GOLDBERG ANNOUNCES RELEASE OF UNCLAIMED PROPERTY LISTINGS

Massachusetts State Treasurer Deborah Goldberg announced the latest grouping of names that have been added to the state's list of unclaimed property owners. Over 49,000 new properties worth millions of dollars are owed to individuals and businesses throughout the Commonwealth. "We currently hold over $3.4 billion in unclaimed property at Treasury and it could be yours," said State Treasurer Deborah B. Goldberg. "One in ten Massachusetts residents are owed money. Call our office today to begin the claims process."

Unclaimed property includes forgotten savings and checking accounts, un-cashed checks, insurance policy proceeds, stocks, dividends, and the contents of unattended safe deposit boxes. Most accounts are considered abandoned and are turned over to the state after three years of inactivity. Last year, Treasury processed over 120,000 claims and returned over $139 million in property to its rightful owners.

This newly released list includes only individuals and businesses with unclaimed property over $100. Treasurer Goldberg urged all citizens to check the comprehensive list for all amounts at www.find-massmoney.com or call our live call center at 888-344-MASS (6277).

D'Ambrosio makes official announcement for Senate race

Special to the Journal

Revere School Committee member Anthony D'Ambrosio has officially declared his intent to run for State Senate. The following is his announcement. "My name is Anthony D'Ambrosio, and I ask for your vote in the Special Election of December 14th to represent you and the 1st Suffolk and Middlesex District in the Massachusetts State Senate. Encompassing Revere, Winthrop, East Boston, the North End, Chinatown, and parts of Cambridge, our Senate District is one of the largest and most diverse in the Commonwealth. Whether we've lived here all our lives or arrived just yesterday, all 188,000 of us were drawn to the many opportunities that this District provides.

Edwards announces her candidacy for State Senate

By Cary Shuman

Boston City Councilor Lydia Edwards announced her candidacy for State Senate Sunday afternoon during a campaign kickoff event held at the William Reinsteins Bandstand on Revere Beach. Edwards is running for the First Suffolk and Middlesex District seat held by Sen. Joseph Boncore of Winthrop, who has stepped down from the position to become the chief executive officer at Mass BioTech. Democratic State Committeeman Juan Pablo Jaramillo introduced Edwards prior to the announcement of her candidacy in front of an enthusiastic group of supporters. "I am a long-time activist in this city and the neighborhood of Ward 2 and

Community vaccination clinic to open in RHS

By John Lynds

Since vaccines became available in the spring, Revere Public Schools has taken a proactive approach through public education campaigns, webinars and other avenues to really pump up student vaccination rates ahead of the 2021/2020 school year.

As a result, Revere vaccination rates are surpassing the state's average for students and residents 12-19 year old. In Revere, one of the cities hammered early on in the pandemic, 75 percent of 12- to-15-year-olds had received at least one shot by Sept. 2, along

Tina Hinojosa Lauria Memorial Yoga Fundraiser at Della Russo Stadium

By Cary Shuman

Family and friends participated in the Tina Hinojosa Lauria Memorial Yoga Fundraiser Saturday at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

Tina died unexpectedly on Aug. 13, 2021. She was the former owner of the yoga studio, Yoga Lounge, Winthrop. Her passion was yoga.

Tina's brother, Revere Parks and Recreation Director Michael Hinojosa, thanked the many yoga enthusiasts for their participation in the event in honor of his sister and for their support of NamaStay Sober.

"I just want to say thank you – the outpouring has been unbelievable over the last few weeks," Michael said to the large gathering. "I have no words. It's just been really important to me and my family – the hugs. I'm going to turn it over NamaStay Sober, something that my sister was a big part of. Thank you for coming here today. Enjoy a little yoga, and I hope we get to do this every year multiple times a year. To look out in the audience and have 150-plus people doing yoga, it's amazing. Thank you very much. I appreciate

Arrigo pushes back on BPHC proposal

Special to the Journal

Mayor Brian Arrigo has reacted "with immense frustration" to continuing rumors that the Boston Public Health Commission (BPHC) is considering a regional plan to allegedly convert the Quality Inn Hotel at 100 Morris St., Revere, into a homeless transitional center.

Arrigo has written a sternly worded letter to Dr. Bisola Ojikutu, executive director of the Boston Public Health, expressing his displeasure about the potential impacts on the city by this initiative. Arrigo has also sent copies of the letter to Gov. Charlie Baker, State Sec. Marylou Sudders, and Boston Mayor Kim Janey.

Following is the text of Mayor's Arrigo letter to the Boston Public Health Commission:

"It is with immense frustration that I write to you today regarding continued rumors of plans your agency has for the City of Revere. Specifically, I am disappointed in the Boston Public Health Commission's operations, communications, and accountability measures—or lack thereof—as they concern its "regional" plan to address the disaster on

Zambuto will explore the hiring of coyote relocater

By Cary Shuman

The residents of High Street have brought forth the problem of coyotes regularly roaming their neighborhood and Council President Anthony Zambuto is moving the issue closer to a resolution.

Zambuto, who lives in the neighborhood, said he is exploring the possibility of hiring a professional coyote relocater to rid the area of the coyotes who have brought fear to area residents with their unwelcomed presence.

MARKEY CALLS FOR FACEBOOK TO ABANDON PLANS FOR INSTAGRAM FOR KIDS

Following reports Facebook has conducted and reviewed research showing a connection between Instagram and mental health problems among young users, Senator Edward J. Markey (D-Mass.) and Representatives Kathy Castor (FL-14) and Lori Trahan (MA-03) wrote to Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg today, demanding answers and calling for the company to abandon its plans to develop an Instagram for Kids platform. The recently revealed internal Facebook research includes data on the connections between Instagram use and body image problems, suicidal thoughts, and other mental health challenges among teens on the platform.

"Children and teens are uniquely vulnerable populations online, and these findings paint a clear and devastating picture of Instagram as an app that poses significant threats to young people's wellbeing. As the internet—and social media specifically—becomes increasingly engrained in children and teens' lives, we are deeply concerned that your company continues to fail in its obligation to protect young users and has yet to commit to halt its plans to launch new platforms targeting children and teens," said the lawmakers in their letter to Zuckerberg.

"The recently uncovered evidence published in the Wall Street Journal underscores Facebook's responsibility to fundamentally change its approach to engaging with children and teens online. That starts with Facebook abandoning its plans to launch a new version of Instagram for kids."

In April, Senators Markey and Richard Blumenthal (D-Conn.) and Representatives Castor and Trahan wrote to Zuckerberg regarding Facebook's announcement that the company is "exploring" plans to develop a version of Instagram for children and expressed concerns about Facebook's past failures to protect children on Facebook's Messenger Kids app. In May, after the company failed to make meaningful commitments to protect kids online, the lawmakers released a statement calling on Facebook to abandon its plans for the children's platform. Previously, Senator Markey has repeatedly pressed Facebook on its failures to protect children and teens, including during Mark Zuckerberg's 2018 appearance before the Senate Commerce, Science, and Transportation Committee.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOREVER STAMPS NOW ON SALE

Across the country and around the world, a birthday is a welcome occasion for celebration and fun. Featuring the U.S. Postal Service's first new Happy Birthday design in more than a decade, this stamp offers a chance to give envelopes and cards an additional touch of good cheer. It goes on sale today at Post Office locations nationwide and at the online Postal Store.

The celebration of birthdays in the United States has its origins in a wide array of cultural traditions. Some ancient civilizations observed the birthdays of prominent figures or celebrated rites of passage, and well-wishes and gifts have long been associated with bringing about good fortune. Folklorists and historians claim to see the origins of birthday parties in older practices that resemble our customs, such as candles on a cake, which existed in some form in both ancient Greece and early modern Germany. When we gather to sing, brighten our spirits with candles, and make a wish, these deeply rooted rituals connect us to loved ones and invite everyone to share in the birthday fun.

The U.S. Postal Service issued its first Happy Birthday stamp in 1987, when a stamp showing a candle on a slice of cake was part of a Special Occasions booklet that reflected a variety of greetings and well-wishes. In 1988, a second Special Occasions booklet included a Happy Birthday stamp that depicted a colorful row of candles. Birthdays reappeared as a subject on U.S. postage in 2002 with the issuance of a stamp featuring the words "Happy Birthday" amid a smattering of festive confetti.

MELNIK RECEIVES PAUL HARRIS FELLOW AWARD FROM BELLE ISLE ROTARY

Belle Isle Rotary Club presented Revere City Clerk Ashley Melnik with the Rotary's prestigious Paul Harris Fellow presentation. The event was held at the Wharf Marina Restaurant in Revere on Wednesday and attended by many members of the Belle Isle Rotary including Council President Tony Zambuto (a member of the Belle Isle Rotary), State Rep Jessica Giannino, Ward 1 Councilor Joanne McKenna and many of Ashley's friends and family.

In the years since, the Postal Service has issued several stamps on the theme of celebration. This new Happy Birthday stamp provides another way for the mailing public to convey good wishes on the recipient's special day.

The word "HAPPY"

appears most prominently in capital letters, with each of the five letters inspired by a different party decoration: a red and green piñata, an orange and yellow striped birthday hat, a red piece of frosted cake, a green birthday candle, and an orange balloon sculpture. The word "BIRTHDAY" appears below it in blue, with "Forever" and "USA" centered in smaller red lettering at the bottom. Surrounding all the design elements is a flurry of multicolored ribbons and confetti.

This stamp was designed by Lisa Catalone Castro and Rodolfo Castro, with artwork by Rodolfo Castro. Ethel Kessler served as art director.

The Happy Birthday stamp is being issued as a Forever stamp, which is always equal in value to the current First-Class Mail 1-ounce price.

Customers may purchase stamps and other philatelic products through the Postal Store at usps.com/shopstamps, by calling 844-737-7826, by mail through USA Philatelic, or at Post Office locations nationwide.

