Hundreds of thousands of people filled the Boulevard this past weekend to attend the Annual International Sand Sculpting Festival. This year's theme was Revere Beach itself with the sculptures taking us on a brief stroll through a timeline of Revere Beach. Large crowds enjoy Sand Sculpting Festival on Revere Beach

By Cary Shuman

The International Sand Sculpting Festival made a triumphant return over the weekend with a fun-filled event on Revere Beach.

Event Chair John Hamel was pleased with the large turnout at the Festival and the manner in which visitors followed social distancing guidelines. Hamel said the organizing committee intentionally spaced out the seven sand sculptures over a much wider exhibition area to lessen the concentration.

RPS updates COVID protocols for the remainder of summer school

By John Lynds

The Delta variant of the COVID 19 virus is causing breakthrough infections among vaccinated people at an alarming rate and ravaging the unvaccinated population with a vengeance.

With schools ready to start in the fall, Revere Public Schools (RPS) and the rest of the world are heading into uncharted territory with pediatric cases on the rise due to no vaccine being available for children under the age of 12.

According to a study released by The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) children now account for 15 percent of new COVID-19 cases in the U.S. but only 14.3 percent of children became infected with the virus when the pandemic first started in March 2020.

The study also found that there were 94,000 new infections among kids over the past week. Considering only 4.3 million have been infected with the virus since the start of the pandemic, the 94,000 cases in a week represents an alarming spread among children with a new school year on the horizon.

Last week RPS Superintendent Dr. Diane Kelly updated parents and staff on new COVID protocols for the remainder of summer school as the City of Revere posted its highest daily case count since mid-May less than two weeks ago.

"As you know, we have been working closely with the Revere Board of Health throughout the entire COVID pandemic,"

Revere's Kelley proves where there is a will, there is a way

By Cheyanne Fullen

In April of 2014, Lauren Kelley arrived at a turning point in her life.

"For many years, I was physically present for my family, but not mentally. I lived a self-centered lifestyle to maintain a vicious drug and alcohol habit," said Kelley. It wasn't until her daughter gave her an ultimatum: to choose her habit or her family, that she began her journey toward recovery – a journey that wouldn't have been possible without the support of her family and her passion for running.

"I knew I was going to take running to a whole other level when I grew a love for meditating. It was my way of releasing negative energy and getting the gratification I yearned for as a recovering alcoholic," said Kelley, a Revere native who ran her first Boston Marathon in 2019, and plans to run her second one in October.

RPD K9 visits Whelan summer school students

By Melissa Moore-Randall

Students at the A.C. Whelan Summer School Program were recently treated to a visit from the Revere Police Department's K9 Tek and his handler Sgt. Carey. Students learned how K9s are trained to work as police dogs and Tek's role within the Revere Police Department. Sgt. Carey did demonstrations on some of Tek's main roles as a K9. The students have been part of a Summer School Program that has run for the past 6 weeks focusing on academics and enrichment activities.

The role of Police K9s have been headlining the news recently. Legislation known as "Nero's Law," which would allow police dogs and other working animals to be treated or transported by emergency medical personnel, provided there is not a human in need they must attend to, is presently being debated at the Massachusetts State House.

"Nero's Law" was introduced after the death of Yarmouth Police Sgt. Sean Gannon in 2018. Gannon, 32, was killed when he, his canine partner Nero, and other officers from Barnstable and Yarmouth were serving a warrant. K9 Nero was also shot on the scene. Nero survived his injuries, but because of existing state laws emergency personnel were not able to provide care or transport the canine partner to an emergency veterinary clinic as they would for a human first responder.

The bill came to the forefront in the wake of the June death of Braintree Police K9 Kitt. Kitt was fatally shot while charging a suspect who had fired upon Braintree officers including his handler Officer Bill Cushing. Both Braintree officers survived.

Arrigo appoints Dr. Nathalee Kong as Chief of Public Health and Human Services

Staff report

Mayor Brian M. Arrigo today announced the appointment of Dr. Nathalee Kong as Chief of Public Health and Human Services for the City of Revere. Dr. Kong will assume her position on August 16, 2021, and will be the second to serve in this role created under the leadership of Mayor Brian M. Arrigo during his second term in office. Dr. Kong currently serves as the chairperson for the Revere Board of Health and is a primary care physician at the MGH Revere Health Center. Her leadership was instrumental in the City's response and ongoing recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic as part of the Mayor's Emergency Response Team.

"Dr. Kong worked diligently throughout the COVID-19 pandemic to guide Revere through one of its most challenging times," said Mayor Arrigo.

go. "Her commitment to the health of our community, both before and after the pandemic, highlights her support and understanding of the residents of Revere, making her the most ideal candidate for the Chief of Public Health and Human Services position."

Dr. Kong is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts Medical School and completed her internal medicine residency training at the Massachusetts General Hospital. She is also a graduate of the primary care residency program at MGH. While in residency at MGH she served on the Center for Diversity and Inclusion's Residency and Fellow Committee as the community outreach chair. As part of her duties as a primary care physician, Dr. Kong focuses on residency education and community health and is a member of the Department of Medicine's Community Health Council.

"I could not be more honored and excited to take on this role," said Dr. Nathalee Kong. "The pandemic showed us that health is no longer just defined by the absence of disease. Instead, it is influenced by so many factors in one's environment from housing stability to food insecurity. It's a tall order, but I can't wait to do my part to ensure the health and well-being of all residents in Revere."

As the Chief of Health and Human Services, Dr. Kong will be responsible for directly supporting 8 departments and commissions including Elderly Services, the Department of Public Health, Community Health and Engagement, SUDI/ Homelessness, Veterans Services Consumer Affairs, the Human Rights Commission and the North Suffolk Public Health Collaborative. The chief position is responsible for managing over 40 full time and part time employees and managing nearly $4 million dollars annually in revenues and expenses over all HHS departments.

Dr. Kong will be the second to serve as the Chief of Health and Human Services for the City of Revere, following Kim Hanton who now serves as Mayor Arrigo's Chief of Staff.

Pines home is named the latest RBC 'Beautiful Home'

Staff report

The elegant simplicity of this Harrington Avenue home located in the Point of Pines is the reason it was chosen to be the Revere Beautification Committee (RBC) Beautiful Home of the Month.

The brick and vinyl home has a double door entrance that one enters by going up the brick stairs. There is a floral wreath on each of the doors and the entry is flanked by hanging baskets. To add more interest, there is a tiny yellow bicycle placed on the top step and a large wreath at the top of the house. Various bushes are on both sides of the house such as Rose of Sharon and hydrangea.

To the right of the house, there is a large manicured lawn with a dogwood tree in the middle. At the back of the yard is a white vinyl fence that encloses a pool. This fence has several lavender plants along it. In addition, there is a newly paved driveway that leads to a two car garage. There are clusters of flowers and solar lights along the driveway.

The owners of the property are Annette DesRosiers and Frank Barker who have lived in their home for 5 years. The landscaping is done by Fernando's Landscaping. But the owners like "puttering around" the yard and "attack it every weekend". They feel that it is "satisfying to see the positive changes and to know that all their hard work has paid off." The RBC congratulates the DesRosiers/Barker family on their beautiful property and encourage all Revere residents to work to make theirs beautiful also.

RPD APPREHEND WANTED FUGITIVE

A joint operation by the Massachusetts State Police Violent Fugitive Apprehension Section, the Boston Police Fugitive Unit, the US Marshals Fugitive Task Force, Revere Police, and the Massachusetts Parole Board Warrant Unit last week captured a man wanted for the July 31 murder of a man doing volunteer work in Raleigh, North Carolina.

On the morning of Friday, Aug. 6, the investigative team developed intelligence that Marcus Walton, 29, was hiding out in a fifth floor apartment at 770 Washington Ave., Revere. Troopers, Officers, and Marshals converged on the apartment Friday morning, knocked on the door, and announced their presence. With police at the door, Walton tried to jump from the fifth-story window. Team members maintaining the perimeter on the ground outside the building talked WALTON -- who was outside the window, sitting on the sill and prepared to jump -- into remaining in the apartment and surrendering. Within moments other members of the warrant team were through the door and placed WALTON into custody from inside the apartment.

Walton was booked at the State Police-Revere Barracks as a fugitive from justice and then arraigned at Chelsea District Court. Authorities in North Carolina and Massachusetts will arrange his rendition to answer to the felony murder charge in Wake County, N.C.

Walton is charged in the Saturday, July 31 shooting death of 31-year-old Charlie Debnam, a drum major in a Raleigh band and beloved community member who was packing food donations at the Helping Hand Mission in that city when he was killed.

Within the last seven years, she has completely turned her life around. What started as way to combat her addiction has turned into a passion that deepens with each mile and each drop of sweat. While studying to earn her Master's degree, which she completed in 2018, Kelley realized that challenging her mind was a fulfilling way to receive the satisfaction that her addictive personality desired. "I understood that this method was going to help me in my recovery journey and I developed an urge to hit the pavement and run," said Kelley, "I began with three to five mile runs, but the addict in me craved more."

