Council tables vote on marijuana legalization

By Adam Swift
The city council tabled a vote on legalizing recreational marijuana at its meeting on Monday. Earlier in the evening, the legislative affairs subcommittee voted to recommend the legalization. However, the zoning subcommittee voted to keep a zoning ordinance that would dictate where marijuana dispensaries could operate was kept in that committee. Councillor-at-Large Michelle Kelley has presented several amendments to the zoning ordinance that the subcommittee wished to discuss further. During the subcommittee meetings, a number of residents spoke against legalization and noted that many of them had only

Public health department updates council on opioid settlement funds

By Adam Swift
The city's public health and SUDHI (Substance Use Disorder and Homelessness Initiatives) offices plan on using about $150,000 in opioid settlement money in FY25 on several opioid abatement programs. At Monday night's city council meeting, representatives from the office updated the council on past, current, and future funding for opioid initiatives funded through the settlement money. As of Sept. 30 of this year, public health director Lauren Buck said the city has received $670,000 in settlement funds. In FY24, the city spent approximately $97,000 in settlement funds, primarily on Naloxone boxes throughout the city. Naloxone can be used to reverse the effects of opioid overdoses. Taking in the past and current fiscal year, Buck said the city currently has $427,000 left in the opioid settlement funds and can expect approximately $1.5 million over the next decade-plus in additional funds. Since rolling out the Naloxone boxes in May, SUDHI program manager Carriann Salemme said 620 doses of Naloxone have been taken from the boxes. The most used boxes include those near the Dunkin Donuts on Shirley Avenue and Joe's Market near the Northgate plaza. "We do weekly check-ins on the boxes every Monday and restock them," said Salemme. "We haven't had any issues with vandalism or theft, and we have two anecdotal reports of in-the-moment use of the boxes to reverse an overdose." Ward 2 Councillor Ira Novoselsky said he has heard some concerns from residents and businesses in the Shirley Avenue area about people congregating near the boxes. Salemme noted that the boxes are a way for people to avoid the stigma of taking the Naloxone, and noted that there are boxes in all locations throughout the city that get a decent amount of use. Councillor-at-Large Anthony Zambuto said he

RTA votes to enter into work-to-rule

By Adam Swift
As Revere teachers continue to work with an expired contract, the Revere Teachers Association has joined with other educator unions in the North Shore in participating in a work-to-rule. The educator unions in Beverly, Gloucester, Marblehead, and Revere all voted overwhelmingly to enter into work-to-rule, starting on Friday, Oct. 4. Entering work-to-rule, educators will cease performing non-customary duties outside contractual responsibilities to protest stalled contract negotiations and demonstrate how much educators routinely go beyond what is required of them, according to union officials. Revere teachers have been without a contract since June 30. The work-to-rule action began with morning stand-outs and walk-ins at the Rumney Marsh Academy last Friday, Oct. 4. Since then, the work-to-rule actions have rotated among the schools in Revere. RTA representatives have stated that they are seeking smaller class sizes, paid parental leave,

The Revere Conservation Commission held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening, October 2, in the City Council Chambers. Chair Nicholas Rudolph and fellow members Brian Averback, Joseph LaValle, Bernardo Sepulveda, Wilson Correa, Amelia Viscay, and Thomas Carleton were on hand for the session. After welcoming new members Amelia Viscay and Thomas Carleton, the commission took a moment to honor the late Robert "Toby" Cassidy, a long-time member of the ConsComm, with a moment of silence. Averback noted that Cassidy "was a really good person whom you could trust and talk to. He will be missed." "I never will forget our baseball talks at site meetings," noted Rudolph. "He truly will be missed. May he rest in peace." The meeting itself began with a continuation of the hearing for a request for a Notice of Intent (NOI) from the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) regarding the MWRA's plans to replace a portion (known as Section 56) of the auxiliary water main that threads through No. Revere to Lynn. The old Section 56, which was removed a few years ago because of its poor condition, formerly crossed directly underneath the deck of the General Edwards Bridge. However, the MWRA is proposing to run the new line under the bedrock of the Saugus River via a process known as hori-

Julia Cervantes appointed veterans' agent

By Adam Swift

The city council unanimously approved the appointment of Julia Cervantes as Revere's new veterans' agent at its meeting Monday night.

Cervantes' three-year appointment to the position will run through September of 2027.

"Julia has been an asset to the Veterans' Service Department since 2022," said Mayor Patrick Keefe. "Julia cares deeply about the veterans of the City of Revere and has proven her preparedness for this role."

Cervantes has been the interim veterans' service officer for the city since August of 2022. She has also worked as a criminal defense private investigator for over a decade and has a B.A. degree in holistic psychology and counseling from Lesley University.

"I'm happy to be here and appreciate this opportunity," Cervantes told the council.

Council President Anthony Coglianro praised the work Cervantes has done with the city's Veterans Food Pantry.

"Promise me one thing, that you won't get rid of the food bank," said Coglianro, who has volunteered at the pantry for over four years.

Cervantes promised she would keep it running.

Councillor-at-Large and former veterans' service director Marc Silvestri praised Cervantes and said she will do a great job in the role.

was thrilled when he first heard the city was going to be installing the Naloxone boxes.

"The purpose of this is to have people get the (Naloxone) without the stigma," he said.

In the current fiscal year, the $150,000 in settlement funds will be used for a combination of mobile outreach, business outreach, and for a warming center during the winter months at 437 Revere St.

For both outreach efforts, the city is putting out requests for proposals for contractors to do the outreach.

The city has run warming shelters for the past two winters, but Buck said there have been issues about where they can be located.

Councillor-at-Large Marc Silvestri raised some concerns about the possibility that the opioid settlement funds were supplanting funds for current or past services the city already provided.

Salemme noted that the business outreach has never been done on a formal basis, but that outreach workers might visit a business if an overdose was reported there as part of post-overdose outreach.

"It seems like a few things are ideas that we have already presented," said Silvestri. "It probably seems like I'm giving you a hard time, but the reason I am is because there have already been cities in Massachusetts that have had to pay back their funds, and I don't want to see us walk down that path. The only reason I am bringing attention to this is not only do you have to pay back the money that has been spent and used, you have to give back future monies."

Ward 5 Councillor Angela Guarino-Sawaya said she had some concerns about the location of the warming shelter in her ward and would like to sit down with the public health and SUDHI office for a longer conversation about it.

HRC members voice support for Indigenous Peoples Day

By Journal Staff

The Revere Human Rights Commission held its first monthly meeting since May last Thursday, October 3, in the City Council Chambers.

