Revere Conservation Commission approves stormwater plans for Redgate development site

Special to the Journal

The Revere Conservation Commission unanimously approved Redgate Development's plans for stormwater and wastewater management for its proposed development on the G and J Towing site.

Redgate is looking to build a 291-unit apartment development at the site located at 22 Whitin Ave., just beyond the General Edwards Bridge, and adjacent to Gibson Park.

The vote at the Aug. 11 meeting followed presentations before the Commission by Revere's Chief Planner and Zoning Coordinator Frank Stringi, Redgate Vice President Libseth Bello, and engineers Katie Cruz of Hancock Associates and Anders Bjarngard of GZA GeoEnvironmental.

Before the vote, Ronald Clark, candidate for the Ward 5 seat on the City Council, raised concerns about the overall project.

"The pumping station on the Lynnway, from what I'm told right now, can't handle as much as one more toilet bowl," said Clark.

Clark also questioned other segments of the city's master plan for the area, including the boat-yard property, and the traffic plan for the site.

"There's no traffic plan in effect as of today, so right now we've got to assume they're going to be using the Lynnway, with much more traffic coming in and out, especially if this thing gets built prior to this traffic design being completed."

Clark also wondered aloud about the construction of the new fire station in Point Pines "and how it's going to affect this traffic plan they're coming up with."

Al Fiore, a candidate for the Ward 5 seat, also brought up the Point of Pines fire station and the lack of progress on the project for several years.

Fiore also cited what he believes will be the negative impacts of Redgate's 291-unit development on the Point of Pines neighborhood.

Ward 5 Councillor John Powers, who voted in favor of Redgate's proposal at a City Council meeting, said after the meeting that the "fire station had nothing to do with the Conservation Commission meeting – nothing whatsoever."

"They're doing asbestos removal at the station right now," said Powers. "I'm told by the people doing the work that the fire station will be leveled by the first week in September. The meeting had nothing to do with the fire station. The fire station is going to be built. They're working on the demolition now. That was not to place to discuss the fire station."

Revere is the fastest growing city in state

Successful Census outreach effort shows 20% population increase resulting in more Federal, State, and local resources for the city

Special to the Journal

The City of Revere is now officially the fastest-growing city in Massachusetts. Yesterday municipalities throughout the United States received their 2020 Census Data - The data shows Revere outpacing other cities across the Commonwealth with their population rising more than twenty percent since the last census a decade ago. Revere's new population is 62,186.

"The results of the 2020 Census are incredibly exciting for our city, Revere is now the fastest growing city in Massachusetts –which will bring more federal, state, and local resources to our community," said Mayor Brian Arrigo. "As more housing options come online and we welcome more new residents, we have greater influence to advocate for what our city needs."

The City of Revere launched Revere Counts in an effort to support census efforts and ensure an accurate count in the community. The initiative was lead by the current Director of Community Health and Engagement, Dimple Rana.

"Under Director Rana's leadership Revere initiated a comprehensive, coordinated a grassroots campaign that resulted in real, tangible gains for our community," said Mayor Brian Arrigo. "I want to personally thank her and our Revere Ambassadors for their incredible outreach and engagement efforts and all of the Revere residents who filled out a

Martelli family celebrates 10 years of lemonade stand fundraisers

When Kayla and Jordan Martelli set up their first lemonade stand on Dale Street 10 years ago to help with the Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation, both of them were barely tall enough to see over the table and welcomed visitors with the bright smile of young elementary school girls.

Now, both are in high school and all grown up, to an extent, but continue on with their summer lemonade stand fundraiser, which they held last weekend, and which has become a tradition in the city every summer. It's also become a great fundraiser for the Foundation, as they raised $5,400 just

USDA urges residents to check trees for Asian longhorned beetle

Staff Report

August is the most critical time of year to spot the Asian longhorned beetle (ALB) as adult activity peaks. That’s why the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is declaring August as “Tree Check Month” for this invasive pest. Checking trees for the beetle and the damage it causes is how residents can help USDA and its partners eliminate the beetle from the United States, and protect more trees. Signs of this invasive pest continue to be found in Massachusetts, so residents need to be on watch. A portion of Worcester County remains under a federal quarantine for the ALB, and the movement of wood out of the area is not allowed. However, residents in all states should keep an eye out for any new incursions.

“We’re asking for the public’s help to find Asian longhorned beetle and any tree damage it causes, because the sooner we know where the insect is, the sooner we can stop its spread,” said Josie Ryan, APHIS’ National Operations Manager for the ALB Eradication Program. “Just last year, a homeowner in South Carolina reported finding a beetle in their backyard, which led us to discover an active infestation in the state where we didn’t know the beetle was.”

The ALB is an invasive wood-boring beetle that attacks 12 types of hardwood trees in North America, such as maples, elms, buckeyes, birches, and willows. Infested trees do not recover and eventually die. Infested trees also become safety hazards since branches can drop and trees can fall over, especially during storms. In its larval stage, the insect feeds inside tree trunks and branches, creating tunnels as it feeds, then adults chew their way out in the warmer months, leaving about 3/4-inch round exit holes.

The adult beetle has distinctive markings that are easy to recognize:

- A shiny black body with white spots that is about 1 to 1 ½ inches long.
- Black-and-white antennae that are longer than the insect’s body.
- Six legs and feet that can appear bluish in color.

Signs that a tree might be infested include:

- Round exit holes in tree trunks and branches about the size of a dime or smaller.
- Egg sites that are shallow, oval or round wounds in the bark where sap might weep.

- Sawdust-like material called frass found on the ground around the tree or on the branches.
- Branches or limbs falling from an otherwise healthy-looking tree.

HOW YOU CAN HELP:

The public has a vital role in helping to stop the spread of the ALB and eliminating it from infested areas.

Report it: If you think you found a beetle or tree damage, report it by calling the ALB hotline at 1-866-702-9938 or submitting an online report at www.AsianLonghornedBeetle.com. Try to photograph the ALB or tree damage. If you can, capture the beetle in a durable container and freeze it, which helps preserve the insect for identification. Then report it.

Reduce spread: If you live in an ALB quarantine area, please keep the tree-killing pest from spreading. Follow state and federal laws, which restrict the movement of woody material and untreated firewood that could be infested.

It is possible to eradicate the pest. USDA and its partners eradicated the insect from Illinois, Boston in Massachusetts, New Jersey and portions of New York and Ohio.

For more information about the ALB and the eradication efforts, visit www.AsianLonghornedBeetle.com. For local inquiries or to speak to your USDA State Plant Health Director, call 1-866-702-9938.

2020 census.”

State Rep. Jessica Giannino added, “The economic development occurring throughout Revere coupled with the consistent spike in the population numbers requires an assurance that our water, sewer and roadway infrastructure grows with it. It is also imperative that we have adequate police, fire and educational resources to meet these growing demands. As your State Representative, I will be working hard to ensure the state meets its’ obligation to our city.”

The City of Revere Office of Data and Innovation is in the process of examining and analyzing all the 2020 Census data and it will be available to residents soon.

“There are many factors in our rise in accounted for population. One of the major factors was the work put in to actually get our people counted, our census outreach even in the middle of a pandemic was exceptional,” stated Ward 4 Councillor Patrick Keefe. “This approach was much more aggressive and calculated then it was in 2010. Everyone in Revere knew our population data was lower then it should have been so I am happy we put more emphasis on getting our residents officially counted,” he continued, “Obviously, we have seen growth in our communities housing stock which of course added to the increase. But the fact that this count will get us the necessary additional funding for our infrastructure, our schools, our public safety department is a huge win. Revere will be able to offset more of its tax burden with this additional funding and continue to give its residents the resources they deserve.”

As the census data is finalized, the City of Revere has launched the Redrawing Revere campaign, which aims to engage the community in learning and participating in the reprecincting process for the city. Residents are encouraged to help “re-draw the lines” within their community by visiting www.revere.org/redrawingrevere and utilize the online toolkit and map to provide feedback and input on their own neighborhood.

The Boston Latino International Film Festival (BLIFF) announces festival dates

Staff report

The Boston Latino International Film Festival (BLIFF) is thrilled to announce it will once again be showcasing the diverse voices originating in U.S. based-Latinx communities and in the Americas and beyond through film this year from September 24 – October 3, 2021. This year’s festival will be hosted virtually and film offerings will include Q&A’s with filmmakers.

This year, BLIFF will present nine films including Ken Schneider and Marcia Jarmel’s documentary feature, Los Hermanos/The Brothers, as well as local filmmaker Monica Cohen’s Dreams of Chonta. BLIFF is also excited to be bringing two narrative features to the festival this year, Women is Losers and Perfume de Gardenias, among other films that aim to break Latinx stereotypes and bring cultures and communities together.

BLIFF all access and individual passes will be on sale in September on a soon to be announced date. A complete schedule of BLIFF events, screenings, and tickets will be available soon at bliff.org.

“COVID has made us redefine how we live, work, and play,” says Sabrina Avilés, Boston Latino International Film Festival director. “That’s certainly true for events like ours. Most festivals, including ours, planned a hybrid, partial in-person event in 2021. But the recent rise of new infections forces us to change that. BLIFF has decided we must protect our audience, act conservatively, and present a compressed version of the festival virtually. That said, we are proud to offer a thoughtful and, we believe, well-curated film selection in 2021—films that were showcased at A-list festivals like Sundance, Tribeca, South by Southwest, and others. It is important to stick to our mission, and host a smaller festival that continues to feature provocative films that celebrate our culture and community.”

Goodbye to this summer's RevereTV interns! RTV is sad to see the internship programs come to an end. Isabella, Angie, Arianna, and Chris were a great addition for the busiest month of the summer season. With their help, RTV was able to step up coverage of community events as the interns assisted at field shoots and also during post production. Many of the past month's short coverage segments were edited by an intern. Having some extra hands for productions also helped with content for the RTV social media accounts. The RevereTV staff has truly appreciated each intern this year and looks forward to hopefully learning about what they all move on to accomplish.

The Rossetti-Cowan Senior Center hosted a concert event last Tuesday. A mariachi band played for the seniors and RevereTV recorded the event. This recording is now available to watch on the RTV Community Channel abutting the usual morning senior concert episodes. The most recent concert recordings will air every day throughout the next few weeks and then be placed in the typical daily concert rotation.

RevereTV will have coverage of a few community events: the Shirley Ave. Night Market, Salsa Dancing at The Revere Farmer's Market, and the Moroccan Cultural Festival. Before the Moroccan Cultural Festival, longtime RTV Community Member Rachid Moukhabir visited the studio to record a promotional video with co-host Ed Deveau. The two spoke about the history of the festival in Revere and what to expect in the future. This promo aired on RTV through the week leading up to the event. Coverage from the festival, the free activities at the Farmer's Market, and the happenings from Shirley Ave. will soon be airing on the RevereTV Community Channel and posted to YouTube.

Up next at RevereTV, you will soon see a new episode of "Cooking Made Simple" with Chef Kelly Armetta. Armetta will be back in the studio this week with something new for you to make in your own kitchen. This show always premieres on the Community Channel, Facebook, and YouTube. On RTV GOV, the next Revere City Council Meeting is Monday, August 23rd. Until then, you can watch the latest sub-committee meetings which are the License Commission, Public Art Commission, Conservation Commission, and the Commission on Disabilities. The RevereTV Community Channel is 8 and 1072 on Comcast and 3 and 614 on RCN. RTV GOV is channel 9 on Comcast and 13 and 613 on RCN.

Councilor Powers announces bid for re-election in Ward 5

Special to the Journal

Ward 5 Councilor John Powers has announced his candidacy for re-election. The following is his statement.

“My name is John Powers; and it has been my honor to represent the citizens of Ward 5 on the Revere City Council. Today I am proud to announce my candidacy for re-election to the Ward 5 Council seat. I am grateful beyond words for the trust that the citizens of Ward 5 have placed in me; and I humbly ask for your support again, so that I may continue to serve you and your families and we may together continue the progress we have begun in the great city of Revere.

For those of you who may not know me, please allow me to tell you a bit about myself, about some of the achievements of which I am most proud, and about some of what I still hope to accomplish in the future. I am a life-long Revere resident, a homeowner and a taxpayer. Among my many City Council roles, I have been elected by my colleagues to three terms as City Council President. I have also been appointed to four terms as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which is responsible for reviewing and approving the annual city budget, and as Chairman of the Public Safety Committee, which provides oversight of the Police and Fire Departments.

I especially pride myself for serving as a full-time City Councilor -- that is my only job. I truly enjoy spending every day working on important city issues and providing constituent services. If you see fit to re-elect me, I pledge to remain accessible to all Revere citizens, easily reachable, and unfailingly responsive to anyone who needs my assistance, who has a question or concern, or who just wants his or her voice heard.

