CITY ANNOUNCES COVID-19 VACCINATION CLINIC

Following a successful first responder vaccination campaign, the Cities of Revere, Chelsea, and Winthrop announced plans for another clinic to take place on Thursday, January 28. The clinic is offering 500 appointment slots to home-based and other health care workers who live or work in Revere, Chelsea or Winthrop, fit within the State's Phase I requirements and have not yet been vaccinated. Each municipality is conducting outreach to medical and dental offices and home health care agencies to generate awareness of the opportunity and use all available vaccines.

"Providing our first vaccinations to our first responders last week was an amazing experience and a tremendous accomplishment for our public health teams," said Lauren Buck, public health nurse for the City of Revere. "We will continue to work closely

Mayor Brian Arrigo took a moment for a photo-op with the vaccinated photo frame in the main hall, where every person that was vaccinated had a 15 minute waiting period for signs of any reactions.

Residents, staff at Jack Satter House receive first dose of COVID-19 vaccine

Staff report

On Friday, 270 residents and staff of the Jack Satter House in Revere received the first dose of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine at an on-site clinic in collaboration with CVS Health. Nearly 10 months after the City of Revere and Hebrew SeniorLife first announced aggressive actions to prevent further spread of the virus at Jack Satter House, Mayor Brian Arrigo and Hebrew SeniorLife President and CEO Lou Woolf came together to reflect on the strength of the public-private partnership developed to safeguard the health and well-being of residents. Between March 24 and March 26, 2020, the Revere Board of Health was notified by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health of seven positive cases of COVID-19 at the Jack Satter House on Revere Beach Boulevard. On March 26, the Board of Health issued a directive requiring all Jack Satter House residents to quarantine in their individual apartments and issued additional guidance to all senior facilities in the City of Revere. For seven weeks, residents were not allowed access to common spaces and if they chose to leave the building, were not permitted to return until after the quarantine was lifted. These cases also marked the start of the City of Revere's contact tracing operation.

"In the early days of the pandemic, we had to make some very difficult and painful decisions to protect our most vulnerable residents, and so it's a special day to be able to join the Jack Satter community as they receive their vaccinations and look forward to brighter days ahead," Mayor Arrigo said. "For the past 10 months, we have worked closely with Hebrew SeniorLife on behalf of residents and I want to thank

Funding for Broadway signalization approved

By Cary Shuman

One of the busiest intersections in Revere – located at Cushman Avenue and School Street, and centered by Broadway – is about to get a complete makeover. And when all is said and done, the traffic flow on frequently clogged Broadway should improve drastically.

The City Council approved a request by Chief Finance Officer Richard Viscay that the Council supplement the $1.5 million state grant for the overhaul of the traffic signals and repaving of the crosswalks on Broadway with a city appropriation of $216,103. The money will come out of the city's Community Investment Trust Fund.

"This is a great project where we can leverage $200,000 against a $1.5 million bond and really try to improve the traffic flow and traffic light signals on Broadway," said Viscay, adding that the actual project is being managed by the Planning Department.

Julie DeMauro, transportation manager for the city, said the additional appropriation would go toward traffic signalization "and to bring all of the crosswalks and pedestrian signals up to ADA compliance."

Ward 4 Councilor Patrick Keefe asked about the timeline for the project.

"The project has already gone out for bid and we have received three bids and we have not yet awarded the bid to the lowest bidder," said DeMauro. "We would like to start the project in April so we can get every-

Council will honor Dr. King with banner at City Hall

By Cary Shuman

The City Council unanimously approved a motion by Council President Anthony Zambuto to request Mayor Brian Arrigo to commission a banner honoring the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the outstanding civil rights leader and brilliant orator, and that the banner be displayed on the front of City Hall during the month of February in recognition of Black History Month.

"Obviously, myself and a lot of people look at Martin Luther King as a hero," said Zambuto. "He stood for a lot of the things that we all stand for. His biggest thing was content of character, not color of skin. He was for peaceful protests. There are many things I find myself in common with this great man. I'm not sure that we're teaching history as well in the schools today. And I'm not sure a lot of young people actually know a lot about this man."

Community organizer Somaya Laroussi asked Zambuto and other councilors about their motivation in "trying to push for this [banner] only because

State Rep. Race Highlight: Looking at the Candidates

Capobianco sees civic engagement as path to being DeLeo successor

By Melissa Moore-Randall

Valentino Capobianco hopes his lifelong commitment to civic engagement will give him the boost needed to be elected to the 19th Suffolk District Representative seat of former Speaker Robert DeLeo.

A Winthrop resident and member of the Winthrop School Committee, Capobianco sees both his Valentino Capobianco. Winthrop roots as making him the man he is today and the influence of his parents and grandfather. "My experiences growing up in Winthrop definitely made me the man I am today. My mother, a registered nurse who specializes in substance abuse treatment, instilled in me compassion for people going through a difficult time in their lives and a willingness to lend a hand and help them get back on their feet. My father, a state employee, taught me the importance of active civic engagement in my community. Growing up, I'm pretty sure I volunteered on every campaign possible in Winthrop. Some of my earliest memories are holding signs early in the morning, talking to voters, and making sure people got to the polls and cast their ballot. These lessons are definitely what led me to work in State Government and run for positions

Silvestri seeks emergency court relief from infringement on his right to access the ballot

Staff report

Marc Silvestri, Candidate for State Representative, 19th Suffolk, is filing an emergency petition for relief with the Single Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court on the basis that his constitutional right to access the ballot was infringed.

"We are living in unprecedented times and being forced to comply with the pre-pandemic signature requirement is unconstitutional in light of the public health risks," Silvestri said. "For this reason, I am seeking to have the same relief afforded to me as was afforded to the State Representative candidates in 2020."

Every candidate seeking to get their name on the ballot for the March 2 Democratic primary for State Representative, 19th Suffolk was "unduly burdened" by being forced to obtain the pre-pandemic number of certified signatures during the height of the pandemic's most recent surge. This statement is true whether or

Serino, Keefe request construction of sound barrier for Route 1

By Cary Shuman

Councillors Richard Serino and Patrick Keefe are asking the Gov. Charlie Baker Administration to prioritize the building of a sound barrier along Route 1, from Copeland Circle to Route 16 in Revere, to decrease noise in the neighborhood from vehicles traveling on the busy highway.

“We were very excited to see that the Transportation Bond Bill was passed and one of the expenditures was to assist in sound barriers for Route 1 that surround Revere,” said Keefe.

The Ward 4 councilor asked that residents reach out to state legislators to urge Gov. Baker to build the sound barrier soon “because it’s something that Revere needs.”

“This is not a done deal by any stretch of the imagination,” cautioned Serino, who represents Ward 6. “This is a Bond Bill authorization that was authorized by the House and the Senate in which the Governor signed. The Governor can choose which projects he and his administration would like to fund that are included this laundry list of items that are in the bill.”

Serino said Ward 6 residents “have been complaining for years about the sound and it is a serious quality-of-life issue.”

“Now is the time for us to really step it up with the Governor and request that he authorize these funds.”

Ward 2 Councilor Ira Novoselsky praised the two councilors for sponsoring the motion.

“Back in 2008, we were promised these barriers when they supposed to widen Route 1 because of the Roseland property at Overlook Ridge project,” said Novoselsky. “I know that Gov. Patrick refused to give it to us when it was in the Bond Bill back in the teens (the 2010s). I just hope that Gov. Baker appreciates all the help we’ve been giving him. We have to get to the other representatives to help push this through. I just hope this thing goes through this time. It’s not my ward but it affects everybody.”

The City Council unanimously approved the motion.

School Committee discuss March 1 target date for hybrid learning for some students

By John Lynds

For nearly an hour last week the Revere Public School Committee debated a motion put forth by some members calling for a hybrid learning start date of March 1 for special education students who are juniors and seniors.

The motion, put forth by School Committee members Michael Ferrante, Susan Gravellese, Frederick A. Sannella, Stacey Rizzo, touched off a spirited back and forth over the language of the motion and whether a date should be included.

Members like Revere Public School Superintendent Dr. Dianne Kelly, Carol Ty, Anthony D’Ambrosio and Mayor Brian Arrigo said putting a potential start date out to the public may cause more anger and confusion if the target date doesn’t pan out due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

“Maybe we don’t put in a starting date in March,” said Ty. “I know that we all agree that we need to get kids back in school. It’s not the lack of wanting—we have done the right thing all along. It’s the people who refuse to wear masks or social distance. I’m so glad that our teachers will take precedence in getting the vaccine but until we can be sure I don’t think we can put any kind of date on it.”

Ty’s comments were backed by D’Ambrosio who also did not support the motion.

“I agree with Miss Ty,” said D’Ambrosio. “I think that everybody here agrees that we need to be trying as hard as we can to get all students back as quickly as possible. It needs to be safe to do that. Obviously we want everybody to be back as soon as possible and as soon as it’s safe to do so. I understand the argument about wanting an optimistic goal here but we’re voting on the most optimistic of optimistic goals. If we put out a date that isn’t realistic—and many of us know that March 1 isn’t realistic based on the president’s vaccination regimen proposals and the city’s vaccination regime proposal—it’s tantamount to just spreading misinformation at this point.”

Mayor Arrigo caution is that any date that the School Committee throws out there goes against the need to be flexible and fluid as the world continues to change due to COVID.

“Using any kind of date—and I think we’ve learned this with graduation and pretty much everything that we’ve dealt with during the pandemic—can be a real challenge. I wouldn’t want us to be tied to one date. I would kind of lean on the side of caution in terms of any language (that includes dates). Putting a date out there can present challenges and then changing that date could present even more challenges as well.”

Dr. Kelly added that while she understands that the members who put forth the motion are eager to get kids back to some form of in-person learning it has to be done with caution.

“We have had a hybrid learning model designed and developed since August but what has kept us from going back to school is not a lack of planning or lack of foresight or failure to set a date,” said Kelly, “It has been the guidance of the Revere Board of Health, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, and the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. We’ve listened to the medical experts and that’s the reason why (we are not back in school). Communities near us that have gone to a hybrid model made their decision based on that advice as well. In August we thought we’d be in at the end of October. In October we thought maybe November. By Thanksgiving we hoped for Christmas and at Christmas we hoped it would be after the New Year. But instead of the numbers coming down

(in Revere) the numbers have gone up and they continue to go up. And when I say on numbers I mean the positivity rate in the community, I mean the number of infections, I mean the number of citizens who are dying from this pandemic. I’ve said right along that we would come back when it’s safe for us to do so.”

Rizzo defended the motion saying it was meant to simply reinforce a major goal for the schools—the goal of getting kids back in the classroom.

In the end a motion to strike the date from the original motion failed 4 to 3 but some of the other language in the motion was rearranged to reflect the School Committee’s active work to prepare for a return to school.

with the Department of Public Health to offer as many vaccination clinics as we can under the phased guidelines. The logistics of getting a three-community first responder vaccine clinic off the ground proved challenging, but incredibly rewarding. We have already learned so much about how to run an effective and efficient clinic and will continue to provide this service to our residents in the coming months, as additional members of the public become eligible for the vaccine.”

The Revere Board of Health urges residents to fill out the COVID-19 Vaccination Communications Update form at www.revere.org/vaccine-signup. The City will continue to communicate with this group of individuals and notify them of their eligibility to participate in future clinics in the City.

This morning the Revere Board of Health recorded 42 new cases of COVID-19 among Revere residents. The city is now averaging 64.7 new cases a day and its 14-day positivity rate is 13%.

COUNCIL OFFERS MOMENT OF SILENCE FOR BETTY ARGENZIO

The City Council, at the request of Councilor-at-Large Jessica Giannino, held a moment of silence in memory of Mrs. Betty Argenzio, who died on Jan. 18.

Mrs. Argenzio was a school nurse in the Revere schools for many years. She was the mother of Supt. of Public Works and Traffic Commission Chair Paul Argenzio.

Appearing later in the Council meeting for a DPW-related discussion, Paul Argenzio personally thanked the councilors for their kind tribute to his mother.

MASSACHUSETTS NATIONAL GUARD SELECTED TO PROVIDE ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

At the request of federal authorities, members of the Massachusetts National Guard, alongside National Guard members from other states, will provide additional assistance in Washington, D.C., to support the United States Secret Service beginning this week.

Governor Charlie Baker today signed an order approving up to 700 Massachusetts Air and Army National Guard personnel for the mission, which was requested by the Department of Defense, National Guard Bureau, and Secret Service. These guard members will be traveling to Washington in the coming days and are expected to return to the Commonwealth on February 23.

This mission is separate from the 500 personnel who served last week in DC in support of inauguration events and returned home to Massachusetts over the weekend.

The Massachusetts National Guard will ensure all appropriate force health protection measures are implemented leading up to, and throughout, the mission. This includes pre-departure screenings, COVID-19 testing, and mandatory mask wear. Additionally, Soldiers and Airmen will have individual rooms while deployed to the D.C. area to further reduce risks during this pandemic.

Today’s activation will not interfere with the Massachusetts National Guard’s ability to respond to and assist in emergencies within the Commonwealth.

The Massachusetts National Guard trains regularly with military, law enforcement, and civilian agencies to provide a broad spectrum of services in support of security, logistics, disaster relief, and other missions. The Guard has a proven track record of success supporting civilian authorities and their frequent side-by-side training with state and local first responders makes them well-suited for this mission.

License Commission hears of COVID-related business issues

Staff report

At the License Commission meeting on January 20, commissioners heard about the negative impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic and the effects on local restaurants and organizations.

The owners of Lazy Crab Restaurant and Bar, located at 733 Broadway, appeared before the commission to explain the delay in opening their establishment. Attorney Joseph Cattoggio, representing the owners, told the commissioners that the pandemic has made it difficult to obtain the necessary building permits and inspections to open the restaurant in a timely manner. He stated that construction has been on-going in 2020, but has been slow, with the final building permit not being issued until December.

He noted that the hood for the stove and the seating arrangements have been approved by city officials.

"It has been almost two years since you were approved for the license and it is good to see you are trying to get open," said commissioner Linda Guinasso.

The commissioners approved an extension for six months for the opening and will review the progress at that time.

In another matter, the commissioners granted the officers and managers of the Revere Lodge Loyal Order of Moose #1272, located at 470 Broadway, a 90-day extension to have their application approved by the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission (ABCC) in Boston.

There seems to be an issue with the application not having been filed correctly and as a result, the local commission cannot approve the renewal of the liquor license.

"Someone has to straighten out the issues at the ABCC," said Guinasso.

"We should give them a little time to square it out at the ABCC," added commissioner Robert Selevitch.

The commissioners

then voted to grant an extension of 90 days to allow officers from the Moose to address the discrepancies at the ABCC and receive the state board's approval.

Virtual Vaccine Town Hall tonight at 6 p.m.