On hand for the session were chair Chaimaa (Shay) Hossaini and fellow members Dr. Lourenco Garcia, Kourou Pich, vice-chair Herby Jean-Baptiste, Molly McGee, and Somaya Laroussi. Steve Morabito, the city's Director of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) who serves as the HRC's Executive Director, and local resident Ed Terrell, an invited guest, also were on hand for the meeting.

Hossaini opened the session with the usual Land Acknowledgement, in which the Pawtucket tribe was recognized as the original holder of the land in Revere.

The members then offered their reflections on the Visioning B.E.A.R. (Balance, Equity, And Respect) Circle seminar that the members attended in June that was directed by Strong Oak Lefebvre. The HRC members gathered in chairs in a circle and passed around a microphone to share what they learned at the seminar, as well as the things for which they are grateful (among other topics), with Dr. Garcia and Pich leading the discussion.

Garcia presented an article written by an Italian-American group that supports replacing Columbus Day with Indigenous Peoples Day in Massachusetts. A lengthy discussion ensued, with the members focusing on the injustices perpetrated upon indigenous people from the time that Columbus arrived.

Laroussi suggested that "celebrating and honoring Columbus is a white supremacist statement. The history has been sanitized. His arrival in the Americas was the beginning of the genocide. He was bad not only from today's point of view, but in his own time as well, when he was imprisoned for his crimes. He was a bad person yesterday and he's still a bad person today who should not be representing Italian-American heritage.

"I understand and have a lot of appreciation for the people who have advocated against the discrimination that Italian-Americans have faced," Laroussi continued. "I've really enjoyed growing up in this city and learning the history of Sacco and Vanzetti and the history of discrimination against Italian-Americans. What does Italian heritage pride look like? When we choose to accept Columbus as an icon for Italian-Americans, that is a direct connection to white supremacy and colonization. I don't see any pride in being Italian if you are not accepting of your proximity and your influence on all of these other people, these people of color, you're basically being discriminated against at their expense."

Hossaini made the point that Christopher Columbus was funded by the king and queen of Spain, unlike the Italian immigrants who later came to the United States who were escaping dire poverty and who survived hardships upon coming to America. Hossaini also compared Columbus to Osama bin Laden, stating that they both were terrorists.

Garcia spoke of the "confusion between the celebration of Italian-American Heritage Month and Columbus Day that has been historically propagated by our schools through indoctrination. It's not about not recognizing the heritage of any people, it's the confusion that Columbus discovered this continent. Columbus never was in North America. We need to educate people."

Hossaini wrapped up the session by adding a disclaimer. "We do not condone any hate to any side, whether that be the Indigenous Peoples or the Italian-Americans who live in our city. We're just here to voice our opinions to make Revere a better place to live and grow." She concluding the meeting by reading aloud the HRC's Mission Statement:

"The Mission of the Revere Human Rights Commission is to promote human and civil rights and empower all people of Revere by ensuring that everyone, especially the most vulnerable and marginalized, have equitable opportunities, equal access, and are treated with dignity, respect, fairness, and justice."

zontal directional drilling (HDD) that presumably will have no impact on sea life in the river. The project also will not affect the salt marsh in the area bordering the river.

The hearing on the NOI had been continued because the MWRA was awaiting a report from the Natural Heritage and Endangered Species Program (NHESP) on the project's possible effects on marine life.

Jennifer Doyle-Breen, a Wetlands Scientist with the international infrastructure consulting firm AECOM, told the commissioners that the NHESP's report, which was filed in mid-September, concluded that the project will have no impact on marine life in the river.

Ward 5 City Councillor Angela Guarino-Sawaya, whose district includes the Point of Pines, requested that the ConsComm appoint an independent oversight company that would report directly to the ConsComm and to herself as the ward councilor in order to ensure that the MWRA is complying with the Order of Conditions.

However, Peter Grasso from the MWRA responded this ordinarily is not done, and Rudolph further pointed out that the ConsComm will periodically ensure that the project is compliant with the Order of Conditions.

The commission, which previously held three meetings with the MWRA at which residents testified, then approved the issuance of the NOI.

Next up was another continuation of an NOI for 23 Putnam Rd. regarding the repaving of one driveway and extending another driveway on the same lot. French drains will be installed around the driveways to prevent runoff onto the neighbors' properties.

The homeowner, Francisco J. Arriaza, appeared on his own behalf and answered questions from the commissioners to their satisfaction. The commission unanimously approved issuing the NOI.

The commission then heard a Request for a Determination of Applicability (RDA) from Irving Oil Terminals Inc., Arcadis U.S., 40 Lee Burbank Highway, for proposed pipeline inspection work.

A representative from Arcadis explained the scope of the project, "which is a routine inspection of underground pipelines that will entail a shallow excavation project in two local areas."

The commission determined that the excavation work, which will have runoff controls, will not constitute a permanent impact along the path of excavation and approved a negative Determination of Applicability, which means that the project will not fall within the ConsComm's jurisdiction.

The commission heard a request for another RDA from the Highway Division of the Massachusetts Department of Transportation (DOT) for "repaving along an approximately 1,700 linear foot section of Bennington Street in Revere to install separated bike lanes, improve pedestrian crossings, and install dedicated turn lanes for motorists."

Alyssa Jacobs, an environmental consultant for MassDOT, said that the Revere part of the project will connect with the East Boston portion of work further along Bennington St. The project will create a separated, two-way bike lane on the east side of Bennington St. and will reduce the traffic from four lanes (two lanes in each direction) to one lane in each direction with a center turn lane. In addition, parking will be limited to the west side of the roadway.

Jacobs said that there will be no impacts to resource areas. Rudolph agreed, noting that he had walked the site. The commission unanimously voted for a negative RDA.

The commissioners then heard a request for an NOI from Marcia Lenta, 630 Revere Beach Boulevard, for an addition to her single family home that is on land subject to coastal storm flowage and within the 100-year flood plain, as well as within the buffer zone of the saltmarsh in the rear.

Rick Salvo with Engineering Alliance, LLC, explained the scope of the project to the commissioners. He said that the owner previously had performed work under the auspices of the ConsComm for grading the backyard in order to correct drainage problems. The addition will consist of a garage, an office space, a mud room, and a handicap ramp, a project that already has been approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals, which imposed the condition of a six-foot privacy fence along a neighbor's property.

Salvo said there will be flow-through foundations for the additions that will exceed both the building code and FEMA requirements.

Lavalle asked some questions about the elevations, which Salvo answered. However, the commissioners were unable to take a vote because the city had not received a file number from the State DEP (which is a statutory requirement) in time for the meeting. A vote to issue the NOI will be taken next month.