The Postal Service generally receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

BOSTON DESIGN WEEK RETURNS FOR A SPECIAL FALL SEASON

Boston Design Week returns for a Special Fall Season until October 16, 2021, featuring 50+ in-person, virtual and outdoors events. Under the theme "Fall Into Art and Design," this three-week design festival offers a range of programs featuring nationally known guest speakers, panel discussions, design tours, museum exhibitions and more. Boston Design Week has also invited six other art and design festivals to cross-promote their September and October events, linking website visitors to literally hundreds of other events near and far: Design Edge, Design Week Rhode Island, Atlanta Design Festival, Boston Fashion Week, Cape Ann Plein Air festival, Design Week Mexico and the Fenway Alliance's 20th Anniversary 'Opening Our Doors' festival. All events are open to the public and most are free.

The full calendar of events is now online at www.BostonDesignweek.com. For more information call 617-363-0405.

"We want Boston Design Week to be known as a portal to all things art and design," comments co-producer Tony Fusco. "Our Partner Events are simultaneously offering hundreds of art and design events." Along with his partner Robert Four, Fusco & Four/Ventures has grown Boston Design Week over the past eight years, becoming an active member of World Design Weeks, an international coalition of more than 30 design festivals around the world. Boston Design Week's mission is to increase public awareness and appreciation of all aspects of design, foster recognition of the vital role design plays in our lives, and bring new audiences to a wide array of design industries and organizations. This fall, attendees are invited to experiencing groundbreaking ideas in architecture, interior design, placemaking, plein air painting, teen programs, and to enjoy art and design tours, historic design, auction previews, galas, and more.

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission Releases August 2021 Gross Gaming Revenue for Plainridge Park Casino, MGM Springfield and Encore Boston Harbor

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission reported today that the month of August 2021 at Plainridge Park Casino (PPC), MGM Springfield and Encore Boston Harbor generated approximately $92 million in Gross Gaming Revenue (GGR). PPC, a category 2 slots facility, is taxed on 49% of GGR. Of that total taxed amount, 82% is paid to Local Aid and 18% is allotted to the Race Horse Development Fund. MGM Springfield and Encore Boston Harbor, category 1 resort-casinos, are taxed on 25% of GGR; those monies are allocated to several specific state funds as determined by the gaming statute. To date, the Commonwealth has collected approximately $869 million in total taxes and assessments from PPC, MGM and Encore since the respective openings of each gaming facility.

SPOTLIGHT

Revere High School football is back, and so is the live RevereTV coverage of every game this season! The home opener is now replaying on the Community Channel and a new playlist for the season has been created on the RTV YouTube page. Last Friday, RevereTV ventured to Chelsea to stream the game for those at home who wanted to cheer on the Patriots live. Every Friday night through at least October, head to the RTV Community Channel, YouTube, and Facebook to watch RHS Football games as they happen. All games will replay on television for a few weeks following the game.

A RevereTV crew was at the Multicultural Arts and Crafts Festival last Sunday. This event was hosted by The Revere History Museum on Beach Street. There were many vendors selling crafts and local products, live music, and participants were allowed entry to the museum. RevereTV caught the sights and sounds of the festival which will soon be made into a highlight reel airing on TV and social media. Check out RTV's social media and the Community Channel for coverage of the event which includes interviews with the local vendors.

The City of Revere held an El Salvadoran flag raising ceremony in honor of Salvadoran Independence. This took place on the lawn of City Hall last week where elected officials spoke and residents of Revere celebrated the day with live music and cultural dance. To see this ceremony and flag raising, watch as it replays on RTV Gov which is channel 9 on Comcast and channels 13 and 613 on RCN. RevereTV's coverage is also posted to YouTube and Facebook to be watched at any time.

Election season is upon us and the city's first election was last week. Candidates for Ward 3 Councillor and Ward 5 Councillor were on the ballot last Tuesday for the primary election. RevereTV held live coverage of the results. In partnership with The Revere Journal, host Stephen Quigley was at the studio to interview Mayor Brian Arrigo and current Councillor of Ward 3 Arthur Guinasso while the results came in, both who were present via Zoom. If you missed the live coverage and are curious to watch the interviews from that night, you can find Revere's 2021 Primary Election Results coverage on RevereTV's YouTube page.

Administration awards over $10 million for park and open space projects

Staff Report

Building on efforts to enhance and protect natural resources, the Baker-Polito Administration awarded $10,090,749 in grant funding for park improvements, open space acquisitions, and land conservation projects in 37 Massachusetts communities and six conservation districts, including Harmon, Gibson and Costa Parks in Revere. The grants, funded by the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs' (EEA) capital budget and administered through several programs, including the Parkland Acquisitions and Renovations for Communities (PARC), Local Acquisitions for Natural Diversity (LAND), Conservation Partnership, and Conservation District Innovation Grant Programs, will help municipalities and land trusts in their efforts to protect land for future generations for outdoor recreation purposes. Revere will receive $320,237 for accessibility and inclusion park renovations at Harmon, Gibson and Costa Parks. The announcement was made by Governor Charlie Baker and Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito at the City of Lowell's South Common as part of the Administration's celebration of Climate Week in Massachusetts.

"Massachusetts has great open spaces and natural resources that not only provide recreation and access to the great outdoors, but make the Commonwealth more resilient to the impacts of climate change," said Governor Charlie Baker. "Our Administration has made land conservation and local park improvements a key priority since coming into office in 2015, and our proposal to direct $100 million of federal relief funding into parks and open spaces will allow us to invest even more resources into these important projects, especially in Gateway Cities and underserved communities that need better access to green spaces."

"Since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, access to the state's green spaces and parks has never been more important to residents in every community across the Commonwealth," said Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito. "The PARC, LAND and Conservation Partnership programs all play a critical role in ensuring the public has many opportunities to explore and enjoy natural resources that are available close to home, and we're proud to work with partners in municipalities across the Commonwealth to support these park improvement projects."

The Administration awarded $8 million through the PARC Grant Program to support 24 projects that will support the development of parks and outdoor recreational assets. The program was established in 1977 to assist cities and towns in acquiring and developing land for parks and outdoor recreation purposes. Any community with an up-to-date Open Space and Recreation Plan is eligible to apply for the program. Since 2015, the Administration has awarded $47 million to 153 projects to acquire land for and build new parks, and renovate existing ones..

Additionally, the Administration awarded $1.2 million to four projects through the LAND Grant Program. The program was established in 1961 to assist municipal conservation commissions in acquiring land for natural resource protection and passive outdoor recreation purposes. Since 2015, the Administration has awarded more than $16 million to support 75 projects that have permanently protected more than 4,576 acres.

Through these programs, the Baker-Polito Administration is partnering with local communities and land trusts to protect critical open spaces and support the acquisition and restoration of local parks that provide important access to the outdoors, especially in our urban communities and Gateway Cities," said Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Kathleen Theoharides. "The enthusiasm and joy residents across our Commonwealth have for these special places and the strong desire to get outside throughout the pandemic demonstrate the need for even greater investments in resilient lands, natural resources, and outdoor recreation through Governor Baker's ARPA spending plan."

The Administration also awarded $740,000 to support nine projects through the Conservation Partnership Grant program. The program provides funding to assist non-public, not-for-profit corporations in acquiring interests in lands suitable for conservation or recreation purpose.

Carvalho supports Chavez for School Committee

Special to the Journal

Stephanie Carvalho is supporting Jacqueline Chavez for School Committee. The following is her statement:

"My name is Stephanie Carvalho and I'm a lifelong Revere resident. I went through the entire Revere Public Schools system from grades K-12 - starting at the Old McKinley and graduating from Revere High in 2019. I'm a member of the Revere Public Library's Board of Trustees, manager of the Revere Free Store at the Revere's Farmer Market, and the community engagement coordinator for the Jacqueline Chavez Campaign for School Committee.

I first found out about Jacqueline's campaign through a Revere Journal article announcing her candidacy. I was thrilled to discover a young, local candidate with teaching experience who included their policy intentions and commitments as part of their platform.

Over the past few weeks, it has been really refreshing to get to meet fellow community members and get out the vote with Jacqueline Chavez's campaign! It's also been incredibly relevant to speak with dozens of voters about the school committee, and Jacqueline Chavez's plans to enrich students, empower families, and support educators.

As an educator, Jacqueline understands the challenges of teaching during the pandemic and how to navigate the difficulties of burnout and new teaching techniques, all while delivering students the education and resources they deserve. I believe Jacqueline's recent teaching perspective is a huge asset that can help inform updates to School Committee policies and procedures, if elected.

Jacqueline's teaching experience drives her heartfelt, unwavering commitment to students. Her office is filled with pictures of former students - some with books or art projects, some in matching red Christmas PJs - all of them smiling. She truly wants to make sure all of our students get not only what they need, but what they deserve - a mission she fulfills every day as a Department of Education (DESE) employee. Jacqueline's passion for students and education policy experience are a compelling combination that will allow her to get things done for Revere's students and families.

Most importantly, Jacqueline Chavez is willing to listen and learn from the Revere community. She's kind, she's bold, she's driven, she's committed. She taught Kindergarten both in person AND on Zoom during the pandemic so you know she's equally tough and patient. She's the only candidate who has students on the doors for her! She has a heart of gold and a mind to match, and won't rest until she's given it her all. I'm ecstatic to endorse her, support her campaign, and vote for Jacqueline Chavez on November 2 for Revere School Committee!

HEY YOU -- TAKE A HIKE!

For many New Englanders, fall is their favorite season. The warm days and crisp evenings serve as the perfect midpoint between the heat and humidity of summer and the chill of winter.

When you add in the spectacular colors of the foliage throughout our region, it is no wonder that the anticipation of autumn makes us feel alive and eager to enjoy the outdoors.

We've always found that this is the best time of year to take a daytime hike in the mountains in our region, whether it be in the Berkshires or in Vermont and New Hampshire. There is something about being in the outdoors, under a canopy of brightly-colored trees with the sound of a running stream, that soothes us both physically and spiritually in a way that is altogether lacking amidst the constant noise and congestion of our lives in the city.