In 2017, she ran her first half marathon. Guided by music and deep meditation, Kelley uses running as a way to battle her inner demons. "Mile by mile, my mind takes me down memory lane," said Kelley. "Flashbacks from the wreckage of my past re-surface while I run off the pain, guilt, and shame until the present begins to feel close. When I arrive to where I am today in my thoughts, the negative feelings turn to feelings of relief, forgiveness, and pride," she said.

On April 15, 2019, on the five year anniversary of her sobriety, Kelley ran the Boston Marathon. As she crossed the finish line, her entire family was on hand cheering her on. She did it. All she had worked for came to culmination in that one moment. "It was a euphoric and exhilarating feeling," remembered Kelley.

Today, she continues to maintain her sobriety not only for herself but as a tribute to her loved ones, who stuck by her even in the darkest of times.

"Being a mother, running marathons, and getting sober have been some of the most pivotal experiences in my lifetime and have shaped me into the person that I am today. I can honestly say that getting sober has been the hardest of those three, but has also allowed me to experience my love for running and being a mother in the most loving and fulfilling way," said Kelley.

On August 14, 2021, she runs the Beaver Canyon Marathon in Southern Utah. She will run her second Boston Marathon on Oct. 5, 2021.

SPOTLIGHT

It was RevereTV's favorite summer weekend! The 2021 Revere Beach Sand Sculpting Festival was covered from start to finish by RTV. Many people don't realize that the artists start a week ahead of their big reveals. To catch a glimpse of what the true start of the sculptures look like, you can find it all on RevereTV's YouTube page or past posts on Facebook. There have also been short clips and special features playing in between programming on all channels.

This year's festival was a little different than years past in the sense that it was not the usual international competition. There were less sculptors and all of the sculptures revolved around one theme: The History of Revere Beach! This theme is special as it commemorates the 125th Anniversary of Revere Beach. The festival still took place all weekend, and RevereTV was there each day. This includes posts on the revamped RTV Instagram. If you followed over the past few weeks, you would have seen the account packed with daily photos, videos, and stories of all that was going on at the beach. Follow RevereTV on Instagram for quick and concise renditions of RevereTV productions.

RevereTV recorded a new episode of "Conversations with The Mayor." In the latest, Mayor Brian Arrigo is interviewed at Revere Beach by host, Ed Deveau. Many topics were discussed, including sand sculpting, a COVID-19 update from the city's standpoint, state recovery funds, jobs in Revere, affordable housing, the Suffolk Downs project, and Wonderland Station. This program is currently airing on RTV Gov which is channel 9 for Comcast subscribers and 13 or 613 on RCN. You can watch this interview on RevereTV's YouTube page at any time.

You will also find the latest local government meetings on RTV Gov. Through the summer, meetings tend to be more spread out. The most current include a Revere Board of Health Meeting and a Human Rights Commission Meeting. All meetings now take place in the City Hall Council Chambers and air live on all RevereTV outlets. The schedule for local government meetings that RevereTV follows is always posted to the City of Revere's calendar on the city's main website.

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Jacqueline Chavez announces bid for Revere School Committee

Special to the Journal

Jacqueline Chavez has announced for School Committee. The following is her statement:

Dear Neighbors, Steadfast Supporters, and Community Members,

My name is Jacqueline Chavez (she/ella); I'm a former public school teacher, current education policy specialist at the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, and the proud daughter of hardworking immigrants. I'm here to work to be your next school committeewoman.

As an educator, I understand how difficult this past school year was. March 13, 2020 was the last time I saw my kindergarten class in person. From that point on, I had just days to figure out how to teach 5-year-olds through a computer screen. Like many parents and educators, I too saw my students fall behind academically during the pandemic, and I couldn't provide them the mental health support they needed. I also understand the overwhelming responsibilities school leaders, teachers, and staff have, especially this past year. As educators, we wear many hats. Not only are we designing lesson plans and learning systems, but we're also working to develop Revere's future leaders and without the right tools and resources this task can feel impossible.

As an education policy specialist, with a Master's in Education Policy, I will bring to Revere the necessary skills and knowledge needed to create sustainable policies to enrich our students. I will also work to bring a crucial network of community partners and statewide resources to further empower families and support educators.

As the daughter of hardworking immigrants, I know my family's struggles are not unique. My parents did not have the privilege to attend school beyond 6th grade. Between 80-hour work weeks and language barriers, they felt powerless when it came to my education. Families, I vow to be a committeewoman that empowers your voices and equips you with the necessary tools and knowledge you need to support your students.

Our students deserve equitable, high-quality education. In order to provide such education, Revere needs empowered families and supported educators.

As your next school committeewoman, I promise to:

- Prioritize equity and fair allocation of resources to support our students' learning and mental health
- Increase postsecondary opportunities by creating district partnerships

Jacqueline Chavez.

with scholarship organizations, college-and-career-support nonprofits, and by creating systems to ensure all students apply to FAFSA and have the college and career support they need

- Ensure accessibility to the School Committee by hosting weekly office hours, pushing for Facebook live streaming of meetings, and providing translation services
- Create leadership pipelines for educators including paid opportunities to lead professional development trainings, tuition reimbursements, and referral bonuses

As a public school teacher and education policy specialist at the MA Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, I've dedicated my career to ensuring all students, families, and educators have access to high-quality support and opportunities. To the students, families, and educators of Revere, put me to work.

Aisha Milbury-Ellis announces election bid for Revere School Committee

Special to the Journal

Aisha Milbury-Ellis has announced for School Committee. The following is her statement:

Why me? Vested interest, with two school-aged children and nephews within the Revere School System, I, like many parents, experience first-hand how decisions that are made impact our children and the quality of education they are receiving.

I grew up in this city. I was a part of the first class to walk through the doors of the new Garfield Magnet School. It was a wonderful experience for me. I played on the Garfield Gators basketball team, mentored second-graders and made lasting friendships. As a kid, school work was school work, you did what you had to do to get it done – looking forward to those subjects that caught your interest and getting through the classes that you weren't too keen on, but also, and arguably more important, it was a time filled with smiles and laughter. In retrospect, school was a happy time in my life and it is this experience and more that I want for my children, and for all children.

I am a 1996 graduate of Revere High School and former Patriot, having played basketball, field hockey, powderpuff and track and field. My involvement in extra-curricular activities ran the gamut from year-book committee to the Revere Interact Club, a junior rotary club under the Kiwanis. Like many of my former classmates, also now parents, there were countless formative experiences packed into those four years. I went on to study criminal justice at Northeastern until confronted with a reality check, I couldn't afford Northeastern, not even with having worked three jobs. I was fortunate enough that my experience at Northeastern had opened the door for me to land a job with the Board of Bar Overseers and later as an investigator with the Office of Bar Counsel, the state's licensing, ethics and disciplinary board for attorneys. I worked during the day as I pursued an education. I took classes at Bunker Hill Community College and ultimately earned a bachelor's degree from UMASS Boston, graduating summa cum laude and was a recipient of the Distinction in Criminal Justice Award. I continued to work full-time and enrolled in the evening program at New England School of Law, where I earned the Black Judges Conference Award, a distinction in academic achievement. I passed the bar in 2008. Today, I am a practicing civil litigation attorney. I have effectively represented clients before the Massachusetts Superior, Appellate and Federal courts, including Higher Education Law, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1964, Negligence, Premises Liability, Personal Injury and Wrongful Death. I also conduct independent workplace investigations.

It is based on my personal experience and with my children in mind, that I wish to serve on the school committee. We should be doing more for our children by way of providing a variety of pathways and opportunities for success, and that is not going to look the same for each child. Not every child is going to gravitate towards academics. Some students will, however, prove talented in a skilled trade, technical or in the vocational arena, all of which are areas that children should be exposed to and experience at some level early on in their educational career. This is an area for which I hold the utmost of importance and will strongly advocate, as a member of the school committee.

I am not a politician. I did not set out to become one. I am a parent and I see an area where I believe I can be effective in the positive shaping of our educational district. The Revere educational system provides me with a solid educational framework, combined with core values of respect, responsibility, kindness, and empathy that were instilled not only at home, but also by dedicated teachers with whom my path crossed. My experience is a testament to what our educational district is capable of. We have somehow veered from the days when families were establishing themselves in our city solely because their children would receive a supreme quality education, now with more parents opting to send their children to private schools. Our children are growing up in a world much more advanced, with resources literally at their finger-tips and information being thrown at them hard and fast. It can be overwhelming for any one of us, but every decision that is made should be a decision that is reflective of that which is best for all of our children and that notion, that alone is my agenda.

I am a lifelong learner and truth seeker. I will listen. I will thoroughly educate myself on the topics at hand. I will review issues with a critical, open mind, one that is impervious to outside influences. I will do my job. My decisions will only be made after I have done all of the above and have determined in good conscience, that the decision is right and in the best interest of all of our children. This is my promise.

It is my to reach as many of you as I can. I look forward to listening to educational issues that are important to you. I can also be reached at aishaforRPS@gmail.com or 781-629-4509.

Roncevich begins his campaign for Ward 3 seat on City Council

By Cary Shuman

Michael Roncevich, a 2020 graduate of Revere High School, has launched his campaign for the Ward 3 seat on the Revere City Council.

At 19, Roncevich is the youngest candidate in this fall's municipal election. He is the son of Steve and Esma Roncevich of Pitcairn Street.

The Ronceviches are rightfully proud and excited about their son's entry into electoral politics.

