A Year in Review

It was a year of major transitions for Revere in 2023.

As 2023 comes to an end, 2024 will see a new mayor and a reshaped City Council as many of the issues that dominated the headlines over the past year should continue to play out.

In April, Mayor Brian Arrigo resigned from office to take the top job at the Department of Conservation and Recreation.

Arrigo had already announced he would not run for a third term in office in 2023 when he stepped down to take the DCR job.

With Arrigo's departure, City Council President Patrick Keefe took the reins as Acting Mayor, while Ward 1 Councillor Joanne McKenna became Council President Pro Tem.

The resulting mayoral campaign set off the chain of events that would reshape the council, as three at-large councillors gave up their seats to challenge Keefe for a full term as mayor.

Keefe and Councilor and former Mayor Dan

Rizzo bested Steve Morabito and Gerry Visconti in the September preliminary election, with Rizzo topping the ballot.

However, the general election saw Keefe come out on top by about 360 votes, a margin that survived a recount that was filed by Rizzo.

With Keefe, Morabito, Rizzo, and Visconti giving up their council seats, the council race saw a number of newcomers elected for the new session beginning in January. In the at-large race, incumbents Anthony Zambuto and Marc Silvestri will be joined by Robert Haas III, Michelle Kelley, and Juan Pablo Jaramillo.

One of the big issues the council will need to deal with in the coming year is the ongoing effort to build a new Revere High School.

It was a rollercoaster of a year for the school building efforts, as it initially appeared the city was moving forward with plans to build a new high school on the 30 acre-plus Wonderland site.

School Committee recognizes Ferrante

By Michael Coughlin Jr.

During its last regular meeting of 2023 on December 19th, the Revere School Committee recognized Michael Ferrante, who will be departing from the Committee after 18 years of service.

Back in August, the Revere Journal reported that Ferrante had not pulled or submitted nomination papers by the deadline, meaning he was not running for re-election on the School Committee. Fast Forward to the end of 2023, a Ferrante-less School Committee is now about to be a reality.

"It's not the end of the world, people — I'm still going to be here; I'll still be around," said an emotional Ferrante in comments made at last week's meeting.

Ferrante has been a stalwart member of the community, serving for four years on the City Council and, as mentioned, 18 years on the School Committee for a whopping 22 years of service to Revere. "I really want to thank the residents because without them, I would not be here," said Ferrante.

In his address, which undoubtedly tugged at your heartstrings, he thanked his colleagues and saved the biggest thanks for his wife, Ellen.

"She's the one that had to deal with the meetings, the phone calls and I really can't thank her enough for what she's done," said Ferrante.

Parziale continues to have the back of Revere residents

By Melissa Moore-Randall

Throughout the recent election, there was one constant supporting everyone's campaign. Anthony Parziale, a native of Woburn, has said he always wanted to put his attention towards other people.

Anthony Parziale.

He has described himself as having a plethora of careers including radio, trash, and real estate investing. "I began my radio journey at 18 or 19 years old, working at AM 680 WRKO. I secured my first full-time position at 20 on The Hill-Man Morning at 107.3 WAAF and remained on the morning show for about 15 years. My last radio job was at 93.7 WEEI for a few years. During my time in radio, I initiated a trash hauling business called Take Junk, which I still own. Additionally, I owned and operated two Homevestors real estate investment franchises (both sold around 2020).Currently, I am the host of "Spaz'n Out America's Podcast" and gradually winding down Take Junk after 11 years."

Growing up in a competitive house with a father who was an Italian immigrant and four brothers, he attended Woburn Public Schools from first grade through graduation at Woburn High. During high school, he participated in sports such as football, wrestling, track and field. "I served as the captain of the wrestling team, known for my heart despite not being a stellar wrestler. Anthony holds a degree in communications from Middlesex Community College."

"While in college, pursuing my communications degree at Middlesex Community College, I dedicated much of my time to working in Boston at WRKO. Although my primary focus was on securing a full-time job in radio, I also wrote for the school newspaper and gained national recognition for an article on the expansion of Route Three. I started working full-time at WAAF just before graduating."

Married to his wife Kali and Dad to Noiram, 16, and Presley, 9, he decided to run for Revere City Council for one reason ... the people. "I ran for the people! Putting the people first, always. Everyone has the right to be heard and to take part in the decisions that shape their lives. The people of Revere deserve to have the best representation in the country. I love them all and I have their back 100%", added Parziale.

Despite narrowly losing a seat during the November election, Parziale hopes to run again in 2025 with the motto "Revere Have Your Back". He does offer hope for the newly elected administration. "I want the people to be first ! The government works for the people and not the other way around. The people need to win and be considered first in every decision."

SEN. LYDIA EDWARDS’S 43RD BIRTHDAY

Story & Photos by Marianne Salza

Senator Lydia Edwards celebrated her 43rd birthday on December 13 at the Reel House. Supporters, as well as local and state officials, honored Edwards for her leadership, reflecting on her accomplishments in housing and LGBTQ+ pride.

"I have been honored to work in partnership with her," said Attorney General Andrea Campbell, introducing Edwards. "We have been in the trenches for a long time together, starting off as young, black, women lawyers trying to figure out our careers in a Burger King on Huntington Ave., talking about service and taking risks."

Campbell commended Edwards for prioritizing the diverse community. Campbell and Edwards have served the Boston City Council together, focusing on issues that protect the vulnerable.

"You cannot do the work of protecting the rights of citizens, consumers, or businesses if you don't have great partners. She is aligned in spirit and values; and understands the challenges it can be to be a woman of color serving an elected roll in this moment in time," Campbell described about her connection with Edwards. "She gets things done."

This year, Campbell and Edwards have been striving to build affordable housing, provide evicted residents with access to legal representation, and ensure people have wealth-building opportunities in their neighborhoods. They protect reproductive rights, and push for gender-affirming care.

"It is significant, and it is amazing," admired Campbell. "This is a beautiful thing and needs to be celebrated."

First Lieutenant in the Massachusetts Army National Guard Lydia Edwards declared that she will lobby for gun reform, sustainable rent control, and civil rights for medical care.

"People are coming to Massachusetts, in many cases, to make sure that they are safer," acknowledged Edwards. "We're going to continue to make this a beacon of hope and safety. That's what we do at the State House."

Edwards is pushing for limiting the prices charged for prescription drugs, and for opportunities that al-also took the time to give him his flowers. Superintendent of Schools Dianne Kelly lauded his expertise, leadership, and commitment to students. "As a Superintendent, I know how fortunate I am to have School Committee members who sit here only because they care about what's happening for the kids in the city, and Michael [Ferrante], you are one of those people," said Kelly.