When last I stood for re-election in 2019, I noted our successes on a number of fronts especially relevant to Ward 5; and I am pleased to say that much progress has been made since then with even more to come:

A New Point of Pines Fire Station: This is an issue on which I had long been a vocal and persistent advocate. By 2019, we had secured a commitment from the Mayor and City Council to build a new fire station on the Lynnway to better serve the Point of Pines, Riverside, Oak Island and Lower Revere Street neighborhoods as well as the city as a whole. Since then, we have approved bond funding for a new state-of-the-art facility, which is now in final design. Demolition of the long-vacant Alden Mills Fire Station is already underway; new construction will begin later this year. The new fire station should be fully operational by late 2022.

A New Vision for the Revere RiverFront District: By 2019, we had successfully fought two proposed residential projects for the vacant Riverside Boat Works property on Thayer Avenue that were opposed by the Riverside community; and we then passed new zoning that precluded of any dense multi-family redevelopment of that property. Since then, we have completed a community-based Masterplan for the RiverFront District as a whole that envisions the conversion of the Riverside Boat Works property to a community rowing /educational center, that would be an integral new element of an expanded and more resilient Gibson Park; the residential redevelopment of the former G&J salvage yard with an attractive and accessible waterfront; and a reconfigured transportation network that will directly link the district to Revere as a whole -- eliminating the current need to use Mills Avenue to get to and from Gibson Park. The RiverFront Masterplan was approved by both the Revere Planning Board and City Council; and it is already being implemented in many critical respects, including the prospective city purchase of Riverside Boat Works, which is in the final stages of negotiation with its current owner.

Improved Neighborhood Infrastructure: With the full support of the Mayor and his DPW staff, we have continued to repave streets and replace sidewalks throughout Ward 5; and less visibly but at least equally important, we have continued to upgrade our water, sewer, drainage and pumping facilities throughout the district. At long last, with my proactive support, we have fully excavated and restored the Eastern County Ditch, which is vital to flood control in Ward 5 and has already resulted in virtually eliminating area flooding in major storm events.

Upgraded Neighborhood Playgrounds: With the full support of the Mayor and his Community Development staff, we have continued to improve our recreational facilities in Ward 5 for both our younger and our older residents, with new playgrounds at Gibson and DeStoop Parks and the Paul Revere School, with the renovation of Ambrose Park about to get underway. We are also working with DCR on a senior-oriented renovation of Sullivan Park on Revere Beach Boulevard, which will be linked to the Bay Road neighborhood via the new pedestrian bridge at Sachem Street.

New Public Schools: Following-up on our support for construction of the five new public schools including the Paul Revere Elementary School and the Rumney Marsh Middle School, both of which serve children in Ward 5, we are working with the Mayor and the School Superintendent on planning for a new Revere High School. This much needed facility recently received essential initial approval from the Massachusetts School Building Authority, which will underwrite a major portion of its cost; and we are currently in the feasibility planning stage. Municipal bonding will be supported by the property tax proceeds from new development at Suffolk Downs and elsewhere in Revere.

Transportation Projects: We have continued to work in concert with the Mayor and his Community Development staff and with DOT, DCR and the MBTA to improve transportation facilities and services on North Shore Road, Revere Beach Boulevard and American Legion Highway in Ward 5 to address the persistent problem of regional commuting through Revere to/from Boston. This multi-jurisdictional process is always slower than we all want it to be; but recently there has been encouraging progress on three important regional rail initiatives for which I have been a primary advocate: Congresswoman Katherine Clark has recently approved $4M for planning of a new regional rail station at Wonderland, linked to the Blue Line; the current Transportation Bond Bill includes $25M for the construction of such a regional rail station, for which I testified along with Governor Baker and Mayor Arrigo; and DOT has recently designated the regional rail line through Revere as the Environmental Justice Corridor, with a priority for its electrification to allow for “transit frequency and transit fares” on our regional rail. In addition, of particular interest to Ward 5, I was instrumental in supporting the commencement of design work on the proposed new round-about for the RiverFront District, in successfully opposing DCR traffic meters on the residential side of Revere Beach Boulevard, and in renovating the newly landscaped traffic island at Butler Circle.

Job Development Initiatives: Since 2019, we have worked to create new Revere job opportunities with the rezoning and reactivation of the former NECCO property in Ward 5 by Amazon, the proposed new Amazon facility to replace the vacant Showcase Cinema in Ward 6, the ongoing redevelopment of the Revere portion of the former Suffolk Downs racetrack in Wards 1 and 2, and -- now that it has finally been cleared for redevelopment at my insistence -- the prospective commercial revitalization of the former Wonderland racetrack in Ward 5. These development initiatives will eventually increase the number of job opportunities in and for Revere by three-to-four-fold.

These are just a few of the many issues and opportunities for which I have fought on behalf of the residents of Ward 5; and they will continue to require informed attention and leadership in the next two years and beyond. I believe that my performance to date as your City Councilor reflects the experience and expertise, the vision and understanding, and the dedication and leadership that I will continue to bring to this exceptionally broad range of civic and community responsibilities and that make me ideally positioned to continue to serve you and the city.

Revere is at an exciting time in its history. The direction we take and the choices that we make in the coming years will determine whether we reach our economic, commercial, and civic potential as a community. It is on that basis that I again humbly ask you, the Revere residents of Ward 5, for your vote in the primary on Tuesday, September 14th.

Albert J. Terminiello Jr. announces candidacy for Ward 3 City Councillor

Special to the Journal

Albert J. “Al” Terminiello Jr., a lifelong resident of Revere, has announced his candidacy for the Ward 3 seat on the Revere City Council.

Al is a 1971 graduate of Revere High School and a 1973 graduate of the New England Institute of Mortuary Science.

Community Service

Al is the co-chair and co-founder of the Revere Veterans Committee. During his leadership over the last 15 years, the Veterans Committee has raised thousands of dollars for scholarships for Revere High School students and supported the Rossetti-Cowan Senior Center and the RHS JROTC program.

Al is particularly proud of the Veterans Committee’s $9,000 donation for the replacement of the flag poles at the Beachmont Veterans Memorial School.

Al is a 32-degree Master Mason, a Shriner, a member of the Knights of Columbus, and the International Order of Odd Fellows, which are all community and charity-based organizations, as well as a member of the Revere Historical Society.

Personal employment

Al worked as an embalmer at the Bruno Funeral Home for 20 years. He was in the national

Al Terminiello Jr., representing leadership, integrity and transparency for the residents of Ward 3. I am not, or ever will be a rubber stamp councillor. I am, and always will be, a vote of conscious and a voice for the people. Terminiello can be contacted at (781) 244-7430 and alforward3@aol.com product support division for Siemens Nixdorf Corporation where he was a top-10 specialist in high-speed, cold-fusion printing in the country.

Al has been a professional photographer since 1980 and was a founding partner of the Independent Newspaper Group that includes the Revere Journal.

Currently, Al works for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Equipment Distribution Program (EDP), a branch of the E-911 Public Safety Division.

Proud of his Revere family

Al is the son of the late Albert J. Terminiello Sr., who served as an officer in the Revere Police Department for many years before his retirement. Al personally served as an officer in the Revere Police Auxiliary for ten years.

Al’s mother, the late Barbara (Frye) Terminiello, was involved in many community service organizations. She was a member of the Revere Women’s Club and treasurer of the Revere League for Special Needs for 30 years. Al has also been a member of the Revere League for Special Needs for fifty years.

Al has two daughters, Jennifer and Jodi, five grandchildren (one grandchild is deceased), and two great-grandchildren and a brother Richard A. Terminiello, RHS Class of 74.

Al’s lifelong companion is Rose (Speranza) Pellegrino, who is also a Revere resident.

Reasons for pursuing a seat on the City Council

“I am seeking election to the City Council to help my ward and bring fairness and representation to all residents of Ward 3 and make Revere a better place for all,” said Al. “Our councillor, Arthur Guinasso, has set a very high bar in government standards and constituent services and I plan to follow the same path in being accessible to all residents and transparent in my actions, while I represent my constituents with the highest degree of integrity and honesty. No one will hold me to a higher standard than myself.”

ONLY VACCINE MANDATES AND MASKING CAN END THIS

With the Delta variant of the COVID-19 virus now ripping through America, especially in the South where folks are neither vaccinated nor take precautions such as wearing masks, it is obvious that the only way out of this pandemic is for government and businesses to mandate vaccinations for their employees and to require mask-wearing indoors.

The Delta variant -- which constituted one percent of the COVID cases in the U.S. in May but now is over 90 percent of the cases -- is proving both more transmissible and deadlier than the original COVID, especially among young people who formerly had escaped the most virulent effects of the first wave of the virus.

The hospitalization and death rates in the South are reaching cataclysmic proportions -- and this is occurring in the summertime, when people are outside and school is just getting underway.

Every private business in America should require their workers to be vaccinated for the safety and well-being of both their employees and their customers.

This also makes good business sense. After all, who wants to fly on an airplane with unvaccinated flight attendants? Or go on a cruise with an unvaccinated crew? Or go to a hospital to be treated by nurses, doctors, and others who are unvaccinated? Or be served at a restaurant by unvaccinated staff leaning over you?

All levels of government -- local, state, and federal -- also should mandate vaccines, both for the benefit of all of their workers and members of the the public with whom these employees interact.

This also includes students in universities as well as public school students for those age groups for whom the vaccine has been approved. Vaccines of all kinds already are required for enrollment in school and the COVID-19 vax is just another vaccine.

In addition, every business and government office should require masking by employees and customers to protect them from the unvaccinated and to prevent breakthrough transmissions.

The bottom line is simply this: Unless Americans find the will to get tough, get smart, and just suck it up, life never will return to normal.

AFGHANISTAN: DEJA-VU ALL OVER AGAIN

For those of us of a certain age, the sad and tragic debacle that has been unfurling in Afghanistan this past week is deja vu all over again.

We have seen variations of this theme over the course of 60 years of our interventions into the civil wars of other nations. There was the ill-fated, American-backed Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1961; the fall of Saigon in 1975; the 1984 withdrawal of American forces from a multinational peacekeeping force in Lebanon after suicide bombers killed 220 Marines, 18 sailors, and three soldiers, in their barracks in Beirut; the misadventure into Somalia in the early 1990s; the total debacle of the war in Iraq; and now, the ignominious conclusion of our 20-year involvement in Afghanistan.

Presidents of both parties have been at the helm of these various incursions into the internal affairs of other nations, only to preside over humiliating and costly defeats. Three generations of American political and military leaders have not learned the lessons from these unsuccessful endeavors and therefore have been condemned to repeat the mistakes of their predecessors.

We invaded Afghanistan in the aftermath of 9/11 expressly to root out the al-Qaeda terrorists in the safe haven that they had been given by the Taliban. We accomplished that goal quickly and decisively.

Somehow however, the mission morphed into one of nation-building Afghanistan into a Western-style democracy. When the facts come out about how and why this transformation happened, we have no doubt that they will show that the cabal of the military-industrial complex, with the added wrinkle of the influence of the plethora of so-called "private contractors," proved to be the chief architects of our policy in Afghanistan.

Even in the best of circumstances, people generally do not want soldiers from another country becoming involved in their civil matters. No amount of military might is going to persuade people from achieving their own national goals -- we cannot force other nations to accept our values.

Yes, we're saddened at contemplating the fate of women and our Afghan supporters under the Taliban. And we're disappointed that the Biden administration did not have better contingency plans to factor in the swift takeover of the country by the Taliban.

The lessons of the past should have taught us that our intervention in Afghanistan never was going to end well. But it did have to end, for better or worse.

INVESTING IN THE CHILDREN IS OUR FUTURE

Dear Editor,

Revere, unlike most communities, has a rich and diverse history that continues until this very day. We are a working-class community where education is the mechanism to a better life and success. Major media outlets have reported that Revere has the highest increase in population in Massachusetts, up 20% since the last census. As the fastest-growing community in the Commonwealth, our children deserve the most advanced tools to succeed and compete globally. Our children are not competing against children from Lexington, Brookline, or Malden but from Shanghai, Moscow, and London.

Ten years ago, I had the vision to bring life sciences to Revere. At the time, Many thought it was out of reach, I did not! Yet today, that vision is coming to life with the construction of a life science facility by HYM developers. As we await the building of the first half-billion-dollar life science building at Suffolk Downs, the community needs to stand behind the decision to build a new high-tech hybrid high school focusing on AI, robotics, and other STEM programs ensuring our children have the tools and skills to compete.

Therefore, I firmly believe that the city must strategically invest today in our children's future. As the father of three girls, two of whom have graduated from Revere Public Schools and a third a few years away from attending, I want to ensure she can compete in the global academic arena. Providing our children and teachers with the most advanced technological high school, challenging academic rigor, new classroom configuration such as classroom clusters, collaboration space, increases in the dual enrollment program, and the vision toward a constantly changing world, I firmly support Revere building a state of the high school at the former Wonderland Dog. As Nelson Mandela once said," education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world." I hope you agree too.

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the wonderful memories of my days of Revere Beach.

I was born in Revere on Tapley Avenue, began school at Abraham Lincoln School and graduated from Revere High School in 1948; then joined the Air Force 1948 to 1954.