Staff report

Dr. Nathalee Kong, chair of the Revere Board of Health, and Lauren Buck, director of the Revere Health Department, will appear at a Virtual Vaccine Town Hall today, Wednesday, Jan. 27, (6 p.m.) on the City of Revere Facebook.

The two leaders in the Revere health community are expected to speak about COVID-19 and the process by which COVID-19 vaccinations will be administered to Revere residents in the coming weeks.

Buck appeared at the City Council meeting Monday night at the request of Ward 4 Councilor Patrick Keefe to discuss the rollout of the vaccines. Buck and Kim Hanton, Chief of Staff to Mayor Brian Arrigo, led an effort to distribute the vaccines to 600 first responders from Revere, Winthrop, and Chelsea at a three-day regional clinic at Rumney Marsh Academy.

Buck said the vaccine distribution process is a work in constant motion, citing Gov. Charlie Baker's decision this week to move residents 65 years or older into a higher position of priority in the state's vaccine distribution program and the opening of many vaccine sites in the state.

thing done by September, weather permitting."

DeMauro said the project would begin at the intersection of Beach Street and Fenno Street and encompass all intersections (that have traffic lights) through Revere Street and Malden Street.

"What about the smaller streets like Prospect Avenue and Mountain Ave that don't have traffic lights?" asked Ward 2 Councilor Ira Novoselsky.

DeMauro said those streets would not be addressed under the project. "There would be no work done to those intersections because they have no crossing signal or pedestrian traffic lights at all," replied DeMauro.

Ralph DeCicco, chair of the Revere Disabilities Commission, said the project will benefit disabled residents and Revere seniors. "It's long overdue," said DeCicco, adding that one of the greatest needs is the redesign of the Cushman-School-Broadway intersection.

"That intersection is probably going to be the most significant in terms of changes and in terms of the way the intersection functions," said DeMauro. "There's going to be a lot of work and rework for that intersection. You have 6-7 crosswalks all in that one intersection."

Ward 3 Councilor Arthur Guinasso said the foot traffic is significant at that intersection "based on the fact that it's a feeding source for three schools, the high school, the Whalen School, and the Lincoln School."

"An upgrade in that particular case is much needed and we've been looking forward to this for years," said Guinasso. "So it's welcomed. We're thankful it's coming and I think this is money well spent."

them for all their efforts to support resident health and well-being. The residents of Jack Satter House were among the earliest and most significantly impacted by COVID-19 public health measures, and I'll never be able to fully express my gratitude to them -- for doing their part to protect themselves and our community. I also want to again offer my deepest condolences to the families, friends and neighbors of those lost to the virus this past year."

To support residents during the quarantine, Hebrew SeniorLife's Jack Satter House was in constant communications with residents to address their everyday needs. Examples included: Providing extra cleaning and security staff for the safety of residents and implementing strict infection control procedures to admit limited staff and health aides. Daily wellness checks were conducted by a volunteer and staffer phone bank and all follow-up was addressed, such as medical appointment or transportation needs. Additionally, Satter House staff delivered lunch and dinner to each resident, operated an onsite grocery store, delivered mail, distributed packages, and helped refill prescriptions. It also implemented robust virtual programming and even helped with dog-walking. These are a partial list of the accommodations made for residents during this time.

Lou Woolf, President and CEO of Hebrew SeniorLife, said, "It has been a long journey battling COVID-19 but through it all, we have had a strong partnership with the City of Revere to help keep Jack Satter House residents as safe as possible. With the advent of vaccines, there is new hope and a spirit of positivity, especially with Satter House residents who were among the earliest to be affected by the virus in Massachusetts. Vaccinations are critical next steps in our ongoing efforts in addressing COVID-19 for our residents, patients, and employees, and with today's clinic, Satter House residents continue on their way."

Throughout the pandemic, Jack Satter House management and Revere Board of Health nurses have maintained regular contact to identify and isolate positive COVID-19 cases and discuss evolving best practices in quarantine and testing follow-up. Jack Satter House is implementing innovative testing solutions to protect residents and staff, including rapid antigen tests for surveillance testing of employees and pooled testing for residents. Staff and residents have also been encouraged to take advantage of nearby testing opportunities, including the Project Beacon testing site at Suffolk Downs, the Stop the Spread site at Revere High School, and the resident-only testing site at the Revere Senior Center.

The City of Revere's Office of Elder Affairs has worked collaboratively with Jack Satter House to support residents in lieu of in-person programming and social events, including delivery of holiday meals from local restaurants, holiday cookies, well-wish cards and craft kits, and established the RevereTV "Senior FYI" program that invited Jack Satter House residents to share their stories and experiences from quarantine. The City also provided each resident with a PPE kit, and provides ongoing support to residents in need of transportation, food delivery, and PPE.

Hebrew SeniorLife, an affiliate of Harvard Medical School, is a national senior services leader uniquely dedicated to rethinking, researching, and redefining the possibilities of aging. Based in Boston, the nonprofit organization has provided communities and health care for seniors, research into aging, and education for geriatric care providers since 1903. I've noticed that especially in the past year that when there were peaceful protests being held locally, there were only two elected officials in attendance coming in support of the children who were organizing these protests."

Laroussi added that the only councilor in attendance at the rally was Steven Morabito.

Council President Patrick Keefe disputed that claim, stating that he was in attendance at the rally held this past summer.

"I guess you're calling out and asking us to reference our history on how we've been respectful to the community," said Keefe. "I don't list every accomplishment that I may or may not have had, but I think my actions speak for themselves. I think there have been number of councilors that were on those marches and at the peaceful protests."

Ward 2 Councilor Ira Novoselsky also said that other councilors were present for the march.

"With all due respect to Somaya, Councilor Morabito was not the only person at that march," said Novoselsky. "I was there. Councilor Guinasso was there. We stood on the City Hall steps with the speakers supporting that march and the Black Lives Matter program."

Revere resident Shania Hosseini, who described herself as a human rights activist, asked if the MLK banner could be displayed in the city after Black History Month ends (Feb. 28). "I think that banner should stay wherever you guys decide to put it until our own epidemic of racism in our city ends," said

Hosseini.

Hosseini asked the Council to take into consideration her request that the banner be displayed in a location within the city on a permanent basis.

Zambuto responded directly to Hosseini's request, offering that "we only temporarily affix things to City Hall -- they're never permanent and that's why my motion calls for the banner to be up for the month of Black History Month."

THE DAYS ARE GETTING LONGER

Amidst our winter of discontent, there is some good news on the horizon (literally): The days are getting longer.

As this is being written, we will have passed the first full month of the astronomical winter (which starts on December 21 and ends on March 21) and we will have completed almost two months of the meteorological winter season, which is defined as December, January, and February.

On December 14, the sun set at 4:13 in the afternoon and on December 21 (the start of astronomical winter) the total amount of daylight was just nine hours and eight minutes. But on this Friday, January 29, the sun will be setting at 4:56 in the afternoon and we will have nine hours and 56 minutes of daylight.

The longer days, combined with the positive news on COVID-19 vaccines, signal hope for the future that sunnier days lie ahead.

HANK AARON WAS A WONDERFUL MAN

Boston baseball fans never got to experience firsthand the greatness of Hank Aaron. The Boston Braves left for Milwaukee in 1953 and Aaron joined the Braves in 1954.

With Aaron leading the way, the Braves then embarked on a run of great seasons, culminating in the 1957 World Series championship.

Although the Braves descended into mediocrity in the 1960s, Hank Aaron continued to perform at a high level, year after year, for more than two decades. When all was said and done, Aaron not only had broken Babe Ruth's career home run record, but he also set career marks for RBI and total bases (the latter by a wide margin) that still stand today.

Hank Aaron was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame, but it was his achievements off the field that have earned him everlasting fame. He was a pioneer in the civil rights movement who was among a handful of Black athletes who helped to bring to an end the dark era of segregation and discrimination that existed in the 1950s and '60s.

On a personal level, Hank Aaron was admired and respected by all who knew him. He was one of those very few people who never had an unkind word to say about anybody, and vice-versa.

Hank Aaron was not the most-outspoken of persons, but he literally and figuratively epitomized the meaning of the phrase, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." He will be missed.

LAWSUITS WILL BRING OUT THE TRUTH

The announcement this past week that Dominion Voting Systems Inc., the company that manufactures voting machines that are used widely across the United States, has filed a $1.3 billion lawsuit against Rudy Giuliani for his deliberately defamatory statements about the company, is the perfect antidote to the disinformation campaign that was spread by Donald Trump and his minions in their attempt to subvert the results of the November election.

It was one thing for Trump, Giuliani, and others to spout their ridiculous claims, in general terms, about a stolen election, but it is quite another when their patently-false statements negatively affect the reputation and business interests of individuals and companies.

Just as this newspaper cannot publish false and defamatory information, neither can major media outlets nor individuals such as Rudy Giuliani. We would note that an employee of Dominion has filed a separate suit against a number of media outlets, as well as the Trump campaign, for their defamatory and injurious statements about him.

A few years ago, a web site named Gawker Media posted a video of the former wrestling star Hulk Hogan that was the basis for an invasion of privacy suit filed by Hogan that ultimately resulted in a $140 million judgment against Gawker, which put Gawker out of business.

We predict that the lawsuits filed by Dominion (they previously sued another of Trump's lawyers) will have far-reaching consequences, particularly if Dominion names others who, similar to Giuliani, have made defamatory statements about Dominion.

Rudy Giuliani now is facing financial ruin, all of which he brought on himself because of his antics, a very fitting and appropriate ending for a man who tried to subvert a free and fair election, the most basic element of our Constitution.

Fighting for a Spot on Ballot

By Marc Silvestri,
Candidate for State Representative,
19th Suffolk

The voters' ability to choose my name on the ballot for State Rep is being taken away because the laws have not had a chance to catch up with our drastically changed world. The public health concerns associated with everything we do are real, and we live with the risks of contracting a deadly virus simply by talking with one another. Business procedures have changed to reduce that risk, but many legal requirements have not.

Covid has ameliorated all the normal ways in which candidates traditionally obtained signatures to appear on the ballot given that a six-foot distance is required, in-person interactions are discouraged, and large gatherings are unlawful. Yet, the pre-Covid signature requirements are still being enforced. It is my position that the signature expectations should be different than those that existed in pre-pandemic times as safe and equitable access to the ballot is crucial to our democracy.

I, Marc Silvestri, have been impacted by Covid-19 in ways I wish on nobody. Early on, we lost my grandmother to the virus after she contracted it at the Jack Satter House. I've had a hands-on view of the pandemic's impact on our homeless population in my capacity serving on Revere's Emergency Covid-19 Response Team. My daughters have been attending school remotely for almost a year, which has impacted my family's ability to work while worrying about our kids at home. The saddest part is that my stories are not unique and many people are likewise experiencing tragedy. Covid-19 has rocked us to our core, and being kept off the ballot because of not securing the pre-pandemic number of certified signatures is just one more thing to add to the list.

However, the constitutionality of the pre-pandemic signature requirement is not a novel issue, because the Commonwealth's highest court already addressed it last Spring. Plain and simple, the pre-pandemic signature requirement is not constitutional. In Goldstein et al v. Galvin, the Court agreed with the candidates that "these requirements, when applied in these extraordinary times of a declared state of emergency arising from COVID-19 pandemic, creates an undue burden on prospective candidate's constitutional right to seek elective office." In so finding, the SJC offered equitable relief to the candidates in a few different ways; one of which was reducing the number of certified signatures required to appear on the ballot by 50%. However, the Court's ruling is not being applied to me despite nothing in our world having changed since then, except the spread of Covid-19 is worse now in early January 2021 than it was last year.

To put this in perspective, State Representative Jessica Giannino (the winner of the September 2020 primary) had to obtain half the number of certified signatures for her name to appear on the ballot, and she had between February 11 and May 5, 2020 to do so. Whereas I had 14 days, given the special election schedule, to obtain double the number of certified signatures that Representative Giannino had to obtain in 84 days. How is it fair that my name won't appear on the ballot when I have more certified signatures than was required for Representative Giannino three months ago?

Deciding to file legal action is not a decision one makes lightly, yet I would be doing a disservice to every resident and business in Winthrop and Revere that falls within the 19th Suffolk District if I chose to bow out of the race without raising a challenge. It is clear that the circumstances are indistinguishable or worse now than they were in April 2020 when Goldstein was decided, and applying the pre-pandemic protocols in the restricted time frame of a Special Election creates an unduly burdensome requirement that infringes on my constitutional right of access to the ballot.

As a candidate for elected office, and one who is seeking a spot on the Commonwealth's legislative body, constitutionality matters. Fiercely advocating for what I believe is right and just is one of my core values, and has defined me whether it be fighting on the front lines in Afghanistan or working tirelessly to ensure that Revere's veterans are never overlooked or short-changed. Backing down now would not be true to myself.

Marc Silvestri is a Candidate for State Representative, 19th Suffolk.

CAPOBIANCO IS RIGHT GUY FOR THE JOB

Dear Editor,

As a 48 year resident of Winthrop in the 19th Suffolk District, I know that Valentino Capobianco is the right person to fill Speaker DeLeo's vacant seat in the March 2nd election. Tino is caring, competent, and committed.

I've known Tino for more than fifteen years through numerous campaigns, Democratic Town and State Committee, and as an aide to Speaker Bob DeLeo. I've seen up close and personal his over ten years of public service, especially with marginalized people--the homeless, the disabled, the poor.

I will never forget the time Tino asked me to accompany him to the home of a mutual, disabled friend who was dying of cancer, as Tino needed support in this difficult sit-

Rotondo asks Amazon to assist in housing, homeless shelter

Staff report

Councilor-at-Large George Rotondo would like Amazon to assist in funding affordable housing and a shelter in Revere.

It has been announced that Amazon will open a distribution center at the former site of Showcase Cinemas on Squire Road, Revere.

“We have a very pervasive problem within our community and that is the homeless,” Rotondo said at Monday night’s Council meeting. “We have a significant problem and many of them are addicted to drugs and alcohol.”

Rotondo added that “Amazon is a multi-billion-dollar corporation that is going to put a facility at Showcase Cinemas. They have made public comment about helping with affordable housing and so forth. I can’t see why we cannot ask them to do something of this magnitude and work with First Congregational Church or any other non-profit to assist with this and provide wraparound programs, and additionally emergency housing at sections of that particular property.”

Rotondo said he has spoken with Mayor Brian Arrigo about his request “and he seemed very much in favor of this.”

Ward 6 Councilor Richard Serino said he wholeheartedly supports Rotondo’s motion.

“With Amazon coming in Ward 6 at the Showcase Cinemas, I think this is a great idea,” said Serino.

The Council unanimously voted its approval of Rotondo’s proposal.

uation. Tino is decidedly caring.