"I think I'm blessed to have a whole committee who's like that, but Michael, you are 100% in this for the kids."

The School Committee's Vice Chair, Stacey Bronsdon-Rizzo, was also complimentary of Ferrante's leadership, professionalism, and friendship.

"I am grateful for your dedication for our students and everything you've done for our district," said Bronsdon-Rizzo, later calling Ferrante a "true friend."

Before the School Committee presented Ferrante with a Chelsea clock, Mayor-Elect Patrick Keefe spoke about the big shoes that will need to be filled with the departure of Ferrante and Carol Tye.

Tye was unable to attend last week's meeting but has been invited to the School Committee's January meeting to be recognized.

"The School Committee is losing over 50 years — maybe 60 years of service between Mr. Ferrante and Carol Tye, and it's going to take some time to catch up," said Keefe.

Keefe later added, "We know that you are not going anywhere, and you're down the street, and we will see you walking around the neighborhoods as you do with your wonderful family, and I'm sure that we'll tap on you for advice as time continues on."

Following Keefe's comments, Ferrante was presented with his clock and shared a hug with Keefe.

"I will miss it because it's a big part of my life, but like I said, any help I can give the city, I'll always be there," said Ferrante.

"I just want to really thank everybody for what they've done to help me to get through the 22 years — thank you very much, everybody."

Dr. Kalise Wornum, RPS families discuss becoming a culturally proficient caregiver

Workshop focuses on equity and inclusion

Special to the Journal

Revere Public Schools Assistant Superintendent of Equity and Inclusion Dr. Lourenço Garcia is pleased to announce that a group of caregivers, community members and teachers recently engaged in a discussion on cultural proficiency with well-known speaker Dr. Kalise Wornum of KW Diversity, Inc.

Dr. Kalise Wornum.

Dr. Wornum, a nationally sought-after keynote speaker, educational leader, workshop facilitator, and author in the area of anti-racist education and cultural proficiency, led the December workshop that emphasized the importance of being open-minded and accepting when it comes to cultural proficiency. “The minute we start talking to each other, we realize everybody brings something different to the table,” said Dr. Wornum. “If we’re trying to be a more equitable school district, we all need to be on the same bus and learn from each other’s experiences, trauma or diversity.” Using the National Education Association’s definition of ‘cultural prurien- cy,’ Dr. Wornum said, “It’s the ability to successfully teach students who come from cultures other than their own. It entails developing certain personal and interpersonal awareness and sensitivities, developing certain bodies of cultural knowledge and mastering a set of skills that, taken together, underlie effective cross-cultural teaching.” Dr. Wornum said that while she gets what the definition means, it doesn’t tell us enough. To break down what we’re really talking about, she pointed to the words of Ralph Ellison, author of the 1952 novel Invisible Man. The Invisible Man reflects on the various ways in which the nameless main character has experienced social invisibility during his life and begins to tell his story. “He wrote, “Show me how I can claim that which is real to me, while at the same time teaching me a way into the larger society. Then and only then will I sing your praises and help you to make the desert bear fruit,” said Dr. Wornum. “If the first thing we say to kids is to learn this, but we are not curious about who they are, then we’re seeing them as a deficit instead of lifting them up. It has to be relationships before rigor. Relationships before rules. What does that demand of the educator? What does that demand of the teacher? What does that demand of you, the parent? It demands that we first see the child, understand the child and learn about the child before we can teach the child. We have to learn about the child in front of us.” This strategy, Dr. Wornum argues, challenges us to be more curious about cultures other than our own. For educators, it’s natural to see students’ vulnerabilities and work with them to support their differences, but Dr. Wornum wants educators and caregivers to learn more and dig deeper into all the various cultures of students. “The anatomy of an inequitable classroom is curriculum without windows and mirrors,” explained Dr. Wornum. “When our schools have a curriculum that does not have a window for students to see a world larger than themselves or a mirror for them to see themselves in the curriculum, it is not equitable. Every lesson you put in front of the child, you need to say, “This is for you, and I designed this for you.” Dr. Garcia echoed Dr. Wornum and said, by nature, we are the place where we’re born and raised and will carry that history and culture with us for the rest of our lives. “We are a school system where you have close to 70% of students from different countries,” said Dr. Garcia. “So, it’s our vision and our mission to build an environment that is diverse, that’s anti-racist, and one that really understands where people come from and the history and culture they bring.

Superintendent of Equity and Inclusion Dr. Lourenço Garcia engages in a discussion with Dr. Kalise Wornum.

The vision is to build a culture around us and address inequities when place that celebrates the we see them.”

Parents, teachers and community members joined in for the discussion.

Lincoln School students head to Boston for visit with District Attorney

Special to the Journal

On December 11, The Abraham Lincoln Elementary School in Revere participated in a fieldtrip into Boston to visit the Suffolk County District Attorney Kevin Hayden’s office where they learned about many aspects of the criminal court system. Twelve fourth- and fifth-grade student council members made the trip, along with the principal and three teachers and staff members. The group met with District Attorney Kevin Hayden and several of his staff to learn about the mission of the DA’s office and the various roles of the people working there. They also visited a courtroom and met with Superior Court Judge Adam Sitsitsky, Chief Court Officer Richard Linehan, and staff from the Suffolk Superior Court. Students enthusiastically asked questions about the role of juries and how cases proceed through the system. They also voted on a mock case and found the defendant (a staffer from the DA’s Office) guilty of stealing candy from a family member. At the end of the visit, the students wrote about what justice means to them, and one answer included, “It means that the truth is found, and people are safe.” The Suffolk County DA’s Office and Revere Public Schools have a strong partnership that includes ongoing trainings for students, staff, and caregivers, as well as collaboration on efforts to support young people in Revere. The Suffolk DA’s Office is committed to working with schools and students in Suffolk County and is grateful to the dedicated staff of the Abraham Lincoln school, including Principal Cassandre Sermon, Deanne Mancia, Jessica Potter, and Alexa Sasso for their commitment to providing students with opportunities to engage with community leaders. “These young students displayed a huge amount of civic involvement and enthusiasm for learning during their visit, and my staff and I could not have been more proud—and more admiring—of the way they asked questions and showed endless curiosity about how the DA’s office and the court system works. I hope to see all of them again. Perhaps as lawyers, advocates or judges in the system they learned so much about on their visit,” Hayden said.

2023 marked the first time in 30 years that Revere High School students took to the auditorium stage to perform a musical for residents. The Drama Club, led by Theatre teacher Kristina Menissian, performed their rendition of "In the Heights" in April.

