License Commission approves 1-day licenses

By Journal Staff

The Revere License Commission held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, June 21, in the City Council Chamber in Revere City Hall. All three of the commission’s members, Chairman Robert Selevitch, Linda Guinasso, and Daniel Occena were on hand for the session.

The meeting was a fairly short (40 minutes) affair, with the commissioners addressing a myriad of routine matters. The commissioners granted a number of one-day licenses for an array of celebratory events taking place in the city in the coming months. Those included:

-- A request by American Legion Post #61 for six, 1-day Malt/Wine and Common Victualler Licenses to be exercised at Veterans Memorial Park (formerly the American Legion Lawn) at 249 Broadway from 5 p.m.–7 p.m. on the Sundays of July 9, July 16, July 23, August 6, August 13, and August 20 (with rain dates of August 27 and September 3) that will feature a beer & wine garden with hot dogs, hamburgers, sausages, and chips to accompany the city-sponsored Sunday night concerts.

William J. Chisholm, the event manager, presented the application to the commission.

“We would like to hold a small beer garden that will be roped-off,” said Chisholm, who added that members of the Post who are TIPS-certified will serve the beer.

Ward 2 City Councillor Ira Novoselsky spoke in favor of the application.

“This is something we have been doing for the past few years,” said Novoselsky, who is a member of the Post. “This is a fundraiser for the group and everyone looks forward to it.”

“These concerts are a great event that the city holds every summer,” said Guinasso, who noted that she looks forward to attending them.

There were no opponents and the commissioners unanimously approved the application.

-- A pair of requests from the Revere Beach Partnership (RBP) in connection with the International Sand Sculpting Festival to be held on the last weekend of July at Revere Beach. The first was for a 1-day license for All Alcohol to be exercised on Saturday, July 29, from 6 p.m.–9 p.m. for the annual VIP Party with an expected attendance of 450. The second was for three, 1-day Licenses for Malt/Wine to be exercised on Friday, July 28, from 1 p.m.–8 p.m., Saturday, July 29, from 1 p.m.–9 p.m., and Sunday, July 30, 2023 from 1 p.m.–6 p.m.

MBC addresses coastal climate change impact

By Adam Swift

State and local leaders discussed the impact of climate change on beaches from Hull to Lynn as part of the state’s Metropolitan Beaches Commission’s (MBC) initial public hearing on Tuesday morning.

The meeting was expected to be the first of many to address flooding, sea level rise, and erosion along the metropolitan coastline.

“Our goal is to start the conversation from the goal of the Metropolitan Beaches Commission to prioritize the resilience and protection of metropolitan beaches from Nahant to Nantasket,” said Chris Mancini, the Executive Director of Save the Harbor, Save the Bay.

Mancini said there are three main questions that are the focus for the communities during the initial stages of the beach commission hearings. Those include actions that are working now in the communities to address climate issues at the beaches, what are the gaps that need to be addressed, and what the communities would most like to see preserved along their beach and waterfronts.

State Senator Brendan Crighton, who co-chairs the Metropolitan Beaches Commission, said that when he first came to the State House, climate change and climate resiliency was an issue but not one that was necessarily at the top of everyone’s agenda.

“But climate resiliency certainly is now, particularly for those of us who represent communi-

Sports communications hooked Andrea Mazzarelli from the start

By Sydney Ciano

Revere native Andrea Mazzarelli kept her career in sports close to home after finding her rhythm in the sports marketing field after college.

Mazzarelli attended the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester after graduating from Revere High School in 2007. She studied Spanish in college and also completed coursework in English and literature. As a student, sports marketing and media were not visible career paths like they are today.

Without seeing a clear path in sports, Mazzarelli believed she would pursue a more traditional communications career.

Heading into her senior year, though, she interned with Comcast SportsNet

PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS NEED TO GET REAL

The opposition by some progressive Democrats to President Joe Biden’s decision to send cluster bombs to Ukraine is yet another indication of how out-of-touch with reality they can be on certain issues.

To be sure, the use of cluster bombs can have many drawbacks, the most significant being that a certain percentage of the bomblets remain unexploded on the battlefield, thereby creating a hazard that remains long after the fighting is over. However, when compared to the horrors being wrought upon the Ukrainian people by the Russian invaders, the potential negative impacts of cluster munitions by the Ukrainian military are miniscule. Moreover, let’s not forget that the Ukrainians are using these weapons in their own country and will be targeting Russian troops at the front lines, thereby limiting the effect of these weapons upon their own civilian population, unlike the Russians, who indiscriminately have been dropping cluster bombs on Ukrainian civilians from the day they invaded.

In an ideal world, no nation would use cluster bombs -- though in an ideal world, there wouldn’t be any war. The simple fact is that the Ukrainians will be using these weapons in their own defense on their own land and they should be the ones to decide what are the acceptable risks. The knee-jerk reaction of some Democratic politicians ignores the reality of what is happening in Ukraine each and every day.

Moreover, these Democrats who oppose the White House on this issue offer no solution to the imminent problem of the Ukrainians running out of artillery shells in their effort to dislodge the Russian invaders. In addition, these Democrats are playing into the hands of Putin, giving him some hope that American politicians will hamstring the Ukrainians in the defense of their country.

While it may be generally true that two wrongs do not make a right, that is not the case in Ukraine. If these cluster bombs help drive out the Russians, they will have been well worth it.

And to use another metaphor, we can’t allow the Ukrainians to bring a knife to a gunfight.

LETTER to the Editor

A GROUP HUG FOR THE PASSING OF JIM MITCHELL. RALPH WAS THERE!

Dear Editor,

I was present at the Revere Advocate headquarters to pick up copies of my big article release. I walked into a crying office shell-shocked and reeling by the breaking news that their beloved co-worker Mr. Mitchell, for over 18 years a staple of the Revere news community, had just passed away at the hospital.

My heart was broken at the sight of these hard-working women mourning at their desks. I recognized the feeling all too well of losing a loved one etched on their faces. The dark trails of mascara running alongside soulful tears.

This was no longer a moment of business and commerce, it was a moment of empathy, patience, and compassion. Inside the Revere Advocate HQ, I gingerly offered comforting energy and healing words to Tara, the friendly local community photographer, and to Nancy, the dedicated senior bookkeeper who loves her job and has been there for years.

Despite it all, at that moment, Nancy’s dedication to her job was unrelenting. She still wanted to help me, she loved my photo in the paper, and she thought my story really stood out well.

She was slurring her words, stuttering while she tried to figure out what to say next. She mindlessly ran her fingers across the keyboard as she batted her eyes feverishly, lost and confused at the moment.

James "Jimmy" Mitchell, the son of the late community member, had reached out to me just a week prior for a meeting scheduled for that very day. He wasn’t there...and his Dad wasn’t there. They were both in hospice. Jimmy was by his father’s bedside, his father the latter.

Cautiously and softly, I nodded to both Tara and Nancy that everything would be OK. Warmly and full of healing energy, I offered a group hug. Nancy’s eyes popped open, surprised and bewildered. She shot a look back and forth at a teary-eyed Tara and the stack of newspapers and bills on her desk.

I raised my hands and arms wide apart, similar to my youthful days playing varsity basketball and holding a strong defensive stance. At that moment, I was defending our safe space from all negativity. Nancy kicked her rollie chair backward, ran over, and wrapped her arms around mine. Tara the field photog followed suit embracing the group hug. “You guys are going to make me cry,” she whispered, overcome with the somber moment.

Soon thereafter I told them to close up the shop, lock the place down and head on home. The seasoned community veterans needed to hear that from someone at that moment. And I humbly obliged that role and responsibility.

Before leaving, Tara said to me that I can come back anytime and followed by making a request for me to make a tribute post. I looked them both in the eye and made a promise I would.

I believe myself to be a leading candidate for Revere City Council Ward 5! I’ve garnered strong unwavering support in the Point of Pines Area, the entire Revere Beach Blvd, and a crowd favorite at the Jack Satter House. ## REVERE ELECTION 2023

CANDIDATES STATE THEIR VISION AND PROGRAMS FOR REVERE

Revere must lead on environmental sustainability

By Steve Morabito

With the official start of summer, Revere will again showcase some of our beloved natural and open spaces -- Revere Beach, Belle Isle Marsh, the Pines River, and Rumney Marsh Reservation.

Revere’s tremendous wealth of natural spaces is one of the many things that makes our city so special, which is why we need to prioritize preserving and protecting these jewels of Revere.

In recent decades, Revere has also felt the brunt of environmental impacts, from health and environmental impacts from Logan Airport, industrial dumping, and now sea level rise stemming from climate change.

Climate change is an existential threat to our planet and something we see firsthand in Revere, from storm surges breaching our seawall, flooding in Beachmont and Riverside, and massive waves forcing the closure of the Winthrop Parkway.

Climate action and resiliency starts at home. Locally, we must prioritize climate resilience measures to make residents less vulnerable to the impacts of storm surges and sea level rise. The City must immediately perform an environmental audit of the City to identify measures that lower our carbon footprint and save taxpayers money, including transitioning our vehicle fleet to hybrid and electric. Revere should pilot a curbside composting program and utilize composting at large-scale events to reduce solid waste. We must expand investment in our parks and green and open spaces. Revere should fast-track its street tree planting program to reduce urban “heat islands” that make summers hotter in our city.

On the City Council, I have led sustainability efforts, supported the creation of a community electricity aggregation program that delivers clean energy for lower prices to residents, lobbied for passage of the Decker-Garballey 100% Renewable Energy Act, and helped City Council advocacy efforts against the Saugus Ash Monofill facility.

By protecting our environment, we also reduce the impacts of sea level rise, make our air and water cleaner, and enhance the health of our residents. It’s time that Revere gets serious about environmental sustainability.

Revere needs to make flooding a priority

By Dan Rizzo

Now more than ever before, Revere has to do more to prevent flooding in the Point of Pines, and adjoining neighborhoods of Revere Beach Boulevard, including Beachmont.

Study after study indicates rising sea levels and flooding are costing homeowners, who live near the ocean, thousands of dollars in home values, and more severe property losses due to natural disasters. This has led to a corresponding increase in Federal Flood Insurance premium rates.