However, Tino has over 10 years of public service as aide to DeLeo and as Chief of Staff to Senator Paul Feeney. In addition, he’s served on the Winthrop School Committee for the past 5 years, twice as Chairperson. He was also a valuable member of Winthrop Air Hazards Committee for 4 years. He’s been an elected member of the State Democratic Committee for 1st Suffolk and Middlesex District since 2008. Tino is decidedly competent, versed in the workings of both town and state government.

Finally, Tino Capobianco is committed to fair and strong representation of our 19th Suffolk District. Tino has the vision and practical experience to address important issues like improvement of our public schools, helping our small businesses and working families rebuild during and after this terrible pandemic, preserving our environment, and ensuring human rights for all citizens.

Tino Capobianco on Tuesday, March 2, for State Representative for Winthrop and the 19th District of Revere. Thank you.

THANK YOU TO ALL WHO MADE TOY DRIVE A GREAT SUCCESS

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the Revere Police Department, I am happy and proud to announce that the Revere Police Department’s 23rd Annual Toy Drive was a great success. With the help of our very generous donors, the police department was able to assist multiple Revere families hit hard by the pandemic during the 2020 holiday season.

The Department would like to thank all of our donors and express our gratitude. Special thanks to the following: Revere Lodge of Elks, AnessaSchena, Revere High School, Patty Hurley, the Jack Satter House Tenants Association, Erika Diccoco from Dance Revolution, Frankie Nuzzo from Greater Boston Fitness, George Maglione, Jennifer Reeves, Donnie and Catrina Jaynes, Sandra Medeiros and Joe Chiaromonte and many others, who showed support.

Finally, I would like to thank the Revere Police Officers, who donated their time as well as toys to this drive and to the Patrol Division, who helped deliver the toys when called upon. The success of the Toy Drive would not have been possible without your kindness and generosity.

WE NEED ANOTHER VACCINATION SITE

Dear Editor,

As you undoubtedly know, the City of Revere has been one of the hardest hit cities in the Commonwealth in terms of infection rates of COVID-19. We are also a community with a large immigrant population. One can surmise that COVID rates have remained at a constant high in our city through most of the pandemic because we are a densely populated urban city, and the vast majority of our residents work in jobs in which working remotely and staying home is simply not an option. Most residents of Revere have worked throughout the pandemic as essential workers in the service industry, and because many live in households with multiple family members, the virus has spread like wildfire in our city.

On Saturday, January 23, 2021, the Boston Globe highlighted an apparent disparity in vaccine access to Black and Latino communities in Suffolk County. It was noted that as of this past weekend, the only COVID vaccination site in all of Suffolk County is in South Boston, with a site at Fenway Park coming online very soon. South Boston and Fenway Park may seem central in terms of being in the City of Boston, but for Revere residents, trekking to South Boston or Fenway for a vaccine presents a hardship to some.

As a City Council, we are thankful for your administration’s efforts in making COVID testing rapidly available and easily accessible to our residents through the collaboration with Beacon Testing and Fallon Ambulance Services. Now, as we enter a new phase of the pandemic with the vaccine quickly becoming available, we respectfully request that your administration select a location or locations in our community as a vaccination site/(s). We leave the determination of feasibility to your administration, but one example of a possible site could be the DCR owned Cronin Ice Skating Rink, which straddles the border between Revere and Chelsea – another local community that has been deeply impacted by the COVID pandemic.

We thank you for your consideration, and we hope that you will hear our plea to make the vaccine more accessible to our residents as it becomes more readily available to the public at-large.

EDUCATION IS THE GREAT EQUALIZER

“Regardless of your background, your socioeconomic group or your place of birth, education creates opportunity and hope. I realized early on in my life that a caring teacher can make all the difference in a child’s life. While at the McKinley School in Revere, I needed what is called “speech therapy” today. The dedication and care my teachers showed follows me to this day. When in court arguing a case or speaking in public, I think back on the teachers that showed me anything was possible. We must do everything we can to ensure our schools, our teachers and our children have all the resources they need to succeed.”

This year's theme is "Catholic Schools: Faith. Excellence. Service." Catholic schools have a specific purpose to form students to be good citizens of the world, love God and neighbor and enrich society with the leaven of the gospel and by example of faith. As communities of faith, Catholic schools instill in students their destiny to become saints. Academic excellence is the hallmark of Catholic education intentionally directed to the growth of the whole person – mind, body and spirit. Finally, service is fundamental to Catholic education and the core of Catholic discipleship. Service is intended to help form people who are not only witnesses to Catholic social teaching, but also active participants through social learning.

IC School goes above and beyond amidst pandemic

By Donis Tracy,
Academic Coordinator

The past ten months have been challenging for all. Schools forced online; students learning from home; fear of contagion abounding; civil unrest erupting in various places in the country.

Navigating it in order to provide a safe, healthy school has been no small task. But according to Juan Velasquez and Kimberly Orellana, parents of two daughters at Immaculate Conception Parish School in Revere, their children's school has done it and more.

Velasquez and Orellana reflected on the past year and how her daughters, grades five and three, have been helped by their Catholic education.

"I did not feel comfortable that the mandatory homeschooling was going to be the only option for a long period of time," Orellana stated, thinking back to last spring when all the schools in the state were put on lockdown. "We all know the importance of social interaction at this age."

Velasquez agreed, but added that he was incredibly impressed with the school's ability to continue teaching in spite of the chaos last spring. He noted that the school only missed one day of learning before transitioning to a full-remote model. "It was very impressive," he said. Although at first it seemed "IC Online" would only last for a few weeks, reality quickly set in that the school building would be closed for the remainder of the year. Even the prospect of opening in the fall seemed to be in question.

However, the school continued to thrive, Velasquez said. He pointed to several school-wide traditions that were rethought in order to fit a full-remote model. STEM projects were uploaded and shared; the school's art show became a Virtual Showcase. Students continued to thrive.

As summer began to come to an end, the uncertainty of whether or not the school could open for in-person learning was looming, Velasquez recalled, noting that Revere and its neighboring communities were among the worst affected by the pandemic.

In late August, the school sent out a document detailing its Re-Opening Plan, and allowing families to choose whether or not to send their children to school in-person or virtually.

"After reading through the [Reopening Guide], I realized that the school was going above and beyond to ensure the safety of the kids and staff," Orellana said. Together the couple decided to opt for in-person learning.

"IC has definitely provided a safe environment for my girls," she said. She praised the school's ability to re-think many of the fun school activities in order to make sure that students are also developing socially and spiritually.

Agreeing, Velasquez pointed to the recent Christmas Bazaar -- a longstanding tradition at Immaculate Conception School and a school event that seemed impossible to pull off with social distancing and other health and safety restrictions. Although it was not the same as other years, Orellana praised the teachers and the administration for creating a safe, healthy alternative and retaining the fun that was at the heart of the tradition.

"IC school has been a second home for my girls," Orellana said. "The relationships they are making are very important. Having families that share the same spiritual values and beliefs that we do is something that we appreciate and are deeply grateful."

In-person learning at St. John School in the North End a success

By John Lynds

In its 126 year history St. John School arguably has never faced a crisis quite like the COVID-19 pandemic that has turned the world upside down.

However, the staff and students at St. John School have successfully returned to 'in-person' learning for the 2020-2021 school year.

Principal of the parochial school, Claire Cassidy, said since September 9 St. John School has been open for in person learning five days a week. The school has also been offering an eLearning program for students whose families do not wish to have them attend school in person.

Cassidy said so far the school year has been a success and teachers have worked extremely hard to seamlessly integrate eLearners into the classroom daily and to redesign lessons to ensure they are successful in a socially distant classroom and digital environment.

"It has really been phenomenal," said Cassidy. "It's been such a privilege to witness the way in which our students came back to school. They seamlessly came the door in September and have been washing their hands, wearing their mask, sanitizing, and social distancing--as is the norm now. Our teachers have done the most amazing job of making the integration of our in-person learners and our eLearners just look so easy. They've really worked hard to shift lesson plans and activities so that classroom discussions are between a student who is in-person and a student who is an eLearner and you see the way in which it continues to bring that beautiful sense of community that St John's School is known for."

Cassidy said St. John School has been very fortunate that the school building lends itself to staff and students being able to do in-person learning successfully.

"The spaciousness of our classrooms has meant we are able to allow 6 feet or more of space between students," said Cassidy. "We have also limited class size to give students additional space.

The St. John School building layout has lent itself to the school being able to successfully return to in-person learning this year. The classrooms are between 800 and 1,000 sq. ft. which allows for proper social distancing.

We do have enormous windows in our building, all of which are open and have between 800 to 1,000 square feet for most of our classrooms. We were able to purchase air purifiers for our classrooms too. We also had plumbing work done over the summer to add additional sinks to our buildings so our students had more places to wash their hands. With all of those things in place we've been able to successfully open and remain open since September."

Cassidy said extra precautions include a cleaner who is present throughout the day to clean all high touch surfaces. The school also expanded its nursing program hours to ensure nurses were available throughout the day as well as staggered arrival and dismissal times to promote student safety.

"I do think that having the privilege of being able to open for in-person learning and to be able to continue is really important," said Cassidy. "Our students are very grateful and they tell us how excited they are to be at school each day. Our families are as well and they see the joy that their children get from coming to school."

Cassidy added that with appropriate adjustments St. John School has been able to continue with its Tower Garden program and to date has grown over 60 pounds of food that is donated to the Arch Street Shrine. The school

East Boston Central Catholic School's hybrid learning model a success

By John Lynds

While the 2020-2021 school year has looked a lot different for students and staff at East Boston Central Catholic School (EBCCS) due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, Principal Robert Casaletto said the reopening plan at Eastie's remaining Parochial School has been smooth as can be.

EBCCS kicked off the school year in September with 'in-person' learning for some students and 'remote' learning for others but recently switched to 'hybrid' learning.

"Everything has been going really well at EBCCS," said Casaletto. "We have had our PreSchool and Kindergarten students in five days per week since September and we just transitioned grades 1-8 to hybrid learning when we returned from Christmas break. That is going very well so far."

Casaletto said EBCCS's hybrid schedule offers two days per week of in-person learning and three days of remote learning for all students.

"Group A has in-person learning on Monday-Tuesday, all students are remote on Wednesday, and then Group B has in-person learning on Thursday- Friday," said Casaletto. "Our students have been fully engaged on their remote learning days and times, and we are not noticing any learning loss or feelings of isolation. In fact, when given the option to return to in-person learning, many of our families elected to remain fully remote because they are happy with both the teaching and learning that has occurred so far this year during our fully remote days."

EBCCS has added some additional safety precautions for the 2020-2021 school year like staggering arrival and dismissal times to limit the gathering size outside the school.

"We also added sinks and air purifiers to every classroom," said Casaletto. "Each student has their own individual desk sneeze guard, individual hand sanitizer provided by East Boston Savings Bank, the use of a Chromebook, and over six feet of space separating them from the next student."

The school also created a "Care Room" in the event a student or faculty member becomes sick while in the building with disposable gowns, safety glasses, gloves, and KN-

EBCCS teacher Lauryn Rozzi in her classroom. EBCCS began a hybrid learning model after the Christmas break.

EBCCS also purchased webcams, live streaming cameras, microphones, speakers, a ZOOM licence, and privacy walls for the teachers to keep the staff safe and allow them to teach to both in-person and remote students at the same time.

"We just opened re-enrollment and new enrollment for the 2021-2022 school year," said Casaletto. "Families can visit ebccs.org for more information. We will have virtual tour videos up on the website next week."

Malden Catholic HS girls winter sports program off to a terrific start

Jay Keane's hoop team racking up wins

By Cary Shuman

The Malden Catholic High School girls basketball team, under the direction of head coach Jay Keane, is in its third year of existence, and its second at the varsity level.

Because the girls division (Malden Catholic School for Girls) began three years ago, Keane's first-year team was made up entirely of ninth graders competing at the sub-varsity level.

Last season, the Keane Contingent, consisting of freshmen and sophomores, jumped up to varsity and qualified for the MIAA Tournament with a 15-5 record. The Lady Lancers defeated Snowden in their first tournament game before falling to eventual champion Matignon in the Division 4 North Sectional semifinals.

Can you say instant success story?

Aided by a strong freshman class this season in addition to seven juniors and two sophomores, Malden Catholic has a 2-1 record and is ranked among the top teams in the division by the Boston newspapers.

Malden Catholic is continuing as an independent team with no league affiliation for the 2020-21 season.

"We were hoping to join a league this year, but with COVID-19, it just didn't materialize with anybody," said Keane. "We were able to schedule 11 games with schools that were in the same boat as we are."

MC has games scheduled with Catholic Conference schools Notre Dame Academy (Hingham), Fontbonne Academy (Milton), and Ursuline Academy (Dedham), along with Catholic Central League powerhouse St. Mary's (Lynn).

There are also plans for a season-ending Catholic schools' tournament.

Not many coaches get to build a varsity program from the ground floor, but Jay Keane was given that opportunity when MC became a co-divisional school (Boys and girls do not attend academic classes together at the school and are situated in a separate half of the same school building).

"My original plan when I applied for the job was that in Year 3 we'd be varsity," said Keane. "But we had a really good freshman class with a lot of good pieces, and I knew since we were independent, I'd make my own schedule and we were very lucky - a 15-5 record is pretty respectable for a first-year program with only sophomores and freshmen."

Athletes from several nearby communities are playing varsity basketball, including freshmen Luna Murray and Marcella Bonfardeci of Revere and Mary Turco of Winthrop.

Malden Catholic has added junior varsity and freshman teams. Jess Popken is the junior varsity coach while Mike Gioia is the freshman coach. There are 38 players participating in the program.

A retired Somerville

district fire chief, Keane formerly served as the head girls basketball coach at Wilmington High School for eight seasons (2005-13). He played high school basketball at St. Mary's, Cambridge.

"My senior year, we were undefeated and played Cathedral in the (Division 3) North finals at the old Boston Garden," recalled Keane. "Cambridge Rindge and Latin was undefeated and played Don Bosco right after us, so all the Cambridge fans were rooting for us. We had a pretty good rooting section."

Keane is happy that his Malden Catholic team is competing in a season amidst the concerns and challenges of the coronavirus. Coaches and players must wear masks during games and practices.

"We're just lucky to be playing basketball," he said. "We talked about it with the kids how fortunate we are to be in the gym. It's been a challenging year but it's just good to get them in the gym and have some sense of normalcy."

Malden Catholic Director of Athletic Bill Raycraft is being lauded by coaches, players, and parents for being so supportive of the program and giving it resources it needs to be competitive.

"He's really done a great job, especially this year with all the changes and craziness that's been surrounding schools and sports," said Keane. "He's been great at expanding the entire girls' athletic program."