The commissioners then heard a series of three requests from McClellan Highway Development Company, LLC, for an extension for compliance with the Orders of Conditions "related to Phase 1-R and 1R-E Roadway and Infrastructure, Building R-10, and Building R-11 of the Suffolk Downs Redevelopment to October 18, 2027.

Abigail Middleton with HYM Investments, LLC, the owner of Suffolk Downs, said the extensions for the three individual parcels are needed to allow for the completion of infrastructure work, which consists of the improvements to what was a bare race track. HYM initially came before the ConsComm in October, 2021, when it obtained the original Order of Conditions.

"I'm just wondering whether we will be back here in three years and I'm very nervous about giving another three-year extension," said Averback. "As someone who lives in Ward 1, and this is right down the street from me, I'm wondering about 'the dream' that's been promised by HYM and I'm concerned about this continuing to be vacant land and maybe a story for the end of a time of, 'What happened at Suffolk Downs?' and approving another three years for what is just a cemetery at this point."

After Middleton explained the vast scope of the infrastructure work, which involves coordinating with the utility companies, the commission approved the extensions for three years.

Salvo also came before the commission seeking a Certificate of Compliance on behalf of Mario Zepaj for the completion of the construction of a four-story (25-unit) apartment building at 344 Salem Street.

"This has been a major improvement to this property," said Rudolph. The commissioners, some of whom also had walked the site, unanimously approved issuing the certificate.

The commission lastly approved an after-the-fact Emergency Certification for the work to replace a faulty railing at a DCR beach that presented an imminent public safety hazard. The agenda item stated, "Winthrop Parkway Railing Repair -- railing repair for an access staircase that had become detached at this location and needed to be replaced to provide safe access to the beach area. The staircase was closed and would have continued to pose a public safety issue until a new railing was installed."

The commission concluded the meeting with a discussion of the upcoming MACC Fall Conference, with chair Rudolph urging the new ConsComm members to attend the conference.

10/7, ONE YEAR LATER

The barbaric attack a year ago this week by the Iranian-backed Hamas terrorist group shocked and horrified the world. The brutal slaughter, rape, and torture of 1250 men, women, children, and elderly Israeli citizens, plus another 300 who were taken captive, by Hamas invaders who poured across the northern Gaza-Israeli border, affirmed that Iran and its terrorist proxies, Hamas, Hezbollah, and the Houthis, know no bounds in their hatred for Jews and their stated aim of wiping Israel off the face of the map.

The attack and its aftermath accomplished a number of goals of the Iranian-backed terrorists. Not only did 10/7 deal a blow to Israelis' sense of security, but it also destabilized Israel politically and economically. More than 100,000 Israeli citizens have been displaced both along the Gazan border and in northern Israel, where Hezbollah has been shelling northern Israeli communities. Israeli citizen-soldiers have been fighting for a full year, with no end in sight.

The attack of 10/7 predictably unleashed a devastating military response by Israel on the Gaza Strip, a narrow piece of land that is about 140 square miles and home to two million people, of whom half are children, in its effort to kill every Hamas fighter. (By comparison, Boston and Suffolk County consist of about 120 square miles with 750,000 people, of whom 20 percent are children). After a year of ceaseless Israeli bombardment, the Gaza Strip has been laid to waste, with more than 40,000 Gazans killed, tens of thousands more maimed for life, and the entire population facing mass starvation. The Israeli government now seems bent on replicating the same devastation in Lebanon from where Hezbollah has been shooting its rockets onto Israeli communities.

The Israeli government, which itself is controlled by religious extremists, fell into the trap set by Iran and its proxies by waging its brutal assault on Gaza. When images of the Middle East are shown on our TV screens each night, it is the horrors being endured by Gazan children that we see. It is their plight (as well as those of Palestinians who are being attacked by Israeli settlers on the West Bank), not that of the Israeli victims, that is garnering the world's attention and sympathies.

Finally, the bloody attack of 10/7 and the military response by Israel achieved another of Iran's major goals by creating political fissures both in the Western democracies and in Israel itself, as well as upending plans for a treaty among Israel, the U.S., and Saudi Arabia.

Just as 9/11 changed our world, so too has 10/7. A year later, with a wider war all but certain, it is clear that peace in the Middle East is more elusive than ever with an outcome that will reverberate across the globe today and for generations to come.

THE MOST PATHETIC GAME IN NFL HISTORY?

We don't mean to keep harping on our poor Patriots, but their contest this past Sunday with the Miami Dolphins has to rate as the most pathetic excuse for a professional football game we've ever seen in our lives -- and we've been Pats' fans since the 1960s, so we've witnessed quite a few sorry performances.

The Pats entered the game as the #31 offensive team in the NFL, exceeded in futility only by the Dolphins at #32 -- and the game lived up to the low expectations of both teams, featuring a variety of miscues that normally you might see once in an NFL game, not multiple times.

In the first half alone, the Dolphins missed a mid-range field goal that bounced off the goal post, dribbled a snap back to the holder on another field goal attempt, snapped a ball over their quarterback's head, and had a punt blocked.

The Patriots missed a short field goal, shanked a punt, allowed hapless veteran quarterback Jacoby Brissette to be hit countless times, and committed 12 penalties for 105 yards.

It was a performance by both teams not worthy of even a JV high school game -- and fans paid hundreds of dollars for a ticket for that sorry demonstration. From the perspective of long-time Pats' fans, we'd like to chalk it up to just a tough week, but it is clear that this will be a season that is only going to get worse.

VOTE YES ON QUESTION 2

Dear Editor,

As a mother of a son who had to take the 1st MCAS test to graduate (2003), as a Revere School Committee member and Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC) Executive Board, I ask the voters to vote YES on the Ballot Question 2: Elimination of MCAS as high school graduation requirement.

As a member of MASC I respect the fact that education stakeholders and the community at large views the high-stakes graduation tests differently.

We recognize that the public is widely confused over this issue because it is a complex one. Many Bay Staters hear the term "MCAS" and most believe it is nothing other than a single, high stakes test. It is, in fact much more, and we support many of the facets of the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System.

MCAS is, in fact, a system of curriculum frameworks that describe curricula, measures of testing to determine how much students are learning, and gathering data to measure the progress students, classroom teachers, schools, and school districts are making learning the curricula.

The MCAS program prescribes a lot of testing at various grades and for particular subject matter. A student might take several different MCAS tests during one's K-12 years. We believe that these tests can be invaluable guides to assist educators in improving outcomes for students. Subject to collective bargaining, the data may also be used to help educators improve their skills in the classroom or to influence compensation. We support the use of MCAS data as one of several criteria for appropriate purposes, including determining the effectiveness of curricula, classroom performance, educator proficiency, and student learning.