Late in 2022, the council approved a $30 million taking of the Wonderland property by eminent domain to build the new school and potentially develop a smaller portion of the property, as well.

Early in 2023, the owners of the Wonderland property filed a lawsuit against the city seeking additional compensation for the land.

Late in February, the council voted 6-4-1 against approving the Revere High School project's schematic design submission to the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA), ending most hopes of building the school at the Wonderland site.

The High School Building Committee was tasked with coming up with options to build a new high school on the current school site.

Early next year, the School Committee and the council could be faced with choosing an option for the new school at the current site and approving funding for the project.

Currently, the building committee is looking at four-, five-, and six-story building options for a new high school with an estimated cost in the range of $550 million, with the MSBA grant potentially picking up about $220 million of that cost. If the proposal stays on track, the new school could open for the 2028-29 school year.

Residents took the initiative on several issues facing the neighborhoods over the past year.

Neighbors opposed a proposed 24-bed homeless assistance facility on Arcadia Street, bringing their opposition to City Hall and to the streets. The neighborhood, city officials, and the developer were able to work together to rescind the plans for the development and come back with a proposal for townhouse units at 84 Arcadia St.

While a new high school is still in the planning stages, there was some major news this year on other municipal building projects

A new public works facility opened on Charger Street, with nearly twice the square footage of the old facility and indoor storage for the department's vehicles.

Street on Jan. 2. The center is an expansive, state-of-the-art facility that sets a new standard for health and fitness for youth and residents in the City of Revere, according to Keefe.

The new Point of Pines Fire Station also moved closer to becoming a reality, and the city moved forward with the Riverfront Master Plan with plans for the redevelopment of Gibson Park as the private development of the former G&J towing site continued.

After concerns were raised by some city officials, the new Amazon distribution facility on Squire Road at the former movie theater site opened in time for the holidays.

On the public safety front, the beginning of the summer season once again saw unrest at Revere Beach during the Memorial Day weekend, with three people injured during two separate shootings.

Councilors asked for answers and greater cooperation between Revere police, state police, and the DCR to help prevent further incidents along the public beach.

Later in the year, the council honored and recognized members from the Metro North Regional Emergency Communications Center; Dispatch Supervisors Ashley Goodwin and Jesse Fiorentino, Dispatchers Christopher Stewart, Brenna Kaiser, Alex Doerflein and Briana Reyes, and call takers Lauren O'Hara and Katherine Granda for their Meritorious actions for the shooting incidents that occurred at Revere Beach during their 2023 Memorial Day Weekend shift on Sunday, May 28.

Tensions simmered down as the summer progressed, and Revere Beach hosted yet another successful International Sand Sculpting Festival at the end of July, welcoming artists from across the world and tens of thousands of visitors to the beach and the city.

The Public Art Commission, chaired by McKenna, continued its push for a community art center at the old Beachmont Fire Station over the past year and advocated for public art installations and festivities in the city.

The International Sand Sculpture Festival celebrated its 19th year on Revere Beach this summer with a theme of King Kong, for the gorilla's 90th Birthday. Hundreds of thousands of residents and visitors from across the state and region made their way through Revere for the weekend of festivities.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

We often quote a verse from Alfred Lord Tennyson’s “Ring Out Wild Bells” when we write our annual New Year’s editorial.

But after re-reading the poem in its entirety, we are printing the whole thing, because it sums up -- better than we ever could express -- our feelings about 2023 and our hopes for 2024.

Although it was published in 1850, its verses are timeless. Indeed, one could apply every stanza to something going on in the world today.

So we hope you take the time to read it and enjoy it, as we did the other day:

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.
Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more,
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.
Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.
Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out thy mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.
Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.
Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.
Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

We wish all of our readers a Happy and Healthy New Year.

Housing leaders celebrate 12 out of 12 MBTA Rapid Transit communities adopting new zoning ahead of year-end deadline

Special to the Journal

Leaders of housing advocacy groups celebrated the Chelsea City Council, who unanimously voted to pass new zoning to create more homes near transit in line with the MBTA Communities Law. With this vote, all 12 Rapid Transit Communities have met the year-end deadline to adopt new zoning – a historic feat.

The communities who have voted for new zoning (or had existing zoning they believe complies with the law) are Braintree, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Milton, Newton, Quincy, Revere, and Somerville. Their districts combined allow for a capacity of over 83,000 homes in the future.

While all of the rapid transit communities’ zoning plans still require certification by the Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities, advocates nonetheless view this moment as a milestone in solving the Commonwealth’s housing crisis.

“This is a major first step taken by the urban core communities of Boston to allow zoning for more homes. Local advocacy was and will continue to be key. This is ultimately a pledge towards building more equitable, inclusive, and environmentally sustainable communities. AHMA was proud to support advocates in 7 of the 12 rapid transit communities (Brookline, Malden, Newton, Cambridge, Somerville, Milton & Medford). Grassroots organizing and advocacy was pivotal in the adoption of these new zoning bylaws. There is a continual need for education and organizing and we are proud to spearhead these efforts in collaboration with local pro-housing advocates,” said Jesse Kanson-Benanav, Executive Director of Abundant Housing Massachusetts.

“These communities are leading the way in saying yes to more housing. Zoning alone will not solve our housing shortage, but it is a critical tool for eliminating barriers to creating more housing in the places people want to live. By allowing for more housing to be built in transit-oriented neighborhoods, we are moving closer to meeting our goals for housing affordability and sustainability across the Commonwealth. CHAPA is proud to have played our part in these victories through our Municipal Engagement Initiative and our 3A Technical Assistance Program, which have supported planning and organizing efforts in Braintree, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Milton, Medford, Newton, and Revere,” said Lily Linke, MBTA Communities Engagement Manager at CHAPA.

In addition to the Rapid Transit Communities that faced a 2023 deadline, more than a dozen additional communities have passed new zoning or had existing zoning they believe complies with the law – a year or more in advance of their own deadlines.

The MBTA Communities Law was passed in 2021 with the intention of creating more housing options for people in 177 cities and towns served by the MBTA system. While new zoning won’t require homes to be built, it will streamline the process for approval of multifamily housing – such as duplexes, townhouses, and small apartment or condo buildings – near transit stations.

In 2024, 130 additional communities will be required to adopt new zoning, followed by 35 communities in 2025 to reach the full 177.