A lot of us can remember the damage and destruction caused by the Blizzard of 1978, when the sea level rose to an elevation of 15.10 feet, accompanied by a tidal surge and onshore winds gusting to 66 miles per hour, sending ocean waters crashing over Revere’s beaches and seawalls flooding our coastal neighborhoods.

As recently as 2018 Revere was slammed by two major Nor’easters. On January 4, 2018 a “Bomb Cyclone” Nor’easter hit Revere with sea levels rising to 15.16 feet causing neighborhood flooding and the shutdown of many roadways, and again, on March 2, 2018, when sea levels reached 14.67 feet resulting in further neighborhood flooding and the closure of many of our city streets.

Flooding and sea level rise are major problems for Revere, which deserve emergency high priority status. That is why I propose, using federal and state funds, appoint an Experienced Professional Emergency Preparedness and Management Officer, whose primary responsibility will be to immediately secure more state and federal funding to protect our coastal waterfront neighborhoods from flooding. My commitment to public safety does not end with police and fire. We must work actively and diligently as a coastal community to protect our residents most vulnerable to ever-increasing severe storms.

Addressing Revere’s housing crisis: a call for collective action

By Alexander Rhalimi

As the housing crisis in Revere continues to intensify, it is imperative that we recognize the urgent need for collaborative efforts to tackle this pressing issue. As an active member of the community and as a candidate for Councilor-at-Large, I strongly believe that it is our shared responsibility to address the housing challenges faced by our fellow residents.

The housing crisis in Revere has reached unprecedented levels, with skyrocketing rents and a severe shortage of affordable housing options. Families are being displaced, and the dreams of many hardworking individuals to own a home in this city are being shattered. This crisis not only affects the vulnerable populations, but it also threatens the social fabric and economic stability of our community.

To tackle this issue, we must adopt a multifaceted approach that combines short-term and long-term solutions. Firstly, we need to prioritize the immediate needs of those struggling to find affordable housing. This involves working closely with local non-profit organizations, housing agencies, and developers to create more affordable units and ensure they are accessible to low-income individuals and families.

Secondly, we must promote responsible and sustainable urban development. By incentivizing developers to include affordable housing units in their projects, we can increase the availability of affordable housing stock. Additionally, it is crucial to streamline the permit approval process to facilitate the construction of new housing units without compromising safety standards.

Furthermore, we should explore innovative financing models and public-private partnerships to fund affordable housing initiatives. By leveraging resources from various stakeholders, including the government, private investors, and philanthropic organizations, we can significantly increase the pool of funding available for affordable housing projects.

Education and awareness are also vital components of addressing the housing crisis. We must educate residents about their rights as tenants and homeowners and provide resources and workshops on financial literacy and home ownership. Empowering individuals with knowledge and skills will enable them to make informed decisions and navigate the complexities of the housing market.

Lastly, collaboration among all stakeholders is paramount. It is crucial for city officials, community leaders, developers, and residents to come together and engage in open dialogue. By fostering a sense of community and collective responsibility, we can work towards sustainable solutions that address the housing crisis holistically.

The housing crisis in Revere demands immediate attention, and it is our duty as a community to respond with urgency. By implementing a comprehensive strategy that combines short-term relief measures with long-term sustainable solutions, we can pave the way for a brighter future for all residents of Revere. Let us unite in our efforts and work towards a city where affordable and quality housing is accessible to all, regardless of income or background.

All politics are truly local lives of everyday citizens. Through my experiences of going door to door over the past two months, I have come to realize why this principle matters to Revere voters and how it influences their engagement and choices.

Through hundreds of conversations, I have gained a deeper understanding of how local politics govern various aspects of our daily lives—often more than we realize. Education, healthcare, transportation, and public safety are just a few areas where decisions made at the local level directly impact our communities and individuals. Residents hold strong opinions on these subjects and desire to see improvements. They want to witness the quality of schools increase, they yearn for better access to healthcare services, especially for those dealing with mental health and addiction issues, and they hope for significant enhancements to our local roads. All these issues are shaped by local policies and the individuals we, the voters, elect. However, for change to occur, residents must actively participate in local politics rather than simply shouting from a soapbox. Voters possess the potential to be the most influential factor in bringing about immediate improvements to their surroundings.

Another crucial aspect of local politics that has come to light during my interactions is accessibility. In comparison to the sprawling complexity of national politics, local government needs to be more approachable and easier to engage with. Local politicians are residents themselves, and as such, they should be more accessible and accountable to their constituents. This proximity allows voters to have direct interactions with their representatives, express concerns, and hold them accountable for their actions. I strongly encourage residents to get involved and engage in local politics, as this direct involvement can influence policy decisions and ensure that their voices are heard.

A third topic that has emerged from doorstep conversations is the diversity within our community. Revere is a city with a rich tapestry of diverse backgrounds and experiences. The challenges we face vary significantly among our residents. Elected officials must have a deep understanding of the challenges faced by individuals from all walks of life. Tailored solutions are necessary to address their specific needs and help them achieve their aspirations. The ability to shape policies according to local context and culture will enable Revere to adopt a more nuanced and responsive approach to governance.

Lastly, in a world where national and international politics often command our attention, it is vital to recognize the significance of local politics. From the direct impact on everyday life to its accessibility and accountability, local politics empowers voters to shape their communities and influence policy decisions that directly affect them. I wholeheartedly encourage all Revere residents who are registered to vote to actively get involved, and for those who are not registered, to do so before the upcoming primary in September.

By participating in local politics, you can become an architect of change. You can help nurture the leaders within our community, contribute to the development of tailored solutions, and play a part in building the future of our city. Ultimately, it is through our engagement in local matters that we truly exercise our democratic rights and contribute to a better, more inclusive Revere.

Iron Workers line up behind Michelle Kelley for Revere Council

Iron Workers Local 7, one of the most prominent and storied building trades unions in New England, announced today that it was “wholeheartedly” backing Michelle Kelley for Revere At-Large City Council, confident that Kelley would “protect the working families of tomorrow.”

An attorney, small business owner, lifelong Revere resident, and first-time candidate for office, Kelley has been building support with a message of inclusion, accountability, and bringing a “neighborhood watch” approach to city government. Kelley’s message to voters – that their voices matter – resonated with the members of Local 7.

“We need more people like you that are willing to do the hard work required, such as bringing people together to have challenge ing conversations, that may never happen without your support,” Local 7 President Thomas Pecoraro wrote in the union’s letter to Kelley pledging its endorsement.

Pecoraro added that the “3,700 members of Local 7 stand with you in this election and are ready to support you in any way they can.”

Kelley said she was thrilled by the alliance with such a respected, forward-looking union.

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

ORIENT HEIGHTS CIVIC CLUB STANDS BEHIND REVERE COUNCILLOR GERRY VISCONTI FOR MAYOR OF REVERE

Last Saturday afternoon longtime friends, supporters and Revere residents’ members of the Orient Heights Civic Club located on Saratoga Street gathered to show support of their friend and trusted Revere City Councillor-at-Large Gerry Visconti.

A luncheon was provided for all members, and they all got a chance to talk with the candidate for the top office in Revere. Visconti talked about change, a change everyone can live with and a change for the betterment of Revere, looking into the next eight years of his plans. Visconti stated it going to take a plan, and someone to stick to it, to make it work, while keeping the taxpayer the most important part of it.

Visconti was well received by the close-knit group of members of the OHCC, and promised the Revere residents that his door is always open to their concerns during his campaign and his phone call will always be returned.

Revere community school awarded $9,750 partnership grant from Foundation Trust

Special to the Journal

The Revere Community School (RCS) has received a Premier Partner Grant from The Foundation Trust to support current and expanding programming for its 2023-2024 initiatives addressing the learning needs of adults and seniors living in vulnerable communities. This is the Foundation Trust’s second grant awarded to RCS since 2019 in support of English language education and job training opportunities aimed at providing adults and seniors with skills to improve their quality life.

“Revere Community School is grateful to The Foundation Trust for their generosity and partnership. Their continued support of our work will enable us to develop new and creative programs that directly impact adult learners. Our goal for RCS is to continue to grow and expand the program by collaborating with higher learning, training programs and workforce development programs to provide more opportunities for adult residents of Revere,” says RCS Manager Fatou Drammeh.

This grant will enable RCS to collaborate with The Revere Office of Elder Affairs and Adult Center and expand our programming by supporting seniors to develop communication skills and use information to enrich their quality of life. This will include, but is not limited to, basic English classes to 16 immigrant seniors and computer classes to 36 seniors to encourage digital inclusion and access to devices and the internet. The grant also includes implementing the Foundation Trust Nutrition Initiative providing coffee and healthy snacks to over 250 adults learners, as well as a pilot job-training program to create career pathways that will meet the needs of its students.

“Our seniors are the cherished holders of our diverse heritage,” explains Dr. Joseph Spinazzola, Executive Director of the Foundation Trust “Without their toils and sacrifices, none of us would be here. And the adult immigrants of Revere are and have always been the hard-working cornerstones of our collective future. It is once again our honor to partner with RCS to enhance and enrich the resources offered to these valuable members of our community.”

Established in 2013, Revere Community School is a city-funded program under the Talent and Culture department and hosted by the Revere School district. RCS unites lifelong learners with community and partner resources to empower its adult learners and encourage workforce development, health and wellness, community awareness, and civic participation. Their mission is to ensure quality, robust community-based learning opportunities for residents of Revere, where they can improve their English language skills, attend college preparedness classes, gain employment and citizenship preparation.

This year, the Revere Community School celebrated 10 years of successful community education. During this time, they have served over 8,000 learners who have attended over 500 classes/courses.

ties along the coast,” said Crighton.

Over the past weekend, Crighton said he went to the beach in Nahant and his son asked him if he could imagine the whole world covered in water, and Crighton said the idea wasn’t that far-fetched.

“This is a serious issue, one that affects us not only now, but thinking about future generations and what exactly the beaches will look like,” said Crighton. “Imagine Massachusetts with no beaches, it is certainly a troubling notion for all of us.”

Julia Knisel from the state’s office of Coastal Zone Management said there needs to be a collaborative effort among state and local agencies and organizations to address the coastal impacts of climate change.

Knisel noted that concrete seawalls line the Massachusetts coast, but that many of them are a century old.

“We need to look at the condition and height of the structures relative to current storm surge and conditions, and we need to look to the future, as well,” said Knisel.

There also needs to be a closer look at the lowering of beaches in addition to beach erosion, as well, Knisel said.