The future is certainly bright for the MC girls' basketball program.

"No. 1, the school has outstanding academics and our athletes love being at the school," said Keane. "Girls' sports are starting to take off. We were the first girls' team [at MC] to go varsity last year. The school really rallied around us and now this year the other programs are scheduling varsity games."

Perhaps as early as next season when the MIAA Tournament hopefully returns, the MC girls basketball players might realize the incredible experience that their coach Jay Keane enjoyed many years ago: playing a championship game on the famed parquet floor of the Boston Garden.

has even been able to hold private socially distanced school mass each week since school started in the fall.

In the end Cassidy said St. John School has also been very blessed that school parents have been tremendously supportive since school started.

"They have done a great job of reinforcing the routines that we have here with their children," said Cassidy. "They've also kept their kids home when they are sick, which I know is a strain for a family, and tested and quarantined their kids as needed. All the parents have been extremely supportive of our school policies and worked with us to ensure our school community remains healthy throughout the year."

A BLESSING TO BE IN SCHOOL:

St. Anthony's of Everett keeps in-person learning at forefront this year

By Seth Daniel

Counting one's blessings is a daily exercise at St. Anthony's School of Everett, but never did the school community think one of those counted blessings would be actually going to school in person.

However, that has been the case as the Pre-School to Grade 8 Catholic School in Everett has stayed in person most every week since September using some reconfigured routines and strict COVID-19 protocols. It has been a great and wonderful things for the children, and the families, said Principal Maria Giggie.

"We've been in school since Sept. 16," said Giggie, now in her 15th year at St. Anthony's. "We recently did a partial re-opening after Christmas in phases of 1, 2 and 3 because the cases in Everett were so high. Now everyone is back this week...Everybody is back physically in the building this week. Remote is okay, but over a long period of time, it becomes impossible for students and parents."

St. Anthony's is participating in Catholic Schools Week throughout next week and will have special, COVID-19 conscious, celebrations – such as a Mass and other fun things like a Pajama Day. Meanwhile, prospective students and parents are encouraged to come in-person to their Open Houses from Feb. 1-3 after making an appointment. The Open Houses are generally between 9-11 a.m. on those days, but Giggie said they are flexible.

Keeping away from all-remote has been very helpful to students and families, Giggie said, and has been a highlight of the year for them while their counterparts in the public schools have remained online this entire year.

"Remote is hard," she said. "If people have to go to work, especially with younger children, you have to worry about getting them up on the screen. Nobody needs this kind of stress. Getting everyone back in school is best and of course, keeping necessary precautions in place when they are here is essential."

Giggie said they have moved desks six feet apart in all classrooms, and now have four lunch sessions per day with two children at each table. There are a lot of other guidelines they've picked up from the best practices, such as having teachers come to the older students, instead of having students switch classrooms each period. That keeps them at the same desk all day and keeps them from having to move about the school and having contact with others.

"We've been blessed in this," she said. "The teachers are a treasure and have gone above and beyond during school and after school. It is beyond what a teacher's job description would be. They are always on. It's been an amazing effort."

The school has also been smart about utilizing the new technology as well. Some students have chosen to be at home, and teachers have quickly adapted to teaching in person and remotely at the same time – carrying around a technology cart to each classroom that doubles as the remote computer link for students at home. Likewise, on a few occasions, they have chosen to go all remote when the percent positive case numbers in Everett have soared far beyond 8 percent. In addition, some of their special occasions, have been moved online – like this year's Christmas Play that was put together in a video celebration that was widely proclaimed as one of the best in years.

Needless to say, it is the in-person learning that has retained students this year, and increased the numbers of students in the older grades, Giggie said.

The student population has remained at around 200 this year, but that comes with fewer students in the pre-school and kindergarten, while more in the older grades.

"We did see an uptick in the older grades, quite a lot actually," she said. "Because we provide on-site in school sessions, we have seen an increase in the numbers because we're open."

She said the younger children have also impressed her with their ability to adhere to the COVID-19 guidelines after teachers stressed them as part of the education plan this year.

"Honestly, I am impressed," she said. "It's unbelievable to see the 3 and 4-year-olds keeping their masks on and following the instructions. They have been so well-behaved."

However, Principal Giggie said it has been an effort of every administrator, student and teacher in the building to keep school going in-person and to avoid any pitfalls brought on by COVID-19. It has simply been a blessing to be counted, she said.

"We're blessed with our teachers, to see what they do every day," she said. "Everybody is in it together because the most important thing is that we keep everyone in the school and provide an opportunity for parents to send their kids to school in person. We have been continually blessed by that."

Sacred Heart School offers in-person learning for 2020-2021 school year

Staff report

When Gov. Charlie Baker ordered all schools closed in March, Sacred Heart School Principal Kristina Relihan had a remote-learning plan in operation within two weeks and the well-administered academic process continued successfully through the end of the school year.

Sacred Heart returned to full, in-classroom learning in September.

"We're happy to be back in person everyday with our scholars," said Relihan, who is in her third year as principal at the well-known Catholic school in Lynn. "We do have some families who have chosen to keep their scholars remote, but we just updated technology to ensure that scholars can Zoom in to the classroom or be in person in the classroom."

The health of the Sacred Heart community is supreme, aided by the installation of hand-washing stations in every classroom and multiple hand-sanitizing stations throughout the school, along with updated cleaning protocols.

Sacred Heart, a sister school of St. Mary's Middle and High School, has students ranging from its youngest class at 2 years, 9 months, to pre-K and Kindergarten, and all the way up to grade five.

"Even the little ones keep their masks on," said Relihan.

During lunchtime, scholars are socially distanced six feet apart at tables in the large school gymnasium. Students in the early childhood program have lunch in a socially distanced arrangement in their classrooms.

Sacred Heart School has an excellent teacher-to-student ratio that has been lauded by parents. There are 23 members of the faculty educating the school's 190 students.

"Our enrollment has stayed about the same," said Relihan. "I think COVID-19 definitely limited our capacity in classrooms because of socially distancing and making sure that we're adhering to the six-foot rule between desks and between children and that there's enough space for everyone to safely to be in the classroom.

"But looking to the future, we hope to see the expansion of early childhood and expansion of grades 1-5 - just continuing to offer a great education at Sacred Heart," added Relihan.

Relihan, a dynamic, hands-on administrator who holds undergraduate and master's degrees from Wheelock College, is excited about Sacred Heart's educational partnership with St. Mary's of Lynn, which is led by St. Mary's Head of School Dr. John Dolan.

"It's going really well – we are a 2.9 (years) to grade 12 continuum, which is something that is not seen in many Catholic schools today, so it's exciting to be a part of it," said Relihan.

The principal said the transition to the new learning environment at Sacred Heart has been made possible by a professional and cooperative faculty.

"Our teachers are truly rock stars," said Relihan. "They come to school every day and have passion to do this work. Everyone here is amazing. We all work together and make it through each day."

Relihan commended George Sonia and his staff at Lancelot for their diligent efforts in keeping the school clean.

Addressing the trying times in elementary school education caused by the coronavirus, Relihan said, "I'm very positive in a not-so-known time. I think what we're offering here at Sacred Heart is positivity and reinforcement that we can be in school and learn every day in person."

A Sacred Heart scholar participates in a classroom activity.

St. Mary's High School sports teams succeed through the challenges caused by the pandemic

By Cary Shuman

The St. Mary's High

School boys and girls basketball and hockey teams are winning a lot of games this winter. That is no surprise for a program that produces state champions and title contenders every year.

But this season and the fall season that preceded it have been impacted greatly by the continuing COVID-19 pandemic. Many high schools canceled their fall and winter sports seasons.

St. Mary's officials decided to go forward, with its teams adhering to strict guidelines for social distancing and some new in-game rules established by the MIAA.

St. Mary's Director of Athletics Jeff Newhall said that more than 270 student-athletes participated in the fall sports season. This winter St. Mary's has 275 student-athletes competing in sports. There are nine basketball teams from the middle school through varsity levels, four hockey teams at the varsity and JV levels, along with a varsity swimming team.

"The fall season went off without a hitch," said Newhall. "During the winter we've had some issues but thankfully they were minor, though it did require a brief shutdown. But the athletes continue to do what they're supposed to do, and we were able to get up and running in 14 days."

Newhall said all athletes and coaches must wear masks at all times – at practices and games, during halftime strategy sessions, and on the buses to and from games. Spectators also have to wear masks at the games.

Students must wear masks in all classrooms, in the school corridors, and during school activities.

"The only time students take off their masks is when they eat lunch," said Newhall. "They know what they need to do to be able to go to school and play sports. And the students have been great at really following the rules."

Newhall, who also coaches the girls basketball team, has the Lady Spartans rolling along with a 9-1 record, the lone setback to reigning Division 1 South champion Bridgewater Raynam. Senior guard Nikolette D'Itria of Revere is one of the team's leading scorers.

The boys basketball team, coached by Winthrop Police Officer David Brown Sr., is also excelling. Coach Brown's son, sophomore guard David Brown Jr., has emerged as a star with 32 and 33-point individual performances to-date.

The boys hockey team, led by Hall of Fame Coach Mark Lee, is again one of the contenders in the powerful Catholic Central League. One of St. Mary's elite college prospects is Dante D'Ambrosio of Revere.

While the MIAA State Tournament has been canceled due to the coronavirus, Catholic Central League teams will compete for the CCL Cup in a single-elimination, intra-league tournament following the regular season.

Campaign finance reports became available late last week, giving a glimpse into the early workings of several potential candidates for mayor in this year's City Election. Councillor George Rotondo seemed to have the most activity in his campaign during the last couple months of 2010. Rotondo, to date, has $27,292 in the bank for his already-announced run for mayor. School Committeewoman Carol Tye – who has been mentioned as a possible mayoral candidate many times – has had little activity. Former Mayor and present City Council Bob Haas has a nice sum in his account, but none of Haas's expenses seemed to indicate he was gearing up for any kind of run, as most of them were simply donations to local organizations. Mayor Tom Ambrosino, who finished with $199,570 in his account, won't be able to spend it anytime soon as he isn't running for anything this year. Ambrosino said that he would keep the account open after he is mayor, using it for donations and maybe even future political endeavors. City Councillor and announced mayoral candidate Dan Rizzo had not filed his report as of press time.

Garfield Elementary School Principal Patti DiGregorio took a helicopter ride last Thursday – despite being scared of heights – in order to fulfill her requirement for a donation to the school by the Stop & Shop A+ Schools program. While DiGregorio flew over Revere Beach, Beachmont, and the Garfield School, her students, staff and teachers assembled on the ground to cheer her on. DiGregorio took the ride to meet the challenge of overcoming her fear of heights.

A proposed municipal healthcare change unveiled last Friday by Gov. Deval Patrick is getting good initial reviews locally – with most indicating that they like the plan, but hope that it moves quickly through the Legislature. Patrick – as promised – unveiled legislation that he plans to file immediately that will reportedly save cities and towns $120 million. The key part of the administration's health insurance plan design proposal will require all cities and towns either to join the state's Group Insurance Commission (GIC) or institute a program of equivalent value and cost by the start of fiscal year 2012, which is July 1, 2011.

MassCBA statement on withdrawal of lawsuit against delivery rules

Staff report

After an outcry from advocates including the Massachusetts Cannabis Business Association (MassCBA), the Commonwealth Dispensary Association announced that it will withdraw its lawsuit seeking to void new Cannabis Control Commission delivery regulations. The Massachusetts Cannabis Business Association (MassCBA), an organization of Massachusetts cannabis-related businesses including cultivators, manufacturers, dispensaries, microbusinesses and ancillary businesses that serve the cannabis industry, released the following statement in response:

"As a cannabis business association committed to building an industry that is inclusive, diverse and creates business ownership opportunities for all, particularly Black and Latino entrepreneurs and those who have been harmed by the failed war on drugs, we are pleased that this ill-intentioned lawsuit is being dropped," said MassCBA President and CEO David O'Brien. "We applaud the focused, tenacious and downright effective work of advocates to hold the emerging cannabis industry accountable. Going forward, we will continue to fight to remove barriers to entry for small entrepreneurs like onerous host community agreements. We will work with the Cannabis Control Commission, advocates and the industry itself to create a social equity loan fund that assists small entrepreneurs who have been harmed by cannabis prohibition and just want the opportunity to get their foot in the door of this growing industry."

The new regulations establish two Marijuana Establishment types (Marijuana Courier and Marijuana Delivery Operator) authorized to provide limited delivery services to adult-use cannabis consumers in the Commonwealth. The Commission's delivery regulations specify that both license types will be exclusively available to Certified Economic Empowerment Priority Applicants (EEAs) and Social Equity Program (SEP) Participants for a minimum of three years, with the exclusivity period beginning once the first Marijuana Delivery Operator commences operations.

Catherine Belinfante-Penn endorses Juan Jaramillo for State Representative

Special to the Journal

Former Revere City Council President Catherine Belinfante-Penn has endorsed Juan Jaramillo, a lifelong resident of Revere, for State Representative for the 19th Suffolk District, which encompasses the communities of Revere and Winthrop. Belinfante-Penn was elected in 1981 to represent Ward 2, where Juan grew up and lives today and went on to serve as the council's President. Belinfante-Penn, daughter of the late Councilor Charles Belinfante, served four terms before returning to her passion as an educator in the Revere Public School system.

Councilor Belinfante-Penn, the first of only two women in Revere's history to ever serve as Council President, enthusiastically endorsed Juan saying, "Juan is incredibly hard working and knows how to deliver for our city and for this district. We are neighbors and he was the first to offer aid to everyone in our building when the pandemic hit the state in early 2020."

Humbled by Belinfante-Penn's endorsement Juan said, "Council President Belinfante-Penn has been a major inspiration for my career. Ms. Belinfante-Penn has been a fierce advocate and trailblazer for Revere and I intend to be the same at the State House. I am honored to receive her endorsement."

Belinfante-Penn highlighted Juan's leadership throughout the pandemic, "In Revere and Winthrop, we have a large elderly population who are dependent on their front line workers for critical care. As a union organizer, Juan has spent the entire pandemic fighting to ensure these essential employees have the workplace protections they need to perform their jobs. Juan's efforts are keeping our front line workers, our most vulnerable populations and the Revere and Winthrop communities safe. That is why I am voting for Juan Jaramillo for State Representative." Since the start of the pandemic, Revere and Winthrop have been two of the hardest hit communities in the state by the COVID-19.

The special election to fill former Speaker Robert DeLeo's seat in the House of Representatives is scheduled for Tuesday, March 2. Juan Jaramillo is a lifelong Revere resident and currently the only Revere candidate certified to appear on the March 2nd ballot.

MSP Commissioned Officers Association endorses Turco for State Rep.