The contest for the City Council presidency, once thought to be securely in the grasp of Al Fiore, the top vote-getter among the at-large councillors, has turned into a barroom brawl between Fiore and Arthur Guinasso, who served as the Council's president last year. Fiore had told the Journal a few weeks back that he had enough votes for the president's seat, but Guinasso said that since Fiore has announced his candidacy for state representative to challenge incumbent William G. Reinstein, many of Fiore's colleagues believe he is using the presidency only as a stepping stone to advance his political career.

OBITUARIES

Laura Lee Burgess Talented Violinist and Gifted Teacher

Laura Lee Burgess, late resident of Revere, beloved wife of Carlos O. Campos, died on December 22 at the age of 58. She passed peacefully, surrounded by love and gentle care, following a rapid decline, after months of ill health.

Laura was raised in Oakmont, PA, the daughter of Patricia Burgess of Pennsylvania and Norman Burgess of North Carolina and sister of Nancy Burgess of Pennsylvania. She moved to Boston to attend the New England Conservatory, where she earned a degree in Performance.

Laura was a talented violinist who played in numerous trios, quartets and orchestras throughout her life. She received her Master's in Music Education at the Boston Conservatory and was a trained Suzuki teacher. Laura was a gifted teacher and shared her love of music with countless children. She worked for many years in public school systems in Greater Boston, most recently in Arlington, teaching strings in the elementary schools. She also taught music, writing and summer camp for many years at Creative Arts in Reading.

In addition, Laura maintained a private studio, teaching children, young people, and adults. The numerous cards and gifts displayed in her studio for "Mrs. B" serve as a loving tribute to her warmth, compassion, and enthusiasm for her students.

In addition to her love of music and the arts, Laura was an avid reader. She also loved being in nature, whether driving through the White Mountains with Carlos to watch the leaves change, watching the waves crash on the beach, or just enjoying the birds and breezes on the deck built for her by Carlos.

A life-long learner, Laura's recent explorations into genealogy lead to a deeper appreciation for her family and her history.

Laura was a profoundly loving and supportive wife, friend, daughter, sister and aunt to her beloved nephews and nieces. Despite years of declining health, she remained committed to those she loved, and wished she could have spent more time with us. And we so wish we could have had more time with her. Laura was a gift to us all. She will be dearly missed.

Visiting hours will be conducted in the Carafa Family Funeral Home, 389 Washington Ave., Chelsea, today, Wednesday, December 27, from 6 to 8 p.m.. All services will conclude in the Funeral Home. Revere Marine Sgt. Vito A. Tomeo of 80 Lynnway and a fellow Marine have been cited in news reports as being responsible for killing up to 51 Japanese soldiers in machine gun nests within a 15 minute period during the landing operations on the island of Tarawa. Tomeo's family was ecstatic to read of the news because they had not heard anything from their son for the past few months. Tomeo fired deadly-accurate mortar blasts at the enemy pillboxes from his foxhole, killing 30 Japanese in one and 21 in the other. The Japanese machine gun nests, masterpieces of defense in depth, held up the Marine advance for 48 hours and made the capture of the bastion of Tarawa one of the bloodiest of the war in the Pacific to date.

Simple but impressive inauguration exercises for city officials are scheduled for January 3.

RHS BOYS BASKETBALL CORRALS MUSTANGS, 50-43

The Revere High School boys basketball season earned its first victory of the season with a 50-43 triumph over Great er Boston League (GBL) rival Medford last Tuesday at the Merullo Fieldhouse.

The Patriots got off to a fast start. Junior point guard Avi Lung (five points, four assists) scored off the opening tip. Senior forward Ryan El Babor (six points) made two nice drives to the hoop and senior co-captain Andrew Leone (who turned in a nice double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds) sank two free throws to give Revere a 10-6 lead to end the opening period.

The second quarter went even better for the home Patriots. Junior guard Josh Mercado knocked down a corner three-pointer off a nice drive and kick pass from junior guard Ethan Day. Senior center Amir Yamani made a nice drive from the top of the key and Leone drained a trey from the wing to extend the lead.

The last few minutes of the quarter turned into the Ethan Day Show, with the junior forward scoring the Patriots' last four baskets

RHS girls basketball set to play at TD Garden

By Melissa Moore-Randall

The Revere High School Girls' Basketball team has a chance to live out a dream that many young ballers have, but few fulfill. With help, this squad of the best and brightest from Revere will be able to capitalize on an opportunity to play where legends walked and dreams were realized. The Lady Pats have been invited to follow in the footsteps of Bird, Russell, Tatum, Brown and play at TD Garden, also historically known as The Boston Garden.

On Sunday January 14th, at 10:00 am, the hometown heroes will take the court against the vaunted Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. Wait, that's not quite right, they are playing the vaunted Notre Dame Cougars from Hingham, that makes more sense, but they can't do it without the community's help.

You can use the QR code that will take you directly to the site where you can purchase tickets for the event. Tickets are $25. The team needs to sell 200 to assure the girls' spot on the parquet.

There will be a full slate of games that day from 8:00 AM until 8:30 at night, so it is a great gift for that high school basketball super fan in your family. The event benefits the Andrew James Lawson Foundation (The Andrew James Lawson Foundation - The Andrew James Lawson Foundation) A great cause that helps to further community inclusion for those with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

If you cannot make it to the event, but would like to help, we are accepting donations as well. For more information, please contact: Coach Ariana Rivera, arivera@reverek12.org or Leanne Stamatopoulos, leannestama@hotmail.com

The Revere High hockey team improved to 2-0-1 on the season with a 5-0 triumph over Swampscott last Wednesday and then scored a goal in the final 11 seconds of their game with Lynn Saturday evening to earn an exciting 3-3 tie. The contest with Lynn saw a dramatic turn of events in the closing minute for both teams. Lynn initially took a turn to celebrate when the visitors lit the red lamp with 1:13 to play to break a 2-2 deadlock. However, the Patriots refused to fold. RHS head coach Joe Ciccarello pulled goalie Adam Comeau at the first opportunity in favor of a sixth skater, Joe Ristaino. As the clock ticked down to the final seconds, Patriot Rich Polignone had control of the puck in the corner and sent a centering pass to Ristaino. The sophomore made a nifty move around two Lynn defenders and tucked the puck past the Lynn goalie for the equalizer with just 11 ticks left on the clock. In Wednesday's 5-0 blanking of Swampscott, Marco Mazzarelli potted two goals and sophomore Maxx Anderson recorded the shutout, making 20 saves. The Revere High boys indoor track team claimed first place in six of the nine individual events to run away with a 51-35 victory over Lynn English last week. Tarik Maddrey was a double winner for the Patriots, taking home first place honors in the high jump with a leap of 6'-2" and in the 50 yard hurdles in a time of 7.1. Other first place finishers for Revere were Anthony Destefano in the shot-put with a toss of 40'-6"; Younes Hartout in the 50 yard dash with a sprint of 5.8; Salah Barhoum in the mile in 5:20.8; and John DellaRusso with a two mile run of 11:46. The Revere High girls indoor track team won eight of nine individual events and swept three to cruise to an easy 67-15 victory over Lynn English last week. Brenda Rudecindo was the top point-scorer for Revere with 10 points, winning the high jump with her leap of 4'-6" and charging over the 50 yard hurdles in 8.3. However, the other big news from the meet was the new school record set by Comfort Toglan in the 50 yard dash with a time of 6.5 seconds. Comfort now holds two Revere High School records, having established the school mark in the 300 last year. The other first-place finishers for Revere against Classical were: Janice Destefano with a shot-put throw of 30'-3"; Vanessa Leone in the 300 in 53.4; Danielle Fortuna in the

