School Comm., School Building Committee vote ***

At a School Committee meeting Tuesday, members voted to recommend the former Wonderland Danforth as the preferred site for a new Revere High School. The recommendation will now go to the Revere City Council Monday for a final vote. If the City Council approves the project, it will submit the preferred schematic report to the Massachusetts School Building Authority on March 2. The MSBA Board of Directors will then vote to either approve or reject the high school project.

The vote by the School Committee comes on the heels of a vote to recommend the Wonderland site by the Revere School Building Committee last May.

Baker-Polito administration announces additional measures to protect acute care hospital capacity

In response to continued concerns about the skyrocketing coronavirus cases across the healthcare industry, the Baker-Polito administration announced several new measures intended to ensure that hospitals can serve those in need of urgent care. The administration provided details about new actions that will be taken as a result of its ongoing proposal to govern the state’s health care system in the event of a significant surge in demand.

New Actions

- Increased Flexibility for Staffing: The Department of Public Health (DPH) has developed new protocols for dialysis center staffing so that facilities can engage in “internal” or “internal” flex staffing by allowing staff to cover their own shifts when needed, instead of relying on external sources.
- Increased Access to Equipment and Supplies: The Baker-Polito administration will focus on increasing access to personal protective equipment (PPE) and other critical supplies for hospitals and other healthcare facilities.
- Increased Nightly Monitoring: The administration will provide additional monitoring of hospital capacity and patient flow to ensure that hospitals are meeting the needs of their patients.

The administration has also announced a new initiative to provide additional support to hospitals in the event of a surge in cases. This initiative includes providing additional funds to hospitals to help them meet the needs of patients, as well as increased oversight and support from state officials.

Arrigo seeks to expand access to jobs and opportunities

Mayor Brian M. Arrigo announced the appointment of Maritsa Barros as the first Chief of Talent and Culture for the City of Revere and Claudia Correa as the new Director of Human Resources.

Maritsa Barros previously served as Framingham’s inaugural Chief Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Officer under the leadership of Mayor Yvonne Spicer. Claudia Correa has prior experience in the City of Boston, where she served as Assistant Commissioner for the Inspectional Services Department and Mayor Walsh’s Community and Latino Liaison.

“Both Maritsa and Claudia’s commitment to proactively building and supporting equitable and diverse systems made them the most ideal candidates for the job,” said Mayor Brian Arrigo. “They both understand what it takes to build a welcoming and inclusive environment supported by policies and practices that truly reflect our community’s diversity. I know both Maritsa and Claudia will help improve diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives across the City.” Barros earned a Doctorate in Education from Northeastern University with a concentration in organizational leadership. She also holds a Master’s degree in Psychology from the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. Before serving as the Chief Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Officer for the City of Framingham where she worked at Lesley University in Cambridge, serving as Associate Diversity Officer and Executive Director of the Urban Scholars Initiative. From 2011 to 2013, Barros was Assistant Director of Admission and Multicultural Recruitment at Framingham State.

“I am proud to take on this role,” said Maritsa Barros. “I am excited to work with Mayor Arrigo. The work we seek to do is all about collaboration and working to bring more representation to the table across all facets and levels of the City.”

Agero employees grant MVES clients’ holiday wishes

Deborah Standish of Agero proudly displays all the gifts donated by employees of Mystic Valley Elder Services clients.

Agero employees are not just giving to MVES during the holidays; the organization has sponsored the annual MVES Spring for Independence Fundraiser for more than a decade. This coming spring, Agero will be a Lead Sponsor of this event at $20,000. They have also donated more than $23,000 in edible and grocery gift cards since 2010.

In honor of his sesquicentennial, Dr. King once said, “Life’s too short to hate your enemies because the power of love and hate is limited. You need to love everyone because the fundamental power of love and the fundamental foundation of love is the power of redemption. And when you love your enemy, you ultimately force them to redeem themselves and to start to love you in return.”

When I think about Martin Luther King, I think about his dream. One of the most powerful messages that he left was the power of love and the message that everyone can be kinder, sometimes in the moment and the handshake that they’re in, and really be a loving leader.

The job of mayor of a large American city never has been easy, but these days the challenges facing our public officials lead our local leaders to wonder how they will accomplish anything. Oranges and other citrus fruits are a staple food of much of the world, and we are grateful that she is showing the courage to approve construction of a new high school building site. But the Asian citrus psyllid's damage strikes home for everyone. And the reason for the decline is something far more sinister than falling crop prices: another insect pest has invaded the citrus orchards and is wreaking havoc on the nation's most beloved agricultural crop.