Over the past decade, Knisel said the office of Coastal Zone Management has awarded over $34 million in grants to local communities for coastal climate resiliency projects to retrofit current infrastructure and put in place shoreline and dune restoration projects.

Nick Connors of the DCR addressed how that department has pivoted in the past several years to address climate change issues.

“DCR’s mission is to protect, promote, and enhance our natural, cultural, and recreational resources,” said Connors.

Chief among those natural resources are 27 salt-water beaches, many of which are in the Greater Boston area.

“Climate change is already exacerbating natural hazards and extreme weather events leading to new impacts that will affect the Commonwealth,” said Connors. “This is such a critical issue that DCR recognized this and established a new office in early 2021 to develop and implement an agency framework that climate change considerations are included into the agency’s initiatives and agency projects,” said Connors.

The office works across the spectrum of federal, state, regional, and municipal partners to ensure that the DCR is implementing its core values and sustainable practices and resiliency across its infrastructure, assets, and resources, Connors said.

Catherine McCandless of the Boston Environment Department and Delaney Morris of the Boston Planning and Development Agency highlighted the recent planning efforts and proposed climate resiliency projects for Boston’s beaches.

Those efforts include a project at Constitution Beach in East Boston, where officials are looking at a system of berms and dunes with a reinforced core that would reinforce the sandy beach and protect the Blue Line from flooding.

In discussing the Town of Hull’s coastline resiliency efforts, town Conservation Director Christian Kahforst said it is important to listen to and understand local history.

“It really matters to get what locals understand and witnessed in the past,” said Krahforst.

Mancini said the beach commission will begin to zero in on more specifics as it continues to meet in the coming months.

“This is really the first conversation, the first meeting,” said Mancini.

Future meetings will take a deeper dive into individual communities and beaches, although he added that all of the communities and beaches will benefit from the more region-wide discussions.

Revere State Representative Jessica Giannino said the issues with flooding and resiliency in Revere stretch back to at least the Blizzard of ‘78. She also noted that as a city councilor, she would tour beach communities with the public works department as neighborhoods were flooded by storm surges.

In addition to maintaining the beaches for everyone to enjoy, Giannino said it’s important to maintain infrastructure for those who live close to the coast.

“It is also really important that people don’t lose their homes and that we invest in infrastructure that ensures that their homes are still there in 100 years,” said Giannino.

She also said that there needs to be an investment in vegetative berms and other natural solutions to rising sea levels, and not just concrete seawalls which don’t always last.

First Suffolk State Senator Nick Collins praised the advocacy work Save the Harbor, Save the Bay has done over the decades, and said he was looking forward to working with new DCR Director Brian Arrigo on resiliency efforts in the coming years. Collins did suggest that an increased investment from the DCR in providing more beach sand could provide some short-term relief for beach erosion.

HIGH BACTERIA LEVELS LEAD TO LOCAL BEACH CLOSINGS

It hasn’t been the best summer so far for local beachgoers.

Following a rainy June and Fourth of July holiday, many popular local beaches, including Constitution Beach in East Boston and Revere Beach, were closed to swimming due to high bacteria levels.

As of Tuesday, July 11, Swim at Your Own Risk signs because of the high bacteria levels were posted at Kings Beach and Lynn Beach in Lynn, and Donovan’s Beach in Winthrop.

The 53 beaches closed statewide early this week were actually an improvement over last week, when the heavy holiday weekend rains led to over 70 closures. Revere Beach and Short Beach in Revere and Constitution Beach in East Boston were closed to swimming for a time last week, but were reopened to swimming this week.

“The Town of Winthrop conducts weekly tests of the water quality of 5 beaches in Winthrop for levels of Enterococci which is an indicator of fecal pollution and possible enteric pathogens,” Winthrop health officials stated. “When the level exceeds 104 MPN (most probable number)/100 mL, the Town of Winthrop closes the beach. High levels are usually due to heavy rainfall and usually return to normal levels after a retest.”

In Revere, DCR and Revere DPW test the water quality weekly during the summer for a specific type of bacteria; when bacteria levels get too high, the water can become unsafe for swimming or ingestion.

The high bacteria levels typically happen due to high rain events or circumstances that lead to substantial run-off discharging into waterways.

The water will continue to be tested weekly.

Swimming or ingesting contaminated water could result in symptoms like nausea, diarrhea, stomach cramps, chills or fever.

Revere officials stated that if anyone is concerned about their potential exposure to contaminated water when signage is posted to contact their healthcare provider.

To minimize illness and injury associated with swimming, and to notify the public about the quality of beach water, the state’s Department of Public Health collects beach water quality data from local health departments and the DCR. All public and semi-public bathing beaches in Massachusetts are monitored for fecal indicator bacteria (FIB), and on occasion, harmful algae.

Monitoring occurs during the beach season, which begins when the school year finishes in mid-June and ends during the weekend of Labor Day.

THE BOSTON BULL DOGS RUNNING CLUB AT REVERE BEACH

Last Saturday was a perfect day to run, especially at world famous Revere Beach. That’s exactly what the Boston Bull Dog Running Club did-members joined up for a fun day and promoted physical health in doing so. Whatever you’re into, running, jogging or walking there is a place for you with this organization. Yoga too, sponsored by the Namastaysober Group. The main goal of the Boston Bull Dogs is to promote physical wellness at all levels and to support all in the group in their endeavors.

A fine group of men and women enjoying the beach as it’s meant to be, and enjoying life and making it better for those who need a little support along the way.

MERCURY REMAINS PROHIBITED IN THE MAIL

The Postal Service is reminding customers that metallic mercury and devices containing metallic mercury are always prohibited in the mail stream. This includes antique items such as thermometers, barometers, blood pressure monitors and similar devices. However, compact fluorescent lamps, which contain small amounts of mercury in vapor form, are mailable domestically but not internationally.

Here’s what you should do:

1. Review USPS Publication 52, Hazardous, Restricted, & Perishable Mail (<https://pe.usps.com/text/pub52/welcome.htm>), to find out if your item is mailable.

2. Follow U.S. laws and U.S. Postal Service hazmat guidelines.

3. Ship items securely with required labels and markings. Customers can take their package to a Post Office location to make sure it is labeled correctly.

Improper, undeclared, or prohibited hazmat (hazardous material) shipping can have serious consequences for everyone involved.

Full responsibility rests with the mailer to comply with all Postal Service and non-Postal Service laws and regulations in the mailing of hazardous material. Anyone who mails, or causes to be mailed, a nonmailable or improperly packaged hazardous material can be subject to legal penalties (i.e., fines and/or imprisonment), including but not limited to, those specified in 18 U.S.C. The transport of hazardous materials prior to entry as U.S. Mail and after receipt from the Postal Service is subject to Department of Transportation regulations.

If a person knowingly mails items or materials that are dangerous or injurious to life, health, or property, they may face a civil penalty of at least $250, but not more than $100,000 per violation, the costs of any cleanup associated with each violation, and damages. They may also face criminal penalties.

The Postal Service is committed to the safety and security of its employees, its customers, and its transportation networks and will remain vigilant in safeguarding the mail stream against any article that might pose a hazard to health, safety, property, or the environment.

Reminder: Effective July 9, USPS will require Electronic Indicators when shipping Hazardous Materials (HAZMAT) and Dangerous Goods (DG). Publication 52, Hazardous, Restricted, and Perishable Mail (Pub 52) will be revised to incorporate new requirements for mailers to use unique Service Type Codes (STCs) and extra service codes (ESCs) within the tracking barcodes and electronic data submission for package shipments containing HAZMAT or DG.

State officials encourage residents to take free transportation on the ‘T’

By Cary Shuman

With the Sumner Tunnel closed for repairs until Aug. 31, state officials are encouraging area residents to use the MBTA’s Blue Line, which is free of charge.

State Transportation Secretary Gina Fiandaca, an East Boston resident, Lt. Governor Kim Driscoll, State Sen. Lydia Edwards, and Rep. Adrian Madaro appeared at a July 6 news conference outside Orient Heights ‘T’ station in East Boston, asking commuters to “ditch the drive” and take public transportation during the tunnel’s closure to traffic.

“We really want people to know the best way [taking public transportation] to get into Boston during the Sumner Tunnel closure is not only good for their wallet, but for the planet,” said Driscoll.

Fiandaca said officials have been monitoring traffic patterns daily, including in the cities of Revere and Chelsea. “We know that a lot of folks will choose to take the Tobin Bridge, as opposed to the Ted Williams [Tunnel],” she said. “We think all of those alternatives are out there to help people plan their trip on the Mass511 App. If you do need to get to points south of the city, that App is also there to help you.”

Driscoll said she usually takes public transportation at least once a week. “I think I’ll be doing it more. This is a great way to get into Boston. If you have not taken the ferry in to Boston - either from Lynn, Salem, Winthrop, or East Boston - there’s no better way, and we hope that people will do even after the Tunnel is [reopened].”

Rep. Adrian Madaro said, “With the Sumner closed for the next several weeks, traffic is as bad as it’s ever been, and it won’t get better unless we limit the number of cars on the road. As Eastie residents, this is the time to take advantage of the free Blue Line and Ferry whenever possible. The tunnel closure comes with certain unavoidable pains, but together, we can reduce congestion on our streets. Ditch the drive and choose public transit when you can.”

Following the news conference, Driscoll, Fiandaca, Edwards, and Madaro boarded the Blue Line train for the ride to the Government Center ‘T’ stop.

Healey proclaims Hurricane Preparedness Week in Massachusetts

Special to the Journal

Gov. Maura Healey has declared July 9-15, to be “Hurricane Preparedness Week,” recognizing the importance of preparing for the impact of extreme weather. As part of the Administration’s commitment to strengthening community readiness and resiliency, the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) will highlight the Commonwealth’s ongoing hurricane mitigation efforts and offer resources for residents and municipalities to learn what they can do before, during, and after a powerful storm to stay safe and protect property from hurricane-related hazards.

“As climate change fuels extreme weather across the country, every Massachusetts community must plan and prepare for the potential impact of tropical storms and hurricanes,” said Governor Healey. “During Hurricane Preparedness Week, I encourage residents of coastal and inland areas alike to visit MEMA’s website for preparedness information, make a plan, and stay informed about how to take care of yourself and your loved ones before, during and after a storm.”