The printed editions Reminded me of my years growing up in Revere and the many days spent at the beach. All the amusements from Revere St. to the rotary of Shirley Avenue. I especially recall "Nickel Day" at the beach. I rode the Cyclone and roller-coaster many times, as well as the Virginia Reel and the Nautical Arcade with the boats you could ride in the indoor water arcade. I worked at some of the amusement rides owned then by Victor. Shayeb and Bob Shayeb.

It is sad to sell all are gone and only parking meters remain. I still drive along the beach when I can.

GUEST OP-ED

Afghanistan – God Help Them

who were wounded and the thousands more who were mentally wounded? The only people who profited from our 20 years in Afghanistan are the political investors in weapons of war. Large stockholders in any entity that makes weapons or other supplies shipped to Afghanistan are not in favor of the war being over, but they and their families will most likely be forever rich.

We did one poor job of training the Afghan soldiers. The Afghan army ran in fear from the Taliban, many being executed upon their surrender. Twenty years of training went down the drain in several weeks and billions of dollars in weapons were handed over to them. The city of Kabul was taken over without hardly a shot fired from the Taliban.

No, we should never have gone to Afghanistan the way we did. The mission of taking out key leaders of the Taliban and other terrorist groups could have been carried out more covertly. Tragically, we made the Afghanistan army and people dependent on America. Our government has done the same thing to our own nation with welfare. So many Americans are so used to the American government taking care of us and sending out government money that many Americans can no longer take care of themselves. The only thing we taught the Afghan soldiers was that they didn't have to worry about fighting because the United States was present and would take care of them.

Going there is water under the bridge. We are now forever faced with the tragic way we have left Afghanistan. We crippled them with our money and their dependency on our military. After 20 years our Government leaders finally tired of carrying a crippled nation. Knowing these people cannot swim, we threw them out of the boat to sink or swim while a massive number of great white sharks were watching in the near distance.

One thing the Taliban has taught us is that they are very patient. They knew the United States would finally become tired and financially broke and would leave. They have spent years organizing, planning and preparing for this moment and in a few week's time they totally humiliated America.

Many of us never wanted to be there but we didn't want to leave with the Taliban kicking our butts out the door. The horrific scenes of executions, tortures, rapes, and women treated inhumanely will be graphic and repulsive in the weeks ahead.

We could have left differently. There could have been a plan. We demonstrated that we spent 20 years and really did not train an Army. We did not train or equip the people to care for themselves. We left without any support contingency in place for an obvious inept military and people. We displayed our ignorance and arrogant denial of the Taliban's preparedness to move forward. As quickly as flipping a light switch America conveyed to Afghanistan that we no longer give a dang.

Will the shame and humiliation of Afghanistan teach our political leaders anything? Are we too arrogant to care? How many years will it take before politicians need another Afghanistan to line their pockets?

May the real true God who we pray to help the people of Afghanistan. At the moment, He is all they have.

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

Many Americans did not want our military invading Afghanistan. We did not want our military to stay in Afghanistan. Many of us hoped our troops would leave Afghanistan. However, the chaotic departure has been one of the most humiliating moments in our nation's history.

We were all enraged toward those who had any part or interest in the September 11, 2001 attacks on our nation. This nation was in agreement that Osama Bin Laden and anyone connected to planning the attacks located in any part of the world must be brought to justice. We wanted all leaders and partakers of any and all terror groups eliminated. The attack on the World Trade Center Towers, as well as the other hideous and evil plane attacks that happened that day are forever etched in our minds. The barbaric torture and beheadings of journalists and other evil crimes against humanity fueled America's passion to do whatever necessary to bring revenge against our attackers.

Sadly, the loss of 2448 troops in Afghanistan over 20 years was not the answer. Also 3448 U.S. contractors have been killed. Over 66,000 Afghan military and police have been killed. Over 20,000 of our troops have been wounded.

America spent a trillion dollars setting up military bases and supposedly training the Afghan army how to fight. Yes, we were angry after September 11, 2001, but did it justify killing thousands of our men and women? Did it justify the thousands

MARTELLI SISTERS CELEBRATE A DECADE OF LEMONADE FUNDRAISERS

The Martelli girls with Mayor Brian Arrigo, who has been a faithful customer for many years.

Councillor Gerry Visconti and family dropped by the stand last weekend.

Police Chief David Callahan and other police officers visited with the Martelli girls before making a donation.

Councillor Steven Morabito dropped by to visit the Martelli's fundraiser.

Councillor Ricky Serino, and his canine friend, enjoyed a cup of lemonade from the stand.

School Committeeman Anthony D'Ambrosio and Mayor Brian Arrigo dropped by together to donate to the cause.

Councillor Pat Keefe and family dropped by Dale Street for some lemonade and to help the cause.

Several Revere firefighters dropped by for lemonade on a hot day, as well as to donate to Kayla and Jordan's cause.

this year, which put them at more than $50,000 over the decade.

"We look forward to this every year," said Kayla, 17, who is a senior at Revere High. "It's nice to see everyone in the community come by and support a good cause. We are so thankful for the support and can't wait to do it again next year."

Said Jordan, 14, an RHS freshman, "It's amazing how big the event has gotten since we started. We hope that we've been able to make an impact on a child's life in a positive way."

The stand started as a summer bucket list item 10 years ago when the Martelli family set out to organize their summer in order to make the most of it. The kids wanted to do a lemonade stand and decided to give the money to charity. After some research, they landed on Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation.

The two girls have been recognized by the nonprofit as top donors in 2018 and 2019. During the pandemic, they held a virtual stand and raised $3,000. The city has also recognized them a couple of times for their effort, as well.

Lastly, both Kayla and Jordan have continued their passion for volunteerism and are now Project 351 Ambassadors. They said their passion for helping others has grown over the years. They are honored to represent the city for that program and are proud of the work they've done around the stand.

A champion in sports, education Falzarano begins in new position as Revere High assistant principal

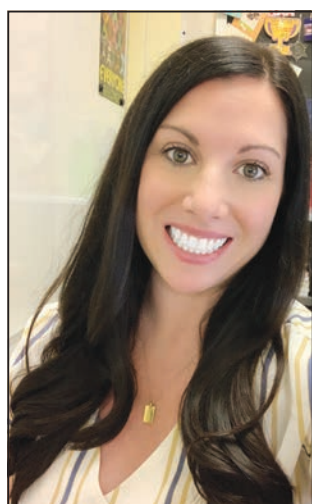

By Cary Shuman

Julianne Esposito Falzarano is well prepared to take on a position of leadership in the Revere High School administration. The former head cheerleading coach, Falzarano has begun in her new role as assistant principal at RHS. She will work directly with the incoming freshmen (Class of 2025).

Falzarano has been a mathematics teacher (algebra, geometry, financial literacy) for the past 14 years. A 2001 graduate of Revere High School and former cheerleading captain and varsity gymnast, Falzarano coached the RHS squad to three state titles and one national title.

Frank Shea, director of athletics at Revere High School, lauded Falzarano's stellar accomplishments as a head coach in the Patriots' program.

merous league, state, and national titles," credited Shea. "She was tremendously dedicated to the program and went above and beyond every year. A lot of her student-athletes went on and competed on college teams, which is a credit to her coaching."

Falzarano, 37, graduated with a degree in Finance from Northeastern University, where she was a Division 1 college cheerleader for a national champion Huskies team. She also holds a Certificate of Graduate Studies in Educational Leadership from UMass Boston and a Master's degree in Mathematics from Lesley College.

She initially worked in sales and real estate before beginning as a math teacher at Revere High School. She has enjoyed her tenure as a teacher, but always thought of advancing into an administrative capacity at some point in her career.

"I knew I wanted to have a greater impact on our school population, and I hope I'll be able to do that as an administrator," said Falzarano, who joins a leadership team at RHS that includes Principal Dr. Principal, Deputy Princi-

RPS plans to be fully in-person in the fall without a full-remote option

By John Lynds

With Revere's 14 day positivity rate at 2.8 percent, well below the 5 percent threshold that would trigger the roll back of some activities, Revere Public School Dr. Superintendent Dianne Kelly last week rolled out the RPS's COVID safety plans for the 2021-2022 school year.

On the top of everyone's mind is whether or not schools will be able to return to normal this fall given the rapid rise of the Delta variant of the virus that has been sweeping the US.

Kelly said teaching and learning will take place in-person and there will not be a full-remote option for students.

"We are working with the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) to finalize options for students who are required to quarantine in the coming months and will have an update on that as planning evolves," said Kelly. "We are also working with the School Committee on policy adjustments due to COVID and will share that information soon as well."

Kelly encouraged students and families to visit the RPS website and review COVID-19 safety protocols.

"This guidance was developed in collaboration with the Revere Board of Health (RBOH) and other medical professionals," said Kelly. "We will continue to work with our partner medical professionals to make adjustments to our policy as COVID-19 circumstances change."

All staff, students, and visitors to schools will be required to wear an approved mask while indoors and on school buses.

Social distancing will not be required but encouraged whenever possible.

"We will continue our Routine Safety Check Testing program each Monday morning of the school year," said Kelly. "Our goal is to have all students tested. Our weekly testing is crucial to our efforts aimed at ensuring a safe school environment for all. So please be on the lookout for an upcoming consent form."

Kelly added that the "Close Contact Determination" of those potentially exposed to the virus is now determined by a host of factors.

"These include, but are not limited to, proximity to the positive individual, duration around the individual, and vaccination status," said Kelly. "If your child is determined to be a close contact, the school nurse will contact you with support, guidance, and next steps."

With 63 percent of eligible Revere residents vaccinated, Kelly said many eligible students have received their COVID vaccinations, helping to support a safe return to schools.

"Sixty four percent of Revere students, ages 12-15 have received at least one dose and 52 percent are fully vaccinated," said Kelly. "Seventy three percent of Revere students, ages 16-19, have received at least one dose and 62 percent are fully vaccinated."

Kelly added that RPS will be working to host upcoming RBOH local vaccination clinics for students who are 12 years or older.

"Please be on the lookout for communication that outlines dates and times for these upcoming clinics," she said.

"Wishing our kids a successful and happy school year!"

Sheila Rosanio's dance team wins national title

Studio owner receives 'Choreographer of the Year Award'

By Cary Shuman

She opened her well-known studio, Sheila Rosanio's School of Dance and Gymnastics, shortly after she had graduated from Boston State College, the year that the school merged with UMass Boston.

A popular student at Chelsea High School, Sheila Rosanio had majored in Physical Education (K-12) and Dance at Boston State, with a minor in Biology. She decided to pursue a career in dance and this year she celebrates 37 years at the studio located on Washington Avenue in Revere.

"I think we picked a good spot," said Rosanio, whose studio is adorned by several national championship trophies from competitions coast to coast.

Rosanio said this past year - when the COVID-19 pandemic hit Revere very hard - was the most challenging of her career as a business owner.

"Prior to the pandemic, we had the best year we've ever had, but when the pandemic hit, everybody had to close," said Rosanio, who shut down operations for four months and had to cancel the annual recital due to the closure of all outside venues. "We opened back up in September [2020] and our recital was at Revere High School in June [2021]. We're very grateful to Mayor Arrigo, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kelly and the School Committee for allowing us to be at Revere High with limited seating."

A national championship and an award for choreography

Following the recital, Rosanio and a team of dancers traveled to Mohegan Sun in Connecticut for the Starpower Battle of the Stars national competition.

The Rosanio-led contingent had won the preliminaries virtually before the finals which were held in person in front of a panel of dance judges.

The results were extraordinary in a competition that drew 1,700 teams. "Our team (ages 12-17) not only won the Nationals, but they also won the Battle of the Stars," related Rosanio.

The national championship team consisted of Mimi Narcisse and Jarelese Canales of Revere; Emma Arsenault, Olivia Arsenault Nicole Uribe Lopez, and Emily Uribe Lopez of Saugus; Haven Pereira, Juliana Demers, and Bella Giuffre of Winthrop; Shivone Fennell of Melrose; and Brenda Franciosa of Ipswich.

Sheila Rosanio was named the national "Choreographer of the Year" out of the 1,700 teams. It was the second time that Rosanio had captured the award in her distinguished 37 years in dance.

Asked if the award was the highlight of her career in light of the challenges posed by the pandemic, Rosanio deflected the attention to her team and replied, "It was a hard year, but I was just so proud of the girls who were so dedicated and so competitive - to be the best against so many other teams is a tremendous accomplishment and something they'll remember the rest of their lives."

Beginning in dance as a child in Chelsea

At the age of 8, Sheila Rosanio began taking lessons at a studio in Chelsea and later at Betty Murray Studio in Revere.

"I took dance all the way through high school and I joined the dance team at Boston State," said Rosanio.

At 21, she began teaching physical education at parochial schools and later at Everett High School and Malden High School. She also coached the Malden High gymnastics team that won the school's first-ever national title.

Rosanio then made the decision to leave the field of education and devote her career to her dance studio full time.