"For a young person, he's very ambitious and the people that are his age relate to him and he's going to get things done because since he was a little kid, he always pushed and pushed, and we tried to mold him in a way that he always wanted to help somebody," said Mr. Roncevich, the former president of the Revere Little League who coached his two sons, Michael and Matthew, in the league. "He loves this community and this ward, and I think he'll do a lot for this city. For a 19-year-old person, it's unbelievable."

A local product

Michael Roncevich attended Lincoln Elementary, Rumney Marsh Academy, and Revere High School. He played Little League Baseball, Pop Warner football, and high school football.

He was the vice president of the RHS Class of 2020 and ran his own sneaker business (Drip Inc.) while in high school. He also operates an exterior painting business.

Michael is entering his sophomore year at UMass/Amherst where he has a double major in Computer Science and Operations Information Management. He will be living on campus this fall after spending a year in remote learning due to the pandemic.

Roncevich has worked on local campaigns and is aware that Councillor-at-Large Jessica Giannino first won the election to the City Council while she was a student at Salem State University.

"That was awesome to see Jessica running for office as a college student and winning an election as well," said Michael

His older brother, Matthew, 25, is a graduate of Syracuse University and has a position in marketing at a Boston law firm.

"My brother has been a big, positive influence on me," said Michael. "When Barack Obama was running for President, he and I would watch the debates together and that's when I really first found a passion and interest for politics."

The campaign in high gear

Roncevich has been knocking on doors in his neighborhood and is meeting voters throughout the ward.

He is respectful to the other candidates in the race, Albert Terminiello Jr., Anthony Cogliandro, and Wayne Rose.

"I give a lot of respect to anyone who has a similar mindset to me," said Michael. "Running for office isn't easy. You put a lot of extra time into your campaign. Whoever has that mindset to try to make change in the city, I give them full respect.

Roncevich said he wants to bring a younger perspective to the City Council.

"I respect the experience and knowledge of the members of the City Council, but I think there is a huge generational gap in our city's politics," said Roncevich. "And at the end of the day, Revere is a changing city. People like me, who are growing up in this new generation in the city, understand a lot of these new cultures and new changes that are happening. I want to ensure that younger people have a voice as well. I offer a brand-new perspective to the Council and that motivates me to want to serve in city government. I do want to change the world, that's my goal. And before you change the world, you have to change your community. And I want to start as soon as possible.

"I want to make lives easier for our citizens and provide a voice for people who don't have a voice. I have a passion for public service, and I really love our city," he concluded.

A BLEAK FUTURE FOR THE EARTH

The report released this week by the United Nations detailing the impending effects of climate change in the near future because of our rapidly-warming atmosphere paints the starkest picture yet of what awaits life on Earth as we know it if we do not change our ways. Our planet has warmed by an average of 1.1 degrees Celsius since mankind started belching carbon gases into the atmosphere from the burning of fossil fuels in the late 19th century. Scientists have long told us that an increase of 1.5 degrees in global temperature represents the tipping point at which life as we know it becomes all but impossible. Almost all of today's living creatures, both in the oceans and on the land, will not survive if the Earth becomes that hot.

We already are seeing the dramatic and dire consequences of what happens at our present 1.1 C level: The polar ice sheets are melting, the permafrost areas in the Arctic Circle in Siberia are catching fire, epic floods are striking everywhere, massive superstorms threaten coastlines, out-of-control wildfires scorch vast swaths of forest acreage and pollute the air across hundreds of miles, coral reef bleaching is turning our oceans floors into dead zones, and heat waves are killing humans and animal life in every corner of the globe.

The U.N. report basically states that an increase to 1.3 Celsius already is baked (no pun intended) into the next 20 years or less, with every .10 increase adding exponentially to the damage. In other words, no matter what we do, things are going to get worse.

On the other hand, perhaps the only good news in the report is that the increase to 1.5 is not inevitable -- but that is ONLY if we adopt policies now and we put them into place starting today. The global economy cannot turn on the proverbial dime, but we can move incrementally over the next 20 years to eliminate the carbon footprint of each and every human being so that the 1.5 threshold is not breached.

The bottom line is that we are running out of time to save the planet and preserve civilization as we know it. Some might point to the high economic cost of changing our consumption of energy from fossil fuels to clean alternatives. And to be sure, that conversion will cost trillions of dollars over the next two decades.

But the costs of climate-related catastrophes -- in both economic and human terms -- soon will far outweigh whatever the price may be to convert to clean energy.

Unless we change our ways, there literally will be no place on Earth that will be safe to live. To paraphrase the great heavyweight boxing champ Joe Louis, we can try to run from climate change, but there will be nowhere on our planet to hide.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING TRUST IS A STEP IN RIGHT DIRECTION

Dear Editor,
As the Revere Journal reported, to our great delight, the City Council recently took a critical first step towards addressing the housing crisis in Revere by unanimously approving the establishment of an Affordable Housing Trust Fund (AHTF) and the Mayor's request to add $100,000 in seed money to the new fund. Many members of the Revere

Housing Coalition (RHC), a Revere resident-led voluntary group of housing advocates, testified in person or submitted written comments in support of these measures. As residents of Revere, we see our working class city facing rising rents and property values that are unaffordable, which force valued neighbors to move out of our community. We fear that more of our neighbors will be displaced in the near future, since more than half of our city's households are low-income, but only 15%

LETTER to the Editor of them currently have access to affordable housing. We supported the AHTF, because it can provide a flexible source of funding that can be used to support a variety of affordable housing activities. Because it was created and will be administered at the city level, the fund is not subject to the restrictions of state and federal subsidy programs and therefore can be designed specifically to address local priorities and needs. However, this is just the beginning. In the weeks and months, the RHC will be working with the City Council to find ways to raise funding for the AHTF, since without such funds it will not be able to address the housing crisis. To this end, we will support policies such as inclusionary zoning, linkage fees, and affordable housing overlay district as recently considered by the City Council. Please join us in these efforts. The future of our City depends on it.

Housing stability resources available for Revere residents

Staff report

Mayor Brian Arrigo and the Revere Office of Housing Stability remind residents of several eviction prevention resources and housing stability programs to help Revere residents who are in need of stable housing opportunities. Last week, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) extended the federal moratorium on evictions, targeting protection in areas at higher risk for COVID-19 transmission. All Revere residents who qualify have the right to stay in their homes under the CDC extension on the eviction moratorium until October 3, 2021. Resources are also consistently updated on www.revere.org/housing.

idents have the right to stay in their home under the CDC extension on the eviction moratorium until October 3, 2021. If you believe you are at risk of eviction, you must fill out a CDC Eviction Protection Declaration form, available on the CDC website, and give it to your landlord. If you have already done so, you do not need to fill out another form. The Declaration Form is also available in a number of languages.

• Emergency Rental Assistance Program (ERAP): Money from federal rental assistance can cover up to 18 months of rent, including unpaid rent incurred during the pandemic and, in some cases, future rent. Arrears payments to tenants are limited to a maximum of $15,000. In most cases, ERAP payments are delivered straight to the housing provider. Rental assistance is unique in that it helps both the tenant and the landlord secure payment for rental properties. If landlords are interested in learning more about rental assistance for their tenants, please check out the Commonwealth's FAQ. Household eligibility for ERAP assistance is evaluated through the same process as the Rental Assistance for Families in Transition (RAFT) program. Additional details on income eligibility and guidelines are available at www.revere.org/housing.

• Emergency Rental and Mortgage Assistance Program (ERMA): ERMA can provide rental and mortgage assistance to low-income households who have been impacted by the crisis and may not be eligible for RAFT. RAFT, ERMA may provide up to $10,000 for eligible households to assist with rent or mortgage arrears accrued after April 1, 2020 and/or with upcoming rent or mortgage payments. Learn more about ERMA Area Median Income Information here.

• Rent and Utilities Assistance: The Revere Housing Stability Office is currently assisting Revere residents with the federal Emergency Rental Assistance Program (ERAP) application. Program funds can be used only for housing-related expenses such as rental or mortgage arrearages, rental or mortgage stipends, security deposits, first and last month's rent, utility arrearages, and up to $1,000 in furniture. The utilities limit for the ERAP Program is now $2,500 per household, which is an increase from the prior limit of $1,500 per household. Learn more about eligibility and what the money covers here.

• Access to Legal Services: The City of Revere has partnered with Chelsea Legal Services to create and manage the Revere Legal Clinic to assist those in the community facing evictions and housing issues resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. The Revere Legal Clinic will provide holistic legal services to the disenfranchised, economically disadvantaged, disabled, and elderly Revere residents regardless of income level or immigration status. If you face conflict with your landlord or are in danger of losing your housing, please call the number below to review your options. Tenants can find information on what to do if they are facing eviction on the Chelsea Legal Services website or call the office directly at 617-466-3037 to schedule an appointment.

These resources are also available on www.revere.org/housing and will be updated if any information changes. If you have any questions, please reach out to Revere 311 (781-286-8311).

said Kelly. "Our summer school policies and practices were based on guidance from The Revere Board of Health that considered transmission rates in Revere at the beginning of summer. In conjunction with the Revere Board of Health, we decided to follow Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) guidance at that time and only strongly encouraged mask wearing for those that are unvaccinated in our school community."