Invasive species have been causing all kinds of damage to our communities, states, and even countries around the world. The Asian citrus psyllid is one of the most destructive pests that we face today, and its impact on the Florida orange crop has been declining steadily for the past several years, with unprecedented small business failures. The crop will be so low, prices will be higher this coming winter because of the Asian citrus psyllid and the efforts needed to control it.

So now, amidst our winter of discontent, there is one small thing to give us hope. Chris Giannino joined Revere PAL Director Kris Oldoni and RHS Varsity Coach Dave Leary in a presentation of warm up suits to the RHS Boys Basketball team on Thursday night prior to the home opener of the Revere High Patriots vs. the Golden Tornadoes of Malden High School. Revere PAL Director Kris Oldoni stated that funding for the high school program has been difficult the last 2 years based on the pandemic. Revere PAL was fortunate enough to be in a position to collaborate with Coach Leary and the Varsity team. Revere PAL and the RHS Basketball program have a longstanding relationship and continue to provide year-round programming and opportunities for our student athletes.
REVERSE LADY PATRIOTs BASKETBALL VS. WINTHROP

BETTERO POURS IN 25 POINTS IN NON-LEAGUE GAME AGAINST WINTHROP

Following up on an All-Scholastic soccer season in which she shattered all of Sally Scribner to officiate the recent Saugus-Winthrop girls basketball game at Winthrop High School. A long-time Revere resident David Margossian (left) teamed up with current president of IAABO Board 130.

The Revere High boys basketball team returned to action last week after the one-week hiatus that had been imposed by the Greater Boston League (GBL) because of the surge in cases of COVID-19 attributable to the variant in the GBL schools and communities.

The Patriots returned to action on Saturday and then on Tuesday traveled down Broadway to take on their archrivals, the Red Devils of Chelsea High School.

Senior captain James Claato (15 points, eight rebounds, four assists) got Revere going, scoring the Patriots’ first six points on some nice, athletic drives to the basket. Junior guard Domenic Boudreau (10 points) also joined in on the scoring barrage, knocking down two three-pointers.

Senior guard Carolina Carvalho-Bettero stole the basketball and later sparked a fourth-quarter rally (from an 11-point deficit) that fell just short. Twice Bettero stole the basketball at midcourt and later fumbled, the latter closing the margin to two points with 33 seconds left. However, Winthrop was able to inbound the ball twice to run out the clock.

Bettero is averaging 15 points and nine rebounds per game and has emerged as a Greater Boston League MVP candidate. She was named the 2021 GBL soccer Co-MVP and to the Globe and Herald All-Scholastic Teams.

“Carolina played an unbelievable game against Winthrop,” said Revere head coach Chris Porrazzo, who also lauded the senior’s work ethic. “She’s been coming in early before practices and lifting the kids up.”

much more evenly-played, as both teams exchanged early baskets. Revere senior guard Logan Nichols (five points) drove for a three-point shot, Barry shot another three-pointer from the corner and, to thunderous applause, hit a nice pull-up jump shot in the lane to give Revere a 20-point lead, 32-12, midway through the first quarter. However, Chelsea brought the score down and took a 39-22 lead at the intermission.

The second period was a defensive affair and easily the most thrilling, as both teams exchanged baskets and steals. Revere senior Chase Proto, who went on to represent the Red Sox in the Major League scouts there reportedly high on the list.

Jason M. Proto, who went on to be drafted by the Milwaukee Brewers in the fifth round of the 2013 MLB draft.

Belli was challenged by the Malden defense and Revere's hot shooting.

The Patriots settled down and took a 39-22 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

The third quarter was also played evenly. Revere senior captain Brian Morgan (six points), senior guard Jack D’Ambrosio (six rebounds, four assists), and senior forward Lea Doubert led the Patriots to a second-quarter lead.

The fourth quarter did not go well for Revere. Senior point guard Michael Arango had a nice fast break layup from a Clauto assist to get the game back in the fourth quarter. Revere's furious comeback, as Revere shot 8-of-12 from the charity stripe also tied the two teams going back-and-forth, scoring a second-half basket, and scored a critical free throw to give the Patriots a 20-point lead, 32-12, midway through the first quarter.

Jason M. Proto, who went on to be drafted by the Milwaukee Brewers in the fifth round of the 2013 MLB draft.

Belli was challenged by the Malden defense and Revere's hot shooting.