"I think it was the best move I ever made," said

Rosanio. "My life is not just about teaching our students how to dance, but we instill self-confidence and poise in them. I was very shy as a child, and it just brought out my confidence and I see it in the kids. It's so great when you see a child come in and interact so well with others and then be able to express themselves through dance."

One of her former students, Shealagh Boyajian, recently graduated from Theater Arts Preparatory School in Las Vegas, and has earned a lead role in a major theatrical production at Bally's.

"I'll be going to Vegas in the fall to watch her perform," said Rosanio. "I'm so excited for her success."

Thirty-seven years after entering the field of dance, Sheila Rosanio is still creating success stories one student at a time.

pal Leah Tuchman, and Assistant Principals Chris Bowen, Lena Marie Rockwood, Blaine Yesselman, and Jorge Ortega.

Looking back, Falzarano said coaching in the RHS athletic program helped her prepare for a position in the school administration.

"I think coaching cheerleading and managing an organization definitely helped build upon skills that would hopefully make me successful in school administration," said Falzarano. "Being a cheerleader has a lot of different traits that you collect along the way - most importantly being able to work on a team that has one common goal."

Falzarano is excited about the school year ahead, following what was a challenging year for students and staff, due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"I'm very excited and looking forward to our students arriving at school soon," said Falzarano. "I can't wait to meet the freshman as we embark on our four-year journey."

As an RHS alumnae, Falzarano can speak firsthand about the outstanding school system in Revere under the leadership of Supt. of Schools Dr. Dianne Kelly. Revere is considered a national model for urban school districts.

"We have one of the best school districts, the best staff, and the best students," said Falzarano. "And I'm honored to be a part of it."

Back-to-school gear for academic skills development mathematics to music to new languages, skill development and knowledge acquisition are easiest with the right tools. Set your child up for a successful year with the best back-to-school gear.

- Reinforcements: Flash cards, a tried-and-true technique for reinforcing classroom lessons, have gone digital. Check out Quizlet, a site that features flash cards, games, diagrams and study guides on a range of subjects, including foreign languages, science subjects and even practical computer skills like Photoshop, Excel and PowerPoint. With content accessible online or on the mobile app, students can quickly and conveniently cram for their exams on-the-go.
- Practice makes perfect: Whether your child is learning to play piano for the first time or mastering their skills, the right keyboard can make all the difference. To that end, consider outfitting your student with a Casio Stage Piano from the brand's CDP line. The CDP-S150, for example, delivers a natural grand piano sound and feel in a slim case that's barely larger than the keys themselves, making it a great choice for those who practice in a bedroom or dorm room. Since it weighs only 23.1 pounds and is capable of running on either its included power supply or AA batteries, this model provides both portability and convenience.
- Organization: Organization is not exactly an academic skill, but mastering this life skill has the potential to improve grades and make the learning process easier. Seek out tools that help students keep both their hard copy paperwork and digital files organized, as well as teach good habits. Mountable wall files can help reduce desk clutter and provide a sorting system, whereas new digital tools like Evernote can streamline both note-taking and review.

- Higher-order thinking: By conveying the appeal of mathematics in a way that does not just rehash textbook exercises or ask students to memorize formulas, students will be motivated to explore the depths of this fascinating subject. You can foster this type of higher-order thinking by powering your child's learning with a high-quality calculator designed for their coursework. Handling the tedious calculations, students will have the bandwidth to discover different possibilities for arriving at answers, while focusing on the concepts behind the calculations. The scientific calculator models from Casio can handle hundreds of math functions and their graphing calculators feature a natural textbook display to help students more easily visualize mathematical concepts.

- Gaming and sports: While video games may seem like a school-year distraction, they can actually provide specific benefits to budding athletes, so don't shy away from them completely. Research has shown that gaming in general can improve hand-eye coordination, and it's also shown that games designed to mimic actual sports play can help build real-world skills.

There's no doubt about it. The tools students need to thrive today look quite different from the past. However, these tools can help students take both their skills, as well as their comprehension of subjects, to new heights.

How to have an affordable and easy back-to-school season

As your family gets ready for a new academic year, you may be wondering how to spend less on back-to-school season essentials.

The team at Dollar General is sharing some tips and savings opportunities to easily and affordably help get everyone prepared.

Check School Supplies

Consider checking school supplies off your list in the weeks ahead to help avoid any last-minute stress. Whether starting fresh or filling in the gaps from the previous school year's supply, you can find binders, folders, pens, pencils, paper, crayons, scissors and other items at affordable prices at more than 17,000 Dollar General stores across the country. With convenient locations and buy-online-pickup-in-store options through the DG smartphone app, it can be easy to make a quick trip and stock up. Digital coupons offer additional ways to save on everyday low prices. Through September 6, 2021, special offers this year include a 30% off teacher appreciation coupon, which is available for qualifying customers and can be used up to four times, as well as a one-time $2 off $10 qualifying school supply purchases.

Further Savings

Switching to private brands can allow you to shop the items you need at lower prices, helping you save money to go toward the items you want. From snack items for the lunch box to essential school supplies, private brands can be found in a wide variety of categories and often come with a 100 percent satisfaction guarantee. During your next shopping trip, consider ways to switch to private brands and save.

Quick Weekday Meals

The new school year also brings the start of nightly homework and extracurricular activities, which can make juggling schedules feel like a balancing act. When it comes to meal planning, be prepared to make nutritious, tasty and simple meals. The DG Easy Meals site is a good place for inspiration. Its "Better for You" recipes created in partnership with a nutritionist showcase healthier breakfast, lunch, snack and dinner ideas.

Preparing your family for a new routine can be both exciting and stressful. However, with a few tips and tricks, your family can save time and money on essentials this back-to-school season.

Is your teen ready to try contacts? What to know

Did you know that nearly four out of five teens prefer contact lenses over glasses? With a new school year comes new routines and new responsibilities, making this a good time of year to make the switch. Here's what to know about glasses, contacts and your teen's eyes:

- Get checked: Teens should have their vision checked before the school year begins whether they currently wear glasses or contacts or not. Correcting vision problems is a must for setting your child up for success at school, but glasses might not be your child's first choice.
- Consider glasses grief: Many schools are continuing to enforce mask mandates or are recommending them. If your teen is masking up at school, they will likely experience foggy glasses. Plus, with homecoming right around the corner, your child might want the option of contact lenses for their next big photo op.
- Convenience: Daily disposable contact lenses can be a good choice for young people. Because your teen will have a new pair of contact lenses each day, he or she won't have to worry about cleaning and storing them.
- Know that moisture matters: Between texting with friends, scrolling through social media binge watching shows, gaming and school work, teens are online more than ever. All this increased digital device usage can contribute to a reduced blink rate that can lead to lens dryness. Even with a return to in-person learning this year, you can expect teens to be doing a lot of work on electronic devices. In fact, technology usage for students has increased more than 60% over the past year. With this in mind, it's a good idea to opt for daily disposables that maintain moisture.

- Comfort is king: A contact lens that can provide your teen with all day comfort can help them keep up with a busy day of school, homework and after school activities.
- Next steps: Ask your doctor if your teen is a good candidate for contact lenses, and take time to consider whether they are responsible in other areas of their life.

If your teen is ready for contact lenses, select an option that's great for first-time wearers, such as Biotrue ONEday daily disposables. Easy to insert and remove, and comfortable for all day wear, these lenses were created by the eye care experts at Bausch + Lomb and are designed to maintain their moisture for up to 16 hours, based on a laboratory study, and provide clear, comfortable vision throughout the day. Offering the first and only contact lens recycling program in the United States, they're also a good choice for eco-conscious teens and families. To participate, just have your teen save their used lenses and blister packs and take them to a ONE by ONE participating eye doctor to be recycled. To learn more, visit <https://www.biotrueonedaylenses.com/getting-started>.

For many teens, contacts are a natural choice, whether they're gaming with friends or scoring goals, daily disposables can keep up with your teen's lifestyle. This back-to-school season, consider making the switch. (StatePoint)

Karen Venditto

Owner and operator of Karmichael realty for almost 30 years

Karen M. Venditto, loving mother, grandmother, and friend, passed away at the age of 64 on August 11 in the home of her daughter surrounded by her family and friends.

Karen was born on August 27, 1956 in Massachusetts to Jennie and Michael Venditto. She grew up in Chelsea and attended Saint Rose High School.

Karen became a real estate sensation at a young age; rising to the top of the real estate industry, while owning and operating her own business, Karmichael Realty for almost 30 years. The motto of Karmichael Realty was “Setting the Standard in Real Estate Excellence” which she did every day. Her passion was helping people find the perfect home for their family and she excelled at it.

She was a people person, always making friends wherever she went. She was a genuine person who just wanted to help people. Karen never said “no”; always putting others before herself, portraying her selfless nature.

Besides spending time with family and friends, and selling every house on the block; she loved art. Over the years, she learned how to make stained glass pieces, beaded, clay and metal jewelry, quilts and many fun items in between. She took many of these classes with her best friend, Chris. Karen hand-crafted all the salt and pepper shakers made from clay that were presented to guests as favors for her daughter’s wedding in 2015. She also loved watching suspense movies, driving around in her 1981 Fiat convertible, going out to eat at different restaurants, traveling, and listening to 60’s music.

Karen had a love for animals and had many pocket poodles over the years whom she cared for deeply. They would eat as well as her; prime rib, spare ribs, meatballs, etc - you name it.

She spent a lot of time in North Carolina after her daughter relocated there and enjoyed helping to care for her granddaughter, Annabella for the past two and a half years. She was Annabella’s Nonna, and the best one at that. She loved her family and friends deeply and tried her best to hang on to meet her newest grandson, but didn’t quite make it to his due date.

Karen also had a very special bond with her brother, Michael. They loved each other very much and they were always there for one another.

Karen was always a hard worker and she instilled this trait in her daughter, who is now a family nurse practitioner. Karen was always afraid she wouldn’t be a good enough mother, but it turns out, she was by far the best mother a girl could ever have.

A Letter to My Mother: Mom, you will always be my best friend. You were there for me through thick and thin, no matter what, throughout my entire life. You loved me unconditionally and I loved you with all my heart. You were always a special woman; many people saw that. You were the strongest, most independent woman I ever met. I have always been so proud of you and everything you have accomplished in your lifetime. I don’t want to live without my mommy; it’s the hardest thing I’ll ever have to do.

You taught me everything I know, except how to live without you.

I love you Mom; I always will. You will forever be in my heart until the end of time. Forever your little girl I’ll be, Tyffany.

Ms. Venditto is survived by her mother, Jennie Venditto; brother, Michael Venditto Jr.; daughter, Tyffany Nyland and her husband, Michael Roten Jr.; granddaughter, Annabella Roten; grandson to be, Gunner Roten; nephew, Satya Venditto-Angelani; niece, Ceiba Venditto-Angelani; best friend, Christine (Chris) Miner and her husband, John Miner; aunt, Elena Mazzone; cousins, Donna Gariboldi and her spouse, Jean Carr as well as Chuck Gariboldi and his wife, Laurie Gariboldi and their three children; nephew, Edward (Eddie) Landers and longtime friend, Bill Jackson.

She was preceded in death by her sister, Valerie Daiello; step-father, John McCormack; aunt, Annette Gariboldi and her husband, Charles Gariboldi.

At her request, no public service will be held. A private family gathering will be held in her honor at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in Karen’s name to: Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals – Angell Animal Medical Center (MSP-CA-Angell) 350 Huntington Ave., Boston, MA 02130

Tina Hinojosa Lauria

Former owner of the Yoga Lounge, owner of SoulDrink, and an advocate for people in recovery

Tina Hinojosa Lauria, age 45, died unexpectedly on Friday, August 13.

Tina was the daughter of the late Herberto Hinojosa and Maria (Imbrascio) Doherty. She leaves behind her proudest accomplishment, her daughter, Kayla. Co-parenting together, Tina and Kayla’s dad, Matt Parlante of Saugus, channeled all their energy and focus on raising their beautiful daughter. She also leaves her brother, Michael, his wife Marie-Elena and their children, Christopher and Ally, all of Revere, as well as many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Tina was previously married to Officer Andrew Lauria and was step-mother to his three children, Drew, Dante and Andrea, all of Revere. Tina also had a love for animals. Espy, her 17 year old dog, was a constant in Tina’s life. Espy went with Tina everywhere, even to classes and work! Losing her in July was devastating to Tina.

Tina was a 1993 graduate of Revere High School, Tina continued her education at Salem State and received her Associates Degree. She was the owner of Unlimited Bookkeeping Services and worked as a bookkeeper for Roof Repairs Corp. and Power of Recovery. Her passion was yoga. She was the previous co-owner of The Yoga Lounge and also owned SoulDrink. Her classes were well known in the area and people loved the energy and positivity she radiated. She was a wellness advocate for Doterra and was also heavily involved in NamaStay Sober, a recovery based non-profit, at one time acting as their Director of Events.

She was a strong advocate for people in recovery. Tina’s beauty and strength were her biggest assets and she used her personal experiences to help people through their darkest days. She touched countless amounts of lives. Her infectious grin and love of life was the greatest gift she could pass on to her daughter.