However, now that COVID positivity rates are increasing throughout the country with Revere being no exception RPS has decided to take action and update COVID protocols.

"The average daily positivity rates have trended upwards over the course of the last two weeks," said Kelly. "Given this change, we reassessed our current policies to protect our students and staff. The Revere Board of Health is now advising that we adopt current Centers for Disease Control guidance regarding mask-wearing indoors."

As of last week all students and staff must wear masks indoors regardless of vaccination status. Kelly also encouraged families, students and staff to take the necessary safety protocols for the remainder of the summer.

"Stay home if you are not feeling well and students and staff who develop any COVID-symptoms should stay home and get tested immediately," said Kelly. "Wash hands thoroughly throughout the day and use hand sanitizer that is readily available in the school buildings."

Kelly added that anyone who is not vaccinated should call the Revere Department of Public Health at 781-485-8486 or visit <https://www.revere.org/departments/public-health-division/vaccine>.

"If you are interested in receiving a vaccine, please call," she said. "All members of our community are encouraged to talk to a trusted medical professional--primary care provider or trusted nurse--when making a decision about receiving the vaccinated."

The CDC is still studying the effects of the Delta variant on the vaccinated and the unvaccinated, especially children.

Dr. Mark Kline, the physician in chief of Children's Hospital in New Orleans, which has some of the highest COVID infections among children, told ABC's Good Morning America, "We are hospitalizing record numbers of children. Half of the children in our hospital today are under two years of age. Most of the others are between five and ten years of age--too young to be vaccinated just yet."

Dr. John Brownstein, an epidemiologist at Boston Children's Hospital, has warned that children will soon become the "main vectors of virus spread" because they are the "remaining population ineligible for the vaccine."

This, many health experts warn, could cause the Delta variant to smolder among children populations across the country and lead to new mutations of the virus as it jumps from children to unvaccinated adults. This may set the stage for yet another mutation of COVID 19 that can ultimately become vaccine resistant.

tration of visitors in front of each sculpture.

"It was a well-attended event, but there wasn't crowding," said Hamel. "We had designed the event so there wouldn't be any crowding around any stage because we didn't have any live music, and there wouldn't be any crowding around any major sculptures, because we didn't have a centerpiece sculpture and we spread the sculptures further apart."

Saturday night's fireworks was spectacular and remains a crowd favorite, especially with Hamel himself.

"People that know me know that the fireworks show is the highlight of the event for me," said Hamel. "Every year I get a little nervous as Saturday night approaches, and I keep an eye on the weather. This year, the clouds remained high, and the wind was blowing out to sea, and it was a beautiful night for fireworks. I think everyone enjoyed it."

Mayor Brian Arrigo and his wife, Daveen Arrigo, joined a large contingent of state and city officials at the Festival. The Mayor was interviewed by Boston television stations, who did remote broadcasts during the international event. Hamel thanked Revere Beach Partnership President Rosette Cataldo for her leadership of the organization that brought the internationally acclaimed event to the City.

"We love Rosette--she's our president and she did a great job," lauded Hamel. "Our plan is to be back in full force and we're going to start soon on planning another tremendous event for next year."

Moroccan Festival set for this Saturday at Whelan School

By Cary Shuman

When the City of Revere needed local organizations to step up and assist the community during the COVID-19 pandemic, the Moroccan American Connections in Revere (MACIR) was front and center with a big, helping hand.

The group, which was founded by Rachid Moukhabir in 2016, made 25,000 masks for residents of Revere during the pandemic. More recently, MACIR trained more than 100 residents in a workforce development program.

On Saturday, Aug. 14, from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., MACIR will hold its Fifth Annual Moroccan Festival – “Your Gateway to the Kingdom of Morocco” – at the Whelan Elementary School. In the event of rain, the Festival will be moved indoors to the school.

Moukhabir invites all residents to attend the music, arts, and food event that will feature a fashion show by Salwa Gardaf, live music by the band Five Star Boston, and Moroccan dance by Soumaya Marose. There will be raffles with a grand prize of free roundtrips to Morocco. Visitors can also win free laptops, tablets, and smartphones.

“We invite all families and friends to learn about our culture, to share love – it’s not just about the Moroccan community, it’s about inclusion and diversity in the City of Revere. We have been promoting other countries through our platform. We acknowledged the country of Algeria in 2018. We honored the country of Colombia in 2019, and this year we’ll be honoring all the other countries through the Center of Arabic Culture operating out of Somerville. We call it the Moroccan Festival, but it’s about inclusion, diversity, respecting each other, and acknowledging each other, and that’s the goal of this Festival.”

More about MACIR and its founder

Rachid Moukhabir, 45, came from Morocco to live in Revere in 2003. He is a highly respected leader in the large community of Moroccan Americans who now live in the city.

“We can easily say that 10 to 15 percent of the Revere population are Moroccan Americans,” said Moukhabir, who is fluent in Arabic, the main language of Morocco. “The biggest concentration of the Moroccan community throughout the United States is in the City of Revere.”

MACIR has approximately 1,000 members, according to Moukhabir. MACIR is based in Revere and operates a training center in East Boston.

Moukhabir has been the volunteer director of MACIR since 2016. MACIR is credited with establishing strong and productive working relationships with the Revere Police Department and the Revere public schools.

Moukhabir holds a Bachelor’s degree in Electronics and an MBA in Technology Management. He works as the global technical service manager for a medical device company.

Moukhabir thanked the Revere Cultural Council for providing $11,000 in funding to help defray expenses for the Festival. He also thanked the Festival’s Diamond Sponsor, the East Boston Neighborhood Health Center. The Moroccan national airlines, Royal Air Maroc, and Tijani Travel and Safari provided the round-trip tickets for the raffle.

Moukhabir said Mayor Brian Arrigo has been “an outstanding supporter of the Moroccan community and all other communities in the City of Revere.”

“The Mayor has done a great job making sure that everyone, regardless of their culture, ethnicity, and origin, are treated fairly in the City of Revere,” said Moukhabir, who is a member of the Revere Human Rights Commission. “We are very proud of the partnerships we have forged between the city, non-profit organizations, and everyone in the community and we take pride in that.”

few days after the Revere High softball banquet. The timing of the announcement was sheer Ciccarello class as the popular, long-time coach let the spotlight shine entirely on the team’s 10 seniors and their championship season at the banquet.

Ciccarello was an integral part of the resurgence of the Revere High School athletic program under the leadership of Revere Director of Athletics Frank Shea. Revere is enjoying record enrollment in its programs, teams are contending for league championships, and many athletes are receiving scholarships and continuing their careers in college.

Shea thanked Ciccarello for his outstanding leadership of the softball and ice hockey programs. “Joe was a tremendous asset to our athletic community,” said Shea. “His ability to work with both male and female athletes and achieve the level of success will be hard to replace. We wish him the best in the next chapter and we’re going to be actively looking for his replacements.”

Speaking about his decision

Joe Ciccarello, 52, said he had no intention of leaving Revere High until a teaching position opened in Peabody and he decided to pursue the job. He said he will not be coaching in Peabody but intends to be a head coach in the future.

“I just think that everybody, at some point in their life, needs a little change and kind of shake things up a little bit – nobody wants to get complacent,” said Ciccarello, who taught economics, business, and math at Revere High School. “I just think the time was right that I get a change of scenery.”

Many wins and postseason berths

Ciccarello was the head ice hockey coach for 10 seasons and the head softball coach for 12 seasons.

As the leader of the RHS hockey program, Ciccarello’s teams qualified for four MIAA Tournaments. In softball, Revere has qualified for postseason play 11 consecutive years. The Patriots won two GBL titles and a North Sectional championship in 2014. In the Division 1 state semifinal at Martin Field in Lowell that was almost assuredly going to produce the state champion, Revere led, 1-0, before Bridgewater-Raynham rallied to win by a 3-1 score. As observers had predicted, B-R went on to claim the state title.

“That was a heartbreaker,” said Ciccarello. “We had a great team that year.”

Ciccarello said what he took the most pride in as the Revere softball coach was the continuing presence of alumni at Revere games. “There were always tons of alumni that came back to watch us play and support us,” said Ciccarello. “That, to me, means a great deal because that means they had a great time playing softball for us, and they had great memories and they wanted to keep supporting the program.”

Ciccarello said he will not only miss the student and athletes, but their families as well.

“I was at Revere High 25 years, so I met a lot of families, who became my friends,” said Ciccarello, who was previously a teacher and coach at Savio Prep. He served as a vice principal at RHS for two years before returning to the classroom as a teacher.

Ciccarello hopes that his softball assistant coaches Megan O’Donnell and Kristina Stella and hockey assistant coaches Jim Mosca, Brandon Pezzuto, and John Papisodora consider applying for the head coaching positions.

Expresses gratitude to Revere

Ciccarello remembered the outpouring of support that he received following a major fire at his home in February, 2019.

“I was so thankful to how Revere supported me through that situation,” said Ciccarello. “The community was unbelievable, my students, the faculty, and the staff.”

He said Revere administrators, including Supt. Dr. Dianne Kelly, RHS Principal Dr. John Perella, and AD Frank Shea, “were great to me” during his years in the school district.