“Severe tropical storms can have a devastating impact on communities. All Massachusetts residents are urged to learn about and prepare for the dangers of these storms,” said Lieutenant Governor Kimberley Driscoll. “Taking steps in advance to prepare and practice an emergency plan will help individuals and families to stay safe during a storm and recover more quickly when it is over.”

“Hurricane Preparedness Week provides all of us with an opportunity to better prepare for the tropical storms that historically visit Massachusetts in August and September,” said Public Safety and Security Secretary Terrence Reidy. “The significant impact of these weather events – from storm surges on the coast to inland flooding in Western Massachusetts – pose a significant risk that requires thoughtful community planning. I commend MEMA Acting Director Brantley and her team for their commitment to delivering important resources to residents and the communities they call home.”

As part of MEMA’s whole-community approach to hurricane preparedness, the Agency has convened meetings to discuss logistics, operational plans, and capabilities; facilitated numerous local & state tabletop exercises; and will host a Statewide Hurricane Preparedness Symposium in late July to bring together over 250 local, state, federal, private sector and voluntary agency emergency management partners to address topics related to hurricane preparedness, response and recovery.

“Inclusivity remains a top priority in everything we do at MEMA, especially when it comes to preparedness,” said MEMA Acting Director Dawn Brantley. “Whether it’s providing technical assistance to communities seeking to create evacuation or transportation plans for individuals with disabilities, or offering culturally appropriate tips in multiple languages on how individuals can be better prepared – our goal is to ensure that we are ready to support all individuals equally and equitably before, during, and after disasters.”

New England (now NBC Sports Boston). Following her first experience in the sports networking world, she landed part-time promotional work with the Red Sox and Celtics and interned with the Revere Journal after graduating college in 2011.

At the Journal, Mazzarelli focused on becoming a “jack of all trades,” learning the ins and outs of reporting, sales, and sports writing to continue being a part of the sports media space.

Even without the mainstream sports media education that exists today, Mazzarelli put her all into making a career out of an important element of her life. She grew up as an athlete and sports enthusiast, playing soccer in her childhood and continuing with the sport at RHS where she became team captain as an upper-classman. She was a member of the indoor and outdoor track teams as well, realizing she loved the excitement of learning a new sport.

Entering the sports industry, Mazzarelli grew to love the excitement of working directly with teams. In fact, she shocked herself when she packed up and moved to Colorado to work for the U.S. Olympic Committee (now the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Committee).

Starting out, she worked in the Committee’s communications department. In this “overarching umbrella role,” Mazzarelli attended the Rio Games in 2016. She then applied her skills to work with one of the national governing bodies, USA Hockey – working specifically with the U.S. Women’s Hockey Team.

“Getting to work with Team USA... it was really an eye-opening [and]... enriching experience,” Mazzarelli said.

With the team, she traveled to Brazil, Korea, Canada, and Finland, working as the team’s communications manager and main public relations contact. When the team competed in the 2018 PyeongChang Olympic Games in South Korea, she witnessed national history firsthand.

At those Games, the team won gold for the first time in 20 years, leading Mazzarelli to put together a gold-medal publicity tour across North America.

“We did Ellen DeGeneres, we did Jimmy Fallon, we did a number of things. We made so many [television] appearances,” Mazzarelli remembered. “It was just an absolute blast to be a part of that group and be able to elevate the profiles of those women after having, essentially, made history.”

The team made a special place in her heart for women’s hockey and strengthened her appreciation for women in sports – professional and amateur.

Despite the excitement of Team USA, Mazzarelli thought it was time to head back to Boston.

“There was a desire to move closer to home and... settle [down], I had just gotten married and thinking about starting a family,” she said. “The idea of moving back to the Boston area was really attractive to me.”

So, she packed up again and headed back to the Bruins, calling it her “second stint” with the organization. From 2013 to 2015, Mazzarelli started out as their promotions and marketing activation coordinator. In 2020, she was named the Bruins’ marketing director.

“I love my role [as their marketing director]... I have a wonderful team, a wonderful atmosphere,” she said. “It’s very work hard, play hard.”

With the Bruins, Mazzarelli developed meaningful connections with her co-workers and the brand. She said being able to represent a team she’s been a fan of since a young age has been an incredible experience. The organization gave her a “second family,” seeing her own team through nights, weekends, games, and all brand events. In other words, it was the culture that kept her coming back to the Bruins.

In her first year working in professional sports with the Bruins in 2013, “I felt like I was on top of the world... I was hooked from then.”

That year, the Bruins made it to the Stanley Cup Finals in a sprint of a season. Even though they came up short, losing to the Chicago Blackhawks in six games, Mazzarelli grew passionate for the brand she has always loved. Ten years later, she experienced another historic season.

“This past season was incredible; it was obviously incredibly historic. I felt like every single night we had an opportunity to make history... we were just riding the high, it was definitely a ton of fun and I would say morale was incredibly high – everyone was super excited to get to the playoffs,” she said. “Obviously, it didn’t go the way that we all hoped in Round 1 with the Pan-

The Renegades roll on

By Cary Shuman

Continued its season-long dominance, the Boston Renegades bolted to a 58-6 victory over the Alabama Fire in the Women’s Football Alliance (WFA) semifinals Saturday night at Harry Della Russo Stadium in Revere.

Head coach John Johnson’s unbeaten juggernaut will head to the WFA national championship game July 22 in Canton Ohio to play the St. Louis Slam with the hope of winning its fifth consecutive title. The game will be televised live on ESPN2.

The Renegades put on a 60-minute football clinic against Alabama, excelling in all phases of the game: offense, defense, and special teams. Led by their legendary 42-year-old quarterback Alison Cahill competing in her 20th season, the Renegades scored nine touchdowns in their balanced, hurry-up offense.

Alabama head coach Cedric Lane credited the Renegades for taking away its strengths that had produced a 7-0 record.

“For sure, this was thers, but it was still the best season in NHL history and one that won’t be soon forgotten for all the records that were broken.”

Reflecting on her journey in the sports marketing world, Mazzarelli said she could never be more grateful to the first person to give her a break in sports. The once-in-a-lifetime experiences and the people she has met along the way will be held close to her heart for a lifetime.

The 10th annual Revere Beach National Sand-sculpting Festival is set to get underway on July 17, featuring the biggest and best field of carving competitors Revere Beach has ever seen. In fact, some are touting the 15-person field as the largest competition on the East Coast.

After an unprecedented 18-month survey of Revere residents, the Mass General Hospital (MGH) released a comprehensive community assessment and, once again, drug and alcohol use in Revere is the top concern.

With little fanfare, the fences came down and, finally, the pedestrian bridge and plaza at Wonderland Station opened to the public last week.

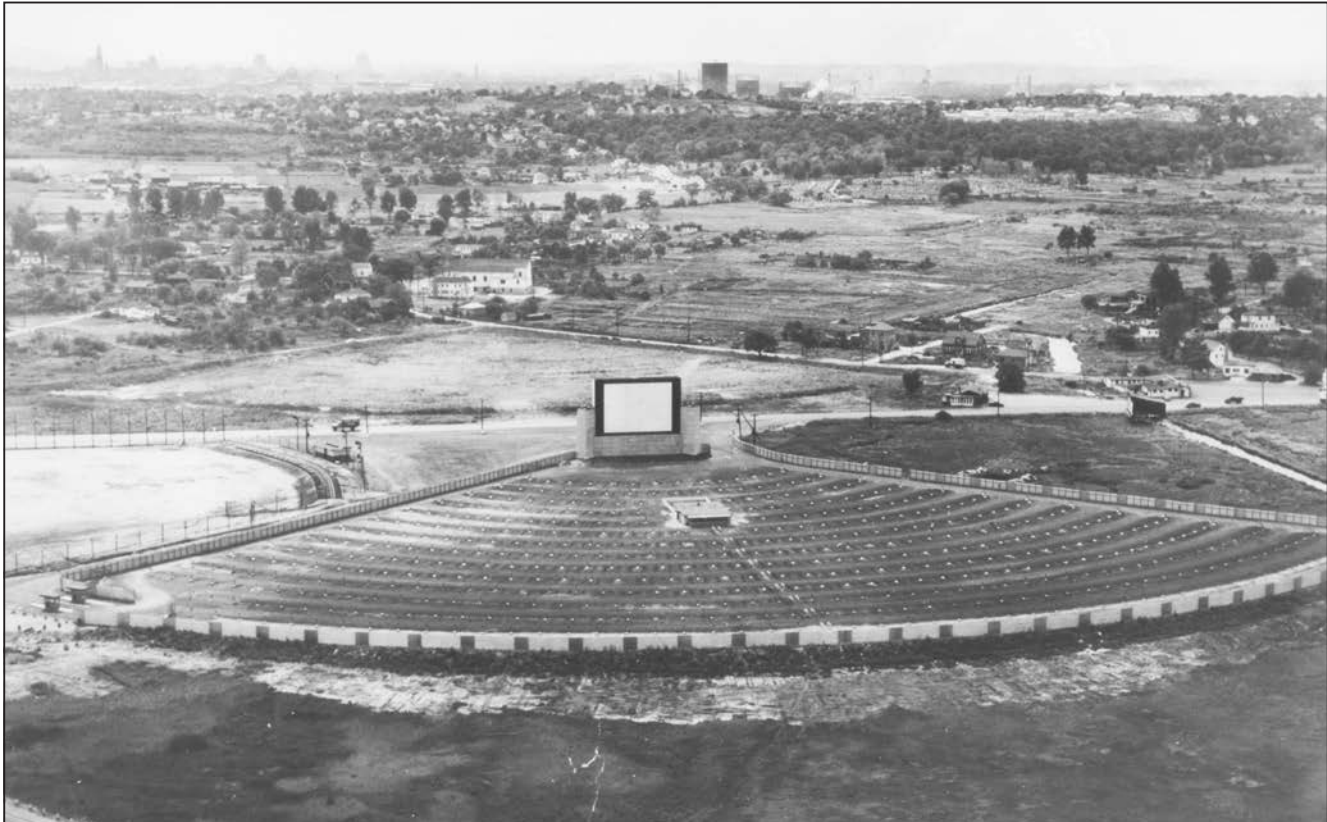

The Lone Ranger, Kevin Hart: Let Me Explain, and Pacific Rim are playing at the Revere Showcase Cinemas.