The high-stakes 10th grade tests that determine eligibility for a high school diploma are but one facet of a very large and complex system. It is these high-stakes test being used as barriers to graduation that we oppose. There are better alternatives. They have been discussed at length. Unfortunately, the 10th grade high stakes tests have been the subject of misleading political rhetoric designed to confuse the public.

Less appreciated is the fact that the 1993 Education Reform Act required that the state set proficiency standards for graduation, but did not specifically authorize a high stakes test -- that was created by the Board of Education, now the Board of Elementary and Secondary Education.

It is time to rethink this issue.

Finally, the existence of the high-stakes tests represents an element of the kind of regulation and punishment culture that permeates educational public policy in Massachusetts. Perhaps the authors of the original Reform Act felt it was necessary to make the threat of failure to graduate an element that needed to be implemented. Such a strategy has never been, and does is not now an appropriate motive to impose on students.

The state and local districts can find highly suitable alternatives that could include:

- Successful completion of a minimum number of courses in English Language Arts, Mathematics, Social Studies -- including US History and Civics the arts -- including music, dance, and physical education.

- Completion of a minimum number of courses required to graduate.

- Some form of civic engagement or community service.

To argue that eliminating the high stakes tests for graduation would leave us without meaningful criteria for proficiency or without standards at all is a deceitful argument and the public should not fall for it.

MCAS is a voluminous set of standards, rules, regulations, and tools for the state to oversee the work of local districts. It would benefit from periodic rethinking, and, for that reason, we call upon the legislature to authorize such an initiative.

recently heard about the potential council vote. In addition to the several dozen people who came to the meetings, opponents presented over 300 signatures and addresses of people opposed to legalization in the city.

Several of those opponents also spoke during the regular council meeting.

Board of health member Viviana Catano said she was speaking as a private resident in opposition to legalization of recreational marijuana. However, she noted that the board of health was never consulted to make a recommendation to the council on legalization.

"I am asking as a resident to take a pause and consider everything and make sure you are all on the same page," said Cat-

ano. "Many residents just found out about this this weekend. We could have multiplied the signatures we gathered in four days."

Kelley also asked about the process for the council voting on the legislative affairs subcommittee recommendation when the zoning ordinance remained in the zoning subcommittee.

"Obviously, this is a sensitive situation," said

Ward 4 Councillor and legislative affairs chair Paul Argenzio.

He said he was willing to table the vote on recreational marijuana legalization to give residents more time to provide their input, however, Argenzio said he was unlikely to change his mind on the subject.

"We have dispensaries that are within walking distance of Revere, so having a dispensary in Revere, Revere residents are just going outside the city and purchasing their marijuana and coming back into the city," Argenzio said. "People in Revere are calling up on the phone and getting it delivered to the city."

Council President Anthony Cogliandro said he was also agreeable to delaying the vote.

"I spoke to Viviana this weekend," he said. "We have been discussing this for three months, however, I don't expect all of you to get home from work, take care of your children, and then say, 'hey, I wonder what is going on with the city council tonight.' I do lean towards tabling this so you call have a little more of a voice."

OBITUARIES

Josephine Yolanda Morrissey

She was a beacon of love, laughter and life

Josephine Yolanda Morrissey, born on November 26, 1931, in Revere, MA, was a beacon of love, laughter, and life. She remained a loyal member of St. Anthony's in Revere regularly enjoying Mass and bingo. Her infectious energy, shared generously with all those she met, was as vibrant as the neon lights of the casinos she so loved to visit. She embodied the spirit of the quote, "Life is not measured by the number of breaths we take, but by the moments that take our breath away." And in her 92 years, Josephine created countless breathtaking moments for her loved ones.

She worked many years for the New England Telephone Company and as an accomplished bookkeeper for many different businesses. Her favorite job was doing the books for her good friend Ed Doherty's various car washes. It was outside the office where Josephine truly shined. She had a remarkable ability to illuminate the ordinary, turning a simple family dinner into a cherished memory. Her love for her friends and family especially her grandchildren was a shining testament to her capacity for love.

Josephine is survived by her brother Vinny Quasarano and his wife Audrey of San Diego, Ca., her sons and their wives, Michael and Michele Balian, Martin and Barbara O'Brien, all of Winthrop, Massachusetts. Her grandchildren Nicole Dilger and her husband Tyler of Winthrop, Jianna Balian of Winthrop and Stephanie Dulsky and her husband Jack of San Francisco, Ca. and her great grandson Lucas Mason of Winthrop. She is also survived by an extraordinary number of nieces and nephews. She was a treasured mother, grandmother, great grandmother, sister, aunt, and friend whose influence will forever be felt in the lives she touched. Josephine is preceded in death by her parents, Diego and Pasqua Quasarano, both immigrants from Italy. She also suffered the loss of her only grandson Michael Balian.

Almost all of her brothers and sisters preceded her, Mary Attenasio and her husband Vincent, Polly Scaramozza and her husband Rudy, Leo Quasarano and his wife Anna, Rose Imbriano and her husband Pat, Annie Hose, Frank Quasarano and his wife Dolly, Vita Quasarano, Netta Palermo and her husband Paul, Theresa Ventullo and her surviving husband Jimmy. In the words of Maya Angelou, "People will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel." Josephine's warmth, vivacious spirit, and fun-loving energy will remain etched in our hearts and memories.

A funeral service will be held on Thursday, October 10, 2024, from 9-11AM at Paul Buonfiglio & Sons funeral Home 128 Revere Street, Revere, MA 02151. Entombment will follow at Holy Cross Mausoleum in Malden, MA.

RHS junior Adam Ashour has his sights set on a career in law

Special to the Journal

His name is Adam Ashour, and he is a junior at Revere High School. However, a few years from now, people may be calling him Attorney Ashour.

Adam, a stellar student at RHS and member of the math team, mock trial team, robotics team, and debate team, spent last summer interning for Suffolk County District Attorney Kevin Hayden.

“I’ve wanted to be a lawyer for a long time, because my father used to be a lawyer in Egypt,” said Adam. “He gave me two passions, law and computer science.”

Adam said he wants to combine those two passions into a career someday and learned a lot about the different types of law during his internship with the DA’s office. Adam has his sights set on a college, and law school, that can fulfill both those passions.

“I want to go to college and law school somewhere where I can balance both computer science and law,” he said. “I’m not sure which school that would be just yet, but I’ve been looking at universities mostly around Massachusetts.”

He added, “I knew about traditional law and the court system that most people see on TV. However, during my internship I learned there are lawyers that do mainly investigative work and that requires knowledge about computer science.”

While at the DA’s of-

ice, Adam split his time between Chelsea Court and Suffolk Superior Court in Boston. He said he enjoyed the internship because he learned a lot about the court system and the roles of prosecutors and judges.