on a few tough drives and a baseline floater. Ethan's offensive outburst propelled Revere into a 28-19 advantage as the teams went into the locker room at halftime. The Revere defense came out swarming after the intermission, led by Mercado (five steals) who was asked to cover a much bigger player in GBL all-star Justin Marino of Medford. Marino, who averages 22 points per game, was held to just 11 points. Day (18 points, six assists) continued with his hot hand and Leone, Lung, and El Babor all sank baskets in the run to extend Revere's margin to 40-27 heading into the final quarter. The Mustangs however, would not go away easily. Medford picked up its intensity on defense and cut the Patriots' lead down t five points, 42-37, with just over three minutes remaining in the contest. Revere got a huge lift off the bench from junior forward Erick Mayorga (four points), who made a tough shot in the lane and a jump shot from the elbow to give the Patriots a little breathing room. Day then drove for two layups (off great passes from Leone and Mercado) and Leone then pulled down an offensive rebound and put it back in to close things out, 50-43. RHS head coach David Leary was pleased with his team's effort, but stressed that there is a lot to improve on. "This was a nice team win and we got contributions from a lot of guys," said Leary. "I thought the key to the game was Mercado's toughness on defense trying to contain Marino. Ethan and Andrew really carried us on offense and with (senior co-captain) Luke Ellis in foul trouble all game, Ryan, Amir, and Erick gave us a nice lift off the bench. We have a lot we can improve on, but this was a nice start." Two nights later Leary and his crew hosted GBL archrival Chelsea in yet another epic battle between the two fierce foes before a packed Merullo Fieldhouse featuring boisterous fans on both sides -- and as always, the two teams gave the large crowd quite a show. Revere senior co-captain Luke Ellis (five points, six rebounds) got the Patriots' offense going with a three-pointer from the top. Senior co-captain Andrew Leone (five points, seven rebounds) had a strong drive to the basket and despite the aggressive and physical Red Devils' defense on junior guard Ethan Day (18 points, eight rebounds), Day got to the basket twice to give the Patriots a slight 9-7 edge at the first buzzer. The second quarter was back-and-forth. Revere junior guard Josh Mercado (nine points, three steals) hit two jump shots. Day got to the basket and made two tough floaters in the lane and sophomore forward Sean Burnett (nine points, four rebounds) sank a fast-break layup and a pull-up jumper. But the Chelsea pressure defense was the story in the first half. The Red Devils caused Revere to commit 15 turnovers and the visitors took a 23-21 lead into the half. "I knew we were going to have a tough time against a very aggressive Chelsea defense and they really controlled the second quarter," said Leary. "We needed to get the ball inside, but we could never get it there." The third quarter started off with the same trend, as Chelsea forced four straight turnovers, scoring on all of them, to build a 31-21 lead just two minutes into the frame. Leary called a timeout and tried to settle down his young squad, but the Red Devils scored again to go up by 12. However, the Patriots found their rhythm. Day reversed the game's momentum when he got to the basket, scored, was fouled, and made the free throw. Burnett then made a very athletic catch-and-finish on the fast break and hit a jump shot at the top of the key. After Day made two more tough shots in the lane, Revere had cut the Chelsea lead to 40-35 to end the third. Revere junior forward Erick Mayorga (five points, four rebounds) made two nice baskets in the paint to start the fourth quarter. Day once again drove to the basket and Leone sank a three-pointer from the wing to give Revere its first lead since the opening period. The Revere defense was really tough during that stretch as, after a Mercado hit corner jump shot, the Patriots turned a five-point deficit into a five-point lead. However, Chelsea junior guard Edwin DeJesus got hot, making a nice layup and two three-pointers to put the Red Devils ahead, 48-45 with 1:48 remaining in the game. The next sequence was very intense. After a missed shot, Leone fought for an offensive rebound, dove on the loose ball, and tipped it to Mayorga up top. The junior forward then swung the ball to the corner to Josh Mercado, who calmly drained the game-tying trey with 1:08 to go. The Revere defense caused a turnover and the Patriots brought the ball up the court to take the lead. Revere moved the ball around and with the shot clock winding down, it got into the hands of Luke Ellis. The senior forward banked in a Jack Sikma-like fadeaway to put the Patriots up 50-48 with 33 seconds remaining. Chelsea pushed the ball up and a Revere player blocked a shot out of bounds under the Red Devils' hoop with 14 seconds to go. Revere called their last timeout to set up their defense. Chelsea got the ball inbounds and swung it up to their senior point guard, Brauli Quezada, who swished a deep three-pointer to put Chelsea ahead, 51-50. Revere pushed the ball up, but Day's desperation shot at the buzzer came up short. "Well, that was an excellent atmosphere for a high school game, but it always is when we play each other," said Leary after the tough loss. "We did not take care of the basketball -- 24 turnovers will not lead us to many wins. We just have to be better. We will work on it, but I was proud that the kids did not quit and fought back. We almost stole that one." Revere, now 1-3 after having dropped its season-opening games two weeks ago at GBL foes Lynn Classical and Lynn English, will host a Holiday Tournament starting tonight (Wednesday) with a contest against non-league opponent Lynnfield at 5 p.m. Depending on the outcome, the Patriots will play in either the championship or consolation game tomorrow (Thursday) against either East Boston or Medford. The Patriots will travel to GBL foe Malden next Wednesday. KENAN BATIC WINS 600 IN SEASON-OPENING MEET Kenan Batic won the 600 meter dash with a clocking of 1:38.62 for the Revere High boys indoor track and field team in their season-opening dual meet with Greater Boston League (GBL) rival Somerville two weeks ago at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston. Kenan's time was the second-fastest of the day, just 0.70 off the fastest time, among the GBL teams, all of whom competed at the Reggie where all of the GBL's dual meets will be held this season. Two other changes this year for the GBL's indoor season include the relay, which this year will be a 4 x 200 instead of the 4 x100, and the addition of the long jump event. The RHS 4 x 200 relay quartet of Oliver Escobar, Randi Rodriguez, Danny Hou, and Jeremy X came up short in their race, falling short by 2.03 seconds to the Highlanders, but their clocking rated second-fastest among the eight GBL teams (the other six GBL schools competed in a pair of tri-meets). A number of Patriots scored three points for the RHS side of the score-sheet vs. Somerville: Allen Hou in the 55 meter dash (6.93); Youness Chahid in the 1000 in 2:48.68 (a time that was just 0.70 behind the top Somerville runner); Danny Hou in the long jump (18'-6.75"); and Allen Hou in the shot-put (39'-9"). The duo of Lucas Jimenez and Allen Hou tied for second place in the high jump with a Somerville opponent with leaps of 5'-0". Contributing single points with third-place efforts were Oliver Escobar in the 55 dash; Fajr Riazi in the 55 hurdles; Danny Hou in the 300 dash; Keeper Celany in the long jump; and Nicholas Aguirre in the shot-put. The Patriots will be seeking their first win of the season when they compete in a tri-meet at the Reggie after the New Year.