Crime in the Shirley Ave. neighborhood has been on a noticeable upswing in recent months, most of it related to the youth gangs who are engaging in violence and other criminal activity.

Former Mayor Robert Haas Jr. made it official this week by announcing his candidacy for an at-large seat on the City Council.

Bob Casoli Jr., who has worked as a contract representative for the Department of Defense Army Corps of Engineers and as a steward for Local 25, the Teamsters Union at Wonderland Park, has announced his candidacy for

The free Revere Beach Sea Kayaking program opened for the summer season last Friday. The program, a joint venture of the city and the MDC, will offer free clinics to anyone over the age of 10.

A group of 16 Revere, State, and Chelsea police officers stormed two homes on Thornton Street and Beach Street early Friday morning and made a significant drug bust, arresting a 61 year-old resident in the house at 15 Thornton St. The police also seized $100,000 in cash, more than 100 grams of cocaine, and a firearm.

Rumors are abounding that a Mormon Church is being planned for the site of the former Grover Manor Nursing Home, according to sources close to the project.

The Revere School Department, already the beneficiary of $1.6 million in additional state aid thanks to the education reform bill, stands to receive another $316,000 in state aid thanks to the maintenance-of-effort clause in the education reform bill that rewards school districts that provide a minimal level of funding for their schools.

The Garfield Magnet School is drawing national attention as a model school both for its racial balance and its use of computer technology.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, speaking before an overflow crowd at the General Edwards Inn, said his administration is committed to the successful development of Revere Beach. Dukakis spoke at an "opportunities conference" put together by Mayor George V. Colella and Community Development Office Director Paul Rupp that was attended by more than 100 state, local, and federal officials, as well as potential developers.

Revere Police Lieut. Leo S. Burke died Monday evening in his home when his service revolver accidentally discharged as he was cleaning it and struck him in the head. Burke, 51, was named a reserve patrolman in 1957.

The Licensing Commission unanimously has denied a request for a permit by the Redstone Management group to operate a flea market in its parking lot at the Showcase Cinemas during weekdays. Board Chairman Marion Hamel cited traffic concerns as the main reason for the denial. Redstone then asked Mayor George V. Colella for a Sunday permit, but Colella denied the request.

The City Council has approved Mayor William G. Reinstein's request for $59,085 for the city to purchase a building at 92 Hutchinson St., corner of the American Legion Highway, for use as the new facility for a community health and education center, also known as Operation CHEC. The city has outgrown the present facility on Broadway. The vote was 10-1 in favor, with only Ward 2 Councilor Sidney Dubchansky in opposition.

Ward 2 City Councillor Sidney Dubchansky said that the answers provided by the administration of Mayor William G. Reinstein to 14 questions he has pertaining to the $300 million redevelopment of Revere Beach were inadequate and is demanding more information about the project.

Some local parents are complaining that a game given out as a prize to youngsters at the Fourth of July festivities at local playgrounds was inappropriate. The game, known as Mate Match, is a computerized compatibility fun game comparing players' attitudes, but with many of the questions being sexually-oriented. The games were purchased by the Parks and Rec. Department, but Mayor William G. Reinstein said he would not have given out the game to adult members of the community, let alone children. He said the games can be returned and another prize will be given. Thus far two parents have returned the games of the 60 that were awarded.

The trial in Suffolk Superior Court to determine whether the School Committee can oust School Supt. Dr. John E. Sullivan in the middle of his three-year contract got underway this week.

The School Committee expressed its public disapproval this week at the actions taken by some teachers who only now are announcing that they will not be returning in the fall. Garfield Junior High Principal Louis Sacks told the committee that 10 of the 20 teachers at his school will not be returning in the fall for reasons ranging from maternity leave to leaves of absence to taking jobs in other school districts.

Projected enrollment for the 1963-64 school year reveals that there will be 7602 students occupying desks in the Revere schools, an all-time high and 274 more than this past year. Taxing the schools' capacity even further is the loss of the Lincoln School, which was damaged by a fire set by a student-arsonist in the spring. School officials are hoping to avoid double sessions, as happened at the Paul Revere and Whelan schools last year, by using 10 classrooms at the Williams School in Chelsea.

Residents are mourning the passing of retired Fire Chief Thomas J. McCarrick, who held that post for 29 years until his retirement in 1956. McCarrick passed away unexpectedly at his home at 174 Fuller St. He was 72 and had served in the fire department for 46 years.

The Board of Assessors has announced a reduction of 80 cents in the tax rate to $56.00 for 1953. City Manager Edward P. O'Toole said that the decrease was achieved despite an increase of $250,000 in expenditures over last year and increases of $40,000 as the city's share of the MTA deficit and $65,000 in state charges to the city. O'Toole noted that neighboring communities are seeing large increases in their tax rates.

City Manager Edward P. O'Toole is joining with officials from other cities and towns in the MTA district in expressing their opposition to proposed fare increases to 20 cents for 15-cent fares and to 15 cents for 10-cent fares. O'Toole said the fare hikes will affect low-income groups the most.

Wonderland Park officials presented the city with the most modern inhalator breathing apparatus available. The machine will be operated by firefighters who must receive special training.

The first spike was driven for the extension of two miles of track of the MTA Rapid Transit Line from Orient Heights to Revere. Four new stations at Suffolk Downs, Beachmont, Beach Street, and Bath House will be constructed.

Rita Hayworth and Stewart Granger star in Salome at the Revere Drive In.

This week brought another announcement of Revere's growing list of war dead with news from the Navy Department that Coxswain Kenneth George Snow, son of Henry Snow of 12 Cove Street, died from drowning while in the performance of duty for his country somewhere in the Pacific. No further details have been given at this time. Snow was a graduate of Revere High who enlisted in the Navy shortly after Pearl Harbor. Prior to his enlistment, he was a driver for Flowers Taxi and was well-known throughout the city.

for a Beer Garden with a capacity of 750 persons.

Charles Giuffrida, a resident of 150 Beach St. who is the Treasurer of the RBP, presented the applications. He said that the RBP will hire an outside vendor for the VIP party, which is a ticketed event to honor the Sand Sculpture participants, that will serve beer and a specialty drink that will be contained in a fenced-in area in the sand.

Giuffrida noted that the beer garden will represent a new source of revenue for the RBP that will be sponsored by Sam Adams.

"The Sand Sculpture Festival does not turn a profit," said Giuffrida, who noted that two previous sponsors, Global Oil and Amazon, are not backing this year's event. "The city provides a subsidy for the event, but we are hoping to introduce new ways to wean off this subsidy."

He said the DCR and State Police have been involved with the planning for the beer garden.

Novoselsky spoke on behalf of the applications, noting that "this is a great event" that will be closely-monitored by the State and Revere police.

There were no opponents and the commissioners unanimously approved the applications.

-- The application of The Neighborhood Developers Sandler Square for a 1-day entertainment license to be exercised at Sandler Square on Saturday, September 23, from 1 p.m.–4 p.m. for the annual Shirley Ave. Cultural Festival with an expected attendance of 100-200 persons.

Jasmin Bach, the event manager, presented the application. "This will be the 10th annual festival featuring food and dancing that will celebrate the cultural diversity of the Shirley Ave. neighborhood," said Bach. "It is free to the public and is a family-friendly event."

"I have been involved with this event since day one, 10 years ago," said Novoselsky. "Everybody enjoys it and it is a great event that celebrates all cultures."

There were no opponents and the commission unanimously approved the application.

-- An application by the New England Friends of Bosnia & Herzegovina for a 1-day license for Malt/Wine, Common Victualer, and Entertainment to be exercised at Griswold Park on Sunday, September 24, from 1 p.m.–7 p.m., (with a rain date of Sunday, October 1) for a festival celebrating the culture of Bosnia & Herzegovina with an expected attendance of 500.

Azem Dervisevic, the event manager, presented the application. He said that his group has sponsored similar events in Cambridge for the past seven years and was encouraged by former Mayor Brian Arrigo to conduct a festival in Revere, which has one of the largest Bosnian and Herzegovinian communities in the state.

Dervisevic said that the alcohol-service area will be fenced-off and tended to be a large group of 50 volunteers, who are highly-experienced in serving beer and wine, along with a licensed bartender.

The commissioners had no questions and there were no opponents.

Giuffrida, who is the assistant director of the Revere Parks and Recreation Commission, spoke in favor of the application.

"It means a lot for this festival to be held here," said Giuffrida, who noted that he was in middle school when the first wave of immigrants from that area of the world came to Revere.

Revere native Dzeneta Velic, a 2014 Revere High grad who won a Pose Scholarship to Centre College and has earned an MBA from Suffolk University and who is the secretary of the New England Friends of Bosnia & Herzegovina, also spoke in favor of the application.

"I grew up in the city of Revere. This is an event we have been doing for the past seven years in Cambridge," she said. "We have folk dancing, entertainment, and we bring together generations from our community. We are looking forward to bringing it to Revere for the first time."

-- An application from Las Parceritas for a 1-day license for entertainment to be exercised on the grounds of the Beachmont School on Sunday, July 23, from 12 p.m.–5 p.m. for a cultural event celebrating Colombian Independence Day with an expected attendance of 400–500.

Diana Cardona, the event manager, presented the application.

"This celebrates culturally the independence day of Colombia," said

Cardona, who noted that the ambassador from Colombia supports the event and that no alcohol will be served. "This showcases our culture with dancers and singers."

Giuffrida noted that Revere has the second-largest Colombian community in the state and that the Parks and Rec Dept. fully supports the event.

There were no opponents and the commission unanimously approved the application.

The commission also approved an application for a change of officers for the local Lodge of Elks. James Hannon, the club's manager, presented the application on behalf of Revere Lodge #1171 of the B.P.O.E. of U.S.A., Inc., 198 Shirley Ave., for a change of officers/directors to reflect the latest election of club officers.

"Every year we have elections and every year we have new officers and directors," said Hannon.

Novoselsky spoke in favor of the application.

"I've been a member there for 35 years," said Novoselsky. "They run a good show and we had a good election and we're looking forward to it continuing."

There were no opponents and the commissioners unanimously approved the application.