“My work mostly centered around learning about the justice system,” said Adam. “In the Boston office, I was doing a deep dive into the key components of our juridical system. For example, I didn’t know there is a separate court for interpreting the law. I learned about all these little complexities that are not taught in law school like learning when to prosecute and learning when not to prosecute, because both are just as important.”

Adam said he gained insights into the human aspects of prosecutors and the importance of diversion programs and worked with individuals involved in diversion programs, learning about the options available for people facing legal issues.

“I really enjoyed it, because I learned a lot more about the court system than I ever knew before,” he said. “Going to court doesn’t just mean that you’re going to jail. Not everybody that goes to court goes to jail. I would say most of the people who I saw in court didn’t go to jail. It was nice to see that because you learn the district attorneys are human--they’re not some robot that are trying to get things done and put everyone in jail. They’re good people and actually care about the people they’re prosecuting. While they have a job to do and make sure people doing serious crimes get prosecuted, they recognize that they are humane.”

RHS BOYS SOCCER REMAINS UNDEFEATED, TAKES CONTROL OF GBL

The Revere High boys soccer team assumed a commanding position atop the Greater Boston League (GBL) standings with a 4-1 victory over Somerville last Tuesday in a battle for first place in the GBL. Somerville entered the contest with a loss and a tie and needed a victory in order to keep pace with the Patriots, who came into the game with a tie and no losses. But any hopes that the Highlanders may have had of drawing even with coach Manny Lopes's crew evaporated with a decisive 4-1 Revere victory.

Jeremy Romero scored his first two goals of the season for Revere, the first unassisted and the second with an assist from Besmir Collaku. Jeremy's scores book-ended goals by Santiago Velez, his fourth of the season (assisted by Angel Ortez), and Francisco Navarette, his fifth of the season (unassisted). Two days later the Patriots edged Lynn Classical, 1-0, at Manning Field. Revere now stands as the only undefeated team in the GBL with an 8-0-1 record with five league games to play, all against opponents whom the Patriots defeated in their first meeting. Second-place Somerville has two losses (both to Revere) and a tie. Lopes and his squad were scheduled to take on Lynn English yesterday (Tuesday) and will host Everett (which tied Revere in the teams' first meeting) tomorrow (Thursday). They will entertain Chelsea next Tuesday.

ANOTHER WIN FOR GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY

The Revere High girls cross country team improved to 4-1 on the season with a 15-50 victory at Everett last week. The Lady Patriots' top runner, junior Olivia Rupp, once again outran the field to take first place with a time of 23:09.

"Despite typical mid-season aches and pains we came away with a win," said RHS head coach Katie Sinnott. "Everett's course is one of the longest in the league and many of the girls were nervous to race the distance. I reminded them that they are prepared and in condition to take on the course - and they stepped up."

Sinnott and her crew, who have won four straight meets after a one-point loss in their season-opener and are tied for second place in team in their meet last week at Everett. Youness traversed the three-mile course in a time of 18:08. Teammate Noah Shanley came in ninth with a clocking of 29:17.

GOLFERS TIE ENGLISH, 36-36

The Revere/Malden High co-op golf team earned a 36-36 tie with Lynn English last week at the Gannon golf course in Lynn.

Chris MacDonald, playing at #1, won his match with a 6-3 win over his Bulldog counterpart. Jonathan Wells at #2 also was a winner, 5-4. Joshua Mini gave a big boost to the Revere/Malden cause at #7 with a 6-3 victory.

Bo Bogan, who was moved up to the #4 slot, came up just short in his match, 5-4, but battled to keep it close to secure the tie. Ryan McMahon, playing at the #8 spot, tied his English opponent.

Coach Brandon Pezzuto and his squad are 3-4-1 overall and 3-2-1 in the GBL.

FIELD HOCKEY TIES MALDEN ON SENIOR NIGHT

The Revere High field

hockey team celebrated Senior Night last Friday and battled to a 0-0 deadlock with Greater Boston League rival Malden.

"We celebrated our seniors, captain Ana Kalliavas and captain Jordan Martelli, who both had an excellent game," said RHS head coach Alexandra Butler. "Midfielder Bianca Rincon also had an incredible game. Our goaltender, Zizi Kalliavas, made a number of impressive saves despite it being only her second time playing in goal."

Butler and her crew will host Ursuline Academy this Saturday morning at 10:00 on the turf at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

longer lunch and recess time for younger students, and a living wage for all staff.

"Educators do an immense amount of work beyond their contractual hours," said Revere Teachers Association Co-President Jane Chapin outside Rumney Marsh Academy on Friday.

Chapin said the RTA and the other North Shore educator unions are bringing awareness to the amount of extra work teachers do while also dealing with staffing issues, such as classrooms without core content teachers.

Chapin added that the schools are in crisis and that the school committee has the ability to solve the problems immediately.

"It's extremely frustrating that we have had 10 bargaining sessions and we are still talking about the same proposals, the same crisis over and over again," said Chapin.

According to the RTA, some examples of work that educators typically take on that do not fall into contractually obligated duties include sending out weekly newsletters, volunteering for committees or field trips, chaperoning events, and offering extra help outside of contract hours.

Jane Chapin, co-president of the Revere Teachers Association, is interviewed by the media outside the Rumney Marsh Academy.

Revere Boxing Outreach Program holds National Guard send off for Sebastian Orellana

By Melissa Moore-Randall

When the Revere Boxing Outreach Program began in the small Revere Police office at Revere High, Sebastian Orellana was one of the first students to take advantage of the program.

Last week, Mayor Keefe, the coaches and fellow boxers came out for a barbeque to send off Orellana who will be joining the Army National Guard. Orellana, 18, will be heading to Fort Jackson for Army basic training then he will go to Gulfport Mississippi training facility where he will participate in the 12 Whiskey School. Orellana will be a carpenter and Masonry specialist.

Orellana, a 2024 graduate of Revere High School, joined in the hopes of pursuing his education. "My parents are really proud of my decision. They both pushed me to go to college. Through the National Guard I can pursue my education. I am both excited and nervous. I am especially grateful for Revere Boxing. I started out in Singer's tiny office gym. If it was not for boxing I would not have my car or thought of joining the Army. I don't know where I would be without boxing. I want to give a shoutout to Singer, Travis and Greg for helping me get here."