Special to the Journal

Friday, the Massachusetts State Police Commissioned Officers Association (MSPCOA) endorsed Jeffrey Turco for State Representative, 19th Suffolk District. The seat was vacated by former Speaker of the House Robert DeLeo and a Special Election is set for March 30th with the Primary being held on March 2.

"Jeff's leadership, experience and understanding of Public Safety is unparalleled, and the MSPCOA is proud to endorse your candidacy for State Representative," said Bruce Hiorns, MSPCOA President.

The MSPCOA currently represents and acts as the exclusive bargaining agent for all Massachusetts State Police Commissioned Officers. Members include those that fall under the ranks of Colonel, Superintendent, Lieutenant Colonel, Deputy Superintendent, Lieutenant Colonel, Major, Detective Captain, Captain, Detective Lieutenant and Lieutenant.

"It is an honor to have received the endorsement of the Massachusetts State Police Commissioned Officers Association," said Turco. "I truly understand the value of public safety and the issues that MSPCOA members face. I look forward to working to mitigate the hazards of the job as well as the overall improvement of public service in the Commonwealth."

Capobianco focuses on issues in 19th Suffolk; unveils policy platform

Special to the Journal

Valentino Capobianco, candidate for State Representative in the 19th Suffolk District, has devoted his professional career to making his community and the Commonwealth a better place to live. Similarly, his campaign is focused on the issues that matter most to residents of Revere and Winthrop, as Capobianco recently demonstrated with his first policy rollout.

Capobianco announced progressive policies to keep workers and small businesses on their feet during the pandemic, improve our public school system, and ensure access to quality, affordable healthcare and a clean, safe environment to live in.

Capobianco issued the following statement:

"I am running for office to deliver results for Winthrop and Revere on the issues that matter most. We need to protect our small businesses and workers as we combat the COVID Pandemic. We need to ensure that every child has access to a world-class education. And we must guarantee that everybody in Massachusetts has access to quality, affordable healthcare and a clean environment to live in. That's what my campaign is focused on, and that's what I will fight for as your next Representative"

Not only does Capobianco talk about the issues that matter most in the 19th Suffolk District, he also has a track record of delivering results for his community.

As a member of the Winthrop School Committee, Capobianco successfully led the charge to increase teacher pay and avoided having to lay off any teachers due to budget shortfall. When he served on the Winthrop Airport Hazards Committee, Tino held Massport Accountable for their environmental impacts, and successfully lobbied for federal environmental mitigation funding. As a Chief of Staff during the Coronavirus Outbreak, he helped draft legislation to allow alcohol delivery from local restaurants to help them stay on their feet during the Coronavirus pandemic.

Capobianco issued the following statement:

"My campaign is focused on tackling the toughest issues our communities face, and I intend to bring my track record of getting results to Beacon Hill."

The full list of policies released thus far can be found on Capobianco's website, www.Tino4Rep.com/policy. Policies include, but are not limited to: reducing the emphasis on standardized testing increasing teacher pay, reducing class sizes, increasing state funding for child care, protecting front line workers and helping small business stay afloat during the pandemic, holding MASSport accountable for environmental impacts, and passing a Green Budget to ensure that current residents and future generations alike have a clean environment to live in.

Capobianco currently serves as the Chief of Staff to State Senator Paul R. Feeney (D-Foxboro). In addition to serving on the Winthrop School Committee for the past five years, Capobianco serves as an elected member of the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee and as a member of the Shore Educational Collaborative's Board of Trustees. He previously served as an aide to Middlesex Sheriff Peter Kotoujian and to Speaker DeLeo. Capobianco, a graduate of Winthrop High School and Suffolk University, is 32 years old and resides with his dog Bernie at 53 Prospect Ave in Winthrop.

on the Winthrop School Committee and Democratic State Committee - both of which I still hold to this day. My Grandfather, "Noni", was without question the biggest influence in my life aside from my parents. He was an immigrant to this country, a victim of child labor, and somebody who didn't have the opportunity to get an education. Through his dogged persistence and perseverance through the worst kinds of adversity, he was able to build a successful small business and a better life for his family that followed. Noni's most valuable lesson wasn't about hard work though, it was about standing up for what's right and always fighting for the underdog."

Capobianco is currently campaigning full time for Speaker DeLeo's seat which was vacated last month. However, his work as a Winthrop School Committee member, Legislative Aide and Chief of Staff to Senator Feeney have led him to understand the importance of serving his constituents. "I'm very proud of my work with Senator Feeney. I went from a friend and volunteer on his first campaign all the way to becoming his Chief of Staff. I worked on everything from helping constituents file unemployment claims to working directly with labor unions. I fundamentally believe that the most important duty of a State Representative is to serve their constituents. To me, that means that whenever a constituent calls it's my job to take the call, listen to the concern, and then do everything I can to resolve the issue. It is my promise to you that I will be an open, honest, and accessible State Representative just as I was a Legislative Aide, School Committee Member, and Chief of Staff. I ran for Winthrop School Committee to give back to the community. I am a proud product of Winthrop Public Schools, and I wanted to make sure that kids have access to a world-class public education. I am proud of the work that we have been able to do during my time on the School Committee - everything from raising teacher salaries while avoiding layoffs to our efforts to combat bullying to funding the extracurricular activities that are definitive experiences for so many students."

Capobianco's decision to run for Speaker DeLeo's seat was based on what he sees as high stakes for the Revere and Winthrop communities. "I decided to run for Speaker DeLeo's seat because the stakes couldn't be higher for our communities. We have seen an all out assault on our values over the past four years, and the COVID outbreak has put many working families and small businesses on the brink of collapse. We must work to keep workers and small businesses on their feet as we ride out this pandemic, we need to ensure that every student in our public schools gets an exceptional education that prepares them for the 21st century, and we have to make sure that every person has access to quality, affordable healthcare. Not only will I focus on these issues every day on the campaign trail, but I will bring a track record of success and be ready to lead on day one should I have the honor of serving as your next State Representative."

He sees his active involvement in the community for the past decade as why he is the best successor for DeLeo's seat. "I have been actively involved in our community for the past decade, and believe that I can make progress on some of the biggest challenges that we face. I bring a track record of results to the table, as well as a thorough understanding of the importance of being accessible to constituents and responsive to the issues they bring up."

When reflecting on DeLeo's tenure over the past 30 years, Capobianco noted his work as a Legislative Aide in DeLeo's Office early in his career. "I had the pleasure of serving as a Legislative Aide in Speaker DeLeo's Office early in my career, and gained an appreciation for how accessible and responsive he was to constituents. He never forgot where he came from or the people he represented. I think that is the most important thing for any elected official."

Capobianco views working families, education, and health care as the major issues he will address if elected. "The top issues impacting Revere and Winthrop are protecting working families and small businesses during the pandemic, providing every student with a world class public education, and ensuring access to quality, affordable healthcare. In Winthrop and Revere, our water rates have been too high for too long. I will work with the MWRA to pursue an audit to ensure that each community is paying its fair share. MASSPORT is a significant driver to Massachusetts' economic viability - but residents of Winthrop and Revere suffer because we live near the airport. We deserve additional mitigation money. Residents of Winthrop and Revere need resources to replace our windows. I was a part of the Winthrop Airports Hazards committee, and I have the experience and know-how to hold MASSPORT accountable."

He also pointed to an emphasis on expansion of renewable energy as a priority if elected. "Speaker DeLeo has served this community well and has passed legislation that will improve the Commonwealth for generations to come. He was able to bring economic development to the area that I would like to continue. One of the greatest opportunities for expansion that we have is by bringing clean, reliable, and renewable energy to our community. For example, I would support S. 2995, the Roadmap for Climate Policy bill, that Governor Baker vetoed. I would like to see the legislature take action on some measures that didn't make it out of committee. I will advocate for new opportunities to bring clean, reliable, and renewable energy to our community. This will help create well-paying, union-based local jobs, in an effort to promote green infrastructure and reduce carbon emissions."

The primary for DeLeo's seat is slated for March 2 with a special election set for March 30th. For more information about Capobianco's campaign you may visit his website www.tino4rep.com or on Facebook at Tino4Rep.

Massachusetts Correction Officers Federated Union endorses Jeffrey Turco for State Representative

Special to the Journal

On Wednesday, the Massachusetts Correction Officers Federated Union (MCOFU) endorsed Jeffrey Turco for State Representative, 19th Suffolk District. The seat was vacated by former Speaker of the House Robert DeLeo and a Special Election is set for March 30th with the primary being held on March 2nd.

“In the opinion of our Executive Board, Jeff Turco will fight hard for public safety and to improve the quality of lives for the residents in the District,” said Kevin Flanagan, MCOFU Legislative Representative.

The MCOFU currently represents all employees in Bargaining Unit 4 of the DOC, Bristol County Jail and House of Correction CO’s, the Plymouth County BCI and Communication Officers and the Dukes County Correction Officers.

“I’m grateful to have received the endorsement of the largest law enforcement Union in New England,” said Turco. “I am the only candidate in this race that genuinely understands the issues of MCOFU members and will proudly champion them on Beacon Hill.”

a seasoned attorney with local roots, Jeffrey Turco is the ideal blend of experience and professionalism, with the know-how to be a strong leader for his community in these most uncertain times. In 2005, Jeffrey was the Special Sheriff and Superintendent of the Worcester County Sheriff’s Office and starting in 2006 was appointed a Special Assistant Attorney General representing the Agency. Since 2011, Jeffrey has owned and operated the Law Office of Jeffrey Rosario Turco in Chelsea. Working for his community has always been in the forefront for Turco, for two years he served as Town Council President in Winthrop and a School Committee member. Jeffrey resides in Winthrop with his wife, the former Melissa Carbone, and their six children.

Councilors object to changes of use for residential units

By Cary Shuman

Monday night’s Revere City Council meeting got off to a rocky start as the councilors roundly criticized DCM Realty of Wakefield and D and M Development of Wakefield for their plans to add residential units to Dehon Street and North Shore Road properties respectively.

DCM Realty is seeking permission to change the use from an existing mixed-use structure at 7-9 Dehon St. comprising of four residential units and two commercial units to a six-unit residential structure.

D and M Development is seeking permission to change the use from an existing eight-unit residential structure at 1540 North Shore Road to a 15-unit residential structure.

Attorney Kari-Ann Greene represented both petitioners, DCM Realty, and D and M Development.

“I look forward to discussing this project further at subcommittee and to working collaboratively on any issues that come up in the interim,” Greene told the Council.

Once Zambuto opened the floor to opponents of the project, the avalanche began.

A neighbor at 11 Dehon St. stated his opposition to both requests, citing parking concerns on Dehon Street, especially at night, and the submission “of different blueprint plans” from what had been constructed at 1540 North Shore Rd., among other concerns.

City Clerk Ashley Melnik also read another email from a neighbor who cited “the non-stop noise since the project started and the fence is still not up and the property is exposed.”

“Who is overseeing this? There seems to be a common trend where things are not discussed at the hearings but they are being done secretly,” the neighbor wrote in the email.

Ward 2 Councilor Ira Novoselsky said there have been numerous complaints and “we’re hoping to go into real detail when we have our zoning subcommittee meeting.”

Ward 6 Councilor Richard Serino said, “I am disgusted that it seems like the City Council approved a special permit for 7-9 Dehon St. less than four years ago and now we’re reverting to just six residential units and taking those two commercial units out.”

“And I have to say, this is what our residents talk about when they get upset about residential units – I don’t want to call him a shifty developer because I don’t know him, but this definitely doesn’t pass the sniff test,” said Serino. “I don’t get a good vibe off of this.”

Ward 4 Councilor Patrick Keefe said, “It’s really strange to have this. They were already granted zoning relief and I don’t even think they attempted to rent the first floor of this unit.”

Ward 3 Councilor Arthur Guinasso was clear and to the point. “I am dead set against this. I can’t say it in any other words. We gave this individual an opportunity to enjoy our community and prosper and now this is almost adding insult to injury, to be honest with you. This is absolutely what our city is not looking forward to doing.”

Ward 1 Councilor Joanne McKenna asked that the developer put a fence immediately around the Dehon Street property and clean up each abutters’ property. McKenna also pointed out that construction is starting too early (before 7 a.m.) and continuing beyond “4 and 5 p.m and it’s disturbing people.”

“We should hold them accountable now before they go into subcommittee,” said McKenna.

Councilor-at-Large Gerry Viscontin termed the developer’s actions “egregious.”

Ward 4 Councilor John Powers said he is “100 percent opposed” to the change-of-use request.

Council President Anthony Zambuto said he “doesn’t look kindly on this kind of approach. In fact, I’m a bit insulted by this type of movement. This is not the message we want to send when we grant relief to these projects.”

The Council expressed its extreme dissatisfaction with the change-of-use plans for 1540 North Shore Road as well.

“I think we have to talk about this in committee,” said Novoselsky. “At this point, we have to discuss it further and come up with something that is reasonable and that we can deal with.”

But Guinasso was unrelenting in his denunciation of the plans for 1540 North Shore Road.

“This is an egregious type of action,” said Guinasso. “This is the most bold type of presentation that I’ve seen in many, many years, doubling the size of the units under the pretense that everybody else is doing it and everybody else is getting it.”

not the candidate gathered a number that exceeded the pre-pandemic amount necessary to get on the ballot. The public health risks that come with the gathering of “wet” signatures -- when a person signs their name on a nomination paper in ink -- triggers the unconstitutionality.

The Secretary of State’s refusal to print Marc Silvestri’s name on the ballot because he did not exceed the pre-pandemic number of certified signatures is an infringement on Silvestri’s right to access the ballot. Silvestri secured more than enough certified signatures to meet the modified requirements instituted by the Supreme Judicial Court in its April 2020 decision of Goldstein et al v. Galvin. The Court noted, in the Goldstein decision, that it was compelled to act because the Legislature had not yet taken decisive action regarding the signature requirement during the pandemic. And, to this day, the Legislature has still not taken action. Given that there has been no change in the public health risks from those that existed at the time of the Goldstein decision, Marc Silvestri requests the Single Justice find that he did, in fact, meet the requirements necessary for his name to appear on the ballot for the Democratic primary on March 2nd.

Marc Silvestri is running for State Representative of the 19th Suffolk District. Marc is a veteran and third-generation resident of Revere whose journey and sacrifice have inspired him to seek public office. Learn more about Marc’s campaign at votemarc.com.

All Revere families receive Pandemic-EBT benefits

By John Lynds

Assistant Superintendent of Revere Public Schools Dr. Richard Gallucci sent a letter home to parents this week reminding families that all students enrolled in RPS will receive Pandemic EBT (P-EBT) funds for the 2020-2021 school year to help purchase food.

“P-EBT funds can be used to help purchase healthy food for your student and other family members,” wrote Dr. Gallucci. “It is important to stay healthy, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic, and we want to provide support in any way we can.”