The commission also approved an application from Mahavir Enterprises, Inc., d/b/a Convenient Market & Deli, 270 Broadway, Hardik Patel, manager, for changes of manager, officers/directors, ownership, and transfer of stock, from Rajendrakumar Patel to Hardik Patel for a Malt/Wine Package Store license.

Attorney Elizabeth Pisano of the Boston firm of Upton, Connell, and Devlin succinctly presented the application to the commission. She explained that Hardik Patel is the son of Rajendrakumar Patel, who is retiring and selling his interest in the business to Hardik. Pisano noted that Hardik has been assisting his father with the operation of the business for many years and is familiar with the laws regarding the sale of alcohol and is TIPS-certified.

The commissioners had no questions, there were no opponents, and the commission unanimously approved the application.

The commission received two communications, which were as follows:

1. Communication from Ward Councillor Serino concerning noise complaints from neighboring residents of Scalzi Hospitality Corporation d/b/a Casa Lucia.

2. Notification from Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC) of the approval of a change of officers/directors for 99 West, LLC d/b/a 99 Restaurant & Pub.

The commission then adjourned until its next meeting, which is scheduled for July 19.

THE CITY OF REVERE CELEBRATES THE 4TH OF JULY

Mavi Salla deciding what to do next.

The City of Revere and its Parks and Recreation Department, led by Director Mike Hinojosa and his staff, held an outstanding Fourth of July celebration at the Susan B. Anthony Middle School Complex. Families enjoyed a fun-filled day of activities, delicious food items, and musical entertainment. Though inclement weather forced Revere officials to move the event ahead one day to July 5, everyone had a great time celebrating and observing America's 247th birthday.

the best team we played all season,” said Lane. “They’re real physical up front and they’re well coached. I have a lot of respect for Boston and their coaching staff.”

In the middle of the Renegades’ 39th consecutive victory was Amanda Alpert, the team’s starting center who is the director of athletics at Chelsea High School. Combining with starting tackles Hilary Crook and Ashley

Beckham, guards Samantha McKay and Jessica Hayden and reserve Molly Winsten, the offensive line provided the awesome blocking that helped running backs Tytti Kuusinen and Ruth Matta account for close to 250 yards rushing and three touchdowns. Meanwhile, Cahill was extraordinary while completing 14 passes for 175 yards and five touchdowns. Stephanie Pasqual had six receptions for 31 yards, scoring two touchdowns. Chante Bonds, who was honored with the Tradition’s prestigious Football Legacy Award in December, used her speed and elusiveness to turn a screen pass into a 46-yard touchdown, one of two scores for the Renegades all-time great.

Alpert was proud of the offensive line’s performance and her individual contribution to team’s success this season.

Alpert said the Renegades work hard on game preparations on and off the practice field. That extra effort has certainly showed up on the scoreboard as the Renegades have won 39 games in a row and built a WFA football dynasty.

“I think what we do day in and day out, people underestimate the work that they we put it in on and off the field to be better and be the best, honestly,” said Alpert.

Part of that incredible preparation extends to the Renegades’ kicking game. Alpert is the team’s long snapper on extra points for placekicker Vanessa Baer, who was a perfect 8-of-8 on PATs in the victory. Baer has been close to flawless all season for the league’s highest-scoring team. Ashley Beckham is the holder on extra points.

Alpert credited the Renegades’ defense for shutting down the Fire’s usually explosive offense. Fire running back Kelli Smith had been virtually unstoppable during the regular season, but the Renegades kept her in check.

“She’s [Smith] absolutely a great player,” said Alpert. “She plays offense and defense. She’s an athlete.”

Defensive back Megan McFadden made a huge play early in the game, stepping in aggressively to break up a pass that ended Alabama’s drive. Defensive back Carolyn Glynn had an interception as the Renegades frustrated Alabama quarterback Courtney Billingsley all game with their superb pass rushing and pass coverage.

Asked if the 2023 season has been satisfying, Alpert said, “Up to this point it has. But I won’t be completely satisfied until the final whistle of the championship game when we have more points than the St. Louis Slam.”

Revere residents will be able to watch the Renegades’ quest for perfection live on ESPN2.

Four Revere Men Hurt in a Collision of Autos Thursday Night on the Andover Pike

Three young men were slightly injured and a fourth more seriously in an accident which occurred on Turnpike st., Andover, 2 a. m. Thursday morning. It occurred on a slight grade at a point on the highway about a mile from the Middleton line. According to the police, two cars sideswiped each other, one a Ford coupe driven by Ralph Anthony, 19, of Winter street, Salem, and the other a Plymouth coupe, operated by Joseph A. Morgan, 21, of Grand View avenue, Revere, who was the one most seriously injured. The Plymouth, bound for Lawrence, after coming in contact with the Ford, careened to the left of the road and overturned on the car tracks. The car driven by Anthony was on its way to Salem. The young men riding with Morgan, who were only slightly injured, include John Ahmen, 23, of 23 Warren street, Revere, owner of the Plymouth; Stewart Ahmen, 24, of 75

Baker road, Everett; Harry Hansen, 24, of 125 Glendale street, Everett. The Anthony car was one of two which was carrying a group of musicians back to Salem having completed an engagement in a New Hampshire town. Anthony stated on the right hand side of the road Friday morning that he was well over and had his country lights on, which he dimmed upon seeing the approach of the other car. It, he claimed, struck his left front wheel and fender. He commandeered the other car in his party and rushed the injured lads to the Salem hospital, where three of them were dismissed following treatment. Morgan is still being detained at the hospital. He sustained a fractured finger on his left hand, cuts about the face and a possible fracture of the skull. His condition, however, is not serious, hospital authorities stated Friday morning.

Cowes Held For Manslaughter of North End Youth

Hyman Cowes, 21, of 32 Franklin st., Revere, was arrested Wednesday by officers of the Hanover-st. station, Boston, on charges of manslaughter and dangerous driving. The case arose from the death on Tuesday night of Gaetano Sprango, 19, of 23 Clark st., North End, who was knocked down by an automobile driven by Cowes. The boy died a short while after being taken to the Haymarket Relief hospital, where he was first placed on the danger list.

Beachmont and Winthrop Boys Held for Thefts

Two youths, alleged by police to have fleeced Boston merchants out of hundreds of dollars' worth of goods, were arraigned in Cambridge court before Judge Walcott Thursday, charged with conspiracy and larceny of a hammer. A similar complaint against a third was dismissed. Wilbur Smith, alias Webster Smith, 24, of Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, and Henry Saggese, 21, of Reed street, Winthrop, were held for the grand jury in $1500 each, after Judge Walcott had found probable cause. The case against Louis Mancuso of Marshall street, Winthrop, was dismissed. It is alleged by police Smith and Saggese, posing as representatives of Boston firms, called up other houses in Boston and asked that orders for certain goods be filled and sent by messenger. One, it is charged, phoned the Dodge, Haley Co. of Cambridge and ordered a drill. Instead of sending a drill, the firm sent a hammer, having become suspicious of the order. Police were notified and Officer Edward L. Kelley made the arrests. Police say they recovered $700 worth of alleged stolen goods at the home of the youths in Revere and Winthrop. Boston police officers were waiting for the release of the pair on bail in connection with other cases of a similar nature.

E. Mark Sullivan Out for Governor on Republican List

E. Mark Sullivan, prominent Republican, formerly corporation counsel of Boston, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor at a dinner at the University Club Wednesday night. Among those present, who will form the nucleus of his campaign committee, was Senator Conde Brodhead of this city. Others on the executive committee are Ex-Mayor Michael J. O'Hara of Worcester, Edward J. Breen of Fitchburg, Representative John Comerford of Brookline, John P. Harrigan of Worcester, Thomas Guiney of Brookline, Judge Albert Welsh of Beverly, Arthur D. Cooper of Boston, John H. Higgins, Jr. of Newton and Thomas J. Shea of Springfield.

Mr. Sullivan lives at 25 William Jackson av., Brighton. He is a member of the law firm of Mullen, Sullivan and Spain, 40 Court st. He was graduated from Boston College in 1900, attended Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1903. He was formerly associate justice of the 3d District Court of Essex and assistant United States Attorney. He was corporation counsel under Mayor Curley from 1922 to 1925.

As a boy in his native town of Ipswich Mr. Sullivan was a carrier and reporter for the "Ipswich Independent," owned by Lewis R. Hovey, publisher of the "Journal." At an early age he showed unusual oratorical ability and an unbeatable ambition to become a lawyer, earning much of his early education as a newspaper correspondent.

"Mark" Sullivan was one of the few Irish Catholics of prominence to openly advocate the election of President Hoover four years ago. He is well known in Revere, where he has spoken in political campaigns and in the gatherings of the Order of Elks.

Fourth of July's Events of Ward 5 Planned for Fall

In Ward Five celebration for the holiday was held at the Freeman Street Fire Station and in Oak Isl. and. The rain, however, forced a postponement of the racing events possibly till Labor Day or some other time in the fall. More than 300 children were served with ice cream and candies by Councilman Richard Armstrong who was assisted by Acting Lieut. S. Sparrow, Private Bart Lepito, Abraham Marcus, George Foley, David Potts, William Short, Joseph Draper and James Danahy.

Residents of that district claimed this week that the celebration planned for the Fourth of July and of which they had charge, probably would be staged on Labor Day, just before the start of the fall school session.

One of the objects in advancing the date to September is to allow the members of the committee to collect a larger sum of money and to provide for a more elaborate celebration.

It is understood that there will be no objections to the postponement to this later date from Councilman Richard Armstrong, who had charge of the entire ward celebration.

RADIO AND OTHER ARTICLES STOLEN IN FRIDAY BREAK

A break in the fruit stand at 484 Revere street was reported between 12:45 and 1:00 a. m. yesterday morning, Friday; and a radio and a number of smaller articles were stolen.

Entrance was gained by prying off the lock of the front door. No evidence of who made the robbery could be found.

The following articles were taken: on Pilot radio, valued at $29.50; one case of coca-cola, value, $1.00; 20 packages of cigarettes, value $3.00; and five pounds of candy, worth about 80 cents.

Former Revere Pastor Dies At Cambridge On Holiday

The death of the Rev. Frederic Palmer, D. D., former minister of the First Congregational Church in Revere, who died late Monday at the home of his brother, Professor George H. Palmer, 11 Quincy street, Cambridge, became known in this city this week.