According to Jamie Chambers, a Sergeant First Class and Senior Career Counselor/Recruiter for the Massachusetts Army National Guard, "Sebastian came in with the notion that he wanted to learn a trade and something to use when he gets out of training, he'll be part of an engineering company in Massachusetts. He can cross train all different trades as a great soldier and engineer. This will always be a marketable skill for him in the civilian side. He can also utilize the Helmets to Hardhat Program and enroll in one of the mini unions in Boston should he decide to stay in the private sector if he wants. The National Guard has several trade schools available because proximity with local unions is a benefit for everybody. Sebastian is a great kid who's been looking to serve for a while now. Along with his relationship with Revere Boxing Outreach, Sebastian will come back as a well-rounded leader, and hopefully can mentor our young kids in the program in the city."

Revere Boxing Outreach founder and RPD School Resource Officer Joe Singer could not be more proud of Orellana. "Sebastian was one of my first students. He used to come down to my office between classes, during gym class and even skip lunch to get in some work on the heavy bag, or do some mitts with me. He was super respectful, but could have easily strayed from the path if he didn't have that discipline and support system. I worked closely with his Mom and Dad and Assistant Principal to make sure he walked across that stage receiving his diploma. I have no doubt in my mind that this curly headed young man is destined for greatness. I am so proud to be part of his journey."

Revere Boxing Outreach is a nonprofit organization designed to uplift the youths and families in the city of Revere. Revere Boxing Outreach creates a safe and welcoming environment under the guidelines of the USA Boxing Athlete and Non-Athlete Code of Conduct and USA Boxing's Safesport Police Handbook, which focuses on recognizing, reducing, and responding to misconduct in sport. In collaboration with USA Boxing, Revere Boxing Outreach endeavors to teach all participants the character, confidence, and focus they need to become resilient and diverse champions, both in and out of the ring.

RHS SPORTS Through the Years

10 years ago October 7, 2014

The Revere High football team ran into what RHS head coach Lou Cicatelli termed "the best defense we've faced all year" and came up empty-handed in a 27-0 loss to Danvers last Thursday evening at Deering Stadium in Danvers.

The Revere High girls cross country team improved to 5-1 on the season with wins over Northeastern Conference foe Lynn Classical and non-league rival Medford in a tri-meet held on a damp, drizzly, and dank Tuesday afternoon at the local Belle Isle course. Five Lady Patriots improved their home personal records (PR): juniors Jaclynne Dion, Suelen Guerriero, and Lyba Khan; sophomore Joanna Severino Perez; and freshman Hannah Fitzpatrick. Lady Patriot star runner Vanessa Puopolo topped the entire field with a clocking of 20:44.

The young Revere High field hockey team put it all together to earn a 3-0 victory over Salem. Junior Julia Freni scored the first goal in the first two minutes of the game. Senior captain Olivia Venezia scored the second, while freshmen Victoria Correia put the icing on the Revere victory cake when she reached the back of the box for the third Revere tally. RHS head coach Erin Parker also praised the play of sophomore Sam Woodman and senior captain Jasmina Zelkanovic for their solid games at center back and center midfield respectively, where they helped build the ball on offense.

The Revere High boys soccer team battled to a nil-nil (0-0) draw with Marblehead last week in less-than-ideal playing conditions on the turf field at Revere High last Wednesday. "It was a slick field, which made it difficult for both teams to control the ball," said RHS head coach Abdel Rhazi. "The wet turf actually makes the ball move faster, unlike on real grass." Rhazi and his crew now stand at a fine 6-2-1 on the season.

20 years ago October 13, 2004

Jose Escobar rushed for 260 yards and scored four touchdowns to lead the Revere High football team to a 26-8 victory over Medford Friday evening at Harry Della Russo Stadium. Escobar was named a Boston Herald Player of the Week for his effort. Escobar praised the work of his offensive line, led by fellow co-captain Chris D'Eramo, for his performance.

Kara Corbell and Stephanie Bruno scored the goals for the RHS field hockey team in a 2-0 win over Everett.

Seniors Melissa

DeAngelis and Violet Cook led coach Samantha Meier's RHS volleyball team to its first win of the season, 24-30, 31-29, 30-28, over Somerville.

Mehdo Charani scored the tying goal for the RHS boys soccer team in a 1-1 deadlock with Everett. In a 3-1 win over Waltham, Charani scored two goals and J.J.Burgo added a third for coach Jamie Fidler's squad.

Ryan Burke took first place for the RHS boys cross country team to pace a 21-38 victory over Waltham.

The RHS golf team won its final match of the season, defeating Somerville, 40.5-31.5. Kevin Flaherty won in the No. 1 spot, 6.5-2.5. Other winners for coach Ron Ferullo's Patriots were Bob Mathews, Christine Cavagnaro, Matt Leslie, and Andrew Foglia.

The RHS girls cross country team improved to 5-1 with a 15-44 shut-out victory over Waltham. Freshman Amanda Todisco led the way for the Lady Patriots.

40 years ago October 10, 1984

The RHS football team defeated Somerville 6-0. Mark Capprini accounted for the lone score of the game when he pounced on a Somerville fumble in the end zone. Patriot Tim Kurtz rushed for 79 yards on 22 carries.

Revere hosts Somerville on Homecoming Friday at 5:30 at Della Russo Stadium. The Senior Night ceremony will be held before the game.

Cicatelli offers condolences to the family of Bob DeFelice

On behalf of the Revere High School football program, coach Lou Cicatelli expressed his condolences to the family of Robert "Bob" DeFelice, the former Winthrop High School head football coach and Bentley University athletic director who passed away Sunday, Oct. 6, 2024 at the age of 82.

"I got to talk to him a few times at the Shriners All-Star games at Bentley," said Cicatelli. "He was a true legend."

"Defensively, I thought we played pretty well again," said head coach Lou Cicatelli, who is three wins away from the 100th career-victory milestone. "We made some key fourth-down stops, so our defense was a plus. Offensively, we made too many mistakes. We have to fix that and execute better."

In addition to scoring Revere's only touchdown, Benhamou was the tackles leader on defense at his outside linebacking position.

"Yusef has been a pleasant surprise on both sides of the ball all season," lauded Cicatelli.

Defensive ends Charles Dobre and Joel Vasquez and cornerback Geo Woodard also turned in strong performances.

RHS football 22-6 loss to Lynn English

The Revere High School showed much improvement on defense, but its offense stalled in a 22-6 loss to Lynn English last Thursday at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

The Patriots were in striking distance of their first victory early on when quarterback Danny Hou connected with Yousef Benhamou for a 45-yard touchdown pass, closing the margin to 8-6.

But the Bulldogs returned the ensuing kickoff for a 70-yard touchdown to regain the momentum. Revere stopped the Bulldogs on multiple occasions in the red zone (inside the 20-yard line), but the visitors were able to keep Revere off the scoreboard and went home with a hard-fought victory.

