Conservation Commission to take enforcement actions

By Journal Staff

The Revere Conservation Commission took up a number of matters at its monthly meeting last Wednesday in the Joseph Del Grosso City Council Chambers.

Chairman John Shue and fellow commissioners Zachary Bisconti, Heather Legere, Nathalie Pardo, and Joseph Lavalle were on hand for the meeting.

Although the meeting was relatively-uneventful, the commission voted to take enforcement actions against three homeowners who had undertaken projects in their backyards, which abut wetland areas, without first receiving permission from the commission to perform the work.

The agenda items, followed by the commission members' discussion and vote on each item, were as follows:

1) PMA DEP File #061-0774 - Abbreviated Notice of Resource Area Delineation - area off Muzzy Street - Hayes Engineering, Inc.

Discussion and vote:

Anthony Capachietti from Hayes Engineering appeared for the petitioner, which owns the property off Muzzy St. Capachietti's purpose in coming before the commission was to seek the commissioners' approval of the wetland line that his firm had mapped out on the property.

ANNUAL TRIP TO BOURNE NATIONAL CEMETERY TO HONOR OUR NATION'S HEROES

The group of volunteers shown above loaded onto the bus and headed to Bourne National Cemetery, their purpose is to place American Flags on the graves of our nation's heroes, those who gallantly served our country and are no longer with us. Honoring them on the Veteran's Day holiday, shows the true American spirit and our duty in remembering their sacrifices for our freedom.

This annual trip to Bourne National Cemetery is sponsored by the Buonfiglio Funeral Service. Shown in the photo to the right, Joel Farrington, and Paul and Victor Buonfiglio.

Superintendent Kelly offers suggestions for $575,505 in carry forward funding

By John Lynds

Each year the Revere Public School Committee takes a look at how much 'carry forward' funding flowed from the previous fiscal year and decides whether or not to spend some, all or none of the money.

In a typical fiscal year some of the money budgeted will go unspent and it's the School Committee's responsibility to appropriate that free cash carried forward and see where it can best be used in the current fiscal year.

This year there was $575,505 in carry forward money and Revere Public School Superintendent Dr. Dianne Kelly offered several suggestions on how to spend the money at Tuesday's School Committee Ways and Means subcommittee meeting.

Kelley aks included $50,000 for a new Parent Information Center (PIC)/English Learners (EL) secretary, $60,000 to redesign the school's PIC office, $180,000 to hire three EL teachers, $15,000 for NEASC Committee Expenses, $10,000 for Transportation Leads stipends, and $150,000 for new cameras for Rumney Marsh Academy and the Paul Revere schools for a grand total of $465,000.

"There are several requests from different administrators that I did put together," said Kelly. "We worked with the administrative team to identify any

Revere Reprecincting Committee presents updated map to the Revere City Council; hearings scheduled

Staff Report

After about 150 submitted comments and public testimony on www.revere.org/redrawingrevere, a new map has been created and submitted to the Revere City Council. Based on the results of the 2020 Census, Revere is one of the fastest growing cities in the state. Revere has also shifted from a city with a population that was 62% Non-Hispanic White in 2010 to 45% Non-Hispanic White in 2020 - a significant shift.

The Revere Reprecincting Committee has worked significantly over the last few months comparing numerous ward maps, delving into data sets, logging public comments from the redrawing survey, and hosting information forums. The new map was presented by Committee Member Reuben Kantor at the November 8 Revere City Council Meeting. Residents are encouraged to attend public hearings on November 15 at 4:00 PM and November 18 at 6:00 PM in person at the Revere City Hall Chambers (281 Broadway). All hearings will be available to watch on RevereTV.

By law, the City is required to ensure every ward and every precinct on the map is sized within 5 percent of the average size. In addition, the City may not dilute racial or ethnic groups' voting strength, nor may it make race the predominant factor in repredrawing. The Reprecincting Committee took all of these factors and legal requirements into consideration in developing the maps. After over 150 responses to the Redrawing Survey, the Reprecincting Committee has created a new, updated map. The revised map reflects several changes - many of these modifications will be explained in detail at the public hearings. Residents can view, make comments on, and download a PDF version of the revised map now on www.revere.org/redrawingrevere.