Rev. Palmer served a pastorate at the Revere church from 1874 to 1878, when he became deacon of 48, Adams, corner of Prince st. One year later he became connected with the Emmanuel Church of Boston.

A few years later he accepted a call to the pastorate of Christ's Church in Andover which he held for twenty-five years. In 1913 he was appointed as lecturer on homiletics at Harvard Divinity School.

In June of the same year he assumed the duties of managing editor of the Harvard Theological Review and from that time on was a contributor of religious essays to various church journals throughout the country.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marty Towne Palmer and one son, Prof. Frederick Palmer, Jr., of Haverford College in Haverford, Penn., and also by several grandsons and his brother.

Revere Trust Co. Will Pay Its First Dividend Soon

Approximately $135,419.84 will be distributed in the declared dividend of fifteen percent on the savings department depositors of the closed Revere Trust Company, it was announced Tuesday by Liquidating Agent John W. Corcoran.

This sum of money will be disbursed among more than 4000 depositors in the department. The date of payment has, however, not been announced by Agent Corcoran although it is expected that it will be sometime within the present month.

It was announced that additional dividends would be declared when the affairs of the bank become more straightened out.

Bangor Minister Commits Suicide At Revere Beach

The sound of a revolver report attracted the attention of Officer George D. McCormack of the Metropolitan Police Department on Wednesday morning to the Hotel Pleasanton at the beach, opposite which he found a man, identified as the Rev. Ralph E. Blanning of 393 State street, Bangor, Maine, nearly dead and bleeding badly about the mouth.

The officer immediately rushed the injured man to the Massachusetts General Hospital, but he was pronounced dead upon their arrival there.

Description of the suicide victim was sent out on the teletype in an effort to identify him, there being nothing on his person to do this.

He was described as a man of between the years of 45 and 50, had mixed gray hair, was wearing a gray suit, a light brown topcoat and tan shoes, and had on a blue sweater marked 4-4 B. L. In his pocket was found a bottle of Noxovomica with a label of Jones Drug Store, Biddeford, Me., on it, thus possibly connecting him with that locality.

The body was taken to the northern mortuary for identification. At 10 o'clock in the morning the information which revealed his identity was made known by the Rev. Walter R. Hunt of the Unitarian Society.

The shooting occurred at about 6:30 a. m. and was done with a 38 calibre revolver.

Suffered Nervous Breakdown Bangor friends of the Rev. Mr. Blanning told newspapermen that the minister had been suffering from a nervous breakdown for several weeks and that his despondent act must have been the final comedown from that.

Rev. Blanning, who went to the pastorate of the Unitarian Church in Bangor from Omaha about six years ago and had previously been an Episcopalian, narrowly escaped death several months ago when he was found beneath his automobile in his garage, suffering from monoxide poisoning.

Following his recovery, he resigned from church work and asked to be relieved to rest and study. He was induced to remain and withdrew his resignation, but a few weeks ago definitely resigned. He was at Revere for a vacation and rest.

The body of the dead man was taken to Bangor for burial.

BROOKLINE DRIVER NARROWLY ESCAPES AS TANK EXPLODES

As he was driving along the Revere Beach Parkway, opposite 1055, on Wednesday night, Joseph Logan of 17 Davis avenue, Brookline, narrowly escaped serious injury, when the two-door sedan in which he was riding suddenly caught fire and the gasoline tank exploded just as he jumped out to the street pavement and safety.

Chelsea fire apparatus and the Revere rescue wagon responded to an alarm and extinguished the blaze. The rear end of the car was demolished by the force of the explosion. Logan was singed, but not badly burned.

He said he stopped on the Lynn marsh and ate a lunch, after which he drove into the parkway, everything appearing to be all right. Feeling extreme heat on his back, he stopped the car and got out. As he did so the gasoline tank exploded from some unknown cause.

Door of Passing Truck Stuns Revere Man's Horse In Chelsea

A horse owned by Israel Barrett of 63 Centennial ave., this city, was injured Wednesday when it was struck on the head and knocked down by the door of a passing truck on Second st., Chelsea.

The truck was operated by Peter Mugnano of 122 Bow st., Everett. According to his report, the rear door swung open as it passed the horse.

The blow stunned the animal and knocked it to its knees. The horse sustained a cut on the left side of the nose and on each foreleg at the knee.

Fifty-eight men of the 1932 graduating class of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, were appointed from the enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps.

Revere and Winthrop Have a Finger in Election of County Commissioners of Middlesex

A peculiar situation exists relative to the election of county commissioners in Middlesex county. It was brought to light by the submission of nomination papers of two candidates to the Election commission for certification of signatures. The papers state that the candidates are to be voted for in Middlesex county and in the Town of Winthrop and the City of Revere, which are in Suffolk county.

Commissioner Erson B. Barlow, when questioned relative to this situation, said that it has been the practice for many years and is in accordance with an act of the legislature giving the Middlesex County commission jurisdiction in certain matters pertaining to Winthrop and Revere. Suffolk county has no county commission, the duties of that body being carried out in Boston by the city government, and in Chelsea by the Board of Aldermen of that city.

Mr. Barlow said that while Winthrop and Revere pay taxes to Suffolk county for the support of courts, jails and other county institutions, they pay no tax to Middlesex county and in no way contribute towards the salaries of the members of the Middlesex County commission. The members of the Middlesex commission are called upon to execute the duties of the county commission in tax valuation matters, laying out of roads, questions pertaining to railroad crossings and such matters, but any expense for such procedures are paid by the city or town.

The situation was brought to light by the submission of the nomination papers of Nathaniel I. Bowditch of Framingham and Walter C. Wardwell of Cambridge, who will seek the Republican re-nomination for office.

In answer to questions, Mr. Barlow said that he could see no way of preventing a resident of either Winthrop or Revere from running for commissioner of Middlesex county, if he desired. He said that he had never heard of such an effort being considered, however.

July Fourth Races Postponed in Ward One Until Sunday

The Ward 1 celebration for the 4th, was a distinct success as far as the weather conditions permitted. The interference of the weatherman was the only bad feature, which resulted in the postponement of the races until Sunday, July 10 at 2:30 p. m.

A large committee of workers assisted Councilman Thomas U. Kelley in the distribution of the refreshments for the children. The committee estimates that it took care of approximately 1200 children, with plenty of "extras" after all present had partaken of the ice cream, cookies, candy and tonic. On the return of the tonic bottle, each child was given an 8 by 14 inch flag.

Councilman Kelley has filled a large store window with the prizes, which are on display, and which were donated by Senator Conde Brodhead, Rep. T. F. Carroll and Rep. A. Airola, and Councilman Kelley.

The races for Sunday will be preceded by the baseball game in the morning between the Married Men, under the guidance of Frank Petro, and the Single Men, under the leadership of Henry Lazzeri, who claims victory for his men.

Besides a special race between the members of the City Council, an added feature is the race between "Nate" Siegel and Danny Grant, Siegel claiming he can handicap Grant one lap and still beat him around Fredericks Park where the races will be held.

A baseball game will be held between the Beachmont Vets team and a well known outside team, after the races. So a busy afternoon is in store for the Beachmont children and grownups for Sunday.

Councilman Kelley is promised assistance by Rep. T. F. Carroll who will act as referee and Senator Brodhead, who will also try to participate. Rep. Airola will be pressed into service as a judge, if possible.

Winthrop K. of P. Gives Stage, Screen Show Here

The Winthrop Lodge No. 56, Knights of Pythias, presented a "Gala Benefit Stage and Screen Show" at the Revere Theatre last night, Friday.

Mayor Andrew A. Casassa delivered a benefit address for the Winthrop Lodge.

Democrats Place Walsh At Head Of Financial Policy

At the Democratic City Club meeting held on Thursday night in the banquet room in City Hall, the local Committee prepared and adopted the two major platforms on which it will work in the coming campaign for City elections and placed Dr. John E. Walsh in charge of the new financial revisions policy on which the Democrats will work.

The first platform which the Democratic Club adopted calls for a scientific revision of the entire tax values of the city; and the second platform indicates that the Club will support any man, irrespective of party affiliations, of proven financial rectitude who is removed from political impulses for the office of mayor in order to provide basic grounds between state and banking officials.

To fulfill the latter program, Dr. John E. Walsh, 223 Beach street, was requested on an order to take charge.

Dr. Walsh is a former mayor of the city of Revere. He preceded the Hon. Andrew A. Casassa in that capacity.

Alexander Webster Found Dead In Road Corner Park Avenue

While standing at the corner of Broadway and Central avenue early Wednesday morning, Officer James Dooley was called by Private James Matthews to the corner of Park avenue and Irving street where they found an unknown man, later identified as Alexander Webster, 70, of 42 Irving street, lying on the curbing in an prone condition.

They rushed the man to the Massachusetts General Hospital where he was pronounced dead by Dr. George Burgess Magrath, medical examiner, who said the man had died from natural causes.

Telephone reports to the Revere police led them at first to believe that the man was the victim of an accident, but no sign of any accident

Wander the Greenway

By Penny & Ed Cherubino

Summer is a great time of year to enjoy a dog-friendly wander along the Greenway in Boston. Dogs are welcome in this linear park if their humans abide by simple rules. The park conservancy explains, “To ensure clean, safe spaces for a wide variety of users, strict on-leash and clean-up policies will be enforced within The Greenway. ‘Clean up after your pet’ practices are required. Dogs and other pets are not permitted in any of the park fountains, water features, or planting beds.”

You know how your dog reacts to crowds and loud music. Check the calendar of events in the park before choosing a day to visit. Larger events might make the park too congested for a relaxing dog walk.

Features Along the Way
The Greenway website (<http://www.rosekenedygreenway.org>) offers an interactive map that helps you find features, restrooms, public art, and transit. For this walk, start at the sculpture and labyrinth at the Armenian Heritage Park location and make your way to Dewey Square.

We know that dogs are happy if they have new aromas to sniff, some water and shade as needed, a small treat from time to time, and you by their side. Our dog Poppy loves to people-watch from a bench. She enjoys the carousel and people playing at the ring fountains. She adores the aromas from the food trucks.