So we urge all of our readers to make the time for themselves and their families to travel west or north over these next few weeks and go for a hike in the mountains.

A hike, particularly during this time of COVID-19, will be a reminder that the best things in life are free.

A SAD -- BUT PREDICTABLE -- OUTCOME

Amidst all of the big news stories during these past two weeks, perhaps the one that has grabbed the most attention from Americans of all ages involved the mysterious disappearance of 22 year-old Gabrielle Petito, the young woman who had been on a cross-country trek in a van with her 23 year-old fiance, Brian Laundrie.

When Laundrie returned home in early September without Petito, and with no explanation as to where she might be, it was obvious that Ms. Petito -- whose body was found this past Sunday in a camping area in Wyoming -- had become yet another tragic victim of domestic violence in this country.

Despite all of the strides we have made to combat domestic violence since the 1980s, the fact remains that a woman in this country is in more danger from an intimate partner than from any other source. Intimate partner violence accounts for 15% of all violent crime in the United States.

The cold, hard statistics paint a grim picture:

-- 1 in 4 women have been victims of severe physical violence by an intimate partner in their lifetime.

-- 1 in 7 women have been stalked by an intimate partner during their lifetime.

-- The presence of a gun in a domestic violence situation increases the risk of homicide by 500%.

-- Women between the ages of 18-24 are most commonly abused by an intimate partner.

That last statistic fits the profile of the relationship between Ms. Petito and Mr. Laundrie.

As this is being written, the authorities are searching for Mr. Laundrie, who disappeared early last week, according to his family.

The tragic death of Gabrielle Petito is yet another sad reminder of the pervasiveness of domestic violence in this country, a problem for which there appears to be no end in sight in our society.

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

If you want a friend be a friend. There is never a guarantee. However, if you do not put anything into a friendship it's certain the friendship will never grow.

Keep in mind that friendships take time. The Bible says a man of too many friends will soon come to ruin." Proverbs 18:24. Why is this? Because too much time maintaining too many friends doesn't allow you the time you need to work your job, spend time with your family, do your school work, life work and take care of your business. If a person has ten or twenty friends to spend time with every week or even month, they will eventually neglect

Quality Inn //

Melnea Cass Boulevard by allegedly converting the Quality Inn Hotel at 100 Morris Street, Revere, to a homeless transitional center. I am deeply concerned about the chaotic nature of dis-information and have lost all confidence in the Boston Public Health Commission to thoughtfully execute on an issue of such regional public importance. People experiencing homelessness deserve the resources and intervention efforts necessary for them to lead stable, fulfilling lives. Unfortunately, the actions taken by the BPHC thus far place the City of Revere's commitment to these neighbors in jeopardy while at the same time frustrating efforts for the regional collaboration necessary to combat this regional crisis.

Given the immense challenges of supporting a population marginalized by high rates of substance use disorder, mental health challenges, and trauma, every public health measure concerning the unhoused ought to establish clear lines of communication and readiness protocols with all involved stakeholders. The BPHC has failed to establish these relationships at the onset of their initiative. The City their family or careers.

The key is balance. Invest in people with your time and life and some of it will come back to you from others. Sometimes it won't this is why you have to be realistic in building your network of friends and relationships.

Many years ago, a prospective student called about enrolling in our school and asked, "If I enroll in this school will I get anything out of it?" I said, "If you don't put anything into it, you won't get anything out of it. If you put a lot into it, then you'll get a lot out of it." The man enrolled and went on to become a President of a college.

Growing up I remember my relatives being hard workers. Some of them raised amazing gardens, while keeping their property clean and maintained. It took work but they took pride in their homes and how they lived their lives. They put a lot into where they lived and it showed.

If you put a lot into something it shows. Your marriage, job, children, career and your life in general. School work will reflect your effort. If you put money into an Individual Retirement Account or 401k or 403b every month your wealth will eventually grow and reflect your efforts. Social Security income checks reflect years worked and how much paid into the system.

However, anyone can put a lot into something without experiencing success. Businesses, marriages and careers have come short or even failed even though people invested everything. Often there are other factors beyond our control that all the work and focus will not resolve or overcome. You can't control what other people may or may not do that impacts your life's work and ambitions.

With this said, we have to remember the principle of reaping and sowing. If you want a good garden. You have to sow and care for the garden. Neglecting the garden is a sure path to failure.

Important aspects to relationships, wealth, health, career success and more are focus and investing wisely. The more you sow, the more you will reap. You can't control all of life's circumstances and influencers but you can control what you do.

of Revere was first made aware of the BPHC's plans for the Quality Inn through a voicemail left to our Substance Use Disorder and Homelessness Initiatives SUDI Office on August 30 by a recovery coach with Eliot Community Human Services. With no prior notice whatsoever, we were taken aback by the message's announcement that the Quality Inn allegedly would begin operating imminently as a homeless transitional center with over 150 beds. At this point, I do not even know how many beds BPHC is contemplating. Over the last three weeks we have been told different numbers by different members of this collaboration. I have heard 156, 30, 60 and 160 but I still have not received anything in writing. Simply put, the level of disorganization from BPHC regarding this effort is appalling.

With concern over the preparedness of our first responders and our Health and Human Services Division as well as the regulatory procedures completely ignored by BPHC, we made repeated attempts to connect with BPHC, the City of Boston's Office of Recovery Services, and Eliot. At this point it is clear that our hopes of an organized plan of action would reveal itself have been dashed by the BPHC's inability to produce contingency and operational documentation that ought to come standard with such a sensitive initiative. It is also clear that little to no planning was undertaken in advance of the relocation of unhoused individuals from Melnea Cass Boulevard.

The BPHC has continued to insist that the Quality Inn initiative is just one instance of a larger regional approach to the crisis on Melnea Cass Boulevard, yet they have not been able to provide my administration with other municipalities joining this effort. This information gap is particularly frustrating as I would find extremely valuable an initiative that bound several municipalities together in solidarity to root out homelessness in the Commonwealth. I only hope that this effort is not just focused on our Gateway Cities but rather a true collaborative approach across our region and the failure to provide this information is not due to surreptitious operations ongoing in other cities and towns.

Beyond the logistical and communication challenges, the BPHC has set the stage for fierce reaction against the interventions our homeless neighbors need, ultimately undermining the public health improvements we all agree are necessary. Political opportunists with no desire to ameliorate the overlapping crises that create homelessness will seize any challenge that arises from the poor, unprofessional management of this initiative. Consider the impact of an emergency at this site without the full preparedness of Revere's first responders. Not only would the lives of our most vulnerable neighbors be at stake, but also the viability of the much larger reform movement. The victims of BPHC's mismanagement and collateral consequences would number not in the hundreds, but in the tens of thousands.

The stakes are too high for BPHC to squander the opportunity for a truly regional solution to the housing and homelessness crises. My profound disappointment come from genuine concern over our unhoused neighbors, and we will continue to support them through both established partnerships and innovative practices. Unfortunately, the BPHC has yet to demonstrate the capacity to meet the moment and have instead endangered the progress we all hope to see for our community.

Zambuto. "I'm collaborating on this plan with neighbors. We are exploring all options."

Zambuto has witnessed the coyotes' presence firsthand. "The coyotes think they own the street," he said. "They come parading down the street five or six in a pack. It's crazy and it has to stop. We can't allow a baby or another animal to get seriously hurt. We don't want to be like other communities that have had situations like that."

Mayor Brian Arrigo has been closely monitoring the situation on High Street. He has been in touch with officials from the state wildlife office.

"When my office was initially alerted of the coyotes in the High Street neighborhood, we reached out to the State to come up with a solution," said Arrigo. "Unfortunately, because coyotes are considered a protected species, we have to be creative in our approach. Over the last year, the Revere DPW has made efforts to clean up coyote breeding areas to potentially steer them away from the neighborhoods of Revere. Clearly, the city is in a tough spot navigating protected species protocols and ensuring our residents feel safe. I applaud Council President Zambuto for bringing this to the attention of the Revere City Council and for the residents who are creatively collaborating on a solution to the problem at hand."

Dave Wattles, a biologist and an expert on wildlife management at the State Wildlife Office, said he has conferred with High Street neighbors about the coyote situation.

Wattles provided neighbors with the proper steps to take to limit coyote activity in the area. Some of those steps include blowing an airhorn, banging pots and pans, spraying a hose, and the tossing of small stones "to frighten the coyote off."

"This situation in Revere isn't unusual," said Wattles. "It's the same situation that is happening in West Roxbury and Cambridge. A month ago there were three children that were bitten in Arlington. There are limited resources that we have to actually remove these animals in these circumstances."

Wattles said there are statewide legal restrictions on what neighbors can do to rid their neighborhood of the coyotes. Though there are legal hunting seasons in the state, realistically there is no "hunnable land" in Revere.

"Legally, to hunt in Massachusetts you have to be 500 feet from an occupied dwelling 150 feet from a paved road," said Wattles. "The logistics are that there's almost nowhere in a place like Revere where you can hunt."

Wattles said one of the options for the neighbors is to hire a problem animal control agent -- which is basically what Council President Zambuto is proposing.

Neighbors have reached out to city officials and media in recent weeks to make people aware of the "unsafe" coyote situation that has existed on High Street for the past few years.

One neighbor cited a situation where, upon her return home by car with a young child in the backseat, she had to call for a police escort because several coyotes had congregated outside her home. The Revere Police responded quickly and provide safe passage for the resident and the child into the house.

"Is this any way a person wants to live up here?" asked a neighbor. "The coyotes are out here at all hours of the day."

"The coyotes are getting too comfortable with their surroundings right now and they're not afraid of the surroundings and they're not afraid of people either, on the street," said another neighbor. "That comfort zone is what's going to cause them to be aggressive for little kids."

There is a City Council meeting Monday night, so High Street's continuing coyote problem could be up for discussion, with a resolution in sight.

RHS CLASS OF 1971 CELEBRATES 50TH REUNION

Photos by Cary Shuman

The Revere High School Class of 1971 celebrated its 50th class reunion Saturday at the Four Points By Sheraton Hotel in Wakefield.