The Patriots settled down and took a 39-22 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

The third quarter was also played evenly. Revere senior captain Brian Morgan (six points), senior guard Jack D’Ambrosio (six rebounds, four assists), and senior forward Lea Doubert led the Patriots to a second-quarter lead.

The fourth quarter did not go well for Revere. Senior point guard Michael Arango had a nice fast break layup from a Clauto assist to get the game back in the fourth quarter. Superintendent David DiBartolo and the Northeast Metro Tech Building Committee believe that a vote in favor from the people across the District’s 12 sending communities will have the opportunity to approve plans for a new state-of-the-art school building later this month.

Northeast Metro Tech currently serves about 1,300 students in its career technical education programs, but only has the capacity to accept 41 percent of applicants each year. Another 1,300 post-graders and adults benefit from its career and life-skills programs, but the building does not comply with Americans with Disabilities Act regulations.

A team made up of Northeast officials, School Committee members from all 12 communities that contribute students to Northeast Metro Tech, construction experts, has spent more than four years developing a plan for a new building. This team came together to help officials determine the best site for the new school. The proposal was then voted on by the full School Committee, and the results were reported to the sending communities at a special meeting last month.

The new school will feature 21st-century learning environments, improved Individualized Education Program (IEP) accommodations, state-of-the-art shop space, expanded program offerings, a new primary access roadway from Farm Street to reduce traffic congestion, a full-size gym, a 750-seat auditorium, outdoor space for learning, and a new cafeteria. The compact, four-story design will feature a double-height library and art studio.

With a focus on sustainiability, the project is targeting LEED Silver certification with energyefficient systems from Connecticut, provisions for future adaptability, and vegetated roofs. The grant offer includes funds for the work that has gone into developing this proposed project and presenting it to our communities for approval. It has been done with those core goals in mind."

Polling locations Voters will be asked whether they support the school plan at a special referendum on Jan. 25. Polls will be open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the following locations:
- Chelsea: City Hall, 500 Broadway
- Malden: Senior Center Auditorium, 7 Washington St.
- Melrose: Middle School Gym Complex, 90 Melrose St.
- North Reading: St. Theresa’s Church, 63 Winter St.
- Reading: Memorial High School, 62 Oakland Road
- Revere: St. Anthony’s Church (rear entrance), 250 Revere St.
- Saugus: Senior Center, 466 Central St.
- Stoneham: Town Hall, 35 Harvard St.
- Wakefield: Galvin Middle School, 525 Main St.
- Winchester: 466 Central St.

We voters will be asked to contact their city officials about polling locations are asked to contact their city or town clerk.

The Reality of Expensive Food
Sarah Showfety, Staff Report

We’re all concerned about the rising cost of food. Right now is a perfect time to remember that the most expensive food we buy is the food we throw away. Our family has outlived its mid-sized refrigerator. Classrooms and shops are overcrowded. Systems are outdated, and the building does not comply with American Disabilities Act regulations.

They came together as one congregation and one community for a Mass of Christian Burial Monday night to say farewell to the Rev. Patrick Francis Healy, the long-time chaplain of the Chelsea Soldiers’ Home. The Rev. Michael O’Hara led the funeral Mass at St. Michael’s Chapel for the Rev. Healy, who passed away on January 12, 2022, at the age of 97.

O’Hara led the funeral service for Patrick Francis Healy, the son of Charlestown, a former state representative and finance commissioner, back in the 1930s.

As the large crowd filed out of the chapel, vocalist Robert Brooks continued his musical performance so striking that it caused the remaining congregants to weep.

“Father Healy was the cornerstone of the foundation for him to build his life,” said O’Hara. “He was the touchstone of faith for so many people.”

Healy’s humble beginnings at Saint Mary’s School in Chelsea, where “Father’s affinity for the faith was nurtured,” illuminated the emotions of many during the funeral service.

“Today I am filled with pride at his loss but also, like all of you, I am filled again and that fills me with happiness,” Father O’Hara said, “that Father O’Flaherty is at the onset of his message.”

Healy’s humble beginnings at Saint Mary’s School in Chelsea, where “Father’s affinity for the faith was nurtured,” illuminated the emotions of many during the funeral service.

“May the Lord and His angels welcome Father Healy to his heavenly home in eternity,” O’Hara said, “with a beautiful, stirring performance by Robert Brooks.”

As the Rev. Healy made his final journey across the Soldiers’ Home campus, in front of the Soldiers’ Home chapel, vocalist Robert Brooks continued his musical performance so striking that it caused the remaining congregants to weep.