Everyone is welcome to pay their respects to Tina on Thursday, Aug. 19, from 3-8 pm at St. Anthony’s Church in Revere. Visitation on Friday morning will be private, however, all are welcome to her Mass at 10 a.m., also at St. Anthony’s.

Burial will be private. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to NamaStay Sober, 80 Cottage Street, Boston, MA 02128 or at namastaysober.com.

State agricultural officials remind residents to keep an eye out for the invasive spotted lanternfly

Staff Report

The Massachusetts Department of Agricultural Resources (MDAR) has announced that a single live nymph of the invasive spotted lanternfly (SLF) was found in the City of Fitchburg in late July 2021. Agricultural inspectors have surveyed and have not found any evidence that an infestation is present; however, inspectors will continue to survey and monitor the area. While MDAR has not been able to determine the origin of the insect, it could easily have been accidentally transported into the state on goods or vehicles traveling from one of several states currently under a lanternfly quarantine.

Spotted lanternflies are excellent hitchhikers, and have been known to travel out of infested states in cars and other vehicles, on shipments of produce, sheds and gazebos, trees and shrubs for landscaping, and many other items being shipped from states with known infestations. Due to this recent find, MDAR is urging the public to be on the lookout for this pest, particularly anyone who lives or works in the Fitchburg area. These bugs may be found congregating on sides of buildings, in or on vehicles, and on their preferred host plants: tree of heaven, grape, and walnut. Anyone who has recently received goods or materials from states where SLF is known to have been introduced (Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia) should also be on the lookout.

“This most recent find is a good reminder to everyone that there is a significant risk that the spotted lanternfly will continue to accidentally be brought into Massachusetts from other states” said MDAR Commissioner John Lebeaux. “Early detection plays an important role in the protection of our state’s economic and ecological resources from invasive species. We ask anyone in the Fitchburg area to check for and report any signs of spotted lanternfly, and we remind everyone in Massachusetts

EBNHC President CEO Manny Lopes to leave Health Center for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts

By John Lynds

Manny Lopes' ascension to the role of East Boston Neighborhood Health Center's President and CEO is a story that embodies EBNHC's mission and commitment to the community.

Nearly three decades ago Lopes, who grew up in Jeffries Point, joined the health center as an 18-year-old researcher, working with the late Dr. Jim Taylor on a blood pressure study. In the ensuing years, Lopes went on to hold positions in the Human Resource and Operations Departments. Lopes later served as the Health Center's Vice President and Chief Information Officer, providing organizational vision and leadership with an eye for technology and collaborative innovation.

So it came as no surprise when Lopes took over the helm as CEO of EBN-EBNHC President and CEO Manny Lopes will leave the Health Center in October to serve as Executive Vice President of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts.

HC after his mentor Jack Cradock retired in 2012. Lopes has served as CEO of East Boston Neighborhood Health Center since then and as its president since 2015.

However, the community was shocked when news broke last week that Lopes, who has in many ways become the face of EBNHC, will leave the Health Center to become Executive Vice President of Blue Cross Blue Shield Massachusetts.

"It's definitely bitter-sweet but it's a good opportunity," said Lopes, who has served as Director of the Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts Board as well as Chair of the Blue Cross Foundation. "It has been a little more than 28 years in total at the Health Center, more than half my life, and there have been so many good memories and so many great milestones."

When Lopes started he was honored to work as a research assistant for Dr. Taylor.

"Getting a chance to get to know him, meet him and have him as a mentor was just incredible," said Lopes. "Then moving into different roles at the Health Center, getting the opportunity to meet all the great people that work here and to witness the commitment of the organization to our mission and the people we serve has been amazing. I have had a lot of great mentors that were just amazing leaders who were really passionate about the work and taught me a lot. Then I was blessed to have a board that gave me the opportunity to be in this role as President CEO and had the faith and trust that I could do this work and take the organization even further from where Jack (Cradock) and Jim (Taylor) brought it was truly humbling."

This past year with the COVID pandemic was tough on everyone, especially those in the health-care industry and the only regret Lopes said he has is leaving before the virus was eradicated. However, Lopes said he is so proud of the work the EBNHC staff has done over the course of the pandemic.

"I just wish it was pretty much over by now but there's still some work to do," said Lopes. "But it has been great to have a senior team and the entire staff who really supported me along the way and accomplished all the great things we've accomplished in the past year with our COVID response. This past year and a half, when our community needed us the most I think we really stepped up and really helped our community."

But for Lopes the EBNHC family extends past the doors of the clinics.

"When you talk about what makes a great community, I think about what we have here in Eastie," said Lopes. "From my personal relationships growing up here to my professional relationships with the leaders of this community or patients it has grown into an extended family. Again, I was so proud to see everyone in this community come together and help one another during this pandemic and we played a role in that—in connecting people with each other because we've been here so long and know the community and our supporters and champions here. It was really a community effort and this community is family."

In 2018, Lopes added another career milestone to his resume when former Boston Mayor Martin Walsh announced the appointment of Lopes as the Chair of Boston's Board of Health. The Board of Health is the seven-member governing body that oversees the work of the Boston Public Health Commission (BPHC). Lopes succeeded Francis Doyle, who stepped down in October from the Board to assume a leadership role within the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

Lopes attended Lesley University School of Management and has a master's degree in business administration from Northeastern University's Graduate School of Business.

In 2010, Lopes assumed the role of Deputy Chief Executive Officer and began working closely with former EBNHC President and CEO Jack Cradock as part of the Health Center's strategic succession plan.

As for leaving Eastie, a place he has called home and a place he has worked every day for 28 years, Lopes said he will still be around.

"Eastie is home for me in many different ways and it will continue to be my home," said Lopes. "I will still have the same passion and love for the community and hopefully through Blue Cross I can continue to find ways to make sure that Eastie continues to have a voice. I'll still be around in a different capacity attending events. I still have family that lives here. I still get my health care here, my family still gets their health care here and we still do a lot of our activities here in East Boston from shopping to eating. As the saying goes, 'You can take the guy out of Eastie but you can't take the Eastie out of the guy.'"

On behalf of the EBNHC Board of Directors, Chairwoman Rita Sorrento said, "I would like to thank Manny Lopes for his years of service and dedication to EBNHC. We will work closely with him to ensure a smooth transition before his departure on October 29, 2021. We have begun the process to identify a new CEO and will be appointing an interim CEO in the coming weeks. Thanks to the hard work of our leadership team and despite the COVID-19 pandemic, EBNHC is in a strong position. We are now serving 120,000 patients and employ 1,400 dedicated staff members, many of whom come from the communities we serve. We have proven to be a leader in combating the COVID-19 pandemic, providing equitable and accessible care including more than 150,000 tests and more than 100,000 doses of the vaccine to community members. Above all, for more than 50 years we have prioritized health equity for those in our community and we remain committed to that mission."

Eastie man charged in fatal Winthrop car accident

Victim identified as Revere native

By John Lynds

An 84-year-old East Boston man has been charged with vehicular homicide and driving under the influence of alcohol in connection with the fatal car accident in Winthrop last Friday.

Winthrop Police arrested Kenneth Thompson, 84, of Eastie with one count each of motor vehicle homicide and OUI as well as an additional charge of failure to stop and/or yield.

The incident occurred just before 3:30 pm Friday afternoon when Thompson's car collided with a Jeep at the intersection of Hagman Road and Walden Street in Winthrop.

Police received multiple 911 calls of the car crash and when police, fire and EMS arrived on the scene they observed the Jeep was overturned and the female occupant was ejected from the vehicle. The Hyundai Elantra Thompson was driving was also severely damaged by the crash.

First responders performed lifesaving measures on the driver. She was taken by ambulance to Massachusetts General Hospital, where she succumbed to her injuries.

The woman was later identified as former Revere resident Tina Hinojosa. Hinojosa had been living in Winthrop. Hinojosa worked as an accountant for Roof Repairs Corp in Winthrop and was owner and founder of SoulDrink as well as the co-owner of The Yoga Lounge in Winthrop.

"Today, I write this post with a heavy heart like many of you, trying to grasp the senseless accident in Winthrop that took the life of a beautiful person inside and out, Tina Hinojosa," said Revere City Councilor and friend of Hinojosa Steve Morabito in a statement. "Tina was a kind person with a personality that made it easy for many to connect with, and love. The community lost a friend, and her family lost an aunt, a cousin, a sister and a mom. My heart breaks. I'm sending love and prayers to the Hinojosa Family and Parlante Family."

A preliminary investigation by Winthrop Police suggests that Thompson's Hyundai Elantra was traveling northbound on Hagman Road and collided with Hinojosa's Jeep, traveling on Pauline Street toward Woodside Avenue, at the intersection of Pauline Street, Hagman Road and Walden Street.

The accident continues to be under investigation by the Winthrop Police Department, the State Police Accident Reconstruction Team, and detectives assigned to the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office.

Rep. Giannino announces appointment of Christopher DeFilippis as legislative aide

State Representative Jessica Ann Giannino announced the appointment of Christopher A. DeFilippis as her legislative aide.

"As State Representative of the Sixteenth Suffolk District, I am thrilled to announce Christopher A. DeFilippis will be serving as my State House aide on Beacon Hill. Having earned a finance degree from Merrimack College as well as having his senior thesis archived in the college library, Chris brings both analytic and literary skills to the office of the State Representative," said Representative Giannino (D-Revere). "I am confident that with Chris taking on this role in my office, we will continue to meet the needs and serve the people of Revere, Chelsea and Saugus."

The duties of a legislative aide include a wide spectrum of responsibilities; tracking the representative's legislative and budgetary priorities, researching legislative issues in order to brief the representative on matters pending before the House, and helping constituents navigate the vast web of state government. Chris' past experience in both managerial and leadership roles will reinforce his success in dealing with daily responsibilities as well as any issues that may arise on short notice.

"I am so excited and honored to have been given the opportunity to work with Representative Giannino and to serve the community that I grew up in," said Christopher DeFilippis. "I have a devoted love for my country, thus being able to work as a small facet of the Massachusetts State Government is a dream come true. I am looking forward to helping continue the great work that Team Giannino has accomplished within Revere, Chelsea, and Saugus."

CELEBRATING INDIA’S INDEPENDENCE AT REVERE CITY HALL

The City of Revere and the India Association of Greater Boston (IAGB) held a Flag Raising ceremony for the Republic of India Aug. 14 at City Hall, marking India’s 75th year of independence.

Mayor Brian Arrigo presented a citation to India Association of Greater Boston Executive Committee Directors Prag Singh and Noorain Buxamusa, proclaiming “India Flag Raising Day” in the City of Revere.

Dimple Rana, director of Revere Healthy Community Initiatives, did a great job as the coordinator of the event and leader of the speaking program. “I would like to welcome you all to the second annual India flag raising in Revere,” said Rana. “I’m a lifelong Revere resident and first-generation Indian-American. My parents (Lata and Jagdish Rana) bought a house here over 30 years ago, and we’ve called Revere home since. Revere is a diverse city and has welcomed immigrants from all over the world. While my family one of the first Indian families to move here in the late 1980s - this has definitely changed over the past 40 years as you can see from our audience. Generations of my family call Revere home, as do many other Indian and South Asian families, individuals, businesses, and faith leaders, not just from India, but also from all over South Asia, Pakistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, Bhutan, and Sri Lanka.”

Rana told of the struggle and happiness of a newly independent India, “who finally managed to free itself from British rule.”

Rana, who was the coordinator of Revere’s census effort, also shared with the audience that Revere is the fastest-growing city in Massachusetts, with the Asian population increasing in the city by 5.5 percent.

Rand street property named RBC ‘Beautiful Home’

Staff report

In the city of Revere, very few homes have a lot of room in which they can beautify their property. This is the case in the Revere Beautification Committee (RBC)’s latest choice to be named RBC Beautiful Home.

So what does one do? Usually the owner takes advantage of every available inch of property and plants as many different flowers and bushes as is possible. This is what the Rand Street owner, Emilio Fusco, did at his home. Mr. Fusco has lived in his house for 20 years and spends 1 to 2 hours every other day to keep his property beautiful.

The first thing that is noticed is that the property is immaculate. Not a speck of debris is visible. The curved paved walk leading to the front door provides an interesting entry to the house. Along this walkway, on one side, there is a colorful assortment of pansies, nasturtium, and impatiens. The opposite side contains additional multicolored nasturtium and bushes. Along the front of the house at the end of the parking area, there is a low wall that is planted with an assortment of multi-colored flowers and green vines. At the end of this all, there is a basket of yellow impatiens. A back yard has many flowers that are visible from the street.

Mr. Fusco’s pride in his home is obvious. He told the RBC that he “hopes that all owners would keep up their property in the city.” In that statement, the Revere Beautification is in complete agreement and urges all home owners to do as Emilio Fusco has done — “keep up your property”.