Classmates and guests enjoyed hors d'oeuvres and crackers and cheese during a social hour, followed by a delicious buffet-style dinner, and desserts.

Disc jockey Alan LaBella provided the musical entertainment, with several popular songs bringing guests to the dance floor.

Classmate Al Terminiello Jr. presented a special citation sponsored by Ward 3 Councillor Arthur Guinasso to reunion organizers Barbara Ferragamo, Andrea Jackson Stockard, and Wendy Greenstein Giles, congratulating the Class of 1971 on its 50th reunion.

It was truly a memorable celebration and classmates are looking forward to reassembling for the 55th reunion in 2026.

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Nomination papers released for 1st Suffolk & Middlesex special election

Staff Report

Secretary of the Commonwealth William F. Galvin has released nomination papers for the special election for state senate in the 1st Suffolk & Middlesex District. The special election is being held to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Joseph A. Boncore.

Per order of a vote of the Massachusetts Senate, the election will be held on January 11, 2022.

State law requires that the special primary be held 4 weeks prior to the election, on December 14, 2021.

According to the calendar of deadlines required by law, candidates will have until November 2, dlesex District includes the City of Revere, the Town of Winthrop, and portions of Boston and Cambridge. In Boston, the district includes Ward 1 Precincts 1-14; Ward 3 Precincts 1-4, 6, and 8; and Ward 5 Precincts 1, 3-5, and 11. In Cambridge, the district includes Ward 2 Precincts 2 and 3; Ward 4 Precincts 1 and 3; and Ward 5.

Nomination papers are available now in the Elections Division at One Ashburton Place, Room 1705, in Boston.

I'm very excited that you have all joined us today," said Jaramillo. "We know that Lydia has been a tireless advocate for working families in our community and around the Commonwealth - from her work doing the domestic workers' bill of rights, and insuring that we have good, strong-paying jobs throughout the district.

"Just a stone's throw away from here, she fought to ensure that we have more affordable housing in what will be a 20-year development in the area," continued Jaramillo. "Aside from her being my friend, I know that she is the best candidate to fill what will be my former boss' position. I had the pleasure of working in Senator Boncore's office for three years, and I know exactly what type of senator our district needs, and I know Lydia will meet that expectation and exceed it by a lot."

Edwards, who represents East Boston, Charlestown, and the North End on the Boston City Council, began her remarks by stating, "I'm running to be your next state senator. My name is Lydia Edwards, and I live in East Boston. I'm a career advocate. I'm a person who has come from all over the world - my mother was in the military and raised me all over the world to really appreciate what community can be.

"And while you may not be born in a community, you can lead in that community, and you can always serve in that community - and that's why I'm running - to serve each and every one of you in whatever language, to make sure you are seen, that you are heard, that you are valued," said Edwards.

She told the attendees that she is a legal services attorney who has been practicing law for 15 years. "I have worked in immigration, I have worked for workers' rights, I've done criminal defense for people who are driving without a driver's license - I have been there when people have had nothing, because I have been that person who needed people to help people."

Edwards said that after her mother left the Air Force, "she worked two jobs because the minimum wage was $5.15 an hour. I know a lot of you know parents who are working two jobs right now to pay the rent. I will not forget where I come from, and I will not forget that my mother still taught me, it's about service to others, even when she worked two jobs, and had a part-time job on Saturday. I had a job and my sister had a job, and we would pull our money together to pay the bills.

"A lot of families are doing that right now," she said. "A lot of families are doing that in East Boston and they're doing it throughout the district. I'm running for them. I'm running for the kids who are on free lunch. I'm running for the seniors oftentimes who are on limited income and can barely afford to keep their homes.

"There are a lot of people who are struggling right now," said Edwards. "And I've been honored to serve them as a legal services attorney, and I certainly could do so as your next state senator. We have a grassroots campaign and it is strong and growing every day."

Edwards said her supporters consist of people from varied jobs and backgrounds. "You can't look and see what a typical Lydia Edwards voter is, and that's intentional. I meet people, all people where they are, and it's important to hear and listen. We speak a lot as politicians but we don't really hear the pain, the struggle, and understand the policies to really help people."

Proud of her service as a member of the Boston City Council, Edwards said, "I have the strongest record right now of delivering for my district. In this race, I currently represent the most people of anybody running. I represent over 75,000 people in my district. My district is very diverse in its political leanings, but I can say honestly that they have said consistently I have delivered for them."

Turning her thoughts to the new development planned for the Suffolk Downs site, Edwards said, "We pushed to make sure that was an equitable development, and we got resources for all of our communities, especially in East Boston. We brought home $800,000 for rent relief - 800 families are going to get a $1,000 check."

Edwards said that government needs to be proactive and progressive to ensure that everyone is represented, and everyone is getting their value for their tax dollars.

"I have the strongest record of delivering, not just only in housing and making sure people are housed, but in transportation and making sure we're building infrastructure for all modes of transportation, including a ferry which is finally going to start in East Boston on Sept. 27," said Edwards. "I have the strongest record in making sure that immigrants are protected and heard, and this is all before I was a politician.

I'm asking for your vote. I'm asking for your time. I'm asking for your heart. I'm asking to get on the shoulders of my grandparents and parents, who came to this country from Southern Italy with literally the clothes on their backs and have given me the privilege to run for Senate today.

As an adult, after graduating from Yale University and the University of Cambridge in England, I returned to Revere and began working as a financial analyst in the technology industry. For me and my family, these opportunities have included life-changing education, good jobs, and a welcoming place to call home.

I have deep roots in our community. My paternal grandparents immigrated to East Boston in 1972 and later started a successful landscaping business, Revere Gardens Company, which serviced the local area. My maternal grandparents immigrated to the US in 1968 and have lived in Winthrop. My mother, aunt and uncle are all proud Winthrop High School graduates. My father, also an immigrant to the US, attended both East Boston and Revere public schools. Today, he operates a community law office in Revere. I have spent years in the District, living primarily in Revere but frequently visiting family in Winthrop, East Boston, and the North End. I stand on the shoulders of my grandparents and parents, who came to this country from Southern Italy with literally the clothes on their backs and have given me the privilege to run for Senate today.

As an adult, after graduating from Yale University and the University of Cambridge in England, I returned to Revere and began working as a financial analyst in the technology industry. My job gave me a front row view of the ways in which technology is radically transforming our economy. With a job at the intersection of finance and technology, I wanted to ensure that future generations of students are likewise prepared for the 21st century economy. That is why I ran for the Revere School Committee and why I am now running for Senate. I hope to give back to my community and bring a new, outsider's perspective to the State House.

The Covid-19 pandemic disrupted our community in virtually every way imaginable. It laid bare all our society's vulnerabilities and inequities, as well as the ways in which our leaders are failing in their obligations to Massachusetts residents. Like so many others, I watched loved ones be hospitalized with Covid-19. One of the most painful periods of my life was watching my father struggle to breathe while hospitalized despite supplemental oxygen and incredible medical care. Even with the progress Massachusetts has made in containing the virus, the fear and pain of losing loved ones or seeing them suffer has still not dissipated for my family and countless other families in our community.

As a member of the Revere School Committee, I took calls over the last eighteen months from dozens of Revere parents who had to make the extraordinarily difficult decision to quit their jobs to provide care and educational support to their suddenly homebound children. This decision meant sacrificing half or even the entirety of their household incomes.

I similarly heard students describe falling months behind in their schoolwork because they did not have access to consistent, reliable Internet, despite living just a few miles away from some of the top research universities in the world. This inequity, among others, inspired me to lead the creation of an Equity Advisory Board in Revere that will work to eliminate educational disparities.

Additionally, I pushed for increased mental health services for children in Revere Public Schools. Through my research and conversations with city leaders across the District, I know that similar numbers of students in Winthrop, Boston, and Cambridge public schools have also struggled with mental health issues over the past year.

These situations are unacceptable. We need to immediately allocate federal relief funds to help our children TODAY, not in two or three years when the damage cannot be repaired. While the old ways of Beacon Hill are still prevalent, we need new, modern ways of examining our problems and planning for the future.

We are at a pivotal moment where we can not only recover to a pre-pandemic normal, but also rebuild in a way that prepares our residents—and especially our children—for the challenges and promises of the 21st century. I am running for State Senate because I want to help ensure that the District that has given so much to me and my family can continue to do so for generations of families to come.

Join me. I again ask for your vote."

Jaramillo will not run for state senate

Staff Report

Juan Pablo Jaramillo of Revere has decided not to run for State Senate seat that was recently vacated by Se. Joseph Boncore. The following is his statement:

"The First Suffolk and Middlesex District's communities of East Boston, Revere, Cambridge, and Winthrop took me and my family in when we immigrated to the United States. It's a district steeped in history and biodiversity with some of the most humble and hard working people in the Commonwealth. Over the past month, I have received innumerable calls, texts, e-mails, and even letters urging me to run for the open seat left behind, by my friend, mentor and former boss Senator Boncore. To all those who have reached out, thank you and know that I am committed to preserving and strengthening our community because it's worth fighting for. This community deserves someone who will prioritize environmental justice so that we can preserve our beautiful coastline at Revere, Constitution, and Magazine Beaches. The front line workers in our district not only deserve a free transportation system, and affordable housing, but a healthcare system that is 100% debt free. These are the values that we are fighting for in this special election and we fought for earlier in the year, and Crystal and I will be right there to elevate that conversation because we plan to raise our family here. This year has been a blessing for Crystal and me, from a historic state representative run, to our nuptials and more; and while we are honored that so many have reached out for us to lead this particular fight we have decided to sit and lead from within the ranks by continuing to fight for the the values that working families in our community stand for. I am excited for the conversation that will take place and look forward to supporting a candidate that will stand by the movement that you and I have built together."

Marie Janet Silva

Devout Roman Catholic who loved her family and God

Marie Janet (Lannan) Silva of Revere passed away peacefully at Care Dimensions Hospice House in Lincoln on Sunday, August 22 surrounded by her loving family.