Joe Ciccarello and his wife, Adeline, a schoolteacher in East Boston, have two daughters, Alli, 18, who will be attending UMass Amherst, and Jenna, 16, who is a junior in high school.

“I’m truly going to miss everybody in Revere,” said Ciccarello. “It was a very difficult decision, but ultimately it came down to as a professional you want to always maintain that you’re fresh and you’re energized in front of your students. I envy the people who can do it for 35 years and still have that energy and vigor every day. I think the time is right for me and my career to get a little energized and shake things up.”

Democracy's beach

It is said that baseball is the one truly American game because it is the game of democracy. One doesn't need to be tall to play baseball. One doesn't need to be exceptionally strong, or blazingly fast. One doesn't need great bulk to play baseball, or have been trained to skate since age three on a pond frozen eight months out of the year.

Revere Beach is like baseball. It is American; it is the beach of democracy. You don't need to be rich. You don't need to own oceanfront property. It is there, it is yours if you want it.

Interestingly, while its legacy is that of a blue collar playground, there must have been an elegance, a gentility, on Revere Beach in the first half of this century as well, especially in the ballrooms. It's not hard to imagine graceful couples moving over a shiny wooden floor under a trellised ceiling, as a band at one end of the room played a silky waltz. Or, at one of those sprawling hotels on the Pines, a huge outdoor festival of some sort, with a band playing music, fine food being prepared, the men, all, in derby hats and suits, the women in long dresses and hats of their own.

Later, perhaps, during the Depression and World War Two, Revere Beach was an escape for people, a place where all problems could be forgotten, all debts canceled, at least for a few hours.

But before that, in the Roaring '20s, the beach must have had a certain style, evoking, even, The Great Gatsby. There must have been that dashing, that spirit, in those early days. That is the special feature of the beach. There is no caste system; it is just as easy for the mind's eye to imagine Jay Gatsby dancing at the Nautical Garden as it is to see the immigrant laborer taking his three children to the amusements, a nickel in every young one's hand.

And that is where its true glory lies. You could have been poor, though you wouldn't be reminded of it on Revere Beach. There was no need to be. If you were poor, if you were in the middle class, Revere Beach belonged as much to you as it did to the gentrified crowds walking the promenade under the night air. Even if you just came off the boat, it was your right to be there. That's an amazing thing. It is an American beach.

The Derby Racer rollercoaster.

Whether you were an Italian laborer, an Irish street cleaner, a Jewish store clerk, it welcomed you, each end of its long crescent shoreline beckoning you like outstretched arms, bidding you come in.

It's a funny thing about Revere Beach. All the old pictures you look at showing people on the rides, on the sand, there is a common denominator. We don't see it much today, busy as we are with careers, money, worries of all types. Not that it's wrong to think of these things, because in today's world you have to think about them to a certain degree. But we're missing something all those beach-goers had in the those old sepia-toned photographs, that common denominator. They were all smiling or laughing. We are not so fortunate. We have more, but smile less.

There was more simplicity in the world then. That's probably why the memories are so strong, so thick that, as J.P. Kinsella wrote in Field of Dreams, you have to brush them away from your face.

People remember the beach so fondly for what it was, surely, but also for what their lives were when the beach was a part of those lives. And most probably long to return to that time in their lives, before there were bills to pay, disappointments to overcome, friends and loved ones to mourn.

But of course you can't go back. You can't go back to that time in your life any more than you can go back to that time in Revere Beach's life. They're both gone.

But we are taken care of. It is called memory, and sometimes it is bittersweet, but it brings joy as much as it brings pain and memories of Revere Beach bring more of the former. Yes, it took good care, giving us so much for so long before it, like us, had to change.

And the lessons the beach taught us? Seize the day, surely, because life is fleeting. Our lives and its. But we were better, somehow, for leaving our footprints in its sand when it was, in our minds, the most glorious beach in the world.

And we were lucky. It welcomed us, regardless of who we were or where we came from or what we had. It was, and remains, the beach of democracy.

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS TO REPLACE STREETCARS

REVERE BEACH, July 14, 1949 - Trackless trolleys will eventually replace the streetcars on Revere routes. The trackless trolleys are considered by MTA officials to be the most modern and efficient character of operation. The plans for the introduction of the trackless trolleys involve construction changes at Eagle Street car barn for maintenance. The change will supplant the present Revere car barns on Broadway.

Another hotel was constructed in 1881 called The Pines, which was 300 feet long and 100 feet wide. Standing five stories high, it was considered the largest hotel on the New England coast. However, the Pines did not prosper and eventually was torn down.

A grand illumination of the beach from Beachmont to the Point of Pines tion grew to be an attractive residential section. In 1949, Point of Pines beach opened for its first season under community ownership."

Revere Fire Lieut. James Caramello has retired after a career of almost 30 years with the Fire Dept. Caramello had been a teacher in the Revere schools for six years when he was laid off in 1982 because of the cuts required by Prop. 2 and 1/2. However, he soon took the firefighter's exam and topped the list, beginning his distinguished career with the RFD. Most recently, he was the president of the firefighters union for the last six years after serving 10 years as the secretary/treasurer.

AFT expresses 'deep disappointment' with school reopening guidance

Staff Report

The 23,000-member AFT Massachusetts sent a letter to Gov. Charlie Baker expressing 'deep disappointment' with the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education's new guidance for school reopening, especially the failure to follow CDC guidelines and mandate masks for students under the age of 12, who are not currently eligible for COVID-19 vaccines.

"The release of this guidance was an opportunity to lead on health and safety, but your Administration missed the mark by issuing weak and ineffective guidance on masking," reads the letter from AFT Massachusetts President Beth Kontos. "You still have time to change course before the school year begins, and we urge you to do so by immediately instituting a universal masking mandate for all pre-K-12 public schools."

"We find it bewildering that your Administration would essentially punt on a matter as pressing and consequential as masking for children under the age of 12. A mere recommendation to mask is weak and irresponsible, jeopardizing the health and safety of young children who cannot protect themselves with a vaccine," the letter continues. "Until the vaccine is available for children under 12, we have an ethical obligation to protect them by mandating the most effective measure at our disposal: universal masking in schools for Grades pre-K-6."

The letter acknowledges that "the discussion is arguably more nuanced for Grades 7 and up, due to the availability of the vaccine for those 12 and older, but the evidence suggests that a universal mask mandate is still the best policy for protecting students, families, and staff alike...Our goal is to keep schools open for in-person learning. Since masking is a proven mitigation measure, a universal masking mandate increases the likelihood of slowing virus spread and keeping schools open. For these reasons and others, we support a statewide universal mask mandate at all grades and consider it a "must" for pre-K-6 on ethical grounds."

New England Aquarium divers rescue ocean sunfish trapped in Eastie

By John Lynds

The New England Aquarium released dramatic footage of two of its divers rescuing a juvenile ocean sunfish last week that became trapped in a construction barrier that was placed in the waters off the shore of East Boston.

“Two of our Giant OceanTank divers made a quick trip to East Boston last week to rescue a Sunfish,” the Aquarium said in a statement. “This sunfish was stuck behind a construction barrier, and our friends at the New England Coastal Wildlife Alliance called us for help.”

The ocean sunfish, known as the Mola Mola, is one of the two heaviest known bony fishes in the world. Adults typically weigh between 545–2,205 lb. The species is native to tropical and temperate waters around the world. It resembles a fish head with a tail, and its main body is flattened laterally. Sunfish can be as tall as they are long when their dorsal and ventral fins are extended.

The video footage taken by the Aquarium shows the two divers entering the water just off a pier in Eastie. The divers help the sunfish untangle itself from the netting and maneuver it to the other side so it can swim away into the open harbor. After freeing the majestic fish the divers give the boat a thumbs up to signal a successful rescue.

The video can be found at <https://www.universallhub.com/2021/baby-wheel-rescued-east-boston-shore>.

As the harbor becomes cleaner and cleaner more and more species are migrating closer to the neighborhood. Just the other day residents posted pictures of harbor seals swimming near Lopresti Park.

The Harbor is home to a wide array of marine life but sometimes the sunfish is mistaken for a whale or even a shark.

Because ocean sunfish often swim near the surface their protruding dorsal fins and size resembles that of a shark. However, the two can be distinguished by the motion of the fin. Unlike most fish, the sunfish swings its dorsal fin in a characteristic sculling motion to help it swim.

Despite their size, ocean sunfish are docile and pose no threat to human swimmers or divers. However, collisions with sunfish are common in some parts of the world and can cause damage to the hull of a boat, or to the propellers.

Ten-year anniversary of U.S.’s most widely felt earthquake

Special to the Journal

Ten years ago, in the early afternoon of Aug. 23, 2011, millions of people throughout the eastern U.S. felt shaking from a magnitude 5.8 earthquake near Mineral, Va. No lives were lost, something experts called “lucky” given the extent of shaking, but property damage was estimated to be in the range of $200-300 million.

Although not the strongest earthquake to have occurred in the eastern U.S., let alone the western U.S., the Virginia earthquake was likely felt by more people than any earthquake in North America’s history. This is due to the large distances at which people felt ground shaking and because of the density of the population in the eastern U.S.