State announces new Federal Grant for Mass. apprenticeships, promotes further job-training investments

Staff report

The State announced a $4 million federal grant from the U.S. Department of Labor to expand Massachusetts’ apprenticeship programs, with a focus on connecting women, people of color, and individuals with disabilities with these training and employment opportunities.

The Administration also highlighted its $240 million proposal to provide additional funding to apprenticeships and other job-training programs as part of its $2.9 billion plan to invest a portion of Massachusetts’ federal funds from the American Rescue Plan Act into urgent priorities. With federal pandemic-era enhanced unemployment benefits slated to expire for over 300,000 workers the first week of September, the Administration urged action on these workforce investments and also highlighted an upcoming free, statewide virtual Job Fair that will be held Aug. 16-20 at mass.gov/JobFair.

Governor Charlie Baker and Labor and Workforce Development Secretary Rosalin Acosta made the announcements at a visit to Cengage that highlighted the company’s successful apprenticeship programs, run in partnership with Apprenti. The new federal grant awarded to Massachusetts will connect an additional 500 individuals to employment through apprenticeship opportunities over the next four years, with a focus on high-demand fields like health care, clean energy, IT, and advanced manufacturing. These fields were also identified in the Administration’s recently-published Future of Work Report as areas of growth for Massachusetts over the next decade, with upwards of 300,000-400,000 workers potentially needing to transition to different occupations or occupational categories. These economic changes brought about by the COVID-19 pandemic underscore the importance of the Administration’s $240 million plan to scale up proven job-training programs like apprenticeships.

“Our Administration has long seen the value of apprenticeships, launching a program several years ago to expand this model in the technology space, and this new federal grant is an affirmation of Massachusetts’ approach to promoting access to these training and employment opportunities,” said Gov. Charlie Baker. “Through our plan to invest $240 million in funding from the American Rescue Plan Act into apprenticeships and other proven job-training programs, we’re proposing to do even more to connect workers with high-demand fields and good-paying jobs.”

The new federal grant from the U.S. Department of Labor will help Massachusetts expand Registered Apprenticeship Opportunities for occupations in-demand by employers in health care, hospitality, education, clean energy, IT and advanced manufacturing. It will especially target populations that the pandemic has hit the hardest like women, working moms, people of color, youth, and individuals with a disability. With $4 million over four years, this grant will connect 500 individuals to employment through apprenticeship opportunities. The Administration has prioritized expanding apprenticeships for the past several years, launching a partnership with Apprenti in 2018 to expand this model in the technology sector.

With federal enhanced unemployment benefits set to expire the week of Sept. 4, the Administration is also immediately working to connect unemployed workers with open job opportunities. The Administration’s statewide virtual Job Fair is scheduled for Aug. 16-20, and the Commonwealth recently launched a promotional campaign to encourage people to attend the job fair. The campaign is running on TV and digital platforms, and the Department of Unemployment Assistance is also reaching out to current claimants via email. The job fair is free for both employers and job-seekers, and the Commonwealth is partnering with employer organizations including AIM, the Massachusetts Business Roundtable, the Massachusetts Competitive Partnership, the Providers’ Council, and a number of regional employer associations. Learn more about the Job Fair at mass.gov/JobFair.

setts to keep an eye out for this pest.”

If an individual suspects they’ve found a spotted lanternfly, please take a photo or collect the specimen, and report the sighting using MDAR’s online reporting form.

Residents should look for both adult insects (large, gray bugs, about one inch long, with black spots and red underwings) and nymphs (younger nymphs are black with white dots, older nymphs are red with black and white spots).

Adult Spotted Lanternfly.

Spotted lanternfly (Lycorma delicatula, “SLF”) is an invasive sap-feeding insect from Asia that was first found in the United States in 2014, in the state of Pennsylvania. While the main host plant of this pest is tree-of-heaven (Ailanthus altissima), the spotted lanternfly attacks many different trees, shrubs, and vines, and has the potential to impact a broad range of agricultural commodities, including apples, peaches, grapes/wine, hops/beer, maple syrup, and ornamental plants.

While individual spotted lanternflies have been found in several different parts of the state over the past several years, surveys have found no evidence that SLF has become established in Massachusetts. These surveys continue both in the areas where the insects were found as well as in other areas thought to be at high risk for this pest. A current map showing towns and cities where SLF has been found can be downloaded from <https://massnrc.org/pests/slf>.

New Revere High sports season begins Friday

By Cary Shuman

Can the summer really be over - and the Revere High School sports pre-season really be here?

Well, summer officially doesn't end until next month, but the Revere High fall sports season is upon us.

Athletes on the RHS football and golf teams will begin pre-season practices Friday. Lou Cicatelli (football) and Brandon Pezzuto (golf) are returning as head coaches. Pezzuto's golfers will have a co-op arrangement with Malden, meaning students from the two schools will form one varsity golf team.

"We have a great relationship with Malden, and we're thrilled to be able to co-op with them," said Shea.

On Monday, Revere's volleyball (head coach Lianne Mimmo), girls soccer (Megan O'Donnell), boys soccer (Manny Lopes), field hockey (Briana Scata), boys cross country (Mike Flynn) and girls cross country (Katie Sinnott) teams will begin their pre-season schedule of workouts.

Revere High teams will compete in the Greater Boston League. Lynn Classical and Lynn English are the newest members of the GBL, having moved from the Northeastern Conference during the past year.

Revere football will open its season against Peabody Sept. 10 at Harry Della Russo Stadium. The Patriots will be hosting top-ranked Everett High this year.

"I'm sure that game [versus Everett] will draw a great crowd," said Shea. "I know they have an exceptional team."

Shea will be announcing a new head cheerleading coach this week. Julianne Falzarano, who has successfully guided the team for the past 14 years, is taking a new position as assistant principal at Revere High. Shea is also beginning an application process for the softball and boys hockey positions following the decision of Joe Ciccarello to leave the school district and take a teaching position at Peabody High School.

RHS STAR RESTIANO IS BACK ON THE COURT

Youth, law enforcement join for basketball tournament

Staff report

Local teens, youth services workers and law enforcement officials joined together for the Annual Shannon Grant Basketball Tournament last weekend, in a show of solidarity among youth and those who fight for their safety.

On Saturday, August 15, teams from Everett, Malden, Somerville, Revere and Winthrop competed in the 12th Annual Shannon Grant Basketball Tournament at Harry Della Russo Stadium in Revere. This year's event included a three-point contest, pizza, a cookout, an on-site mobile vaccine unit, recognition from state elected officials and a visit from Malden Mayor Gary Christenson.

Revere won the tournament in a close game with Winthrop and also won the three-point contest!

The tournament earned citations from Gov. Charlie Baker, Lt. Gov. Karyn Polito, House Speaker Ronald Mariano, Rep. Jessica Giannino, Rep. Jeff Turco, Senate President Karen Spilka and Sen. Joseph Boncore.

"We were honored to be able to host this year's event and even more proud of our team for bringing home the win this year," said Revere Mayor Brian Arrigo. "Any time we are able to have youth participate with police in athletic competition or other relationship-building opportunities is a win for our city. Everyone is equal on the court: it's all about who scores the most baskets."

The event is run each year by the Metro Mayors Coalition, a group of cities and towns in Boston's urban core that exchange information and find common solutions to regional issues.

The annual basketball tournament has been held since 2009 to bring together youth and police officers from the communities involved in the Metro Mayors Shannon Grant Community Safety Initiative, which is a state-funded program that supports regional approaches to combating gang violence through prevention and intervention. It was not held in 2020 due to the pandemic, but organizers and players were thrilled to be able to return to the court this year.

"For the past 15 years, the Shannon Grant Program has played a significant role in the decline of youth gang violence across the Commonwealth. It makes me proud to see local teens, youth services workers and law enforcement officials join for the 12th year in har-

Stormy weather

Through the years, Revere Beach has handled all Mother Nature has dished out

By Rose LaQuaglia

A SUNNY, BEAUTIFUL day at Revere Beach. The sun glistening on the water. This is the beach most people know. The sun, the sand, the water. An ocean breeze gently coming off the Atlantic.

However, it is not the only way to think of Revere Beach. Mother Nature often shows a different face at the beach - a more intense, exciting face. It is even more memorable than daredevil amusements and a day of fun in the sun.

During the last 100 years several storms have taken their toll on the beach. Some small, some large but always showing the force of nature on what man created.

Summer crowds are much smaller at the beach today. The thousands who flocked to the beach in the early 1900s have dwindled. But during a fierce storm, numbers of thrill seekers return to see the most exciting and dangerous shows ever experienced.

But it is 1978 that remains a vivid memory for many. On Jan. 20, 1978, a record-breaking snowstorm hit the area delivering over 20 inches of snow. That was just the first storm of the year. And the most memorable storm to arrive came on Feb. 6 and 7. It was the Blizzard of '78.

That storm dumped 26 to 30 inches of snow everywhere, with drifts topping 15 feet. It was called the "storm of the century" and it caused havoc with what remnants were left of the golden era of Revere Beach.

The ferocity of the 80-mile per hour winds and towering waves demolished the beach's aging pavilions. It destroyed familiar businesses like the Frolic night club. And it changed the face of Revere Beach forever.

People in areas surrounding the beach felt the fury of Mother Nature and an ocean unforgiving of development. Roughan's Point, Beachmont, the Point of Pines and Oak Island all suffered the devastating effects of the storm. Many residents lives were saved when they were removed by the amphibious vehicles which today take tourists on fun "Duck Tours." During the Blizzard residents were not being transported for fun.

The Revere Journal reported that "old-time residents of the Beachmont and Oak Island sections said they had never in all their years seen the water as far inland. At one point the water was four-feet high and running in front of Our Lady of Lourdes Church and running down State Rd.'

Also during the storm North Shore Road, between Oak Island and Point of Pines, was covered by more than three-feet of water. Reports also indicate that when the tide came in "cars parked along Revere Beach Boulevard were literally lifted right up and deposited where ever the tide might leave them."

Surely that was a storm of unparalleled fury for the beach. In fact, although the MDC issued a statement on Feb. 22, 1978 that it would "preserve the beach pavilions," it took until the 1992 Revere Beach Renaissance for restoration to be completed. The damage to the pavilions, which dated back to the turn of the century, was so extensive and the restoration work so costly that the undertaking took more than a decade.

NATURE HAS SHOWN glimpses of power at the beach on many occasions. Massive ice walls were formed during severe weather conditions.

These massive natural structures still amaze those who see the photos. The mountains of ice dwarf adults standing beside them. Even man-size caves can be seen as merely small openings in the walls. Only photos, taken during the early 1900s, reveal this rare phenomena experienced at Revere Beach.

But as for actual storms, the Blizzard of '78 was not the only one to hit the beach. In 1938 a hurricane which pummelled the area.

Headlines that September reported, "Revere Raked By Hurricane... Property Damage Countless as Unparalleled Storm Sweeps Community." The hurricane, with winds reaching 100-mile-an-hour proportions, was accompanied by heavy rains. The Revere Journal called it, "the most devastating wind and rain storm in Revere's history."

The city was devastated. And even the beach did not escape the storm's wrath. According to reports, MDC officials recorded one of the highest tides ever seen. Estimated damage to small craft moored at beach landings was judged to total "hundreds of dollars" - a great sum of money in 1938.

Additionally, police reported that a small house at 440 Boulevard toppled over. And "opposite the Boulevard theatre on Ocean Avenue a huge transformer carrying high voltage for the amusements at the beach was blown out."

A more recent storm hit in 1991. But the result for Revere Beach was quite different.

The Nov. 6, 1991, Revere Journal featured a unique, double front page as "Halloween eve storm spooks Revere" competed with local election results for the top headlines.

Fortunately, for Revere Beach, this storm did not repeat the devastation of the 1978 blizzard. Waves 50 to 60 feet high crashed further away from

SUMMER SHORTS

REVERE BEACH, July 7, 1917 - The work on the "Giant Coaster" is progressing at a fair rate of speed at present but there have been so many delays in its construction that it will be well on toward August before Manager Hurley can begin to do business...

The little boats from Revere to Nahant are making their regular trips as usual this season...

Dancing at the Ocean Pier continued until 2 a.m. on the "night before the 4th." There was a very large crowd for the 4th of July celebration and the weather was favorable. People seemed to spend their money quite freely although the prices were slightly advanced.

From the Revere Journal

crashed further away from Revere Beach Boulevard onto the recently resanded beach. And officials indicated that the "damage would have been worse without the new beach sand."

THE 1991 "NO-NAME Storm" was fierce. The city was declared a disaster area by President George Bush. And evacuations in Beachmont and Point of Pines were similar to those during the Blizzard of '78. But for Revere Beach, the sometimes controversial resanding project had saved it from a repeat of past destruction. A United Mother Nature. The thrill seekers were not only endangering themselves, but the hard-working emergency personnel as well. Then-MDC Commissioner Ilyas Bhatti commented, "our personnel were really fighting a battle out there. Spectators were getting in the way and causing additional difficulties."

With more concern today about the sun's damaging effects, the beach may not attract thousands of sun bathers anymore. And maybe the resort of choice isn't Revere Beach any longer. But one thing is certain, people will always come to the beach for a chance to experience the excitement of nature's fury.