Enjoying Trillium with Your Dog

On some days of the week, you’ll find a food truck at the Trillium Beer Garden, where dogs are welcome, and you can bring your own food to enjoy with your beer. In addition to the food trucks, you can also pick up take-out from places along Atlantic Avenue. We suggest a lobster roll from James Hook & Company. This year the beer garden is open from 3 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays and from Noon to 10 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and Noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Poppy has a lot of experience behaving in restaurants because she’s had a lot of practice in Provincetown. As more restaurants obtain permission from the City of Boston to have dog-friendly seating in their outdoor spaces, many guardians will need to work on training their dogs to behave in these situations. Beer gardens like this one are a great place to start.

As in all other Greenway spaces, leashes are required. Since we will be eating and need our hands, we use a carabiner on Poppy’s leash to attach her to one of our legs or a sturdy table or chair. She’s a small dog, so we try to keep her under our table. If you have a big dog, try to get him to settle near you.

A visit to a beer garden is a great activity for a group of friends who often dog walk together. With extra humans, if one dog needs to step outside for a quick walk or a time-out, the rest of the group can hold the table and mind the food.

Getting There

If you arrive by car, on-street parking in this area is scarce, but plenty of public parking lots exist. You can also do a combination, drive to an MBTA station with parking, and finish the journey on the MBTA.

Dogs are welcome on the MBTA outside rush hours and at the driver’s discretion. There are three MBTA stops close to this route, Aquarium on the Blue Line, Government Center on the Green Line, and South Station on the Red Line.

Commonwealth Shakespeare Company announces the cast and creative team of Shakespeare’s classic Macbeth

Special to the Journal

Commonwealth Shakespeare Company (CSC) and Steven Maler, Artistic Director, announce the complete cast and creative team for this summer’s production of Shakespeare’s tragedy Macbeth on the Boston Common. Performances begin on July 19 and run through Sunday, August 6 at the Parkman Bandstand. The production will be available for press viewing from Wednesday, July 26 and is presented in partnership with the City of Boston, Mayor Michelle Wu, Parks and Recreation Commissioner Ryan Woods, and Boston Chief of Arts and Culture, Kara Elliott-Ortega.

In Shakespeare's classic tragedy, an unexpected prophecy sends Macbeth on a quest to become King of Scotland. Consumed by ambition and prompted to action by his wife, Macbeth's desire for power unleashes his unbridled hunger for power. This murderous tale explores the consequences of our choices when we lose our moral compass.

Actor, writer, director, and producer Faran Tahir* returns to CSC to play the title role. He received enthusiastic media and audience reception in the title role of Richard III on the CSC stage in 2019 and has recently completed the much-acclaimed run of The Kite Runner on Broadway.

The role of Lady Macbeth will be performed by stage, TV, and film actor Joanne Kelly* in her CSC debut, previously seen in Boston as Inge Morath in Fall at the Huntington Theatre. She recently starred in the Matt Damon/Ben Affleck set-in-Boston television show City on a Hill and was a cast member playing Juliet in the famed Canadian series Slings and Arrows.

The complete cast includes Marianna Bassham* as Malcolm, Jesse Hinson* as First Witch, Nael Nacer* as Macduff, Omar Robinson* as Banquo, Joe Penczak* as Duncan/Siward, Daniel Rios, Jr.* as Ross, Fred Sullivan Jr.* as Sergeant/Porter/Doctor, and Eviva Rose as Young Macduff. The ensemble roles are played by Lily Ayotte, Nick Baum, John Blair, Elijah Brown, Annika Burley, Alexa Cadete, Jack Greenberg, Jessica Golden, Bella Grace Harris, Cleveland Nicoll, and Xander Viera. *Denotes member of Actors' Equity Association

Performances of Macbeth will take place at the Parkman Bandstand on the Boston Common and are FREE of charge. Audience members can bring blankets or chairs or can rent chairs in advance or on-site for $10 and are permitted to bring modes food items to consume at the show. Seats in the CSC Friends section will be available for reservation in late May along with your donation. Dinner-and-a-Show Packages will be available in partnership with Boston Chops Downtown Crossing.

CSC provides a range of accessibility services, including open captioning, assistive listening devices, and large print programs at every performance, and ASL interpretation and audio description at selected performances.

All performances will be Open Captioned as part of our new Access Infrastructure Initiative, made possible through the generous support of the Richard and Susan Smith Family Foundation.

Audio Description and ASL Interpretation will be offered Saturday, July 29, , at 8:00 p.m. and ASL Interpretation on Friday, August 4, at 8:00 p.m., with a Rain Date for Audio Description and ASL Interpretation at Sunday, August 6, at 8:00 p.m.

Macbeth is supported by our generous sponsors and partners: Boston Chops, The Liberty Mutual Foundation, National Endowment for the Arts, the Klarman Family Foundation, Massachusetts Cultural Council, Ovation TV, Xfinity, Boston Cultural Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, GBH, EDGE Media Network, Meet-Boston, Massachusetts Convention Center Authority, Downtown Boston BID, the Max and Victoria Dreyfus Foundation, The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, City of Boston Parks and Recreation, The Boston Globe, Suffolk University, DIG, The Newbury Boston, Vantage Graphics, MIX 104.1, Democracy Brewing, and Ben and Jerry’s.

Knock on Wood rocks out on American Legion lawn July 23

Special to the Journal

Howie Newman and Joe Kessler, also known as Knock on Wood, are anything but a typical folk combo, performing well-known rock covers and funny original songs (suitable for all ages). Their varied repertoire includes everything from Tom Petty to the Eagles to the Rolling Stones. They may also add a few children's songs.

No matter what they play, it features excellent musicianship, pleasing vocal harmonies and ... lots of fun.

wood) will be playing a free outdoor concert at the Revere American Legion, 249 Broadway, on Sunday, July 23, 6-8 p.m.

Newman (guitar, harmonica, vocals) is the songwriter and his engaging manner has charmed audiences all over New England. Song topics include modern technology, not-so-graceful aging and his wife's inability to parallel park.

A former sportswriter for the Boston Globe, Patriot Ledger, Lynn Item and other newspapers, he will also be performing one or two of his many baseball songs, which include "It's the End of the Curse and We Know It," an R.E.M. parody.

Kessler, who plays fiddle and mandolin, has an energetic improvisational style that includes folk, rock, jazz and bluegrass. He has toured extensively throughout the United States and Canada as well as eight other countries, performing with Morphine, Jimmy Page and Robert Plant, the Boogaloo Swamis and many others.

"We're not the traditional guitar-and-fiddle duo," says Newman. "Joe and I like to keep things up-tempo, do some rock covers and get the audience involved. The idea is

Healey recommends Stephanie Everett, as new Suffolk Register of Probate and Family Court

Special to the Journal

Governor Maura T. Healey announced that she is recommending Stephanie L. Everett, Esq. for appointment as Suffolk Register of Probate and Family Court. Everett is currently the Executive Director of the Office of Police Accountability and Transparency for the City of Boston and, through her legal career, has represented families with cases before the Probate and Family Court. She would be the first Black person to serve as Suffolk Register of Probate and Family Court.

The Probate and Family Court Department handles court matters that involve families and children, such as adoption, divorce, child support, and wills. In the case of a vacancy, the Governor has the authority to appoint the Register of Probate and Family Court with the advice and counsel of the Governor's Council to serve out the remainder of the term, which currently goes through the end of the 2024.

Stephanie L. Everett, Esq.

"The Register of Probate and Family Court has a critical role to play in supporting families and children, particularly during the most challenging moments of their lives," said Governor Maura Healey. "Stephanie Everett is uniquely qualified to step into this position as she has interacted with the court as both a young mother and an attorney, and she has built an incredible career advocating for justice and equity for her community of Boston. I'm proud to recommend her for Suffolk Register of Probate and Family Court and believe she has the experience, professionalism, determination and empathy needed to serve the families, lawyers and staff that rely on the Court."

"Stephanie Everett has dedicated her career to serving the people of Boston, and the Governor and I are excited for her to take her service to the next level," said Lieutenant Governor Kim Driscoll. "Her voice, perspective and leadership will be invaluable in shaping the future of the Probate and Family Court. We look forward to working closely with our colleagues on the Governor's Council to advance this appointment."

"The Probate and Family Court is largely unknown to many Massachusetts residents – until they need it. That often comes at the most painful moments of their lives, when a marriage dissolves or they have a child at a young age or they experience the death of a loved one," said Stephanie Everett. "As someone who has experienced the Court from both sides, as a young mother and as an attorney, I'm intimately familiar with the impact it can have on people's lives, as well as the fear, frustration and confusion that families face far too often when interacting with the Court. I'd be honored to have the opportunity to serve as Suffolk Register of Probate and Family Court and to use my experience to guide other families through the system and leverage every resource at our disposal to better ensure the future success of every person who interacts with the Court."

a brilliant and effective attorney and public servant who has devoted her career to serving others, particularly our most vulnerable residents," said Boston Mayor Michelle Wu. "In our years working closely together, I've seen firsthand Stephanie's deep commitment to transparent and accessible government, and I know she will bring her values and her many talents to this important role. I applaud Governor Healey and her team for this nomination and urge Attorney Everett's swift confirmation. We will miss her in our administration, but are grateful that the families of Suffolk County will be well served under her leadership."

In 2021, Everett was appointed the City of Boston's first Executive Director of the newly created Office of Police Accountability and Transparency, which is responsible for investigating complaints of police misconduct and ensuring that the Boston Police Department's internal affairs review process is fair and thorough. In this role, she oversaw a budget of $1.4 million and a staff of 11 full-time employees. As a member of Mayor Michelle Wu's cabinet, she advised the mayor on public safety matters. Everett also successfully advocated for funding to create a year-long internship program and youth advisory council to bridge the gap of youth access to government and strengthen relationships with law enforcement.

"Stephanie Everett is

Prior to her work with the city, Everett was a solo law practitioner for eight years. She served as the lead counsel on jury and bench trials before Criminal and Juvenile Sessions and as a member of the Norfolk County Bar Advocate Program, accepting indigent clients facing criminal charges and families involved with the Department of Children and Families. She also served as a legal expert for various panel groups seeking to inform underserved and underrepresented communities with information about their rights and changes in law.

Everett has also served as the Chief of Staff of the Massachusetts Department of Transitional Assistance, Deputy Chief of Staff in the Office of State Senator Sonia Chang-Diaz, and Manager of Public Safety for the Metropolitan Area Planning Council. She is a graduate of Northeastern University and Suffolk University Law School and a member of the Massachusetts Black Lawyers Association.