“The 2011 earthquake in Virginia was significant in raising awareness of east coast earthquake hazards and the importance of research to understand when and where earthquakes can occur,” said David Applegate, the U.S. Geological Survey’s associate director for natural hazards, currently exercising the delegated authority of the director. “Damaging earthquakes do not strike the eastern U.S. often, but the potential consequences of not understanding and planning for such events with their widely distributed shaking could be severe. The next significant earthquake on an eastern U.S. fault may not occur for hundreds of years, yet there is a small chance it could happen at any time.”

Scientific studies by the USGS and partners played a critical role in helping prepare for and respond to this earthquake. The USGS is the federal government’s lead agency for assessing seismic hazards before, during and after earthquakes, providing critical information used to reduce risks to lives and property nationwide. Over the past decade, scientists have continued building on their knowledge of eastern U.S. earthquakes, specifically focusing on what can be learned from this Virginia earthquake.

“One of the fascinating things we discovered was heightened ground shaking in Washington, D.C., resulting in damage to buildings in the city at distances that would not ordinarily be expected,” said Thomas Pratt, who is a USGS research geophysicist and expert in eastern earthquakes.

Heightened Shaking in Washington, D.C.

Amplified shaking was initially documented from the Mineral earthquake through detailed analyses of USGS “Did You Feel It?” reports. Each of those reports is from a member of the public describing their earthquake experience. Analyses showed that people in Washington noted stronger shaking than scientists would have expected.

“Subsequent research identified that the underlying sediment is what led to amplified shaking,” Pratt said. “We were familiar with that phenomena on the West Coast of the U.S. and internationally, but the Mineral earthquake showed the significance of this effect in the eastern U.S. The areas on sediment received significantly stronger shaking than nearby locations on firmer rock.”

The USGS and partners installed temporary seismometers in the city following the earthquake to better understand the variation in the strength of shaking and its relationship to sediments beneath the city. Sediments are weaker than the underlying bedrock and therefore move more, while also trapping more energy.

Amplification by sediments has been seen in earthquakes in other areas, for example in the concentration of damage in the Marina district of San Francisco during the 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake, but the strength of this effect was not as well known for the sediments along the East Coast. It is now recognized that this amplification can be severe in the eastern U.S.

Direction of Shaking

USGS scientists found that the strength of ground shaking from the Mineral earthquake was substantially greater to the northeast than in other directions. This direction is nearly parallel to the orientation of the Appalachian Mountains and the eastern edge of the continent, which shows the influence of large-scale features like mountain ranges on ground shaking. A similar pattern was observed in the magnitude 5.1 earthquake in Sparta, N.C. in 2020, which also showed stronger shaking along the trend of the Appalachians.

Informing Decisions

Knowing the amplification caused by these sediments and the direction of shaking will help emergency managers identify communities that may be more vulnerable to shaking. This knowledge will help the USGS refine its seismic hazard maps, which estimate the strength of ground shaking that can be expected during earthquakes in each area of the country.

These insights can also be used by emergency managers when planning for and responding to disasters; state and local governments as they refine building codes; and architects and engineers as they design and renovate buildings to mitigate the effects of future earthquakes. In addition, the science helps inform planning for major infrastructure investments such as dams and reservoirs.

Virginia, near the earthquake's epicenter, numerous homes and buildings were damaged, with two schools being damaged badly enough to need replacement. Houses and other buildings were damaged as far away as Washington, approximately 80 miles from the epicenter. Several well-known historical structures were badly damaged, notably the Washington National Cathedral, Washington Monument and Smithsonian Institution Building, known as the Castle. Following the earthquake, many buildings were temporarily evacuated throughout the mid-Atlantic region. The North Anna nuclear power station, located about 12 miles from the main shock epicenter, was shut down as a result of strong shaking from the earthquake. The shaking caused rockfalls as far as 150 miles away and water-level changes in wells up to 340 miles away.

Afterwards, the newly established USGS conducted one of its first post-earthquake investigations, resulting in the publication of a scientific description of extensive damage throughout the area. The 2011 Mineral earthquake raises the question of whether, or more precisely when, a repeat of the 1886 earthquake will occur near Charleston, or whether a similar earthquake might strike another major city in the central or eastern U.S.

Reds claim Revere Youth Baseball Minor League title

Marco Spirti pitches a two-hitter in win over Mets

By Cary Shuman

Ace southpaw Marco Spirti allowed only two hits and struck out 10 as the Reds defeated the Mets, 8-2, to capture the Revere Youth Baseball League Minor League championship Monday at Papasodora Field at Griswold Park.

Coach Nick Rystrom's Mets had won the first game (7-5) of the best-of-three championship series, but Coach Anna Addonizio Spirti's Little Red Machine, who was undefeated during the regular season, stormed back to win Game 2 (18-9) and the winner-take-all finale.

Spirti pitched a complete game for the Reds, who finished their season with a sparkling 16-1 record. "He did great, I'm so proud of him," said Addonizio Spirti, the winning pitcher's mother. "Our catcher, Ryker Flahive, also did a great job. He was awesome."

Marco Spirti, Anthony Addonizio, and Michael Coffey each had two hits while Rocco Spirti reached bases three times with a single and two walks and scored a run.

Domenic Diano and Dominic Rystrom each had basehits for the Mets, who advanced to the finals by defeating the Royals and the Twins in the playoffs.

"I told the team that we made a lot of improvement during the season, and we made it all the way to the very last game, and we were the only ones to beat the Reds this season," said Nick Rystrom. "I'm proud of all the Mets players."

Addonizio Spirti said it was a building process toward the championship, with most of the Reds players being two-year or three-year members of the team.

"It took a while to get where we wanted to be," said Addonizio Spirti. "The first loss [to the Mets] stung a little bit, but we had a couple of practics after that, and I kept telling them to just believe in themselves. They're all friends, they get along well together, and they respect each other, and that's important. They had fun and worked hard, and I'm so proud of them."

Addonizio Spirti had a spectacular softball career at RHS, Saint Anselm College

By Cary Shuman

For Annamaria Addonizio Spirti, the Reds' Revere Youth Baseball League championship season rekindled memories of her competing in the Cal Ripken Baseball League at St. Mary's Field as a youth.

"They didn't have softball at St. Mary's when I first started at 9 years old," recalled Addonizio Spirti. "I was on the Minor League Yankees for one year and played for the Major League Cardinals for Coach Robichaud. The first time I ever played softball was in the eighth grade."

Addonizio would go on to become a four-year starting varsity shortstop and one of Revere High School's greatest softball players, batting a phenomenal .692 in her senior season in 1993.

After graduating from Revere High, Addonizio Spirti became an All-New England softball player at Saint Anselm College, where she was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 2017.

During her senior year at Saint Anselm, Addonizio Spirti was offered a tryout with Italy's Olympic softball team, but she politely declined.

"The Italian coach had been at my games in my senior year, and he asked me if I'd be interested in going to Italy for a tryout," said Anna, whose parents were originally from Ita-

Spiriti is back on the Revere fields, coaching her sons, Marco and Rocco, and her nephew, Anthony Addonizio, all of whom got a true sense of what a superstar she was, when they were in the audience for her Hall of Fame induction ceremony four years ago.

Looking back at her team's RYBSL championship season from a coach and a parent's perspective, Addonizio Spiriti said, "I told my sons to not get too excited and stay humble and you can be happy, but this doesn't happen all the time - so just appreciate this time right now."

Giusto 'Gus' Aloisi

WWII Bronze Star recipient, accomplished trumpet player, Longtime Boston Naval Shipyard employee and the epitome of the word "gentleman"

Family and friends are invited to attend Visiting Hours on Saturday, August 14 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in the Vertuccio and Smith, Home for Funerals, 773 Broadway (Rte. 107) Revere for Giusto A. "Gus" Aloisi, who died on Friday, August 6 at the Blairst House in Tewksbury following a brief illness. Gus celebrated his 98th birthday on July 12.

A Funeral Mass will be celebrated in St. Anthony of Padua Church, 250 Revere St., Revere at 12 Noon immediately followed by interment in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

Gus was born in Malden but was raised in Boston's North End. He attended Boston schools and was a student in Boston English High School when he was drafted to enter the U.S. Army during the Second World War. Gus served his country with pride and honor, serving in the 361st Infantry Regiment 91st Division as a Rifleman. During his time overseas, he was decorated with the Good Conduct Medal, Victory Medal, European African Middle Eastern Theater Campaign Ribbon, American Theater Campaign Ribbon and Bronze Star. Gus was very proud of serving his country.

When he returned home from his service, he immediately completed his GED, as education was very important to him. The next order of business for Gus was that he married the one and only love of his life, Domenica C. "Maggie" (Ferraro) Aloisi in October of 1946, a marriage that was filled with love, kindness and cherished memories that spanned 69 years.

Gus and his wife settled in Revere in 1946, and together it was here they made their home and raised their three sons.

Gus worked at the Boston Naval Shipyard for 27 years as a supervisor, until they closed. He then went on to work in maintenance at Charles River Park in Cambridge. Gus was also a very accomplished trumpet player. For most of his life, and up until a couple of years ago, he was still playing. Gus loved to play alongside his brother Domenic Aloise. He would take any opportunity to do what he truly loved doing and providing extra for his family. Gus, throughout his early life, studied music and would take classes to stay on top of his passion.

