court in Boston in connection with perpetrating violent crimes in Massachusetts, including drug and firearms trafficking, robberies and kidnappings.

Three members were apprehended in Everett, including one on Lewis Street, another on Vernal Street and a third on Hancock Street.

"Violent gangs that proliferate violence are a scourge on our communities," said United States Attorney Andrew E. Lelling. "Over recent months, members and associates of Primeiro Comando da Massachusettis have been committing serious, violent crimes: brazenly robbing community businesses, dealing drugs, trafficking illegal firearms, and even kidnapping a young woman. We will not standby and allow these criminals to disrupt the safety and peace of our communities. Let today's arrests and charges be a message to gang members and their associates: if you threaten the safety and well-being of Massachusetts residents, we will arrest and prosecute you using all of the federal resources at our disposal."

On Thursday morning, federal agents and State Police swarmed the City, particularly on Lewis Street at the home of Councilor Matewsky. Officers located Joao Pedro Marques Guimares Gama, a/k/a "Bahianinho," 21, in Matewsky's garage, and took him into custody.

Police said it appeared he had been living there for about a week.

Matewsky said he had no idea that the man was in his garage, and that he had hired him to do some work in the yard - as he is transforming his backyard from hardscape to grass.

"I had met him and he told me he was a landscaper and I was going to have him plant some grass in the backyard," he said. "I had no idea he was in there. I've installed a lock on my garage and better lighting in the backyard. I'd like to thank the police for getting rid of the guy from my garage."

Gama, who is in the country illegally, was charged with RICO conspiracy, conspiracy to commit robbery, engaging in the business of dealing in firearms without a license, and being an alien in possession of a firearm.

The following defendants, in addition to Gama, were charged.

•Alvaro Dos Santos Melo, 22, a Brazilian national illegally residing in Everett, was arrested and charged with RICO conspiracy, conspiracy to commit robbery, and conspiracy to distribute controlled substances. He was taken into custody on Vernal Street;

•Marcio Costa, a/k/a "Marcino" and "Marcinn," 28, of Malden, is the alleged leader of PCM and was arrested and charged with RICO conspiracy, conspiracy to commit robbery, conspiracy to distribute controlled substances, and engaging in the business of dealing in firearms without a license.