A man is drenched as he tries to get out of the way of waves surging over the seawall during a 1986 winter storm.

Wed on Wheels

In late January of 1933, about 300 people inside the State Roller Skating Rink on Revere Beach applauded when Helen Dee and Lawrence Acker rolled out to the music of a jazz band.

That's because Dee, a Quincy gal, and Acker, a Milton fella', were about to get married - on roller skates. Justice of the Peace William J. Cavanaugh administered the marriage - which drew press coverage for its uniqueness. Maids and ushers were all on roller skates, too.

Mr. Acker is 86 now, and lives in the Wollaston section of Quincy and in Marshfield. Helen, his bride on skates, passed away a few years ago, after the two shared a long life together.

He recalled that he and his then-fiancee were roller skating aficionados, traveling all over the state to don their wheels.

Larry Acker and his bride, Helen Dee, in a 1933 press clipping.

"I never was sorry," Mr. Acker said of his decision to wed on skates. "We loved the place," he recalled. "The manager was very nice. The room was full of people."

Naturally, Revere Beach was one of their favorite spots.

"It was great," Mr. Acker said.

A walker's paradise

By Stephen F. Olivieri

WHEN CHARLES Eliot designed Revere Beach back in the 1890s he provided for a promenade wider than an average sidewalk for strollers to walk the "fine, slopping curve" of America's first public beach.

One hundred years later, Revere Beach still attracts many people as a place to take a relaxing, healthful walk.

With an increased awareness of the importance of good health and the benefits of walking, which is less stressful to the joints than running, there is no shortage of walkers on the beach.

Anthony Marmo of Winthrop, a longtime beach stroller, is a founding member of an organization of beach walkers he calls the Boulevard of Broken Bones, or, as abbreviations, the BOBBs.

Members of the BOBBs, which began eight years ago, walk along the beach every day. The organization has - loosely - about 80 members ranging in age from 50 to 80.

"There's no membership card. We just get together and walk," said Marmo.

The members walk at different times, depending on their schedules, and different distances, depending on their abilities.

The walkers discuss ailments and concerns and offer support. "We all help each other," Marmo said. "Therapy" he calls it.

At 78, Marmo has been slowed down by bad hips, but his organization goes on strong.

Marmo said the BOBBs "know everything about the beach" and try to address things they think need improvement.

For instance, the BOBBs pushed for the renovation of the bathhouses because there were no alternative places to go during walks. The members also pushed for a park next to Joe and Nemo's hot dog stand that will be dedicated as Centennial Park this weekend. Marmo said his organization should not get all the credit, but assures, "we put our two cents in."

Like many who walk the beach, Marmo has fond memories of the beach in its heyday.

An East Boston native, he has vivid memories of marathon dancing, horse diving, and wool bathing suits. "If a man didn't have a shirt on, he'd get pinched," said Marmo.

Lifelong Revere resident Linda Rosa is a serious beach walker. She walks six miles - from Eliot Circle to Point of Pines and back - four or five days a week.

"It's a beautiful stretch of beach," said Rosa, who sometimes has her poodle in tow.

Rosa, who has been a steady walker for 17 years, prefers early morning walks when there are few people on the beach to distract her.

"Sometimes I don't get much exercise except my jaw," said

Rosa, whose first job was scooping frozen custard at for the Hurley family on Revere Beach.

"Buddy" Marino Cuozzo is an unabashed admirer of Revere Beach "It's the best place in the country," he said.

Cuozzo puts his money where his mouth is. He's 71 and recently bought a house across the street from the beach. "I'm here and I'm here to stay," he said.

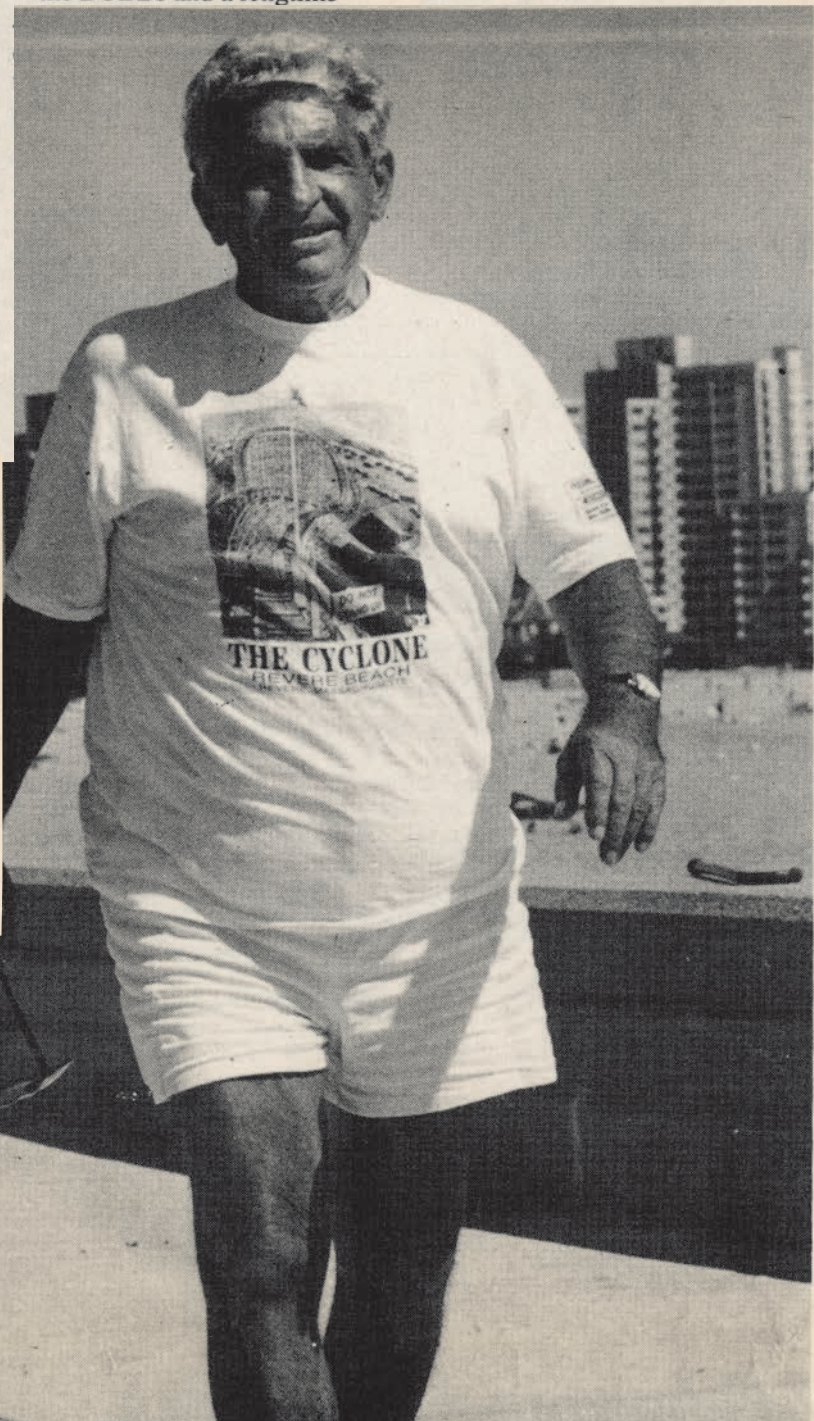

Although he is a new resident of Revere, he is no stranger to the beach. In the 1950s and '60s he played the drums in places like the Frolic and Louie's Cafe on Revere Beach Boulevard.

Cuozzo, who spent his first 45 years in East Boston raising eight children, is a member of the BOBBs and a longtime beach walker who has recently taken to swimming.

"I have to say, I'm in pretty good shape, knock on wood," said Cuozzo.

Revere's Tony Marmo shown walking the Beach.

"It's the best place in the country."

A secret battle

BACK WHEN FIGHTERS WERE FIGHTERS, ONE of the most epic - and clandestine - prizefights took place in a stable at Revere Beach on a November night in 1887. On that night, when the autumn winds off the water surely must have been biting outside that stable, the lightweight title holders from the United States and Britain battled for - count 'em - 74 bloody rounds.

Britain's Jem Carney, described as a clever, scientific boxer, came in at 129 pounds, three more than Yank Jack McAuliffe. The pugilists wore skintight gloves and pounded away at each other for four hours, 58 minutes and 15 seconds.

The fight ended in a draw amid considerable confusion after the crowd broke into the ring.

Pains were taken to keep the fight a secret; police would not have looked kindly on it, apparently. For four hours before the fight, invited guests arrived in pairs at a nearby hotel. Later, they were led to the stable under cover of darkness by the hotel proprietor, lantern in hand.

A boxing book said once the guests got to the barn, they found a Salvation Army group practicing hymns - to help throw off police, no doubt.

KIDS WHO READ NEWSPAPERS DO BETTER

Research shows that students who use newspapers in the classroom score better on standardized tests, continue reading into adulthood, have greater civic understanding and are more engaged in their communities.

Higher test scores, improved reading skills, greater civic awareness.

State announces new funding opportunity to support free swimming lessons across the Commonwealth

Staff Report

In an effort to increase access to swimming lessons and enhance water safety in Massachusetts, the Baker-Polito Administration last week announced a new funding opportunity to support partner organizations in offering free swimming lessons to children and adults across the Commonwealth.

The new Safe Water Initiative Massachusetts (SWIM) Request for Responses (RFR) makes available $475,000 for nonprofit and private entities to apply for funding so they can expand free beginner swim lessons to Massachusetts residents of all ages. The announcement, part of a larger water safety initiative including new safety infrastructure at state waterfronts and the launch of a new Swim Safe Massachusetts collaboration, was made by Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Kathleen Theoharides, who joined Department of Conservation and Recreation Commissioner Jim Montgomery, Executive Office of Public Safety and Security Undersecretary Jeanne Benincasa Thorpe, Massachusetts Environmental Police Colonel Shaun Santos and representatives from the Alliance of Boys and Girls Clubs of Massachusetts, the Alliance of Massachusetts YMCAs, and the American Red Cross of Massachusetts at the Melnea A. Cass Recreation Complex in Boston.

“The Commonwealth is fortunate to have beautiful waterfronts and great places for residents to cool off and have fun, but too often we have seen tragic incidents at these locations,” said Governor Charlie Baker. “Our Administration is committed to expanding access to swim lessons and providing residents in underserved communities an opportunity to develop this important skill to help prevent tragic accidents in and around the water.”

The SWIM grant program will accept applications for funding and enroll organizations on a rolling basis through Tuesday, March 1, 2022. Through the RFR process, DCR will award one or more contracts to qualified vendors based upon responses, service capabilities of bidders, and the best interests of the Commonwealth in meeting its goals. Preference will be given to applicants that serve Environmental Justice communities.

The program is seeking partners that can provide free beginner swim lessons to Massachusetts residents of all ages. Partners, both non-profit and for-profit organizations, are asked to submit proposals for swim lesson programs at non-DCR sites to provide beginner swimming instructions. All organizations must be Red Cross Water Safety Instructor Certified, or industry equivalent.

In addition to the SWIM program, the Administration announced a series of measures focused on creating a safer environment for all visitors at public beaches and pools across Massachusetts. As part of this effort, DCR announced that it is in the process of installing and expanding multilingual safety signage at all DCR’s designated swimming waterfronts. Additionally, DCR is installing life rings at all 78 of the agency’s designated waterfronts. Life rings are floatation devices attached to a rope that can be thrown to a person who is struggling in the water. Life rings will be installed near lifeguard chairs or near the water’s edge at state waterfronts in the coming weeks, providing an important tool for visitors to use if they see someone in danger while discouraging risky rescue attempts that can endanger additional lives.

To amplify important water safety messages and knowledge, the Baker-Polito Administration announced the launch of Swim Safe Massachusetts, a collaborative effort that brings together a diverse set of state agencies and non-profit entities working together to share vital safety information and raise public awareness around how to keep everyone safe in and around the water. The partnership includes EEA, EOPSS, DCR, the Department of Public Health, the Massachusetts Environmental Police, Massachusetts Environmental Police, the Boys and Girls Club of Massachusetts Alliance, New England Swimming, the American Red Cross of Massachusetts, Alliance of Massachusetts YMCAs, and the YWCAs of Northeastern and Central Massachusetts. As part of the collaboration, organizations involved in Swim Safe Massachusetts have committed to working together past this summer and into the fall and winter months to share information in future swimming seasons. Swim Safe Massachusetts will utilize members various social media channels, websites, and other available assets to strengthen important water safety messages.

The SWIM program builds on the Administration’s efforts to provide free swimming lessons, which are offered every summer at select DCR-managed pools. This summer, DCR provided free swimming lessons to over 315 young people over three, two-week sessions. However, demand far exceeded the agency’s ability to provide enough swim lessons for all those interested. The SWIM program will significantly expand the program by reaching more residents in more communities across the Commonwealth, with a central focus on expanding access to swimming lessons for those who are most in need.