Born in Salem, Janet was the devoted daughter of the late Frank P. and Florence M. (Langis) Lannan. She was predeceased by her two older sisters, Marilyn F. Dalton and Jeanne M. Sullivan.

Janet grew up and attended school in Somerville and spent most summer days with her sisters and Langis cousins at her grandmother's home in the Point of Pines, Revere. She was a strong, independent woman and a devout Roman Catholic who loved her family and God.

Janet went to school for interior design and was gifted and talented in many other ways. She excelled as a seamstress, creating fashionable clothes and decorations for her loved ones, especially her three grandchildren. She worked for many years in the hospitality industry across Boston, most notably at Logan Airport and Nardizzi's Restaurant, where she made many lifelong friends. In her retirement years, she got her school bus driver's license and drove a school bus.

She is survived by her beloved daughters, Donna M. Silva of Woburn and Debra J. Silva-Onessimo of Palm Beach Gardens, FL; and her cherished and adored grandchildren: Devon Fitchett of Wellesley, Dean Onessimo of Palm Beach Gardens, FL

Prayer To The Holy Spirit

Holy spirit, you who gives meaning to and shines the light on my path so that I may reach my goals. You who gives me the divine grace to forgive and forget the evil done unto me and which is with me at every moment in my life. I want in this short dialogue to reassure you one more time I do not ever want to be separated from you, no matter how grand the worldly possessions may be, my desire to be with you and my brothers in perpetual glory will not be lessened. (One should say this prayer 3 days the divine shall be granted no matter how unattainable it may be.) Publications must be promised.

Favor Received.

C.G.

and Dana Fitchett of Boston. She also leaves many loving nieces, nephews and cousins as well as her dear friends, Candace (Lunde) Naughton and Rhonda Verrocchi.

The family expresses sincere gratitude to the Cambridge Health Alliance Hospital Everett (Whidden) staff, especially Dr. Jeremy Sylvan and Dr. Soumya Narayan, and also to the staff at Care Dimensions in Lincoln, especially Eartha, Eva, Nasim, Kathy, Jessica, Sarah, and Taylor for their compassionate care.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at Saint Anthony of Padua Church, 250 Revere Street, Revere on Monday, September 27 at 11 a.m. Interment will follow in Winthrop Cemetery. Strict adherence of COVID safety protocols including masking and social distancing is requested at services.

To leave an online condolence, visit www.bostoncremation.org.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in memory of Marie Janet Silva to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Please make your online donation here or mail a donation in her name:

The expanded gaming bill that might have the end result of a casino opening at Suffolk Downs was passed by the House last week and is now in the Senate where its particulars are being examined before an expected vote at the end of the month.The Senate is believed ready to pass the bill, which would then be sent to the governor for his signature. According to the bill's language, a casino at Suffolk Downs would designate Revere and East Boston as host cities and would make available 6.5% of casino revenues to be divided equally by the two cities from year to year. It has the potential of bringing many millions of dollars into the Revere city treasury at a time when the city is hard pressed to meet the growing cost of its huge fixed expenses.

State Representative Kathi Anne Reinstein has endorsed candidate for mayor Dan Rizzo. Reinstein's endorsement came during Rizzo's annual luau affair held at Casa Lucia before a large crowd two weeks ago. Rizzo told the Journal that Reinstein's endorsement meant a lot to him and to many others. Reinstein said she would be working for and with Rizzo to get out the vote in November. "It is important to the future of this city for Dan Rizzo to be elected the next mayor of Revere," she said.

A debate will be held at the Whelan School Auditorium between mayoral candidates Dan Rizzo and George Rotondo, according to statements issued last week from officials for both their campaigns. The Revere Journal-sponsored debate will take place on the evening of October 18 inside the auditorium of the Whelan School. The agreement to debate follows months of wrangling between the two mayoral hopefuls. As it is presently-planned and agreed-upon, seating will be available for 100 Rizzo supporters, 100 hundred Rotondo supporters, and for an additional 100 voters who presumably have not yet decided for whom they will be casting a vote.

The hotly-contested mayoral primary contest for the right to succeed Mayor George V. Colella, who is not seeking re-election, saw Councilor-at-Large Robert Haas Jr. top the balloting with 6622 votes. John Festa was second with 5440 votes and will meet Haas in the November final election. William Foley was third with 582 votes. Voter turnout was 57 percent.

Newcomer Al Fiore topped the balloting in the Councilor-at-Large race with 5784 votes. He was followed by incumbents Patsy Tata, George Caporale Jr., and Linda Santos Rosa. Former councilor Joseph W. DiCarlo finished fifth, followed by Donald Goodwin Jr., incumbent Joseph Del Grosso, Edward L. O'Hara, Arthur Zambuto, and Elaine Hurley. Joseph Maher and Louis J. Strocamono did not qualify for the November final election.

The body of Robert Donati, 50, was found in the trunk of a car on Savage St. He had been beaten and stabbed numerous times. Police theorize that he was murdered in his Mountain Ave. apartment and his body was dragged into the car.

with 80 percent of 16- to 19-year-olds.

Now, the Revere Department of Public Health (RPH) has teamed up with Cambridge Health Alliance (CHA) as part of a comprehensive strategy to vaccinate local communities.

CHA, in partnership with RPH, is launching a series of community COVID-19 vaccination clinics in Revere.

Starting yesterday, September 21, CHA will hold a regular community vaccination clinic at Revere High School at 101 School St. The clinic will run every Tuesday until October 19 from 3-6:30 p.m. and will be open to the public aged 12 and older. The Pfizer vaccine will be available, and will be free of charge.

“We realize that vaccination is the best way to prevent serious illness from COVID and we are thrilled that Lauren Buck and the Revere Department of Public Health have been able to partner with CHA to bring these opportunities directly to our students,” said RPS Superintendent Dianne Kelly. “It takes the barrier of access out of the equation for many.”

Ahead of the new school year and after vaccines became available RPS hosted a series of webinars to encourage more high schoolers to get vaccinated.

“Vaccines do work,” said RPH’s Dr. Nathalee Kong at one of those webinars. “We have data here to show that once the vaccine rollout started in nursing homes infections significantly dropped. So the vaccines are effective at protecting the most vulnerable members of our community from getting hospitalized from getting severe symptoms of COVID and from dying with COVID. So this is what we’re aiming for so that we can keep our kids in school and get them back to prom, back to sports, just back to all the things that we used to do and enjoy.”

Anyone who is not vaccinated should visit one of the CHA vaccine clinics or call the Revere Department of Public Health at 781-485-8486 or visit <https://www.revere.org/departments/public-health-division/vaccine>.

Dr. Kelly said all members of the Revere community have been encouraged by RPS to talk to a trusted medical professional—primary care provider or trusted nurse—when making a decision about receiving the vaccine.

The body of an East Boston man, John Joseph Silva, 35, was found lying on Revere St., with two bullet wounds to the head this past week. Silva had been released on parole from state prison only 15 hours earlier when his body was found. Silva pleaded guilty in 1962 to the armed robbery and pistol-whipping of Surf Club owner Joseph DiCarlo, a member of a prominent family involved in Revere politics. Silva had received a 16-20 year sentence for his crimes.

The School Committee has voted unanimously to approve the plans for a new Revere High School.

Mitchell Ginsburg, 51, a foreman for New England Telephone, is being credited with saving the life of 16 year-old Robert DeRosa, who was struck by an automobile as he rode his bicycle on Broadway. Ginsburg, of 206 Park Ave., was alerted to the accident by the screams of his wife as they were enjoying dinner in a restaurant on their 27th anniversary. He found DeRosa with a severe gash in his neck through which blood was pouring out. Ginsburg applied pressure to the wound, which eventually required 100 stitches. Ginsburg said the restaurant picked up the tab for his dinner.

Councilors Fran Doris and Victor Fanikos, the first and second-place finishers in Tuesday’s primary election, clashed over urban renewal at this week’s City Council meeting, with Doris asserting that the urban renewal project on Ocean Ave., which eventually became an MDC parking lot, was the first, and worst, urban renewal project in the state. Doris said the city should buy back the land and turn it into a recreational area for the city’s youth. Fanikos charged that Doris knows the city does not have the funds to do so, but that Doris was only grandstanding at election time.

An American Airlines 707 Astrojet slid off a runway at Logan Airport and plunged into the shallow waters of Winthrop Bay Sunday morning, prompting a rescue of all 70 passengers and crew by a veritable flotilla of boats from area yacht clubs, with many passengers being plucked off the wings. However, the one fatality was Revere resident John J. Luti, 55, of 107 Crest Ave., who suffered a heart attack while rescuing the survivors. Luti was with a friend at the Orient Heights Y.C. and set out in the friend’s boat on the rescue mission. It was less than a year ago that an Eastern Airlines airplane crashed upon takeoff from Logan, with area boat owners also rushing to the scene to perform rescues. However, most of the 67 passengers and crew in that crash perished.

Police have arrested two boys, ages 12 and 14, whom they allege are the masterminds of a bicycle theft ring that saw 19 bikes stolen over a two-month period. The boys were stripping, repainting, and reassembling the bikes. Eight of the 19 stolen bikes have been recovered.

VIN’S AUTO SERVICE CELEBRATES 60 YEARS OF SERVING REVERE

Last Saturday afternoon Vin’s Auto Service on the American Legion Highway

way in Revere reached a milestone in its history, it reached 60 years in business, at the same location, under the same respected

Conte name. Vin’s Auto Service has always stood for quality service and dependability since its inception, founded by the late Vincent Conte Sr. and still under the ownership of his son and successor Vin Conte Jr.

It’s not easy to get to 60 years of anything, 60 years in business is incredible, it takes hard work, repeat business from quality repairs and a desire to keep a solid reputation, Vin’s Auto has done this and more, being part of the community and employing local mechanics has all the makings of a successful business.

Congratulations to Vin’s Auto Service and thank you for your commitment to the City of Revere.