The Revere High soccer team, which is off to its best-ever start with a 4-2 record, bounced back from a tough 1-0 loss to undefeated Chelsea to top Everett, 5-2. Patriot John Tenaglia scored the hat trick and teammate Vic Damiano scored two goals.

The RHS boys cross country team triumphed over previously-undefeated Peabody, 21-35, to move into first place in the GBL. David DeMattia and John Bruzzese took the top two places for coach Frank Gallagher's team.

50 years ago October 9, 1974

Frank Mucci scored both Revere touchdowns to lead the Patriots to a 15-7 win over a big Quincy squad.

The RHS cross country team has returned home for the second straight year with the champions' plaque of the annual Our Lady of Providence Invitational Meet held in Warwick, R.I. RHS standout Dom Finelli took first place for the second straight year at the meet, which features 20 schools from across New England.

Earlier in the week in a GBL contest with Medford, Finelli broke his own course record on the 2.8 mile GBL course with a time of 13:26 to pace the Pats to a 24-25 victory.

60 years ago October 8, 1964

The RHS football dominated Lynn English en route to a 14-0 victory Saturday. RHS star quarterback Jim DelGaizo connected on 14-of-23 pass attempts for 220 yards for Coach Silvio Cella's squad, including a 23 yard TD pass to Vic Mancini. Billy Cintolo scored the other Revere TD on an 11 yard run. Revere co-captain John Stasio led the defense in the shutout effort.

Coach Ronnie Corbett's Immaculate Conception High football team defeated Arlington Catholic, 6-0. Ken Bova scored the game's lone touchdown and Revicon co-captain Jim Benton anchored a solid IC defensive line.

70 years ago October 14, 1954

Coach Ronnie Corbett's high-flying Immaculate Conception High football team defeated Our Lady of Newton, 20-6, for their third straight win. Pete DiCarlo scored touchdowns on runs of 35 and seven yards and Dick Ross added an insurance TD for the Blue and Gold. Mike Cayon was outstanding for the IC defense.

80 years ago October 22, 1944

Much interest is being generated across the city for this Sunday's high school football game that will pit Revere High against Immaculate Conception. Immaculate will come into the game undefeated after an 18-6 win over Mission High this past week in which shifty IC halfback Bill Sweeney ran brilliantly all day before 2500 fans at Paul Revere Stadium Sunday afternoon. Sweeney scored two touchdowns and set the stage for a third. The winless RHS football team dropped a 26-12 decision at Manchester Central of New Hampshire Saturday afternoon in a game played before 5000 fans. Pat Cerrone tossed TD passes for Revere to Ed O'Keefe and Walter Taylor.

COLUMBUS DAY PARADE

Something for everyone

By SETH DANIEL
seth@reverejournal.com

Where else can you get a hug from Sponge Bob Squarepants, give a high-five to Scooby-Doo and tap your toes to the beat of old school Italian anthems?

Nowhere else but the Revere Columbus Day Parade. This parade was welcomed with sunshine and a pleasant, crisp fall day - having no rain or clouds for the fourth year in a row. And for the second year in a row, Sponge Bob stole the show from Tweety Bird, Elmo and over a dozen marching bands.

The crowds weren't what they've been in the past along Broadway, and especially on Revere Street. Likewise, the parade itself was a little shorter than in past years (wrapping up in one hour), though there were more marching bands and fewer Shriner's entries. Among the new entries in the parade were a contingent from the RevereCARES summer kayaking program and the Red Hat Society, a recently formed social group made up of "experienced" women.

Nevertheless, those facts really didn't rain on anyone's parade, nor did they turn over the smiles of the thousands of children and adults in attendance.

The parade began to take shape just after 1 p.m. when participants lined up on lower Broadway by the Parkway overpass. City Hall unfurled two Italian flags and posted them on either side of the building's grand entrance. Vendors sold balloons, toy machine guns, snap-pops and, of course, Italian

Patrol officers boycott parade

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

As this year's Columbus Day Parade progressed down Broadway, there were noticeably fewer police officers leading the charge.

Were they on special patrols? Were they responding to an emergency?

No, actually they were boycotting the parade.

For the first time in decades, the Revere Police Patrol Officers' Union under their president, Officer Greg Tammara, voted to institute a voluntary boycott of this year's parade. The result was that 56 patrol officers stayed off the parade route, and only two decided to march.

Several members of the Superior Officers Union, as well as Chief Terence Reardon, marched in the parade.

"I love the parade. I have four kids and I love to march in the parade so they can see me. It's a source of pride in my community," said veteran Officer Andrew Lauria, who has been on the job 18

Officials brace for retirements

A number of familiar faces in the Revere Public Schools will most likely be making an exodus as several administrators, principals and veteran teachers become eligible for retirement in the next few years.

Already, Superintendent of Schools Paul Dakin and the School Committee have begun to take steps to fill the void so that the schools don't suffer a setback when these retirements do happen.

"I don't think anyone realized the enormity of this," said School Committeeman Fred Sannella, who is a retired school principal. "You look around with tunnel vision and see a few here and a few there, but when you step back, you can see the whole picture, and we're preparing for it."

"We've been trying to figure out how to find leaders in the system and bring them into the loop earlier," said Committeewoman Carol Tye, a retired superintendent.

'We've been trying to figure out how to find leaders in the system and bring them into the loop earlier.'

SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEMBER
CAROL TYE (RIGHT)

Dakin said the schools have had a high number of retirements in the previous two years, but nothing like what is to come. He said within the next two years, four principals in the district will be eligible to retire. In addition, there will be two new principals required - one at the newly created Fine Arts middle school that will be in the West Revere Complex, and one at the new general studies middle school in the forthcoming Rummy Academy.

On top of that, in two years three district curriculum directors, two administrators in the central office and at least three deans at the high school will be up for retirement.

Dakin said he couldn't list those people who are up for retirement because many like to keep it "close to the vest" until their retirement is definite.

The final punch comes in teaching positions, where 40 teachers district wide are expected to retire by the end of this year, and an additional 50 teachers by the end

REVERE Through the Years

The Rev. Nick Granittas, the pastor of the First Congregational Church, was honored by members of the congregation and local dignitaries, including House Speaker Bob DeLeo and Mayor Dan Rizzo, to congratulate the popular local clergyman on his 40 years in the church's pulpit.

Several Revere elected officials headed to the Casa Lucia last Thursday to join numerous residents and other elected officials from surrounding communities, including many Democrats, to lend support to the Republican gubernatorial ticket of Charlie Baker and Karyn Polito.

The city's assessors have begun the triennial property revaluation this month and report that values are beginning to come back up. "What we are seeing is that values have gone up," said assessor Andy Iovanna. "My guess is that on average, one and two-families have gone up 9 or 10 percent. Commercial values have gone up about 5 percent on average."