Markey joins Senate colleagues in bipartisan letter urging Biden administration to protect Afghan women leaders

Staff Report

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Bob Menendez (D-N.J.) and Sens. Edward J. Markey (D-Mass.) and Jeanne Shaheen (D-N.H.) on Monday were joined by 44 of their Senate colleagues, including Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Jack Reed (D-R.I.) and Ranking Member Jim Inhofe (R-Okla.), in urging the Biden administration to take swift, robust action to protect and support Afghan women leaders facing unparalleled danger following the Taliban’s violent sweep across Afghanistan and seizure of Kabul. In a bipartisan letter to Secretary of State Antony Blinken and Secretary of Homeland Security Alejandro Mayorkas, the senators called on the Administration to create a humanitarian parole category specifically for women leaders, activists, human rights defenders, parliamentarians, journalists, and members of the Female Tactical Platoon of the Afghan Special Security Forces, and to streamline the paperwork process to facilitate referrals to allow for fast, humane, and efficient relocation to the United States. “We and our staff are receiving regular reports regarding the targeting, threatening, kidnapping, torturing, and assassinations of women for their work defending and promoting democracy, equality, higher education, and human rights. While we welcomed the expansion of the eligibility requirements for Special Immigrant Visas and the creation of the Priority 2 category in the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program, we must also protect those women who might fall through the cracks of the U.S. Government’s response,” the senators wrote, raising concerns over reports of rampant war crimes – including public beatings and flogging of women, sexual violence, and forced marriage – in areas captured by the Taliban. “We greatly appreciate your efforts to help save the lives of Afghans who have advanced U.S. and Afghan joint interests over the last generation, standing for peace, democracy, and equality. We are all in agreement that we owe them our unqualified support.” In addition to expressing their support for the Administration’s efforts to evacuate those who are applying for humanitarian parole and those applying for Priority 1 or 2 pathways, including by allocating seats for them on SIV evacuation flights, the senators urged the Administration to increase processing capacity within U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services and to immediately appoint an interagency refugee coordinator. “Particularly for women who are currently targets—even hunted by Taliban fighters who are going house-to-house with their names—the path to protection and safety under the Priority 2 designation is not accessible,” the senators added. “While we understand there is little processing capacity at the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, for these women to access a third country for processing is almost or completely impossible with all borders crossings now closed or controlled by the Taliban.” Sen. Markey was joined by 43 other Senators on the letter, including fellow Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren.

MassWildlife Advisory: Eaglet dies from rodenticide poisoning

Staff Report

Officials from MassWildlife and wildlife veterinarians from Tufts Wildlife Clinic at Cummings Veterinary Medical Center at Tufts University confirmed that in late July, a young bald eagle succumbed to second-generation anticoagulant rodenticide (SGAR) poisoning. In late July, a female fledgling eaglet in obvious distress on the ground in Middlesex County was transported to and admitted by Tufts Wildlife Clinic in North Grafton. Unfortunately, upon admission to the clinic, the young bird died. A necropsy was performed at the clinic and liver tissue was sent to a lab for toxicology testing. Both the observations from the necropsy and toxicology test results confirmed that the eaglet’s cause of death was due to lethal levels of anticoagulant rodenticides. This is the second documented rodenticide death of an eagle in Massachusetts. The first was an adult bird that died this past March. Over 80 pairs of bald eagles nest in Massachusetts. Anticoagulant rodenticides are a type of rodent poison that kills by preventing blood from clotting normally, resulting in fatal internal hemorrhage or bleeding. Wildlife can be poisoned by anticoagulant rodenticides in two ways: 1) primary poisoning when an animal directly eats the bait and dies several days later, or 2) secondary poisoning when a predator or scavenger eats prey that has consumed the bait. Studies of birds of prey in Massachusetts conducted at Tufts Wildlife Clinic have shown widespread exposure to SGARs. While bald eagles primarily eat fish, they are opportunistic foragers and will scavenge or prey on a variety of animals. Given the hunting range of eagles, it’s impossible to determine the exact source of this rodenticide poisoning. Analysis of liver tissue confirmed two different SGARs were ingested by the eaglet. In the past 15 years, the U.S. EPA has taken steps to impose restrictions on rodenticides. SGARs are believed to be most harmful to wildlife and cannot be sold through general consumer outlets for use by the typical homeowner. SGARs can still be purchased online in commercial use quantities for use only by licensed pest professionals and agricultural users. Other rodenticides, called first-generation anticoagulant rodenticides (FGARs) and non-anticoagulant rodenticides, are still approved for residential consumer use only if enclosed within a bait station. It is illegal to place poisons outdoors except under highly regulated permitting conditions. “Not only raptors, but many other kinds of wildlife have been the victims of unintentional rodenticide poisoning,” said Andrew Vitz, MassWildlife’s State Ornithologist. “Secondary exposure to rodenticides has been documented in other animals such as foxes, bobcats, and coyotes.” He also noted that other predatory wild mammals and unsupervised dogs and cats are vulnerable to unintended exposure. To minimize harm to wildlife and pets, MassWildlife and Tufts Wildlife Clinic offer the following advice for homeowners and other concerned citizens: •Prevent Rodent Problems: Remove or safely secure any sources of food or garbage that attracts rodents. Keep food for pets, poultry, and livestock in animal-proof containers. Rodent-proof your home! Close off or repair any exterior openings in your home and other outbuildings that may allow rodents to enter. •Got Rodents? Start with baited snap traps which provide a swift and humane death and are easy for a homeowner to use. Poisons should be used only as a last resort. If using poisons, use enclosed in bait stations and follow the product label instructions. Hiring a company? Choose a licensed integrated pest management company that uses multiple approaches to pest control instead of relying solely on poisons. You can request that the company avoid using SGAR products including brodifacoum, bromadiolone, difenacoum, or difethialone. •As always, if you find a wild animal, unless are working together to find practical, environmentally responsible solutions to issues relating to rodent problems. “The choices we make as individuals and communities regarding rodent control and trash management practices can help prevent wildlife exposure to SGARs,” said Dr. Maureen Murray, Director of Tufts Wildlife Clinic. It has clear signs of injury or sickness, it’s best to leave it in the wild. If injury or illness is evident, contact a licensed wildlife rehabilitator for advice before taking any action. Concerned citizens can also help vulnerable wildlife by sharing this information and advice with friends, family, and others. Connect with groups who are working together to find practical, environmentally responsible solutions to issues relating to rodent problems. “The choices we make as individuals and communities regarding rodent control and trash management practices can help prevent wildlife exposure to SGARs,” said Dr. Maureen Murray, Director of Tufts Wildlife Clinic.

Colleen Ogilvie appointed as new Registrar of Motor Vehicles

Staff Report

Massachusetts Department of Transportation (MassDOT) Secretary and CEO Jamey Tesler last week announced the appointment of Colleen Ogilvie to the position of Registrar of the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles (RMV), a position she has held in an interim capacity since Jan. 21. Registrar Ogilvie has served in various capacities at the RMV over the course of a 30-year career, beginning as a Customer Service Representative on a counter at the since-closed Beverly Service Center, and most recently as Deputy Registrar for Operations where she oversaw many of the RMV’s back-office identity and vehicle credentialing and technology functions. “Colleen Ogilvie is a dedicated public servant and colleague, and I am very pleased that she has accepted our offer to serve as Registrar after a 30-year career with the RMV where she is a key part of the senior management team and the transformation this agency has undergone. I am confident in her ability to continue guiding the agency’s commitment to public safety on Massachusetts’ roadways and its evolution to serve the Commonwealth’s constituents more safely and efficiently,” said Secretary Tesler. “Colleen is a consummate professional who recognizes the critical role the RMV plays in public safety, including the challenging work that was done during the pandemic to continue providing essential service needs while keeping customers and staff healthy and safe. She is a true leader who is passionate about the opportunities for growth and access the RMV offers its employees and all those it serves.” Since taking on the RMV’s leadership role in January, Registrar Ogilvie has worked in partnership with other managers and employees across MassDOT and the RMV to continue enhancing the RMV’s public safety, compliance and public serving functions and responsibilities, while prioritizing workforce training and growth opportunities for employees. “It is my pleasure to accept the position of Registrar because I am working alongside a talented management team and have seen first-hand the commitment and dedication of the Registry’s customer service representatives and administrative support staff during the pandemic,” said Registrar Ogilvie. “I have tremendous admiration for RMV employees who demonstrated flexibility and a passion for public service during the State of Emergency and I am grateful to have had the chance

AARP analysis shows nursing home vaccination rates in Massachusetts still short of benchmark

Staff Report

Cases of COVID-19 decreased among Massachusetts nursing home residents and staff over the four weeks ending July 18, according to the latest release of AARP's Nursing Home COVID-19 Dashboard.

Any number of cases is concerning given the rise of new variants, the gaps in vaccinations among those in nursing homes, and the disproportionate numbers of deaths due to COVID-19 and high risk in nursing homes throughout the pandemic. More than 9,000 residents and staff of nursing homes and other long-term care facilities in the Bay State have died from COVID-19 — representing around 50 percent of deaths, even though less than 1 percent of the population lives in these facilities.

Nationally, 60 percent of healthcare workers in nursing homes were fully vaccinated and about 82 percent of residents were fully vaccinated as of the week ending July 18. Here in Massachusetts, 90.6 percent of residents have been fully vaccinated and 75.6 percent of staff.

“The high COVID-19 death rates of residents and staff in nursing homes has been a national disgrace. As the new variants are emerging, facilities cannot let preventable problems be repeated. The key is to increase vaccinations, and do it now,” said AARP Massachusetts State Director Mike Festa. “AARP supports the Commonwealth’s decision to require nursing home vaccinations for staff. The lower levels of staff vaccinations in particular create an unacceptable level of risk, since the disease spreads so easily in these environments. Also, AARP believes that facilities must ensure all residents are vaccinated. Facilities must be open and transparent with how they are progressing toward the vital goal of vaccination for all staff and residents.”

In Massachusetts, shortages of staff and personal protective equipment (PPE) decreased slightly from the last AARP dashboard, with 5 percent of nursing homes reporting a staff shortage and 1.7 percent noting an urgent need for more PPE.

The AARP Nursing

Home COVID-19 Dashboard analyzes federally reported data in four-week periods going back to June 1, 2020. Using this data, the AARP Public Policy Institute, in collaboration with the Scripps Gerontology Center at Miami University in Ohio, created the dashboard to provide snapshots of the virus’ infiltration into nursing homes and impact on nursing home residents and staff, with the goal of identifying specific areas of concern at the national and state levels in a timely manner.

The full Nursing Home

COVID-19 Dashboard is available at <http://www.aarp.org/nursinghome-dashboard>.

AARP is providing information and resources about COVID-19 to help older Bay State residents and has developed key questions for families to ask if a loved one is in a nursing home. For more information on how COVID is impacting nursing homes and AARP’s advocacy on this issue, visit www.aarp.org/nursinghomes.

A Boston Globe Spotlight report examines the series of land dealings of the long-vacant Surf Club site located on Ocean Ave. near Eliot Circle. The city sold the land in 1997 for $200,000, but it was resold just 18 months later to Red Roof Inn for $2.8 million. However, the site remains vacant and the city took back the site in February. The Globe article suggests that there was backhanded dealing with the sale of the site, but former city officials deny the allegation.

MACIR HOSTS FIFTH ANNUAL MOROCCAN FESTIVAL

Photos by Cary Shuman

Moroccan American Connections in Revere (MACIR) hosted its Fifth Annual Moroccan Festival Aug. 14 at the Whelan School.

Hundreds of Revere residents enjoyed a full day of festivities that included the Five Star Band, Gnawa Music by artists Boujemaa, Mohamed, and Hicham, and a dance show by artists Soumaya Rose and Lionesses El Atlas.

Rachid Moukhabir, president and founder of MACIR welcomed Consul of Morocco in New York Abdelkader Jamousi and Honorary Consul of Morocco Carol Hunsberger Kopelman to the city for the festival.

Moukhabir presented a certificate of special appreciation to Mayor Brian Arrigo. "I can't thank you enough for your great support to the fifth Moroccan festival," Moukhabir wrote to Mayor Arrigo in a follow-up letter. "Your commitment to promote diversity and inclusion in the City of Revere contributed greatly to the success of this special day."

Nery Castro of EBNHC and Layaa A won the grand prize of two free round trips to Morocco.

On behalf of MACIR, Moukhabir thanked the Revere Cultural Council, EBNHC, Royal Air Maroc, Guidance Residential and Tijane Travel and Safari for sponsoring the event.

Moukhabir also thanked the Revere Police Department, Revere Fire Department, Revere Public Schools, Revere City Council, Revere School Committee, the the Parks and Recreation Department, the DPW, the Licensing Commission, the Human Rights Commission, the Equity Advisory Board, the Health Department, and the Election Department for their support.

Residents expressed their gratitude to Rachid Moukhabir and Festival Director Salwa Gardaf for their efforts in organizing the event.