PELATERE LEADS THE WAY FOR RHS BOYS

The Revere High boys cross country team opened its season last week with a 21-34 triumph over Greater Boston League rival Lynn Classical.

Senior captain Victor Pelatere led the way for the Patriots, traversing the Revere home course of 2.8 miles behind the high school in a time of 18:35 to take first place.

Teammate Trey Delaney finished third overall with a clocking of 20:29. Mohamed Ouakani came across in fourth in 21:06 followed by senior captain Miguel Leonarte in sixth in 21:49 and Brayden Shanley in seventh in 22:55.

Coach Mike Flynn and his crew are set to take on Lynn English this week and will run at Everett next Wednesday.

cross country team opened its season in fine fashion, defeating Lynn Classical, 23-32, last Wednesday on the Lady Patriots' 2.8-mile home course behind the high school that starts and ends at the baseball field.

Rocio Gonzalez Castillo was the top performer for Revere, coming across the line in second place in a time of 23:26.

Carly Bennett grabbed third place in 27:06, followed by teammates Yasmin Riazzi in fifth place in 29:07, Christy Ly in sixth in 30:15, Maajda Louaddi in seventh in 34:42, and Jessica Medina in ninth in 44:12.

"Samantha Solis also participated in the race with a finishing time of 31:29, but she, along with a few Lynn runners, got a little off-course, which resulted in an unofficial time," said veteran RHS head coach Katie Sinnott.

"Despite the heat, the team did well," noted Sinnott. "It feels good to have full teams racing again after such a different season last year."

"Rocio Gonzalez Castillo is our strongest runner and looks to continue her racing successes," Sinnott continued. "Returning seniors Carly Bennett and Maajda Louaddi provide leadership and support to our new runners, juniors Christy Ly and Jessica Medina, sophomore Yasmin Riazzi, and freshman Samantha Solis.

"The team looks to build on this meet and grow over the season," Sinnott added.

The girls are scheduled to meet Lynn English this week and will make the short journey down the Parkway to Everett next Wednesday.

Joe Lake-trained Everett boxing star returns to the ring Friday night

By Cary Shuman

Coming off a spectacular 41-second knockout in her last fight, Everett women's boxing sensation Shayna Foppiano is training for her next bout to be held Sept. 24 in Windham, New Hampshire.

Foppiano will bring a career record of 4-0-1 into the fight against Ivana Coleman. "I'm working hard, and I feel great," said Foppiano. "I'm very confident working under the coaching of Joe Lake. He changed my life. He's the best coach."

Lake, who is a general foreman in the Revere Department of Public Works, is well-known in boxing circles. A former prizefighter himself, Lake has trained world champions throughout his storied career and now seeks to help Foppiano realize her dream of becoming a world champion.

REVERE STORMS PAST CHELSEA, 34-0, RODRIGUEZ, BARRETO PACE PATRIOTS TO VICTORY

Story By Cary Shuman

Chelsea High-Revere High was always a great football rivalry in the old Greater Boston League – and in Pop Warner as well. In fact, head coach Lou Cicatelli experienced it as a former football player for the Revere High Patriots.

Cicatelli brought his team to Chelsea Memorial Stadium Friday night for a renewal game with the Red Devils, and Round 1 went to the Revere contingent by an impressive 34-0 margin before Chelsea’s largest crowd in six years, according to school officials.

Chelsea is currently an independent football program but is a full-fledged member of the GBL other sports.

Running backs Wilmer Rodriguez and Davi Barreto led the way offensively, with each player accounting for more than 150 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

Junior kick returner Sami El Asri opened the proceedings with a dynamic, 73-yard kickoff return down the sidelines during which he bounced off and then evaded several tacklers. El Asri set up the offense on the Red Devils’ 4-yard line.

Sami El Asri also caught a 30-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Anwar Marbough, in which El Asri made a full-length, diving catch in the end zone. El Asri’s TD came on the final play of the first half.

“Sami had a really good game,” said Coach Cicatelli. “But the guy who really stood out was Wilmer Rodriguez, who tore up the defense on two counter plays. Our running backs (Rodriguez and Barreto) had big nights. And I thought Anwar managed the team well.”

Junior captain Max Doucette had another All-Star caliber performance, helping to keep Chelsea off the scoreboard with 11 tackles and a sack. Also containing Chelsea quarterback Erick Galeano Flores and the Red Devils’ offense were captain and defensive end Augusto Goncalves, inside linebackers Filipe Cotta and Abbas Atoui, and outside linebacker Mark Marchese (“He was everywhere on the field and had YES IT IS: the official’s signal confirms what Sami El Asri and his teammates knew all along—touchdown! seven tackles,” said Cicatelli). The defense really swarmed to the ball. There were eight or nine players around the ball on every play, and you can’t ask for more when you get that.”

BOYS SOCCER ROUTS LYNN CLASSICAL, 7-0

The Revere High boys soccer team earned its first win of the season with a 7-0 triumph over Greater Boston League rival Lynn Classical last Tuesday evening under the lights at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

Senior captain David Marquez led the Patriot offensive barrage, scoring four goals.

Bryan Medina and Joao Victor Cunha both added a goal and an assist. Latrell Ashby also reached the back of the Classical net.

Joshua Flores, Alex Diaz, Kevin Rivas Flores, and Keny Guerrero Alvarez all contributed assists.

The Patriots had opened their season the previous week with a 3-2 loss to Everett, almost overcoming an early 3-0 deficit. Captain David Paiva, assisted by Marquez, and Felipe Maia, assisted by Ashby, scored the Everett goals.

This past Thursday, the Patriots deadlocked Lynn English to a 2-2 draw.

Coach Manny Lopes and his crew were scheduled to take on Medford yesterday (Tuesday) and will make the short trek to Chelsea tomorrow (Thursday).

They will entertain Somerville in a special soccer Saturday Night Lights contest this Saturday evening at 6:30 at Harry Della Russo Stadium. They will host Malden next Tuesday.

This 2021 edition of the RHS boys soccer team are led by a trio of senior captains, Arath Hernandez, David Marquez, and David Paiva.

Their fellow members of the Class of 2022 on this year's squad are Alex

Diaz, Emerson Pineda Mejia, Joshuan Flores, Kayo De Souza Lopez, Keny Guerrero Alvarez, Karlot Quiroz, Luis Marquez, Brayan Hanao, Christian, and Mateo Norena.

Juniors on the team are Matt Rivera, Brian Novoa, Kevin Rivas Flores, Alejandro Garcia, Felipe Maia, Albino Lopez, and Santiago Grajales.

The sophomores are Bryan Peña, Joao Victor Cunha, Juan Chavarria, and Latrell Ashby. Bryan Medina is the lone freshman.

Assisting Lopes in the coaching department are assistant coach Gerardo Rodriguez, junior varsity coach Khalid Ahrati, and freshman coach Roberto Tobalino.

RHS VOLLEYBALL TEAM ON A ROLL

The Revere High volleyball team engaged in a busy week of action with five matches in an eight-day stretch.

Coach Lianne Mimmo's squad earned victories in three of those contests, defeating Greater Boston League rival Lynn English, 3-1; last Wednesday, non-league foe Pioneer Charter, 3-0, on Saturday; and topping GBL foe Chelsea, 3-1, this past Monday.

The Lady Patriots came up short in their contests with Lynn Classical, 3-1, and Medford, 3-0.

"Lynn Classical is a senior-heavy team and will graduate 11 seniors this year," noted Mimmo. "We are a much younger team with only three seniors, two of whom have varsity experience. Medford is a very strong team."

The Patriots have another busy week on tap with five matches in eight days.

I think the sky's the limit," said Foppiano. "I think she's the best, pure athlete in the lightweight division. She's a wonderful young woman and she has the fire and hunger in her heart, and there's a lot of exciting stuff happening in the career of Shayna Foppiano."

Foppiano, 29, has risen to the No. 2 ranking in the U.S.A. women's lightweight division. "Hard work definitely pays off and it's taken a long time, but I knew we would get here eventually, though it's been a tough road," said Foppiano.

As a result of her success in the ring and charismatic presence in the sport, Foppiano, whose nickname is "Hollywood", has been receiving some excellent marketing opportunities. She has signed on with Gordon Gronkowski's brand, VUE, which is a vitamin drink. She is also sponsored by Gronk Foppiano said she would like the opportunity to fight at Encore Boston Harbor in Everett in the future. "It's my hometown, so I know I would be able to sell a bunch of tickets," said Foppiano. "Hopefully, we'll be able to fight there soon. I'm ready to take this career to the next level."

The next step for Shayna Foppiano is a tough four-round bout Friday night in the Granite State.

Residents among fourteen Brazilian nationals charged with identity theft

Staff Report

Fourteen Brazilian nationals including three men from Revere were charged in a second superseding indictment by a federal grand jury in Boston in connection with a nationwide conspiracy to open fraudulent driver accounts with multiple rideshare and delivery service companies.

In May 2021, 19 defendants were indicted on one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud by using stolen identities and falsified documents to create fraudulent driver accounts for rent or sale to individuals who might not otherwise qualify to drive for the rideshare or delivery services. The defendants allegedly exploited referral bonus programs offered by the rideshare and delivery companies and used “bots” and GPS “spoofing” technology to increase the income earned from the companies. As a result of the scheme, Internal Revenue Service Forms 1099 were generated in victims’ names for income that conspirators earned from the rideshare and delivery companies.

The second superseding indictment also charges 14 of the defendants with aggravated identity theft related to their use of victims’ means of identification in connection with the conspiracy. According to the charging documents, the defendants allegedly used victims’ identifying information to apply for driver accounts with the rideshare and delivery companies, enabling defendants to pass those companies’ required background checks and create driver accounts in victims’ names. At times, defendants also edited victims’ driver’s license images to display photos of the drivers renting or buying the fraudulent accounts in order to circumvent facial recognition technology that the rideshare and delivery companies used as a security measure. The defendants allegedly obtained victims’ names, dates of birth, driver’s license information, and or Social Security numbers from co-conspirators and other sources, including sites on the Dark Net. The defendants and co-conspirators also obtained driver’s license images directly from victims, by photographing victims’ licenses while completing an alcohol delivery through one of the services or while exchanging information with victims following vehicle accidents, some of which defendants or co-conspirators intentionally caused in order to obtain victims’ license information.