The impact of COVID-19 has increased food insecurity in Massachusetts by a whopping 300 percent and school closures have significantly affected households that rely on free or reduced price meals to help feed children. Providing nutritious meals every day not only helps these kids thrive, it allows money that would have been spent on food to go toward other necessities like rent or utilities.

P-EBT is available to households regardless of immigration status so undocumented residents are able to receive the funds as long as they meet the general conditions for eligibility.

Gallucci said those already receiving SNAP benefits the P-EBT benefits will be added to existing EBT cards.

Gallucci said Revere students in a fully remote learning situation will get $117.20 per month and funds for October and November were added retroactively as one payment.

Going forward funds will be added to the cards on the 25th of each month for the rest of the school year.

For most families the cards already arrived in the mail and there is no need to apply. You can request a replacement card at DTAconnect.com/pebt. If you need a new EBT card call the Department of Transitional Assistance at 1-877-382-2363. If you need help getting a new card contact your student’s school in Revere.

Northeast Metro Tech Superintendent DiBarri provides update on School Building Project

Over the last year, the Northeast Metro Tech project team has been working to develop options that would solve the space, capital and maintenance issues of the more than 50-year-old building.

The Northeast Metro Tech project team has continued to work its way through the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) design process and is expected to soon finish the Feasibility Study phase. The project achieved a major milestone in December by submitting the Preferred Schematic Report (PSR), the second of six design packages, to the MSBA.

In accordance with MSBA requirements, the PSR further studied the remaining options that were highlighted in the previous submission -- the Preliminary Design Program (PDP) which was submitted in August 2020 -- that refined the design and construction options to the following:

- Option A: Base repair of existing school
- Options B.2: Addition/Renovation
- Options C.1, C.2, and C.3: New construction on site

The latter two options were evaluated at various student enrollment ranges -- 1,250 (current enrollment), 1,400, 1,600, 1,660, and 1,722. -- as well as the District’s future goals in order to determine the best possible layout.

Per the School Building Committee and project team’s recommendation, the PSR concluded by recommending that the project proceed with Option C.3 with a design enrollment of 1,600 students. Some of the highlights of this design include:

- Putting the career technical and academic classes in the same part of the building to allow for collaboration among students.
- Creating large, public areas at the opposite end of the building from the classrooms, which helps separate the spaces and enhance security.
- Housing the administrative offices, auditorium, cafeteria and construction shop space on the first floor, and the design and communication, and academic classrooms on the second and third floors.
- Constructing a new main access road off of Farm Street, which will help alleviate traffic congestion. This road will eventually be connected to the existing main entrance off Hemlock Road in order to create a loop.
- Building new, larger athletic fields where the current building stands, as well as reserving the current football and track facility for future developments if needed.

Additionally, this was determined to be the least disruptive of all options, as it can be constructed in phases away from the existing building and does not require the use of temporary facilities.

Going forward, the project team and Northeast Metro Tech. District will be meeting with the MSBA Board of Directors on Feb. 11, for review of the PSR and for hopeful approval to proceed into Module 4 of the MSBA process-- Schematic Design. This phase will have the preferred construction option fleshed out to show optimal site and building layouts based on programming meetings with dozens of staff and stakeholders; functionality of the building; more detailed cost estimates for each scope of service and for the project’s maximum MSBA grant; and a more detailed schedule.

The District will submit the Schematic Design report to the MSBA in July with hopeful approval at the August MSBA Board of Directors meeting. If the project earns MSBA scope and budget approval at the August meeting, the communities Northeast Metro Tech serves will be called upon to contribute their portion of the project’s budget towards the fall of 2021. All stakeholders can continue to check for the latest updates and information on all aspects of the project at northeastbuildingproject.com.

Mystery tale 'Murder in the Marsh' takes us back to Revere Beach during the 80s

Story by Marianne Salza

In this suspenseful work of fiction, Detective Eddie Devlin, of the Revere Police Department, witnesses a murder in progress, and he opens fire at the killer; but by the time officers report to the scene, the attacker's body has slipped into the murky marsh. Now Detective Devlin is a person of interest, and is relieved from his duties. Determined to clear his name, Detective Devlin conducts his own investigation with the help of his bartender friend, Dana, and love, Gwen.

all evidence leads to Detective Devlin's guilt.

"It's about a flawed character who is unable to handle this traumatic event. His life spirals out of control," Carey explains about "Murder in the Marsh," published in October 2020. "It's dark and violent."

The fictional mystery is set in 1980s Revere Beach, when packed bar rooms lined the boulevard, and gambling was abundant in the city.

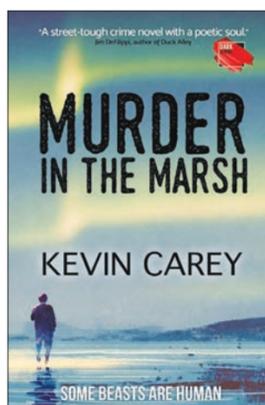

"The 80s on the beach were interesting. It was a busy beach," describes Carey about the era that inspired his 195 page book. "Revere, like any beach, had challenges over the years. It was in a transition in many ways."

Growing up in the Point of Pines, Carey remembers the arcades, roller coasters, nightclubs, and the remnants of Wonderland Park amusement rides that slowly began to disappear in the 1970s. He recalls rumors of mob activity, and chatter amongst residents about bodies appearing in the marsh.

"I do think some of it was probably true. A lot of folklore grew out of that," admits Carey, who is a creative writing professor at Salem State University, where he has taught for 17 years. "I say to my students, 'The best fiction is borrowed from someone's truth.' That's how we bring characters to life."

Carey has written four other books: three of personal, narrative poetry, and a chapbook of fiction titled, "The Beach People."

"Murder in the Marsh," a vigilante justice novel about a detective determined to clear his name

In the early 1990s, he also created the documentary film about Revere Beach with his friend, Tim Young, "Revere Beach:

the Changing Tide," which discussed America's first public beach at the turn of the 20th Century, and featured archival photographs and footage.

"Revere Beach is still an interesting place with constantly changing demographics," says Carey, who now lives in Manchester, Massachusetts. "It holds a special place in my heart. My memories are fond of Revere. I think fans of crime fiction and people who remember Revere in the 1980s will enjoy this book."

Revere Native Pam Shapleigh creates culinary works of art

Staff report

Thanks to elaborate cake requests from her daughters for their birthdays, Revere native Pam Shapleigh has taken her birthday cakes to the next level. After "stepping up her game" and learning new baking techniques, Shapleigh is now a social media sensation with her elaborate cakes featured on her instagram @pamshapleighskitchen and on Facebook.

Clicking on her Instagram or Facebook pages, you would think Pam had extensive culinary training. However, the Lynnfield mom to Samantha, Amanda, Chloe, and Ellie, is a self-taught baker with no formal culinary training. Instead she used Google and YouTube to come up with her amazing designs. Using Facebook to post pictures of the cakes she made for her daughters' birthdays and special occasions, led to the creation of Pam Shapleigh's Kitchen. "Social media is what really got my name out there. I would post cakes I would make for my family and requests started to come in."

When asked about her most unique requests for her yummy creations, Shapleigh added, "Most of my cakes are unique! They reflect the customer's requests. I ask them what they like and what their favorite things are, and I create a cake. I'm proud of my cakes because the people I make them for love them. It makes me happy."

Next Stop: Hawaii Revere's Ivan Mertilus will play in Hula Bowl Sunday

By Cary Shuman

Revere's Ivan Mertilus was sitting in the Chicago airport Tuesday morning when the Revere Journal reached him on his cellular phone.

The former St. Clement High School and Los Angeles Valley College football star was waiting to board a plane bound for Oakland and a connecting flight to Honolulu.

Ivan's journey had begun earlier Tuesday morning when his mother, Beatrice, drove him to Logan Airport in East Boston.

"I thanked my mother for the ride and all her support in my life and she wished me good luck and to be safe," said Ivan.

Mertilus was heading to Hawaii for the Hula Bowl Classic, a college football all-star game played annually at Aloha Stadium. This year's game, which will be televised live Sunday by the CBS Sports Network, again features some of the top college players in the country who are hoping to be drafted and play in the National Football League. In fact, players are invited by the Hula Bowl Selection Committee based on their potential to play professional football.

Mertilus, a speedy and tenacious 6-foot-1-inch, 205-pound defensive back, received his prestigious invitation to the Hula Bowl after performing very well in the Tropical Bowl in Orlando, Fla. Mertilus had seven tackles and two PBUs (pass-breakups) while covering wide receivers from major college football programs.

Ivan's superb performance no doubt caught the attention of NFL scouts at the game. The head coaches in the Hula Bowl are former NFL coaches Rex Ryan and Mike Singletary.

"I've never been to Hawaii," said Mertilus, who had two stellar seasons at LA Valley Community College before enrolling at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. "I'm excited to be in the Hula Bowl because it's a big-time game. I'm definitely hoping to play well and do my thing."

Ivan said he was hoping to wear jersey No. 24 in the Hula Bowl in tribute to the late Los Angeles Lakers superstar Kobe Bryant. "That's a significant number for me. I've always worn No. 24 in high school because of Kobe," said Ivan.

REVERE SPORTS THROUGH THE YEARS

10 years ago January 26, 2011

The Revere High hockey team got back on the winning track with a 3-1 triumph over Northeast Regional Vocational School. After The Patriots spotted the Golden Knights a 1-0 lead after one period, R.J. Tiorano knotted matters with a lamplighter at 8:35, assisted by Joe Corbett and Marco Mazzarelli. Mazzarelli forged the Patriots into the lead for the first time with a marker with just 2:54 to play. Tiorano and Corbett both earned assists on the goal. Corbett then added an insurance tally about two minutes later with 1:11 left on the clock. The Patriots journeyed to Beverly two nights later to take on a Panther team that is skating among the elite of the Northeastern Conference this season. Beverly grabbed a 3-1 lead after two periods, Revere's lone tally coming in the second frame on a goal by Peter Marino, assisted by Dale Paradise. However, shortly after the midway point of the third stanza, fireworks erupted on both sides. Revere got the party going with two quick scores within less than a minute at 8:29 by Drew Lauria, assisted by Corbett, and then at 9:27 by Marino, who stole a Beverly pass inside the defensive zone and skated in for an unassisted lamplighter. However, Beverly responded 47 seconds later, only to have Paradise notch the tying tally 53 seconds after that, assisted by Marino and Pat Bartol. But that would prove to be the last salvo left in the Revere arsenal. Beverly still had two volleys left, at 11:34 and 12:29, to cap a combined outburst of six goals within exactly four minutes of hockey, leaving Beverly with a 6-4 win. Coach Jim Palumbo and his crew now stand at 4-6 at the halfway mark of the season.

Both the Revere High girls and boys basketball teams saw their games postponed this past week. Both teams had their games on Friday with Winthrop snowed out and then the girls had their game Sunday with Medford also cancelled.

Although the Revere High girls track team came up on the short end of a 52-34 decision to Gloucester, there were a number of highlights for Coach Sam Ros's squad. Briana Scata captured first place in the shot-put with a toss of 27'-4.5". Lindsay Gurska sped to victory in the 55 meter hurdles in a time of 10.0 seconds. Cassandra Digitale took first in the mile run in 6:39.3. Earning three points for their second place finishes were Camden Sigouin in the 300 dash in 1:56.6; Alanna Pasco in the 600 in 1:56.6; Stephanie Gregorio in the mile in 7:04.7; and Maggie DiPlatzi in the two mile in 14:10. Placing one point onto the Revere side of the scoresheet for third place efforts were: Noelle Galli with a shot-put throw of 24'-7.5; Sara Boukdad in the hurdles in 10.8; Ha Nguyen in the 55 meter dash in 8.3; Brittany Brown in the 600 in 2:00.2; Lindsay Chorlian in the 1000 in 4:06; Stefane Souza in the mile in 7:11.9; and Nikki Nelson in the two mile in 14:32.

The Revere High boys track team dropped a 54-32 decision to Gloucester. Coach Jack Mosko's squad received superlative performances from Joe Ritchie, who dashed to a first place finish in the 55 meter event in 7.2 seconds; Breny Guzman, who topped the field in the 300 dash in 39.8 seconds; and Ernesto Bonilla, who outran all competitors in the two mile in 11:23.2. Patriots who turned in second place efforts to put three points onto the Revere side of the scoresheet were Vin DiChiara with a leap of 5-4 in the high jump; Albion Lici in the 55 meter hurdles in 9.7; Michael Fitzpatrick in the 600 in 1:28.3; and Brian Collins in the two mile in 11:47.1. Third place finishes were forwarded by Vito Licata with a shot-put toss of 40-3.5; Paul Rizzo in the hurdles in 9.9; Leonard Giraldo in the 55 dash in 7.4; Robert Rose in the 1000 in 3:00; and William Truong in the mile in 5:27.

20 years ago January 31, 2001

Senior captain Jon DeMarco scored a season-high 25 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead the RHS boys basketball team to a 66-64 win over Medford. Point guard Chan Oeun, the smallest player by far on the Patriots, hauled in a clutch rebound with several seconds left on the clock to preserve the victory. Senior captain Ramon Navarro and sophomore Lou Brandt scored 10 points apiece.

The Revere High hockey team pulled off a stunning 2-2 tie with Arlington, one of the top teams in the state that had routed Revere 9-2 in their first meeting. Mike Conley and Mike McPherson scored the Patriots' goals.

Arlington tied the score with 2:32 to play. Senior goalie John Leone made 22 saves for coach Jim Palumbo's team.

Christa Margossian scored eight points for the RHS girls basketball team in a 42-28 loss to Medford. Jess DaSilva and Meredith York had six points apiece.

Massport Authority retiree

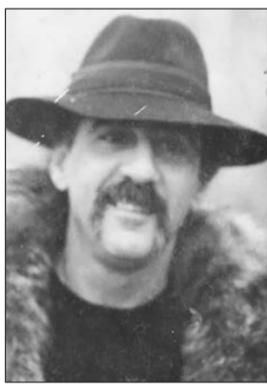

Richard A. Casoli of Revere passed away peacefully at his home on January 22 surrounded by the people who loved him.

Richard made a great career working for Massport Authority for 33 years, retiring in 2003 as a foreman. He made many lifelong friends there and truck # "133" will always be remembered.

He also worked for many years for Robert Sasso & Sons Construction. He loved visits from everyone, especially his card games. He always had a way of captivating an audience with his stories and life experiences.

His winters were spent in Florida where you could find him at Gulfstream Park betting the "ponies." All in all, he was "one of a kind" and will be sadly missed.