HOLIDAY memories

- I've had many pleasant memories of the holiday season, but my earliest one is this: I'm three years old on Christmas Eve sitting on the living room carpet, surrounded by family members, the smell of arroz con gandules, and warm yellow light. The front door opens, bringing a gust of cool air with it, and the room grows loud in collective greeting as an older cousin, distant in blood but close in our hearts, walks into the house. I turn my head to look, and in his arms is the most beautiful burnt orange stuffed tiger I have ever seen. Oh, I really hope it's for me.
- Time passes and now I'm seven and in church with my brother Cesar and a bunch of other community kids as we celebrate la novena de los aguinaldos, asking baby Jesus in song to come into our hearts. We shake maracas and sing all the villancicos that we will soon know by heart. After the novena, maybe we will go to my aunt's house and eat natilla and buñuelos.
- Many more Christmases blur by, and my aunts start a tradition of going up to a cabin with all our younger cousins to be together for three or four days. Over the years we make snow creatures, learn board games, create (and star) in homemade movies, and have intense NERF gun battles. We also stay connected with each other, learn and love each other's interests, and look out for each other no matter what.
- Fast forward. I'm 16 now at New Year's, and sick out of my mind. My dad had plans for us to have a night out in Boston. We were originally going to attend some public events, maybe eat out, and then go see the fireworks at midnight, but then I went and caught the world's worst cold. We try to attend some of the events, but after some time my dad sees that my body is not up for any of it and mercifully, we call it quits.
- However, by this time it's already too late at night to drive back to his house in Worcester county, so we book a room in a cheap motel where we can stay the night, and I can get some rest. The rest of the night is spent watching bad cable TV, playing card games, and talking and joking together. I think it was the loveliest New Year's I've ever had.
- These moments all glitter like snowflakes in my mind, each one perfect and unique. None of them are particularly large moments, but they're what keep me looking forward to this time of year. The community and love they hold is what distinguishes them as my definition of the holiday season, reminding me that it doesn't really matter what, when, or how you celebrate. It's the simple act of being together with those you love that make the holidays what they are. What memories are you reflecting on? Which ones will you build?

Non-Partisan Municipal Election Is Sought By Rep. Carroll and Councilman Reinstein Petition

Asks Non-Partisan Primary

THOMAS F. CARROLL

Satisfied that the past political season contained proof enough to merit a decided change in the City's charter, Representative Thomas F. Carroll and Councilman-Elect Frederick H. Reinstein on Wednesday filed a petition at the State House in Boston for a non-partisan municipal election for Revere in the future.

This form of electing City officials is based on the Woburn, Somerville and Chelsea bill which provides for nominations as follows: when one is to be elected to an office, the two highest men in the primary vote will contest for the position in the final election; when two are to be elected, the four highest stay in the fight for election; where four is the number to be elected finally, the eight highest in the primary will

TODISCO BEING HELD UNTIL HIS SHIP EMBARKS

Bernardo Todisco, 35, of May street, Everett, was arraigned in Superior Court yesterday for sentence on his conviction by a Suffolk jury, of being an accessory before the fact of the burning of a building on Derby road, Revere, and its furnishings. His counsel, M. E. Viola, told the court that deportation was pending against the defendant.

Judge Williams raised the bail to $10,000, and said he will impose a sentence, when the deportation order comes through, of a length running from that time till the deportation becomes effective.

Todisco was found not guilty of the actual burning of the building and its furnishings. The fire occurred February 4, 1932.

Mrs. Buckley, mother of Miss Irene Pierce, 20, of 132 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, who was killed, received a verdict of $4000 for her death and $1000 for conscious suffering of her daughter.

Lyrics of Life

THE HEART COMES HOME By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Tonight, no doubt, the bell will ring
At our old church, the choir will sing,
And here am I, a world away,
Although back home it's Christmas Day.

Back home! I see the church again,
The little church the same as then,
But I have wandered from its aisles,
Yes, I have wandered more than miles.

And yet I know back home they are Still looking at the Christmas star,
The star that still must shine for me
If I will only look to see.

Oh, little church, look down the road;
Here comes a pilgrim with his load.
For God is good. Although we roam,
On Christmas Day the heart comes home.

Mayor Seeks Chamber's Aid In Quest For State Relief; Other Speakers Excite More Interest

A Chamber of Commerce meeting, which at the start had no prospect of anything unusual Tuesday night in the Banquet Room of the City Hall, proved to be one of the most valuable and interesting meetings of the year. It was a fitting way for the last meeting of 1932 to be conducted as it finally bestirred the members to the realization of the need for some timely action on their part in regard to the unfortunate conditions existing amongst the merchants and business men of Revere as well as the actual position in which the City itself now stands.

In an effort to stimulate among the members of the Chamber, an interest in "boosting" Revere trading, Carleton B. Hovey, editor of this newspaper, spoke for a few minutes

Let True Xmas Spirit Prevail, Says Mayor

December 23, 1932

TO THE CITIZENS OF REVERE:

The past year has been one which has tried us all. No home has been untouched by the serious problem of unemployment and general business depression, but in spite of it all we have much to be thankful for. Our City and its institutions stand as a bulwark to aid the needy and unfortunate and to see that none go hungry. At this Christmas season, let us pause and reflect upon the blessings which we enjoy. Let us look forward to the future with optimism, knowing that ere long we will emerge from these conditions better than ever. Let the true Christmas spirit prevail with love for your fellow citizens, devotion to your city and your nation and a friendly feeling for all.