The grand jury previously returned a superseding indictment charging two of the 19 defendants in the case with aggravated identity theft in June 2021. Sixteen of the defendants have been arrested in connection with the conspiracy and three remain at large. REVERE POP WARNER HOLDS CANCER AWARENESS EVENT IN HONOR OF REGGIE GREEN JR.

Photos by Cary Shuman

The Revere Pop Warner Junior Patriots football and cheerleading organization held its annual “Be Bold/Go Gold” event to raise childhood cancer awareness in honor of Reggie Green Jr. Sunday at Harry Della Russo Stadium.

The event celebrated the life of Reggie Green Jr., son of Nicolette Deveau and Reggie Green Sr., a longtime Revere Pop Warner football coach.

Nicolette Deveau said her son was diagnosed at the age of three with neuroblastoma, which is a very aggressive childhood cancer. “Little Reggie” fought gallantly for 18 months before losing his battle.

Revere Pop Warner coaches, football players, and cheerleaders participated in an event to raise childhood cancer awareness on a day dedicated to Reggie Green Jr.

Revere Pop Warner Coaches Oscar Rodriguez, Reggie Green Sr., and Juan Pablo Jaramillo.

The month of September is Childhood Cancer Month. Be Bold/Go Gold is the slogan that the cancer community uses for childhood cancer.

The young athletes were wearing “R4R” Rooting For Reggie ribbons with the Superman logo. “We always called Reggie our Superman,” said Amanda Deveau.

Reggie Jr.’s sister, Brookelynn Green, and cousins, Mikayla Hayes and Anya Hayes, are cheerleaders in the Revere program.

ed identity theft provides for a sentence of at least two years in prison to be served consecutive to any other sentence imposed. The charge of conspiracy to commit wire fraud provides for a sentence of up to 20 years in prison, three years of supervised release and a fine of $250,000 or twice the gross gain or loss from the offense, whichever is greater. Sentences are imposed by a federal district court judge based upon the U.S. Sentencing Guidelines and other statutory factors.

Acting United States Attorney Nathaniel R. Mendell and Joseph R.

Bonavolonta, Special Agent in Charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Boston Division made the announcement. Significant assistance was provided by the Massachusetts State Police; Concord, Lexington, Plymouth, Wilmington, Marlborough and Village of Rye Brook (N.Y.) Police Departments; U.S. Customs and Border Protection; U.S. Postal Inspection Service and the National Crime Insurance Bureau. Assistant U.S. Attorneys Kristen A. Kearney and David M. Holcomb of Mendell’s Securities, Financial & Cyber

Fraud Unit are prosecuting the case.

The details contained in the charging documents are allegations. The defendants are presumed innocent unless and until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt in a court of law.

COREY ABRAMS COMMUNITY GARDEN DEDICATION

By Marianne Salza

The City of Revere held a dedication ceremony for the Corey Abrams Community Garden on September 20, at 125 Broad-sound Avenue. Friends and family gathered around the raised boxes of vegetables for a barbeque in honor of Abrams, who was described as a humble man with an infectious laugh. “We all loved Corey Abrams. He was a wonderful person,” said Council President Anthony Zambuto, who served with Abrams on the City Council in 2010. “He was a special person to all of us. He had a heart of gold. He would do anything for anybody. I loved him dearly.” Abrams grew up in Beachmont, and was dedicated to caring for his neighbors – helping with groceries, plowing streets, and donating Christmas trees to families in need. “Corey was my friend – everyone’s friend,” said Councilor Joanne McKenna, who was able to push her motions forward for a community garden in the former empty parcel of land once a community trust fund was established several years ago. “With his infectious laugh, wit, and huge heart, you always wanted to be around him. I miss him every day.”

Joe Ritchie connected with Tom Portrait for a 25 yard touchdown pass on the last play of the game to give the Revere High football team a dramatic 28-22 victory over Whit-tier Tech Friday evening under the lights at Har-ry Della Russo Stadium before a big crowd. The clutch pass play, on which Portrait ran a pass route to the weak side that left him open in the end zone, put a big exclamation point on a spectacular night for Ritchie, a junior quarter-back who stepped into the starting role as signal-caller this season. Ritchie completed seven of 13 passes, good for 200 yards and three touchdowns. In addition to the final toss to Portrait, Ritchie hit his favorite receiver on the night, Kyle Gotham (five receptions for 140 yards), with TD strikes of 33 and 30 yards. But what also stood out in Ritchie’s performance is that he accomplished it without the services of his starting backfield duo of tailback Drew Lauria and fullback Edson Cordeiro, both of whom left the game by halftime with injuries. The Patriots also saw two starting linemen forced out with injuries. The Pats struck for the first score in the opening quarter when Lauria capped a 60 yard drive and went over from the four yard line. Jeff Simbert kicked the PAT to make it 7-0.

Mike Silvestri scored three touchdowns and Lou Brandt crossed the goal line twice (one of which was an 82-yard kickoff return) and had two inter-ceptions to lead the RHS football team to a 34-6 romp over Malden.

The RHS boys soccer team has seen its 4-0 start reduced to 0-4 because the Patriots used an ineligible player. The infraction oc-curred because of a com-puter glitch in the high school’s listing of the stu-dent as a freshman instead of as a sophomore.

Jessica Penta scored a goal with eight minutes to play to give the RHS girls soccer team a 3-2 win over Latin Academy, marking the RHS girls’ first victory in 20 games going back to 1999.

Ba Tran completed the 2.93 mile RHS course in 16:25 to lead the boys cross-country team to a 21-40 win over Arlington in the season-opener.

MDAR announces the opening of the Mass. State Exposition Building for the 2021 “Big E” fair

Staff Report

In collaboration with the Eastern States Expo-sition, the Massachusetts Department of Agricul-tural Resources (MDAR) to-day announced the annual opening of the Massachu-setts State Exposition Building during the “Big E” fair. This year, the 2021 “Big E” Fair will through Sunday, October 3, 2021. The Massachusetts State Exposition Building is one of six original statehouse replicas representing each of the New England states that are located on the Eastern States Exposition fairgrounds’ “Avenue of States.” The mission of the Massachusetts building is to showcase Massachu-setts agriculture, culture, commerce, and tourism through informational, educational, promotional, and retail exhibits. Addi-tionally, in 2019, the Mas-sachusetts States Exposi-tion Building celebrated its 100-year anniversary.

“Following a year off due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we are espe-cially excited to celebrate the Big E fair and show-case much of what makes the Commonwealth so special,” said Massachu-setts Department of Agri-cultural Resources Com-missioner John Lebeaux. “Importantly, the public will be able to visit the Massachusetts Building, which is open for business and happy to provide ev-eryone with a sampling of Massachusetts’ agricul-ture, culture, tourism and commerce sectors.”

Attendees of the 2021 “Big E” fair can visit over 30 vendors including small business owners, agricul-tural commodity groups, commercial vendors, and state organizations located within the Massachusetts Building. Visitors can also expect to find a wide va-riety of products, includ-ing clam chowder, apples, Finnish pancakes, honey, chili, fruit, maple syrup, candles, soaps, chocolate, jewelry, photography, dips, lobster rolls, kettle corn, smoothies, sand-wiches, ice cream, and more.

“We are delighted to welcome back The Big E, New England’s pre-mier agricultural fair since 1919,” said Massachu-setts Office of Travel and Tourism Executive Direc-tor Keiko Orrall. “As the largest event of its kind on the East Coast, this icon-ic event attracts a strong drive-market of visitors from the New England and Mid-Atlantic states in particular. The Big E pro-vides a tangible economic boost to our tourism in-dustry and gives visitors yet another reason to visit Massachusetts.”

Special days for the Massachusetts Building will include Military Day on Friday, September 17, 2021, Massachusetts Day on Thursday, September 23, 2021, and Harvest New England Day on Friday, October 1, 2021. Be-low is a list of this year’s Massachusetts State Ex-position Building vendors for the 17-day fair:

Rockland Trust, Metro Credit Union partner in unique, community-minded agreement to preserve jobs

Staff Report

Independent Bank Corp., parent of Rockland Trust Company, and Metro Credit Union today announced an agreement whereby Metro Credit Union will acquire four of the East Boston Savings Bank branch locations that Rockland Trust previously announced would be closing following the Bank’s impending acquisition of East Boston Savings Bank. The mutually beneficial transaction will enable further retention of jobs for former East Boston Savings Bank employees and will enable Metro

Credit Union to expand as Massachusetts’ largest state-chartered credit union. With this transaction, Metro will acquire four physical branch locations and the employees working within them, enabling Metro to open two new locations at 960 Morrissey Boulevard in Dorchester and 1985 Centre Street in West Roxbury and relocate two existing branch locations in Burlington and Melrose to 50 Summit Drive and 108 Main Street, respectively. The four locations are scheduled to open as Metro branches in early 2022. The closing of the four branches by Rockland Trust and the opening of the four new branches by Metro is subject to receipt of customary regulatory approvals. The sale transaction between Rockland Trust and Metro is structured as an assignment of the applicable leases and is limited to the physical branch facilities, as Rockland Trust intends to maintain the existing customer relationships. As part of the agreement, Rockland Trust and Metro Credit Union agreed that employees working within those branches at the time of the East Boston Savings Bank acquisition will be extended job offers with Metro, subject to a background check. Additionally, branch employees at these locations will receive a generous severance package from Rockland Trust during the bridging period. “We approached this branch sale with the priority of securing as many jobs as possible, while minimizing the disruption to the neighborhoods around these branches,” said Robert Cozzone, Chief Operating Officer and Executive Vice President of Consumer and Business Banking at Rockland Trust. “We share and appreciate Metro’s high level of commitment to customers and employees, and we’re grateful this agreement will benefit the communities we serve.” In addition to these four locations, Metro plans to open two additional new offices in the fall of 2021 – a new location on Main Street in Reading, and a second Peabody location on Andover Street. In total, Metro plans to open six new locations over the next six months, bringing its branch network to 18 locations. “Metro has stayed strong and not wavered over the past year. In doing so, we have been able to maintain and build upon our strong foundation,” said Robert Cashman, President & CEO, Metro Credit Union. “With these new locations, Metro will serve the needs of local neighborhoods in terms of banking options, while also offering jobs and supporting communities. Each new branch is a terrific opportunity on many levels for everyone involved. We’re excited to welcome to the Metro family, new members and employees at these locations.”