He was born in 1938 to the late Michael and Mary Casoli, the dear brother of Anne Casoli and preceded by his brothers Michael and Robert; the devoted and loved father of Nikole, Richard and Christopher and loving grandfather to Francesca Casoli and Valentina Tate. He also leaves behind his longtime companion of 20 years, Pamela Lomanno of Quincy and her children, Aimee Groleau and Dominique Alibrandi. He is also survived by many nieces and nephews who have fond memories of him.

Services are private and in lieu of flowers, we ask that you consider a donation to the Alzheimer's Association, 225 N. Michigan Ave Fl. 17, Chicago, IL 60601 or at alz.org. For guest book please visit www.buonfiglio.com.

RMV extends designated Weds. appointment hours for customers 75 years or older through March

Staff report

The Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles (RMV) will continue to offer designated Wednesday appointment hours for customers 75 years of age or older through March.

Individuals in this age group are required by state law to renew their Massachusetts driver's license in-person. Beginning in February, the RMV will also be expanding the license renewal appointments available for these customers to include registration and title services and transactions.

Designated senior service hours began on Sept. 2, 2020, to offer customers 75 and older dedicated times and flexibility to conduct their required in-person license renewals while facilitating "social-distancing" protocols to keep customers and staff safe and healthy.

Senior appointment hours for license renewals, and registration and title services appointments effective in February, will continue to be offered on Wednesdays at the following 17 RMV Service Center locations (hours vary by location): Brockton, Danvers, Fall River, Greenfield, Lawrence, Leominster, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, New Bedford, North Adams, Pittsfield, Plymouth, Revere, South Yarmouth, Springfield, Watertown, and Worcester.

Below are the options for seniors to schedule in-person appointments during designated service hours:

•If you are a AAA member, you may make a reservation now to renew your driver's license/ID or conduct certain other transactions at a AAA location. Visit aaa.com/appointments to schedule your visit.

•If you are not a AAA member, visit Mass.Gov/RMV to make a reservation to renew or conduct most other transactions at an RMV Service Center. Visit the Make/Cancel a Reservation transaction tab in the MyRMV Service Center and select "SeniorTransaction" for all available RMV transactions. Reservations can be booked two weeks in advance.

•Email the RMV for assistance: MassDOTRMVSeniors@dot.state.ma.us.

•Call the RMV at 857-368-8005.

General appointments for license and ID renewals or registration and title transactions, as well as other essential in-person needs including drop-off registration and title services, are available to all customers at select locations throughout the business week.

Additional information on RMV service offerings and appointments can be found at www.Mass.Gov/RMV, including more than 40 transactions that can be conducted online, by mail, or by phone. The RMV recommends that all customers get ready online before their appointment.

U.S. Attorney's Office returns more than $235 million in FY2020 to crime victims and the government

Staff report

U.S. Attorney Andrew E. Lelling has announced that the District of Massachusetts collected more than $235 million in criminal and civil actions in Fiscal Year 2020. Of this amount, $208,282,537 was collected in civil actions, including $77,933,472 in restitution for crime victims, and $27,194,175 was collected in criminal actions.

"I'm proud of the work the civil and criminal prosecutors in my office have done to secure more than $235 million in collections, restitution to crime victims, and asset forfeitures, in 2020 alone," said U.S. Attorney Andrew E. Lelling. "The District of Massachusetts has long been a leader in financial recoveries in the areas of health care fraud, securities fraud and civil settlements, and we will continue to aggressively pursue collections that return money to victims of crime and U.S. taxpayers, and deprive criminals of their ill-gotten gains."

The 94 U.S. Attorney's Offices jointly collected over $8 billion in civil and criminal actions in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 2020. The $8,064,931,805 in collections in FY 2020 represents nearly four times the appropriated $2.25 billion budget for the 94 U.S. Attorneys' Offices.

The largest civil collections were from affirmative civil enforcement cases by the Office's Affirmative Civil Enforcement Unit, which recovered government money lost to fraud or other offenses. Settlements with three pharmaceutical companies for illegal use of third-party foundations as conduits to pay kickbacks account for the office's largest civil collections. In September 2020, Gilead Sciences paid $97 million and Novartis paid $51 million in July 2020, and Sanofi-Aventis paid $11.85 million in February.

In addition to these civil and criminal collections, in Fiscal Year 2020 the Office's Asset Recovery Unit was responsible for the collection of $77,933,472 in restitution for crime victims, as well as forfeiture of $22,449,306 in criminal proceeds or other property involved in crimes. The Asset Recovery Unit locates, seizes, and forfeits proceeds of crime, including health care fraud, securities fraud, mail and wire fraud, drug trafficking, as well as money and property involved in money laundering. The Unit pursues forfeiture of ill-gotten gains both domestically and abroad and works closely with units across the Office and its law enforcement partners to ensure that crime doesn't pay. Forfeited assets deposited into the Department of Justice Asset Forfeiture Fund are used to restore funds to crime victims and for a variety of law enforcement purposes.

U.S. Attorneys' Offices, along with the Department's litigating divisions, are responsible for enforcing and collecting civil and criminal debts owed to the U.S. and criminal debts owed to federal crime victims. The law requires defendants to pay restitution to victims of certain federal crimes who have suffered a physical injury or financial loss. While restitution is paid to the victim, criminal fines and felony assessments are paid to the Department's Crime Victims Fund, which distributes the funds collected to federal and state victim compensation and victim assistance programs.

SENIOR SPOTLIGHT

By William O'Brien History Teacher

Jaileen Dubon

cial Olympics program in her spare time.

One of Jaileen's most impressive accomplishments was being accepted into the National Student Leadership Conference this past summer. She was supposed to spend a week at UConn taking classes and getting the full college experience. Unfortunately, this did not happen due to the current Covid-19 pandemic, but it was still a major honor to be chosen for that program.

Jaileen is a great student, amazing daughter and sister, and a genuine and caring friend. For the past four years, she has managed to keep her best friend Leena out of trouble. If any of you know Leena, then you know that is a remarkable accomplishment in itself!

It is with great pleasure that I nominate Jaileen Dubon for this month's Revere High School Senior Spotlight. I have known Jaileen as a student in my Advisory class during the past four years, a student in my World History Honors class during her junior year, and a current student in my Women in History and Literature elective. Jaileen is an amazing student and I have watched her grow into a mature and respectful young woman who is going to be a success in her chosen career as a nurse.

Academically, Jaileen stands out in any classroom. Although she is focused on the STEM disciplines, Jaileen is an intelligent and inquisitive student who is able to grasp difficult concepts in all of her classes. Jaileen has already been enrolled in college-level courses through a dual-enrollment program and successfully earned college credits. This year, she continues to shine despite this bizarre remote learning environment. Jaileen is very wise beyond her years and she uses her maturity to treat people with kindness and respect. In four years, I have never seen Jaileen have a bad day or say something negative about another person. In turn, Jaileen is very popular among peers and teachers because of her outstanding personality.

Jaileen's experiences outside of school are extremely impressive. This past summer, Jaileen worked with Mass General Hospital and Harvard in an internship where she got hands-on experience in the medical field. Prior to that experience, Jaileen worked as an intern in Mass General Hospital's Physical Therapy Department. Jaileen is currently employed at a local nursing home, giving her even more exposure to her chosen career and helping the elderly during this very difficult time. All of these activities are preparing her to provide quality medical care to her future patients. In school, Jaileen is involved in a variety of clubs such as Power of Know, the Youth Health Leadership Council, and the MGH Youth Scholars Programs. She has also volunteered with the Spe-

She works diligently to make sure all of her students are on the path to success. She does not hesitate one bit to offer any help to a student if she knows that either something is wrong, or a student is struggling. She has that strong work ethic to help meet the needs of any student. She listens to what her students have to say, engages and connects with all. She is caring and respectful for every person, whether you are a student of hers or not.

From not just my perspective, but also classmates, Jarrod Natola, Julianna Raffa and Erica Anderson, being in her class was one of our best experiences at Revere High School. In class she has made many memories for students that will last a lifetime. When I had Ms. Mirasolo as a teacher she allowed for my class to put together something not many had thought about. We were reading the book "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn", when she had asked our class if we wanted to create a game board about the book for kids to play. The class's intention was to have kids at a younger grade level play this game. But then unfortunately that hadn't happened due to school being shut down because of COVID-19.

And now as a senior at Revere High School, remote learning is not the ideal situation. But Ms. Mirasolo continuously reaches out to students to ensure that if there is anything she can do to help, that she would be right there helping. And I know as many others do too, that even after high school and later down the road in life, if you ever needed anything, Ms. Mirasolo would be there for you.

The Black Lives Matter protest, early in the summer of 2020, was a demonstration of support and appreciation of the black community in Revere and the rest of the nation. The inspiring youth of the city planned, protested, and displayed their support for the movement. Teachers and students, residents and non-residents, and those of different religions and races peacefully walked from Revere Beach to city hall in a statement against racism and police brutality. Their impactful signs could be read through the thickest fog and their powerful chants could be heard throughout the state. Even with the ongoing pandemic, the youth of Revere made a clear and coherent statement that they will not tolerate the oppression of people of color at the hands of police brutality and bigotry in their community. And just as a reminder: Black lives mattered yesterday. Black lives matter today and everyday in the future.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

CONCERNS OVER EVICTION MORATORIUM EXPIRING

CHELSEA - A key concern in Chelsea and surrounding communities since last November has been the lifting of the eviction moratorium and how that might affect thousands of residents and their housing situations, but initial statistics through Jan. 1 from the state Housing Court show Chelsea seems to be in a good position so far with a lower number of filed evictions for non-payment of rent.

It's a piece of good news in what has been a huge worry for elected officials and advocates over the past several months, with many worrying that joblessness as a result of the pandemic could lead to massive numbers of people without homes. So far, that hasn't come true in the official stats, to the relief of everyone.

In Housing Court, to begin an eviction process one must file a Summary Process Eviction for non-payment of rent. It is a standard process for most landlords and tenants, but it had been frozen during COVID-19 until last fall - when Housing Court opened back up for evictions in October.

While other locales have been swamped with such filings, Chelsea has had just 129 Summary Process Evictions filed for all of 2020. That was a little more than 10 per month and showed that the City has staved off the onslaught of filings that many expected. It's not the case in other places like Worcester, Fall River and New Bedford.

Worcester led the state with 874 filings as of Jan. 1 for all of 2020. Springfield had 711, Fall River had 604, and Brockton had 315. All were well above Chelsea's numbers.

Chelsea did have a lot in common with Everett and Revere, which also expected a lot of filings but so far have not had so many. Everett had 87 filings and Revere had 154 - all well-below what was expected and, like Chelsea, places where substantial resources were directed to stemming the tide.

City Manager Tom Ambrosino said he felt really good about the numbers and the resources the City has marshaled to keep evictions from happening in large numbers.

"It's good news and I don't have a specific explanation, but we have put a lot of resources and money to assist people," he said. "We have helped residents fill out RAFT applications and our own rental assistance applications and program. We have the Chelsea Legal Aid Clinic and the Eviction Task force that intervene quickly. I'm hopeful all of these things are helping the situation. These statistics seem to be a positive trend."

At the same time, he said statistics only tell the official story, and he has heard from advocates that many illegal evictions are happening that don't show up on paper.

"I have no doubt that does occur and that's why we set up the Chelsea Legal Aid Clinic - a place to call and get advice," he said. "I agree that is a reality in these communities."

City Solicitor Cheryl Fisher Watson chairs the effort at the Chelsea Legal Services Housing Clinic - as it is officially known - and said it has helped avoid evictions before they happen in court.

"Chelsea has a unique approach to combating evictions and have armed our residents with different options," she said. "The Chelsea Legal Services Housing Clinic is not only representing residents of all incomes in evictions, but also it is making sure they are connected with services within our community."

For example, she said tenants are referred to the City and other agencies for rent help through the state RAFT program and also referrals are made to housing agencies. The Clinic members right now are meeting residents twice a week at La Colaborativa to discuss their options. Meanwhile, Greater Boston Legal Services and the Volunteer Lawyers Project are also helping and representing residents that make it to court.

"There is a referral network in place," she said. "Our Landlords are also doing their part by not pursuing evictions and working with the Clinic and the City."

State Sen. Sal DiDomenico said keeping up the effort will be critical in the next few months, but he is encouraged to see that it appears the current efforts are succeeding in Everett and Chelsea.

"We have to continue working to ensure that we don't have any evictions," said Senator DiDomenico. "But, we can see that the work being done in our community through state and local partnerships has had positive outcomes for many residents. There is still much more work to be done and we will keep pushing to get resources to address our housing crisis."

On the streets of Chelsea though - similar to Everett - there is another story and that's the one that doesn't appear on paper, as Ambrosino said.

La Colaborativa Director Gladys Vega said the two things that keep her up at night during the pandemic have been food insecurity and housing. Food has an easy answer she said; Getting resources and distributing them. Housing is much different in Chelsea, as there are so many unofficial and complex living situations. They aren't the kind of situations that would show up on official court statistics.

"The numbers may show something, but the reality is totally different," she said.

The organization has four staff members dedicated to housing, including Norieliz DeJesus. She said much of the problem is there are tenant subleases, and extended family situations, and other non-traditional living arrangements that disintegrate in the stress of COVID-19.

"There are a lot of people that sublease in the community and who out of fear abandon their homes before they get to court," she said. "They often leave because they're getting harassed by the landlord at times... Other tenants may be paying their rent, but they're doing it because they're borrowing money or they aren't paying their bills and letting them skyrocket for heat and electricity. We've seen where landlords are using utilities to push tenants out. They control the switches and they turn off the lights or heat until they leave."

"It's really hard to categorize the situations we see because there are so many dynamics, and they don't show up on paper," she continued.

She retold the story of a teen mother who was kicked out of her home by her mother, an eviction that wouldn't show up on any statistics, but one that creates an emergency situation, nonetheless.

LYNN DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE FOOD DRIVE

Former Lynn City Councilor Joseph Scanlon places groceries into the donation box, LPS Social Worker Laura Sanchez prepares to donate as Food Drive Coordinators, Patty Ridge and Drew Russo, welcome the donations.

"Some family tenant situations aren't showing up on paper because they're coming from family members evicting other family members," she said. "I have a young mother who is 18 with a baby and her mother told her to leave because she couldn't find a job. She was on the street. We had to try to find her housing and a hotel for a few nights. That didn't show up on court stats because it was within the family - in fact her mother."

Many expect the numbers of filed evictions to increase in the coming months, but a nationwide rebound in the economy is also predicted for the second half of 2021 - leading many to believe at the City and state level that getting through the last two months and the next four could be enough to avert a housing disaster - at least on paper.

EDUCATORS EXPRESS THOUGHTS ON IN-PERSON LEARNING

EVERETT - Scores of educators in the Everett Public Schools sent letters with serious concerns to the Everett School Committee last week in anticipation to approve a plan to move towards a hybrid in-person education model.