I wish you all a MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Sincerely,

(Signed)

ANDREW A. CASASSA,

Mayor.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

COUNCIL HONORS OUTGOING MEMBERS

CHELSEA - It was a bittersweet meeting for the City Council last week, as four departing members were honored for their time in office.

Damali Vidot, Judith Garcia, and Enio Lopez all first came to office in a historic 2015 election that saw a wave of Latino and female candidates.

Councilor-at-Large Brian Hatleberg, who had served as a councilor in the past, was appointed to an empty seat earlier this year when former Council President Roy Avellaneda resigned.

All four councilors did not run for reelection, although Garcia will continue to serve on Beacon Hill as the state representative for Chelsea.

“I think that being a leader is knowing when to hang up the gloves and pass the torch,” said Vidot.

Vidot’s initial run in 2015 was a product of her community activism and desire to see greater representation and diversity on the city council. When she first decided to run, she said she did not realize at first that other candidates such as Lopez, Garcia, and former councilors Luis Tejada and Yamir Rodriguez would also be on the ballot.

“We made history when we came in in 2016; finally, we had representation,” said Vidot. “When I say representation, I don’t just mean ethnicity or culture, but diversity in thought and diversity in ability.”

Vidot said she can look back at her eight years on the council, including back-to-back terms as Council President, and know that she built relationships with every person with whom she served.

“People like me don’t typically make it to spaces like this,” said Vidot, adding that she wanted to make sure she could help create a world where her daughter and all young people can thrive.

Lopez said he began this journey eight years ago when he became the first Guatemalan-born city councilor.

“It has been an honor to serve Chelsea, and it has brought me great joy,” said Lopez, who thanked his wife, family, and friends for all of their support. “I especially want to thank the voters who elected me and gave me the opportunity and the trust they gave me over these years. To my colleagues, it has been a pleasure working with you.

“We haven’t always agreed, but our main focus has been always to make Chelsea a better place.”

Hatleberg thanked the people of the city and the council for supporting him during his time in office.

“I appreciate you trusting me with the role, and I hope I served as you would like,” he said.

Garcia noted that every councilor has taught her something and helped to make her a better leader.

“It’s been eight years and it’s very difficult to reflect and highlight the accomplishments throughout these eight years, but I can say if there is anything that this city has taught me, it is that we are more powerful when we work together in partnership,” said Garcia.

Each outgoing councilor was presented with a plaque in acknowledgment of their service to the city.

VAN CAMPEN HAS THE VOTES TO BE THE NEXT PRESIDENT OF CITY COUNCIL

EVERETT - Robert Van Campen, who made a triumphant return with his election as Ward 3 councilor in November, reportedly has the votes to be the next president of the Everett City Council.

Van Campen will be one of six new members of the City Council. The others who will take office at the Jan. 5 inauguration ceremony are councilors-at-large Guerline Alcy and Katy Rogers, and ward councillors Anthony DiPierro (Ward 3), Holly Garcia (Ward 4), and Peter Pietrantonio (Ward 6). The five returning officials are Councilors-at-Large Michael Marchese, Stephanie Smith, and John Hanlon, Ward 1 Councilor Wayne Matewsky and Ward 2 Councilor Stephanie Martins.

The new City Council will vote for president at its first meeting of the year on Monday, Jan. 8.

Matewsky, 65, had the inside track on the presidency, but he decided not to pursue it due to “recent health issues.” Matewsky proceeded to deliver his support to Van Campen.

“Robert is fair, knowledgeable, and an outstanding attorney,” said Matewsky. “I think he’ll do an excellent job as council president.”

Van Campen, 49, previously served for 14 years in city government, one term on the Everett Common Council and six terms on the Everett Board of Aldermen. He was president of the Board of Aldermen three times, last serving on the Board in 2014.

Van Campen asserted that nothing will be official until his colleagues cast their votes on Jan. 8, but he did acknowledge that there is talk that he will be the next president of the 11-member Council.

“At the end of the day, if I get elected and have the votes to become president, I’m looking forward to serving in that capacity,” Van Campen told the Everett Independent. “My goal would be to bring a stable voice to the debate, and I hope I can do that. I look forward to working with the new members, the existing members, the administration, and all the stakeholders in the community to keep things moving in the right direction and to try to get some stuff done.”

A former deputy mayor and city solicitor for the city of Melrose, Van Campen is currently the general counsel for AFSCME Council 93, a labor organization. He is a graduate of Melrose High School, Suffolk University and Suffolk Law School and has law offices on Beacon Street in Boston.

Van Campen and his wife, Lisa, have been married for 18 years, and they have two children, Lily, 17, and John, 14. Robert is the son of Marie (Raneli) Van Campen of Everett and the late Richard Van Campen.

Van Campen said he will be attending the final meeting of the current City Council on Tuesday, Dec. 26 at which time the outgoing councilors will be recognized.

PIERS PARK II IS COMPLETED

EAST BOSTON - The Massachusetts Port Authority (Massport), members of the Piers Park Advisory Committee (PierPAC), local elected officials and community members last week celebrated the opening of Piers Park II on the East Boston Waterfront. This new park is adjacent to the award-winning Piers Park, which was completed over twenty years ago. With the addition of Piers Park II, Massport now owns and operates approximately 38 acres of green space throughout East Boston.

“We are thrilled to celebrate the opening of Piers Park II, creating more green space for the residents of East Boston,” said Transportation Secretary and CEO Monica Tibbitts-Nutt. “The State and Massport are happy to participate in this joyous collaboration of community members that brought this project to life.”

In collaboration with the PierPAC, Massport worked with East Boston residents to design the project. While the original Piers Park was designed for unstructured activity, Piers Park II is an active park including a 1.07-acre active play area as the centerpiece, allowing multiple groups of people to participate in activities at the same time.

The design for the 4.5-acre park includes key resiliency features to help protect the area from flooding and sea level rise. Several sustainable elements have been incorporated into the park’s design to protect against flooding at a critical flood water pathway and reduce heat island effect in the dense East Boston community, including:

- Elevating the park site and creating landscape berms to provide flood protection;
- Replacing the gravel

lot with 4.5 acres of green-space;

- Planting 72 new trees;
- Installing drinking fountains with bottle filling stations;
- Placing energy efficient lighting throughout the park and at the new Sailing Center building, and;
- Building a highly efficient heating and cooling system in the new Sailing Center building.