Baker-Polito administration announces $15 million in support for the Food Security Infrastructure Grant Program

Staff Report

Building on investments to address food insecurity among Massachusetts residents, the Baker-Polito Administration last week announced it has made available $15 million in funding through a second round of its Food Security Infrastructure Grant Program. The funding will enable the Administration to continue to implement the recommendations of the Food Security Task Force, which was convened last year by the Massachusetts COVID-19 Command Center in response to increased demands for food assistance. “Addressing food security issues remains a high priority of our Administration to help ensure all residents have fresh, healthy produce readily available to them,” said Governor Charlie Baker. “By working with dedicated partners, we will continue to strengthen the food distribution supply chain and address more needs throughout the Commonwealth.” “This round of grants from the Food Security Grant program will further expand on our efforts to provide greater access to locally harvested and produced food products,” said Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito. “With higher numbers of people experiencing food insecurity, we continue to take significant strides in ensuring fresh, locally sourced food remains widely available to the residents of Massachusetts.” The Administration opened the funding opportunity on Wednesday, September 15, 2021 and is currently accepting applications for funding. In this round, the program is focused on addressing access to fresh food by improving and strengthening the resiliency of the Commonwealth’s food system and expanding the distribution of locally grown and sourced products to vulnerable communities. The Request for Responses for project proposals is available here, and is open until October 31, 2021. The Administration launched the Food Security Infrastructure Grant Program last year as part of a $56 million investment to combat food insecurity for Massachusetts families and individuals. In addition to expanding access to healthy local food, the program seeks to ensure farmers, fishermen and other local food producers are better connected to a strong, resilient food system to help mitigate future food supply disruption. Last year’s program dedicated over $35.5 million to hundreds of projects to address food insecurity across the Commonwealth. “The Baker-Polito Administration continues to dedicate critical resources to address food insecurity and ensure that residents across the Commonwealth are able to access fresh, local food,” said Energy and Environmental Affairs Kathleen Theoharides. “Building on recent investments with this additional funding will further strengthen the Commonwealth’s food distribution network, invest in local farms and fishermen and women to areas of food insecurity and build a more resilient food system.” “The Baker-Polito Administration has been addressing increased food insecurity for families as a result of the public health emergency, building on and strengthening the infrastructure in place, and leveraging existing nutrition resources like SNAP and WIC,” said Secretary of Health and Human Services Marylou Suders. “The $15 million in additional funds will further strengthen the food system in Massachusetts, increasing access to local, healthy food, particularly among communities hardest-hit by the COVID-19 pandemic.” Eligible grantees include entities that are part of the Massachusetts local food system, including production, processing and distribution, the emergency food distribution network, community and food organizations, school meal programming, urban farms and community gardens, non-profits, and other organizations involved in ensuring that everyone in the Commonwealth has access to fresh, healthy foods. Applications for the second round of the Food Security Infrastructure Grant Program are due Sunday, October 31, 2021. Eligible proposals include, but are not limited to, projects seeking to:

- Increase the resiliency of the overall food system in the Commonwealth;
- Increase capacity for food storage;
- Increase capacity of local food distribution partners;
- Increase capacity of the emergency food network;
- Increase capacity of food production by purchasing food processing equipment; and,
- Offer innovative solutions for urban farming.

Eligible grantees include entities that are part of the Massachusetts local food system including production, processing and distribution, the emergency food distribution network, Buy Local, community and food organizations, school meal programming, urban farms and community gardens, non-profits, and organizations that provide business planning, technical assistance and information technology services. The first round of the Food Insecurity Infrastructure Grant Program was announced in May 2020 as part of a $56 million investment by the Baker-Polito Administration to combat urgent food insecurity for some Massachusetts families and individuals as a result of COVID-19. The Administration also announced a $5 million increase for the Healthy Incentives Program to meet increased demand for local produce and to increase access points that process SNAP and HIP benefits, $12 million for the provision of 25,000 family food boxes per week through a regional food supply system, and $3 million in funding as an immediate relief valve to food banks.

State health officials announce seventh human case of WNV

Staff Report

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH) announced an additional case of West Nile virus (WNV) in the state this year. WNV infection was identified in a woman in her 30s who was exposed to WNV in Bristol County. This is the seventh human case of WNV this year. Previously, since September 1, DPH has announced six human cases and one animal case of WNV in Massachusetts. Twenty-seven communities in Essex, Middlesex, Brookline and Suffolk counties are at high risk and forty-nine communities are at moderate risk. Based on mosquito findings and the new human case, eleven additional communities are being raised to moderate risk. Those communities are: Fall River and Seekonk in Bristol County; North Andover in Essex County; Bridgewater, East Bridgewater, Halifax, and Plympton in Plymouth County; and Blackstone, Hopedale, Milford, and Millville in Worcester County. As overnight temperatures get cooler, mosquito activity right around dusk and dawn may be more intense. “This is our first West Nile virus case this year in someone under the age of 50,” said Acting Public Health Commissioner Margret Cooke. “This is a reminder that although people over the age of 50 are at greater risk from West Nile virus, all ages can be affected. Risk from West Nile virus will continue until the first hard frost and people should remember to take steps to prevent mosquito bites anytime they are outdoors.” In 2020, there were five human cases of WNV infection identified in Massachusetts. WNV is usually transmitted to humans through the bite of an infected mosquito. While WNV can infect people of all ages, people over the age of 50 are at higher risk for severe disease. Most people infected with WNV will have no symptoms. When present, WNV symptoms tend to include fever and flu-like illness. In rare cases, more severe illness can occur. People have an important role to play in protecting themselves and their loved ones from illnesses caused by mosquitoes. Avoid Mosquito Bites Apply Insect Repellent when Outdoors. Use a repellent with DEET (N, N-diethyl-m-toluamide), permethrin, picaridin (KBR 3023), oil of lemon eucalyptus [p-menthane 3, 8-diol (PMD)], or IR3535 according to the product label. DEET products should not be used on infants under two months of age and should be used in concentrations of 30% or less on older children. Oil of lemon eucalyptus should not be used on children under three years of age.

POWER OF RECOVERY HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

By Marianne Salza

Power of Recovery, an organization that provides personalized substance abuse treatment, held an Open House on September 15. Since its opening on May 3, Power of Recover has been supporting 24 individuals in a welcoming and relaxing atmosphere as they begin a new life free from the influence of alcohol and drugs.

“We are ecstatic to be here,” said Matthew Powers, CEO. “I am going on 12 years sober, myself. We started with sober homes in Lynn. This was the next thing on our list.”

Power of Recovery offers programming for all stages of recovery, such Partial Hospitalization, for those in need of structure and accountability; an Intensive Outpatient Program, for people struggling to maintain sobriety; and an Outpatient

Program for individuals who have returned to their daily lives, and wish to continue their substance abuse treatment. Telehealth Services, including Medication Management, a Virtual Partial Hospitalization Program, and a Virtual Intensive Outpatient Program, are also available.

“We are providing great services for the recovering community,” said Margherita Powers, Program Director. “Power is both strength and acknowledgement of weakness – both of which everyone needs to embrace their life.”

Visit Power of Recovery at 385 Broadway, Unit 203, Revere, call (781) 629-4609, or visit www.PowerOfRecovery.org to learn how you can begin a fresh life of growth and change.

Power of Recovery Staff: Tina Oliveri, Case Manager; Kevin Caprio, Case Manager; Jennie Burns, Clinical Director; Margherita Powers, Program Director; Matthew Powers, CEO; Damon Weinberg, Business Development; Vibeke Gonzalez, Program Assistant; Stephen Powers, CEO; and Mari Santos.

Lt. Maria Lavita and Chief Dave Callahan, of the Revere Police Department, Officer Dave Delaney, four-month-old community resource dog, Brute, and Lt. Dan Delaney, of the Chelsea Police Department, with Power of Recovery CEOs Stephen Powers and Matt Powers, and Business Developer, Damon Weinberg.

Local artist Kevin O’Neil showcases creative art projects

By Melissa Randall

Whether it is a pair of sneakers, a graduation cap or a city switch box, local artist Kevin O’Neil is bringing a unique and creative touch to each.

O’Neill, who is a technician for National Grid and a busy sports dad to Chloe and Kali, has transformed so many everyday items into works of art. A longtime resident of Malden and a 1996 graduate of Malden High School, and attended Salem State College and majored in Graphic Arts.

After moving to Revere about 15 years ago, he began to focus on various art projects. “My most popu-

A custom pet portrait created by local artist Kevin O’Neil.

In addition to custom sneakers and graduation caps, he also became involved in Revere’s project a couple of years ago to transform the city’s switch boxes. “I painted the switch box on the corner of Malden Street and Broadway. I thought it was a great idea for the city because it really showcased some of the extremely talented artists in Revere, that otherwise no-one would have noticed. I do have an idea that I think would be amazing. It would be to paint a switch box or something else, in the area of the dog park on Sargent Street. I am thinking of a mural of the dogs of Revere. People can bring me pics of their pups, and I will paint them to be remembered. I really do love painting people’s pets, and think it would be so cool to have people look at and say that’s my dog.”

If you would like to see more of O’Neill’s work or have a project you would like him to do for you, you can follow him on Instagram at Nitwit928.