The School Committee meeting took place on Tuesday night due to the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, and came after deadlines for the paper. That said, the topic of moving to a hybrid in-person model came up at the last meeting and an initial plan for the move had the schools returning grade by grade starting on Feb. 1. Meanwhile, last week there were talks between the School Administration and the Everett Teachers Association about a concrete timeline for the return. That timeline is expected to be shared at the Tuesday night meeting.

However, prior to that educators from across the district sent a mass mailing to members of the Committee saying they had major concerns about returning to the classroom and felt they weren't at the table.

"As an educator of the Everett Public School District, I am very concerned regarding the strategy to move to a hybrid teaching model when the pandemic is currently raging at dangerously high levels," read the letter. "At the time of writing this letter, Everett's positivity rate is 14.5%. While this is not unique to Massachusetts or the rest of the country, the concept of gravitating to a hybrid model is very premature and puts all educators, students, and administrators at risk... Please do what is right for our community and allow this to be a transparent process where all stakeholders have a voice."

Across the board, many educators in the Everett Public Schools have concerns about the district's plan to move students back into the classroom, even on a staggered basis. That sentiment has been growing stronger over the past several weeks as cases have surged in Everett after the holidays, and many educators have only recently learned of the plan. Some have said the membership of the ETA didn't even expect a discussion about returning until positivity rates were at least below 5 percent. With those rates now approaching 15 percent, many in the ranks were a bit taken by surprise.

Some School Committee members and Supt. Priya Tahiliani have said over the past week that the game-changer in the conversation was the introduction of the COVID-19 vaccine, and that it could become available as soon as early February for Everett educators. That, Tahiliani said, was one reason things changed so rapidly with the plan.

The letter on Tuesday from educators asked for clarification on three key questions from the membership.

The first was about not being included in the conversation and planning on the hybrid plan - asking why educators and administrators were not included in the planning.

Second, the letter asks for an explanation of why the key metric of being below 5 percent positivity rate suddenly doesn't apply.

Finally, the letter asks why such a disruptive move to hybrid in-person education is being considered when it could be risking lives and instruction likely won't improve.

It wasn't immediately available how many letters were sent to members of the School Committee by educators, but it was believed on first glance that hundreds were e-mailed.

MATEWSKY MAKES COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS

EVERETT - Council President Wayne Matewsky doled out Committee assignments last week, with most everyone finding a place on a Committee.

Matewsky has said under his leadership this year there will be fewer Committees of the Whole and more Committee meetings. He said he would rely on the Committee system to work out the details of issues, and that would hopefully shorten Council meetings and bring about better legislation in a more timely manner.

He announced five committees for the coming legislative year, with a revived Celebrations Committee still under consideration.

The Budget Committee will be chaired by Councilor Michael McLaughlin and co-chaired by Councilor Anthony DiPierro. All councilors will be members of this committee.

The Committee on Business and Development is to be chaired by Councilor Rosa DiFlorio and co-chaired by Councilor Michael Marchese. Members will be Councilors John Hanlon and Gery Adrien.

The Government Operations and Public Safety Committee will be chaired by Councilor Stephanie Martins and co-chaired by Councilor Jimmy Tri Le. Members will be Councilors Richard Dell Isola and McLaughlin.

The Legislative Affairs and Elections Committee will be chaired by DiPierro and co-chaired by DiFlorio. Councilors Fred Capone and Martins will be members.

The Ways & Means Committee will be chaired by Marchese and co-chaired by DiFlorio. Members will be Le and Dell Isola.

Constituents seek Rep. Giannino's support on pro-transparency amendments in upcoming rules vote

Special to the Journal

On January 12, 2021, ten constituents of the 16th Suffolk district met with newly elected Rep. Jessica Giannino requesting her support for increased transparency in the State House. Over the course of the meeting, three constituents offered personal stories about their frustrations at the lack of transparency at the State House and their desire to be more directly involved in the lawmaking process.

This meeting was organized and held as a part of the Act on Mass Transparency is Power campaign. Act on Mass is the leading organization advocating for transparency and accountability in the Massachusetts State House. Since its launch in November, the Transparency is Power campaign has organized over 2500 volunteers, spanning over 100 districts, behind three amendments to the House rules:

- Rule 1: That all votes and testimony held in legislative committees are publicly disclosed on the Massachusetts State House website
- Rule 2: That bills are made public for 72 hours prior to a final vote
- Rule 3: That the threshold for a floor vote to be publicly-recorded in the House of Representatives is reduced from 16 state representatives to 8 state representatives

These amendments have been endorsed by dozens of advocacy organizations and several local Democratic committees. The Revere Democratic City Committee was slated to vote Tuesday evening on whether to endorse the campaign. In Revere's 19th district, Ballot Question 4, which asked if voters support making all committee votes publicly available, had the support of over 83% of voters.

While Rep. Giannino expressed general support for transparency during the meeting, she would not commit to voting in favor of the three amendments before conducting further research.

Constituents are holding a follow up meeting with Rep. Giannino on February 2 in advance of the rules vote, which is anticipated to occur in early or mid February.

NEW CLOTHING DROP OFF BOX

East Boston - It's hard to believe that more than 85 percent of clothes wind up in the trash. While it's the norm to recycle plastics, glass, metal and paper--clothes, shoes, and accessories have long been ignored. Studies show that about 10 percent of the nation's landfills are full of discarded clothes and textiles.

Boston Public Works (BPW) announced recently that it now has fourteen drop-off locations around the city for recycling clothing and textiles--this includes East Boston.

The location in Eastie at the city's municipal lot located at 166 London St. accepts everything from pants, shorts, curtains, pajamas, t-shirts, jerseys, sweatshirts, sweaters, jeans, dresses, coats, suits, shoes, blankets, and backpacks.

"Locations were started in municipal lots since they are managed by the City and space is there," said BPW's Brian Coughlin. "We're now working with neighborhood groups to help identify private land that we can use. Also we are working with BPL, BPS and BFD facilities personnel as we look to expand this service."

Coughlin said in Boston, about seven percent, or 14,000 tons of all city trash annually are clothes and other textiles.

The city has partnered with HELPSY to offer this new service to Eastie and Boston residents.

"Our goal is to support recycling, responsible handling of overstock and returns and changing the way the fashion industry thinks of the clothing life cycle," said the company in a statement. "Ninety-five percent of all clothing, shoes and other textiles can be given a second life--50 percent are reusable, 45 percent are recyclable. Local thrift stores play a necessary role in the resale economy, however they can only handle 10-20 percent of what they receive."

HELPSY said all collected materials from the bins are sold to national and international retailers, wholesalers and recyclers. This works the same way as any other recycled materials collected from the public.

"Seventy percent of the world buys used clothing," the company said. "Our buyers sell to countries who pay for the clothes. If banned, the primary economic alternative would be more fast fashion. Reselling used clothes is the best way to give clothes a second life, mitigating their environmental impact."

LOCAL RESTAURANTS STILL HURTING

EAST BOSTON - East Boston restaurants and bars have been some of the hardest hit small businesses by the COVID-19 pandemic, and the resulting economic downturn that has swept the nation.

While there's been some temporary relief through extended outdoor seating capacity programs as well as local bars able to offer liquor-to-go, some smaller operations are still finding it hard to pay for the necessary components to make outdoor dining a reality.

Luckily, the new partnership between East Boston Main Streets (EBMS) and local real estate developers is providing much needed financial support to local restaurants as they reopened and found their footing during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Eastie Strong, the grant program hatched by EBMS and local real estate developers, announced its second round of awardees as part of the 'Adopt a Patio' program. The Adopt a Patio provides capital to fund reopening costs related to complying with COVID-19 restrictions. The funds are used to purchase items such as outdoor furniture, umbrellas, and space heaters for the winter.

"We are excited to release our first round of funding and know it will be a lifeline to many of these small and locally owned businesses," said EBMS Executive Director Gladys Oliveros.

The second round of awardees include: Maverick's ($1,500); La Hacienda Restaurant and Bar ($1,000); La Gran Manzana ($1,000); La Fonda Colombiana ($1,000); Toasted Flats ($1,000); and Tawakal Halal Cafe ($1,000).

The first round of awards was announced in November and included: Mexicali Sushi Bar ($1,000); Taco Mex ($1,000); Rincon Limeño Restaurant ($1,000); La Casa del Pan Debono ($1,000); Dirty Water Dough ($1,000); Pazza on Porter ($1,500); Mi Pueblo ($1,000); Pueblo Viejo Pupuseria & Mexican Grill ($1,000); and Luna's Italian and Latin Cuisine Restaurant ($1,000).

Restaurateurs like Fernando Rosas, who owns La Casa del Pan Debono, said the Eastie Strong grant program has been a lifesaver.

"I appreciate all the help provided by East Boston Main Street throughout the whole past year, especially in the past month," said Rosas. "La Casa del Pan Debono has been affected tremendously by this pandemic. We are barely making rent or payroll and last month we were having a very tough time making ends meet. I was one of the many lucky restaurants to receive the grant for $1,000 and it helped us more than we could've ever imagined. We were able to give some bonuses to our employees, pay for our electricity bill and use some for our bi-weekly payroll." Stephen Davis of The Davis Companies said his company wanted to find a way to help our tenants as well as contribute to the local restaurant economy which has suffered greatly during the pandemic.

David Grossman of the Grossman Companies, who is spearheading the fundraising component of the program with The Davis Companies, said, "Thanks to East Boston Main Streets we can help our tenants afford a night out while providing a financial lifeline to restaurants and support the overall health of the East Boston economy."

Other sponsors of the program include: Roseland, MG2; Seyfarth Shaw LLP; Trinity Financial; Volnay Capital; Lend-Lease; Winn Residential; Norfolk Kitchen and Bath; Cranshaw Construction; East Boston Savings Bank; and The Trustees of Reservations.

The program is managed by local consulting firm, the Novus Group.

According to Oliveros the new initiative also has a second component. While the first is the Adopt a Patio program the other is the "Gift Card Program". Local real estate developers and sponsors will distribute gift cards directly to tenants for use only at participating local restaurants.

"Over the course of the pandemic, we have discovered many unique challenges that local restaurants face: lack of access to government Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loans, decreased revenue from customers, and the need for capital to help cover the cost of creating new outdoor seating," said Oliveros. "This partnership will help address these problems while encouraging East Boston residents to dine at the many wonderful restaurants operating locally."

Rep. Adrian Madaro called the new program 'awesome' and will be a big boost to the local economy.

"This is a great example of nonprofits and the private sector coming together as a community to help each other out during a very difficult time," said Madaro.

Pressley leads colleagues in calling on Biden to commute all Federal death row sentences

Staff report

Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley led 35 colleagues in sending a letter to President Joe Biden, urging him to immediately commute the sentences of everyone on federal death row.

“As members of Congress, we stand ready to work with you on your commitment to rebuilding the dignity of America,” wrote the lawmakers in their letter. “We believe that rebuilding the dignity of America requires that we recommit ourselves to the tradition of due process, mercy, and judicial clemency when it comes to matters related to the criminal legal system. For this reason, we urge you to immediately commute the sentences of all those on death row.”

In 2015, the Obama administration halted federal executions by placing a moratorium on the federal death penalty. In 2019, the Trump administration abruptly announced it was reversing the moratorium and moving forward with the first execution in 17 years. On the same day, Rep. Pressley introduced legislation to abolish the federal death penalty and resentence all individuals on death row. In their letter today, the lawmakers call on Biden to go further than the Obama administration and commute every sentence on death row, ensuring no future president could do what the Trump administration has done in resuming federal executions.

“We appreciate your vocal opposition to the death penalty and urge you to take swift, decisive action. After referring to the death penalty as ‘deeply troubling,’ President Obama halted federal executions and commuted the sentences of two federal prisoners on death row,” the lawmakers continued. “However, the Obama administration’s reticence to commute more death sentences has allowed the Trump administration to reverse course and pursue a horrifying killing spree over the final seven months of his presidency. Commuting the death sentences of those on death row and ensuring that each person is provided with an adequate and unique re-sentencing process is a crucial first step in remedying this grave injustice.”

“We can collectively save the lives of people all across America. We look forward to working with your administration to enact just and restorative policies that will meaningfully transform our criminal legal system for the better. By exercising your clemency power, you can ensure that there would be no one left on death row to kill. Given the historic nature of your administration, this would be an unprecedented - but necessary - action to reverse systemic injustices and restore America’s moral standing.”

The letter is co-signed by 35 House Democrats.

Revere resident Isabelle Johnson celebrates her 100th birthday

Special To The Journal

Revere resident Isabelle Johnson celebrated her 100th birthday with a multi-day celebration at her residence on Revere Beach.

Mrs. Johnson's son, Dan Johnson Jr., 71, a 1967 graduate of Dom Savio, said due to COVID-19 guidelines, family members spread out their in-person birthday wishes over the course of multiple days. "We took turns visiting her," said Dan Jr. "One day the Visiting Angels brought her a cake and some gifts and on that day my son (David) and I visited. The next day, my wife (Monica) and daughter (Adrienne) went to see her. My brother, Robert (who is 66 years old), and his wife (Louise) visited on another day. The grandchildren all took turns visiting her.

"We spread out the visits so there weren't too many people at once," related Dan Jr.

Grew up and attended Schools in East Boston

Isabelle (Laraia) Johnson grew up in East Boston and attended East Boston High School. Isabelle married Dan Johnson Sr. at a local church. Following their marriage, they lived in East Boston for 20 years before they purchased a house in Winthrop. The Johnsons lived in Winthrop for 12 years before they bought a condominium at St. George on Revere Beach. She continues to enjoy her home in Revere, helped by the Visiting Angels who provide health care.

Isabelle worked as a waitress at Dini's Restaurant on Tremont Street and Marliaves Restaurant, Boston, for many years. Her husband, Dan Sr., was a World War II veteran and Boston Police officer for more than 30 years.

"She loved to travel," said Dan Jr. "She's been to Italy a couple of times and took my daughter to France with her. She went to Morocco with one of her friends. My parents would go down to Florida for four or five weeks a year."

Dan Jr. is a retired letter carrier. Robert is a structural engineer.

Isabelle (Laraia) Johnson has three grandchilddren, Adrienne Johnson, Justine Johnson, and David Johnson. Adrienne holds degrees from Tufts University and Northeastern and is a cancer research scientist. Justine is a graduate of Bridgewater State University and worked in the field of special education. She is currently a ski instructor in Colorado. David attended Bryant University and is employed by Whole Foods.

To what does Dan Johnson Jr. attribute his mother Isabelle's longevity?

"I would say my mother has always had a positive attitude and she's a very determined person," said Dan Johnson Jr. "And she's very down-to-earth."

Revere resident Isabelle Johnson celebrates her 100th birthday with a special cake and a birthday wish from the Visiting Angels.