Gus was the epitome of the word "gentleman," whenever you met Gus, he was always fastidious about his appearance. His demeanor was gentle, genuine and humble. To know him was to love him.

We have often heard the term, "The Greatest Generation", well it's for men and women like Gus. He fit the criteria; he was selfless and had honor, respect for his country and neighbors, and he was devoted to his family and love for his fellow brothers in battle. He lived his life on these morals and terms.

The beloved husband of the late Domenica C. "Maggie" (Ferraro) Aloisi, he was the loving father of Dominic D. Aloisi and his wife, Linda of Uxbridge, Anthony Aloisi and his wife, Doreen M. of Revere and Robert D. Aloisi and his late wife, Donna of North Reading; cherished grandfather of David D. Aloisi and his wife, Lisa of West Townsend, Susan M. Greene and her husband, Thomas of Douglas, Anthony R. Aloisi and his wife, Amie of Haverhill, Joseph D. Aloisi and his wife, Melissa of Danvers, Christina M. Scali, R.N. and her husband, Paul of Lynnfield, Nicholas R. Aloisi of Portland, ME and Matthew J. Aloisi and his fiancé, Christie Martin of Castle Rock, CO; adored great grandfather of Michael A., Gabriella M., Gianna M., Isabella D., Joseph D., Aubrey, Olivia and Gennaro and dear brother of the late David J. Aloise, Victor Aloisi, Domenic Aloise and Alfred Aloise. He is also lovingly survived by many nieces, nephews, grandnieces, grandnephews, friends and extended family.

In lieu of flowers, remembrances may be made to the New England Shelter of Homeless Veterans, 17 Court St. Boston, MA 02108. To send online condolences, please visit www.vertuccioandsmith.com

A Birthday Remembrance On Your Special Day

Roger Stewart Paul
August 17, 2021

Sometimes in life we have tremendous losses. Losses that can never be replaced.

Losing you has been one of the hardest things Roger, I've ever had to deal with.

I wasn't ready to say goodbye, Honey.

I wasn't ready to let you go.

I would have given anything for just one

More day, or moment with you.

I've learned to trust in unconditional love.

The one profound thing about death,

Is that love never dies.

Some bonds cannot be broken.

Even though you're not physically here,

Your heart is - it lives within me.

Someday we will meet again and we will no longer be separated by time or space.

That is why I never need a special day to bring you to mind Roger, for days without a Thought of you are very, very hard to find.

All my life I will love and miss you,

As the years come and go.

But in my heart you will live forever,

Because I love you so.

I can't send you a birthday card.

Your hands I cannot touch.

But God will deliver to you my birthday message Honey.

"Happy 81st Birthday Roger"

"Enjoy, Enjoy, Enjoy"

Miss You Dearly!

Love Forever and Always!

Addison is the daughter of former St. Dominic Savio High School sports superstar Donnie Ulwick and Aimee Ulwick. She is a fifth grader at the Paul Revere School.

At the competition at Griswold Park, Addison displayed uncanny accuracy in the softball pitching contest. She showed tremendous speed and technique on the base-paths and then blasted the softball off a tee deep in to the outfield. She was first in all categories in the 9-10 age division.

"We were notified last week that she [Addison] had one of the best scores in New England and had qualified for the regionals at Fenway," said her mother, Aimee.

Addison is a pitcher for the Major League Lightning team in the Revere softball league. She also pitches for the North Shore Breakers 10-under travel team in the Middle Essex Softball League.

In addition to softball, Addison plays in the New England Flag Football League in Danvers and basketball in the Revere Parks and Recreation program. She is also a competitive dancer in hip hop and musical theater for the Studio Dance Complex.

But for now, her focus is on softball and the incredible experience of competing on the field at

"I'm so happy for the experience and I'm so excited to compete," said Addison.

AARP Mass. monthly fraud watch update for August 2021

Staff report

Did you know that someone's identity gets stolen every two seconds? The AARP Fraud Watch Network provides you with tips and resources to help you spot and avoid identity theft and fraud so you can protect yourself and your family. Our watchdog alerts will keep you up to date on con artists' latest tricks. It's free of charge for everyone: AARP members, non-members, and people of all ages. Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam. Report scams to local law enforcement. Contact the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatchnetwork for more information on fraud prevention.

Great travel deals can be found online but you can also find scammers looking to put your travel dollars into their pockets. Crooks set up look-alike travel websites in hopes you will book with them rather than your intended company. And just because the link showed up when you searched "travel deals" doesn't mean it can automatically be trusted. Scammers often buy paid promotions for their bogus travel sites so they appear high up in search rankings. Before hitting 'confirm' on that deal, make sure you really know whom you are doing business with. Be skeptical of any cut-rate hotel or airline offer that seems too good to be true. And, always pay with a credit card, which offers more protection than other forms of payment.

SCAM ALERT #1: TRAVEL SCAMS
If you're trying to squeeze in a summer trip before Labor Day, it's buyer beware when hunting for that last-minute deal.

SCAM ALERT #2: CAR WARRANTY SCAMS
Raise your hand if robocalls have finally stopped ringing your phone day and night. None of you? No surprise there. Despite industry and regulatory efforts to rid our phone lines of unwanted calls, they nevertheless persist – and many are outright scams. One of the more common scam calls involves car warranties.

These scam calls typically start as a pre-recorded robocall (just like this one we pulled from the Federal Communications Commission's website), and the message directs you to press a key to speak to a specialist or stay on the line. Thanks to social media and data breaches, scammers may even have information on your car's make and model to make it seem legitimate.

While extended warranties might be a sensible investment for some, it's a product that you should research rather than react to, and only with verified and trustworthy sources.

SCAM ALERT #3: COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP SCAMS Social media is an all-too-popular avenue for spreading scams among "friends." Criminals hijack someone's social media account and share a "great offer" to everyone on the target's contact list.

The hot 'offer' these days involves government grants – whether it's free money for college tuition or loan repayment, to pay household bills, or some other made-up story. But here's the thing (actually, two things). First, the government grants billions of dollars a year – but to institutions, not to individuals. Second, you'll learn there's a "processing fee" that you have to pay upfront. When you hear that, all signs point to a likely scam.

SCAM ALERT #4: SCAM TRACKING MAP

Did you know that if you are aware of a specific scam, you are 80 percent less likely to engage with it, and if you do engage, you're 40 percent less likely to lose money or sensitive information? A great way to share what you know to protect others, and to learn more to better protect yourself, is to visit the AARP Scam-Tracking Map (www.aarp.org/scammap). You can explore scams being reported in your geography and submit scams you've heard about or encountered. We're all in this together – let's share what we know so the next target doesn't become the next victim.

SCAM ALERT #5: WORK FROM HOME SCAMS

The COVID pandemic brought countless things into our lives that we were just fine without. However, a few things - like working from home - actually made life a little easier for many. However, with more businesses returning to in-person activities, some workers are looking for new jobs with work-from-home options. That's something scammers are looking to take advantage of with fake job offers. Work-from-home scams can promise jobs with medical billing, data entry or starting an online business, but they all require paying something up front. Once you start paying, the requests for more money for training or supplies never stop and in return you get a lot of useless information or requests to recruit more people into the scheme.

There are genuine work-from-home jobs out there. The trick is knowing how to spot the real opportunities in a sea of empty – and costly – promises.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

The AARP Fraud Watch Network is a free resource for all. Learn how to proactively spot scams or get guidance if you've been targeted. Visit www.aarp.org/fraudwatchnetwork or call our dedicated helpline to speak to a fraud specialist at 1-877-908-3360.

Malden Catholic partners with Girls With Impact to provide entrepreneurial training for Grades 10 and 11 students

Staff report

Over the 2021 academic year, Malden Catholic partnered with Girls With Impact to provide a live, online “mini-MBA” entrepreneurship and leadership training program for Grades 10 and 11 students in the Girls Division.

During the 2021 spring semester, students participated in a unique 10-week entrepreneurship academy designed specifically for young women with experts from Harvard University. The students were trained in the areas of business, problem solving, design, marketing, public speaking and financial literacy. Each student created an original concept and moved through the process of developing a business plan and venture pitch under the guidance of MBA coaches from around the world.

Students prepared and presented pitch presentations for their new ventures, which varied from passion projects to nonprofits and business services. Coaches evaluated each project, and the pitches were shared with parents and school administrators as well. The ventures ranged from a confidence-boosting app for teens to an allergy app called “Easier Eats” and included charity fundraising promotional items such as custom journals made from recycled paper called “Upcycled Journals” and customized phone cases entitled, “Case with a Cause.”

Ashley Reardon '23, from Saugus showcased her project, “Spirit Ring,” which is a product that alerts wearers if a drink is tampered with. “The Girls With Impact program helped me conceptualize a stylish, affordable product and build a solid plan that can turn my passion for helping others into a reality,” stated Reardon. “The guidance we received from our coaches was invaluable and I cannot express how much this experience has meant to me.”

After completing the Girls With Impact training, Chi Vu '22, a MC student who lives in Vietnam, was able to launch a student-led mentoring and tutoring nonprofit business entitled “Intelligo Project.” “Intelligo is a student-led nonprofit organization that helps grade K-12 students with free virtual tutoring and mentoring sessions in the subjects of English, Math and World History provided by MC students along with students in Vietnam.” According to Vu, “I created Intelligo to help combat education inequality and we now have easily accessible resources for students everywhere.”