“We are excited to announce the official opening of Piers Park II after years of collaborative efforts between Massport, the PierPAC and the East Boston community to make this possible,” said Massport Board Member John Nucci. “This park provides more green space for the area and has a number of resiliency features providing a diverse and rich environment for all of those who call East Boston home.”

“Piers Park II further enhances the waterfront of East Boston and provides more open space and views for community members and visitors to enjoy,” said State Senator Lydia Edwards. “I’m thrilled that this project has become a reality after years of collaborative efforts.”

“Piers Park is one of our community’s most cherished, beautiful open spaces, and I am so excited to be celebrating the official opening of Piers Park II today!” said State Representative Adrian Madaro. “This moment is one that has been a long time coming, and I want to thank Massport for their partnership in making Piers Park II a reality, as well as all of the community activists who have played a role in bringing this much-anticipated project to completion. East Boston will now have even more waterfront open space to enjoy.”

“We are excited to celebrate the completion of Piers Park II, a green space that adds to the vibrant East Boston community,” said Massport Interim CEO Ed Freni. “This new park is a great addition to the East Boston Waterfront and we look forward to seeing the community and visitors enjoy this new space.”

The park contains several water features, a picnic grove, multi-generational exercise equipment, and a children’s area with a playground and wandering path with musical instruments. A new 1,600-square-foot building for the Piers Park Sailing Center and an open air pavilion structure was built on the park site, providing views of the waterfront activity for the staff and participants.

“Open space along our waterfront is a priority for East Boston and we are thrilled to celebrate the addition of the now completed Piers Park II,” said Boston City Councilor Gabriella Coletta. “Our parks provide some of the most beautiful views of the Boston skyline and will be cherished by the community for generations.”

“The East Boston neighborhood has long awaited the official opening of Piers Park II and I’m grateful to the active members of our community that have continued to support bringing this project to life,” said former Boston City Councilor and PierPAC member Sal LaMattina. “Residents and visitors of all ages will greatly benefit from the thoughtful design of this project.”

“Piers Park II is an excellent addition to the waterfront for all residents and visitors of the community to enjoy,” said Executive Director of the Piers Park Sailing Center Alex DeFronzo. “We are thrilled about the new building for the Sailing Center as we continuously work to improve and elevate our program, and create opportunities in the East Boston community to enjoy the waterfront and the harbor.”

The Revere High girls basketball team earned its first win of the season in exciting fashion with a come-from-behind victory at Lynn Classical Friday night, 33-30. Although the Lady Patriots initially struggled on offense (1-for-17 from the field in the first quarter), their strong effort on defense allowed the Lady Patriots to stay close and trail by only four, 14-10, at the half.

Ally Hinojosa led Revere in the scoring column with 11 points. Tiphani Harris turned in a fine, all-around effort with eight points to go along with her 17 rebounds, four assists, four steals, and four blocks.

UMass announces scholarships for top 10 percent of community college graduates

Special to the Journal

The University of Massachusetts announced that the top 10 percent of the Commonwealth's future community college graduates will receive a minimum of $5,000 per year above federal and private financial aid if they enroll at one of the four nationally ranked campuses in Amherst, Boston, Dartmouth, and Lowell.

The Community College Advantage Scholarship (CCAS) is designed to incentivize highly talented community college students to finish their associate degree at one of the Commonwealth's 15 community colleges, and then complete their bachelor's degree at one of the four nationally ranked University of Massachusetts campuses.

The CCAS also seeks to address two challenges facing public higher education in Massachusetts:

- Providing equitable access to historically underrepresented groups of students in light of the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision on race-based admissions, and
- Strengthening the Commonwealth's talent pipeline as the number of high school graduates in Massachusetts is projected to decline in the coming years, the existing population is aging out of the workforce, and more young people are leaving the state.

"We want to send a clear message that UMass welcomes highly talented community college graduates to continue their pursuit of a college degree on our nationally ranked Amherst, Boston, Dartmouth and Lowell campuses," UMass President Marty Meehan said. "We believe this initiative will lead to community college graduates choosing to finish their four-year degree at UMass, which will accelerate their upward economic trajectory and strengthen the Commonwealth's workforce."

"As New England's first Hispanic Serving Institution, Northern Essex Community College serves thousands of students each year, mostly from the Gateway Cities of Haverhill and Lawrence and towns across the Merrimack Valley, seeking a path to a college degree and greater career and economic opportunities," NECC President Lane Glenn said. "The Community College Advantage Scholarship will help more of them continue on that path from an associate degree to a bachelor's degree at one of the state's outstanding UMass campuses."

Starting in Fall 2024,

the CCAS will help develop and retain diverse talent in Massachusetts by:

- Guaranteeing students in the top 10 percent of their community college graduating class automatic admission to a University of Massachusetts campus and a minimum of $2,500 per semester ($5,000 annually) for a total of at least $10,000 for the students' final two years of college.
- Students remain eligible for additional aid based on individual circumstances.
- The CCAS will supplement federal and private grants awarded to the student.

To be eligible for the Fall 2024 CCAS, students must:

- Complete their degree in the top 10 percent of their graduating class at their college. This will be calculated as of the end of the semester prior to the UMass financial aid priority deadline (Students applying for fall admission must have been in the top 10 percent of their class as of the end of the Fall 2023 semester).

- Complete the 2024-25 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) or equivalent state financial aid application.
- Be eligible for in-state tuition.
- Have earned 45+ credits that are transferable to UMass.
- Be on track to complete their associate degree prior to the Fall 2024 semester.
- The CCAS is the latest in a series of state and UMass initiatives aimed at expanding access to a four-year college degree, which data shows significantly enhances a person's lifetime income.

The University has increased annual institutional financial aid by 67 percent to $395 million since 2015 and has launched an early college program that allows high school students in urban centers to earn UMass course credit while still in high school, thereby saving them tuition costs once they get to college.

The state has recently made community college tuition free for students 25 years or age and older and has expanded the Mass-Grant+ program by $62 million to close make public higher education more affordable for lower- and middle-income students.

Northern Essex Community College, the first Federally designated Hispanic Serving Institution in New England, is an education leader for the Merrimack Valley. Through a supportive learning environment and cultural inclusion, NECC embraces all identities and inspires initiative and excellence through top-notch affordable certificate and associate degree programs online and at campuses in Haverhill and Lawrence. NECC offers many bachelor's degree transfer options, workforce development and community education classes, and is host to the NECC Police Academy, MassHire Merrimack Valley, and Gallaudet University's Regional Center for the deaf and hard of hearing.