20 years ago October 15, 2004

The annual Columbus Day parade once again was a big success, with no rain or clouds for the fourth year in a row. Although the parade was only an hour long, there were more than a dozen marching bands. Sponge-Bob Squarepants was a big hit among the young children.

For the first time in decades, the Revere Police Patrol Officers Union did not march in the parade. Of the 56 members of the union, which is led by President Greg Tamaro, only two opted to march along the parade route. The union reportedly is unhappy with the state of contract negotiations with the city.

The School Department has begun preparing for a wave of retirements, including four school principals, that are expected within the next two years.

The city's Animal Control Officer has been implicated in a cocaine bust made last week by state and local police and has been suspended with pay pending the outcome of the investigation.

40 years ago October 10, 1984

The School Committee has voted to appoint Ward 2 City Councillor Catherine Bellinfante Penn to a full-time position in the Title I program. However, some members wondered whether Penn will have to resign from the City Council upon taking the teaching position.

A report by the Enrollment Assessment Committee finds that the Revere schools need to hire more teachers in order to bring the average classroom enrollment to the recommended levels of 20 students for kindergarten, 24 for grades 1-3, and 29 for grades 4-12. The committee has recommended the creation of five additional classrooms to alleviate overcrowding in the schools.

Mayor George V. Colella announced this week that the city's Department of Planning and Community Development has available $320,000 for low-interest mortgages of 11.25 percent for first-time homebuyers under the Neighborhood Rehabilitation program.

The Revere Lodge of Elks has dedicated the lodge hall in memory of the late John D. Graham, the lodge's former Past Exalted Ruler and District Deputy.

50 years ago October 9, 1974

More than 200 Revere High students marched on City Hall to protest conditions at the new Revere High School. Nancy Forgione, speaking for the students, said, "This is a peaceful demonstration to show Mayor Reinstein that we're fed up with the technical difficulties which in some cases have posed hazards to students' safety. We'd like some of the equipment to work. In most rooms, there are not enough desks, equipment is not in working order, and we're not even allowed to park our cars at the school." The following week, some 300 students filled the City Council Chamber to air their problems. The City Council previously has approved a motion filed by former mayor and present Councillor George V. Colella asking the Suffolk County District Attorney to investigate the contracts for wiring, fencing, and furnishings for the school.

Indictments reportedly will be handed down soon by the grand jury that is investigating the alleged misappropriation of funds from the School Department's hot lunch program.

Mayor William G. Reinstein said that the Columbus Day parade Saturday will be "the largest such affair the people of Revere ever have seen."

Revere, Chelsea, and State Police conducted a raid at 21 Thornton St. that resulted in the seizure of a large quantity of drugs, two revolvers, and the arrests of seven persons. Revere Police Detective Michael Casoli and Capt. George Hurley were among those taking part in the raid.

Dr. Ralph Levine is the new President of the Jewish Community Center.

60 years ago October 8, 1964

What is being billed as the largest and most colorful Columbus Day parade in city history is set for Monday afternoon. Most of the city's fraternal, veterans, and civic organizations are expected to be among the parade's four divisions.

Revere High senior Paul Weinberg has been named a National Merit semifinalist, qualifying him for the national final exam.

The City Council has ordered Building Inspector Michael Ancillo to inspect the grandstand at Paul Revere Stadium to determine whether it is unsafe and if so, to close it at once.

70 years ago October 14, 1954

City Councillors were stunned to learn this week from City Manager Edward P. O'Toole that the city will be charged $1000 per month to dump at the Edward P. McHugh property on American Legion Highway. Other communities that formerly dumped at the site have withdrawn because of the cost. McHugh said it is costing him $250 per month for maintenance crews for the Revere dumping alone, which up to now had been offered to the city free of charge.

Despite the poor weather, a large crowd was on hand for the Giuseppe Mazzini Sons of Italy parade and concert to mark Columbus Day Sunday. The parade started at the Lincoln School and proceeded along Revere St. to St. Anthony's Church. Michael Bonanno was chairman of the affair.

Mrs. Edna Pearl, 64 Bennington St., was held at gunpoint for 10 minutes by one man while another ransacked her 11-room home, apparently looking for horse race winnings of some of the boarders who live there. No money was found.

The 49th annual ball of the Revere Police Relief Association is set for Wednesday evening in the Oceanview Ballroom.

Mrs. Elizabeth McNeil, 70, of 95 Arlington St., is in fair condition at Winthrop Community Hospital after she was struck by a hit-and-run motor vehicle operator while on her way to Our Lady of Lourdes Church to attend a mission.

A bitter dispute over the naming of the MTA overpass on Cove St. erupted at the City Council meeting when relatives of the late former State Senator Conde J. Brodbine, who died in 1947, asserted that the overpass should be named in his honor, clashing with a large group of women who said the overpass should be named in honor of Kenneth G. Snow, who grew up in the neighborhood and who gave his life for his country in WWII. The council previously had voted in June to name the overpass in Brodbine's honor, but rescinded its vote to name it in honor of Snow at the urging of the women's group.

80 years ago October 12, 1944

Both pride and sadness mingled in one Revere home this week. Announcement first was received by the Larkin family of the award of the Combat Infantrymen's Badge to Sgt. Sydney Larkin, 29, for his bravery in the battle of Bougainville in the South Pacific, where he was wounded. However, the War Department later in the week informed the family that his brother, Maurice, 25, a tail gunner on a U.S. bomber, was listed as missing in action over France.

Neighborhood PACE celebrates national PACE Month

Special to the Journal

This September, organizations across the country came together to raise awareness of an important senior care program we are fortunate to have in our Greater Boston community – PACE – or Program for All Inclusive Care for the Elderly. PACE offers a unique care model designed to help older adults maintain healthy, independent, and active lives in their homes and communities. The program serves over 77,000 participants nationwide and is growing every day.

Begun in the 1970s in San Francisco's Chinatown neighborhood, PACE is a model of care that has steadily grown since then, providing holistic and individualized care solutions that allow older adults to live at home with a higher quality of life and at a reduced cost compared with other healthcare settings such as nursing homes. Care is provided by interdisciplinary teams comprised of primary care providers, registered nurses, home care coordinators, personal care attendants, dietitians, social workers, transportation drivers, PACE center managers, as well as physical, occupational and recreational therapists. Family members and caregivers also benefit from PACE. Lidia, shared a story illustrating the program's impact: "We recently assisted an older woman whose family was struggling to take care of her at home. Now, she is able to spend her day in our beautiful day centers, meeting friends, eating lunch and enjoying activities all with her care team close at hand."