According to Jennifer Openshaw, CEO and Founder of Girls With Impact, “It is time to offer students an opportunity to lead from the top and feel confident about creating a business or being the next CEO of a corporation. Girls With Impact gives them the platform to drive that change and, in the process, build critical work readiness skills, a way to differentiate themselves for college or career, and a path to becoming a CEO,” she noted.

Rose Maria Redman, Principal of MC added, “Malden Catholic curriculum is designed to improve individual growth mindset, leadership principles and success outcomes for all of our students. Officials urge public to inspect Boxwood shrubs for tree moths

Staff report

The Massachusetts Department of Agricultural Resources (MDAR) is alerting Massachusetts residents that it has received notification from the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) that a number of nurseries within the Commonwealth received Canadian boxwood plants potentially infested with box tree moths.

Box tree moths are an invasive pest that feed on the leaves of boxwood shrubs and can cause complete defoliation, eventually killing the plant. While state and federal inspectors have not found any signs of box tree moths at the nurseries, state officials warn that some of the plants may have been sold before inspections began, or were purchased out of state and planted in Massachusetts. MDAR and APHIS urge anyone in Massachusetts who may have purchased boxwood shrubs this spring to check the plants for signs of the moth.

“MDAR is working with its federal partners at the USDA to prevent the box tree moth from spreading and establishing itself in Massachusetts,” said MDAR Commissioner

John Lebeaux. “We ask Massachusetts residents that purchased boxwood shrubs this spring to take a close look at the plants to aid in our efforts to prevent this invasive species from expanding into the state and causing severe damage to Massachusetts’ popular boxwood shrubs.”

If a boxwood plant was purchased this past spring, state officials request that residents inspect it for signs of the moth, and report any findings to <https://massnr.org/pests/report.aspx> or by calling 617-626-1779. When inspecting your boxwood shrubs, look for all of the life stages of this pest:

eggs, caterpillars, pupae, and adults. Eggs are typically laid in gelatinous masses on the underside of boxwood leaves, but may also be laid singly. Caterpillars can grow up to 1.5 inches long, and are yellowish green with a black head, and long black stripes and spots that reach from the head to the end of the body. The caterpillars create pockets of webbing within the boxwood shrubs to wall themselves off from predators. When they are ready to morph into adult moths, they form small green pupae. Adults typically have white wings with a dark brown border, but can sometimes be all brown with just a small white streak on each wing.

Box tree moths (Cydalima perspectalis) are native to Asia and are now a pest in both Europe and Canada. They can produce several generations between June and October, which makes urgent action essential to prevent this pest from establishing itself in Massachusetts.

FY21 revenue collections for the state total $34.137 billion

Staff Report

Massachusetts Department of Revenue (DOR) Commissioner Geoffrey Snyder announced that preliminary June 2021 revenue collections total $3.687 billion as of August 3, 2021, which is $1.11 billion or 43.1 percent more than benchmark, but $1.139 billion or 23.6 percent less than the actual collections in June 2020.

However, June 2020 actual collections were impacted by the extension of the Fiscal Year 2020 personal income tax filing deadline from April 15, 2020, to July 15, 2020. In addition, personal income tax collections received after the close of Fiscal Year 2020 were recorded as June 2020 revenue.

Revenue collections for Fiscal Year 2021 were $34.137 billion, $5.047 billion or 17.3% above benchmark and $4.528 billion or 15.3 percent over the actual amount collected in Fiscal Year 2020. Some year-end adjustments will be made to Fiscal Year 2021 revenue collections in August.

"Fiscal Year 2021 revenue collections reflect the impact of the ongoing economic recovery, federal fiscal and monetary policies, and the financial markets' performance", said Commissioner Snyder.

Historically, June is a significant month for revenues, because both individual and business taxpayers make estimated payments during the month. In most years, the month of June has ranked second (behind only April) in the proportion of annual revenue received during the month.

In a letter to the State Comptroller last week, DOR certified that the preliminary total capital gains tax revenue collected in Fiscal Year 2021 was $2,532.6 million, generating a total Fiscal Year 2021 transfer of approximately $1,220.2 million to the Stabilization Fund, the State Retiree Benefits Trust Fund, and the Pension Liability Fund as follows under Section 5G of Chapter 29 of the General Laws:

- 90% (~$1,098.1 million) into the Stabilization Fund;
- 5% (~$61.0 million) into the State Retiree Benefits Trust Fund; and
- 5% (~$61.0 million) into the Pension Liability Fund.

Based on the Period 3 certification letter issued by DOR on June 22, 2021, the Comptroller has already transferred $946.5 million to the aforementioned funds. Therefore, today's certification letter requires additional transfers of approximately $273.7 million.

Details:

Preliminary June Revenue Collections

- Income tax collections for June are $1.828 billion, $386 million or 26.7% above benchmark, but $1.8 billion or 49.6% less than June 2020. The decline from June 2020 was expected, as mentioned above.

• Withholding tax collections for June total $1.199 billion, $93 million or 8.4% above benchmark, and $105 million or 9.6% more than June 2020.

• Income tax estimated payments total $622 million for June, $288 million or 86.3% more than benchmark, and $25 million or 4.2% more than June 2020.

• Income tax returns and bills total $91 million for June, $46 million or 99.7% more than benchmark, but $2.136 billion or 95.9% less than June

Massport selects Shyann Gore to receive the Donna Rauseo Memorial Scholarship

Staff report

The Massachusetts Port Authority (Massport) today announced the recipient of the annual scholarship honoring the memory of longtime employee and East Boston resident, Donna Rauseo. The 2021 Donna Rauseo Memorial Scholarship was awarded to East Boston High School graduate Shyann Gore. Gore will soon attend Salem State University. She volunteers her time at the Paris Street Community Center and has achieved perfect attendance and honor roll throughout high school. Gore will receive $5,000 for college.

“At Massport, maintaining strong relationships with our surrounding communities is part of our mission. Much like the Authority, Shyann understands that no act of community service is too small, whether it’s by handing out Thanksgiving meals to local families or participating in neighborhood clean-ups,” said Massport CEO Lisa Wieland. “We congratulate Shyann for making a meaningful impact in her neighborhood in East Boston, following the footsteps of our dear friend and colleague Donna Rauseo.”

The Donna Rauseo Memorial Scholarship is awarded annually to a female high school senior and resident of East Boston. Rauseo, who passed away in June 2009, was a graduate of East Boston High School, worked at the East Boston Area Planning Action Council (A.P.A.C.), and for more than 20 years was the executive assistant to Thomas J. Kinton, Jr. when he served as Aviation Director of Logan Airport and later as CEO and Executive Director for Massport.

To be considered for the Donna Rauseo Memorial Scholarship, students are required to have a minimum 3.0 grade point average and submit an essay of 1,000 words describing their career interests or how their community service has affected their outlook on life. In her essay, Gore wrote, “Community service is so much more than getting hours signed for school on a sheet of paper. I always feel good when I choose to help others, whether it is completing a special community service project or baking someone a batch of homemade cookies.”

Applications are judged by a committee made up of Massport employees and a representative of the Rauseo family. Students interested in applying for the 2022 scholarship should visit www.massport.com/scholarships for eligibility requirements.

- Withholding collections total $14.719 billion, $688 million or 4.9% above benchmark, and $983 million or 7.2% more than Fiscal Year 2020. Favorable withholding collections are due in part to much improved labor market conditions and the impact of federal COVID-19 relief legislation.

Pressley, Warren, Schumer statement on extension of student loan payment pause

Staff Report

Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley and Sen. Elizabeth Warren issued the following statement on the Biden Administration’s extension of the pause on federally held student loan payments:

“We’re pleased the Biden Administration has heeded our call to extend the pause on federally-held student loan payments, providing an enormous relief to millions of borrowers facing a disastrous financial cliff. The payment pause has saved the average borrower hundreds of dollars per month, allowing them to invest in their futures and support their families’ needs.

“While this temporary relief is welcome, it doesn’t go far enough. Our broken student loan system continues to exacerbate racial wealth gaps and hold back our entire economy. We continue to call on the administration to use its existing executive authority to cancel $50,000 of student debt. Student debt cancellation is one of the most significant actions that President Biden can take right now to build a more just economy and address racial inequity. We look forward to hearing the administration’s next steps to address the student debt crisis.”

Last month, Rep. Pressley and Sen. Warren led their colleagues on a bicameral letter to President Biden calling on him to extend the pause on federal student loan payments until at least March 31, 2022, and last week they held a press conference to reiterate those calls.

Earlier this year, Congresswoman Pressley, Sen. Warren, and Majority Leader Schumer led their colleagues in reintroducing their bicameral resolution outlining a bold plan for President Biden to tackle the student loan debt crisis by using existing authority under the Higher Education Act to cancel $50,000 in student loan debt for Federal student loan borrowers.

Section 432(a) of the Higher Education Act grants the Secretary of Education legal authority to broadly cancel student loan debt owed to the federal government. The Harvard Law Project on Predatory Lending concluded in this memo that broad student debt cancellation is a lawful and permissible exercise of the Administration’s authority under existing law.