D'Ambrosio donates School Committee salary back to city

By Cary Shuman

Anthony D'Ambrosio is earning plaudits from colleagues in city government for his decision to not accept his salary for being a member of the Revere School Committee.

D'Ambrosio, who is in his first term as a member of the Committee after topping the ticket in the 2019 election, has not accepted his approximately $6,000 annual salary and benefits for the past two years.

"It was a decision that I immediately made after getting elected, especially because I came in wanting to fund certain mental health initiatives and equity initiatives, knowing that education is a chronically underfunded field," said D'Ambrosio.

Ward 4 Councillor Patrick Keefe praised D'Ambrosio for not accepting a salary.

"I think it's an admirable feat," said Keefe. "I don't think many people are aware of it. It's a very generous thing for Anthony to do. Hopefully, the funds were used toward something good."

Human Rights Commission holds November monthly meeting

By Journal Staff

The Revere Human Rights Commission (HRC) held its regular monthly meeting last Thursday (November 4) in the City Council Chambers.

HRC chairperson Janine Grillo Marra and fellow commissioners Lynn Alexis, Rev. Timothy Bogertman, Fire Chief Chris Bright, Police Chief David Callahan, Chai Hossani, Rachid Moukhabir, Kourou Pich, and Kathi Anne Reinstein were in attendance for the meeting.

The commission heard presentations from two members of the Revere community.

Kathleen Heiser told the committee of a project, Planting Seeds for Reconciliation, that she is undertaking. Heiser, the current President of the Beachmont Improvement Committee and a former first-grade teacher in the Revere schools who has lived in Revere for 26 years, said the twin purposes of her project are to seek storyboards from all members of the community that can be placed in the schools and in other locations in the city and to make the schools more-welcoming to incoming students, particularly those who are recent immigrants.

"I felt compelled to do this because I felt as though I had to do something concrete," said Heiser. "The project will reach out to thousands of people. There is a story to be had from everybody because everybody is an immigrant."

"Some of the old-time second or third generation residents may have forgotten how hard it was for their families when they first arrived here," Heiser continued. "I would like the older generations to share their stories with the new ones. The older generations are not as sympathetic as they could be because they've forgotten. I want a storyboard in which residents tell where they came from and why they left that can be displayed in the lobbies of the schools for such occasions as parent-teacher nights."

Heiser also explained that she is seeking to "make the lobbies in the schools more friendly to new students and parents, with comfortable chairs and tables with translations that will provide a virtual tour of their new school. Ideally, there could be QR codes for their language. If we want to be inclusive, we have to make them feel welcome enough that they will join committees in our schools and community."

The members of the commission were effusive in their support of the project.

"I'm encouraged by your vision," said Alexis, who pledged her support for the project.

"I want your support and I want you to encourage people to make their storyboards," said Heiser.

Rev. Bogertman added, "This is a great idea to move forward with," and suggested that Heiser incorporate her project into religious organizations throughout the city.

"You are just a gem," said Reinstein. "I think the world of you. You are incredibly selfless and we are fortunate that you ended up here in Revere with us. Perhaps you can work with the city to reach out to the community, including the Senior Center."

"We're honored to hear all of your great ideas," added Pich.

"This is great timing," said Bright. "We really need something like this in the city, the storyboards of our older citizens and the new immigrants."

Moukhabir, who described how he first came to know Heiser when she helped him to organize the first Moroccan Festival, added, "This is a very wonderful project. Anything we can do to support you, let us know. Maybe there can be a big map in City Hall with each person putting a pin where they're from to make everyone feel welcome."

"I would propose that students of that school explain their experience in their own language," said Hossani.

"This sounds like a great idea," said Callahan. "This would be very good for the community. We're very diverse here. We can share with each other and learn. "We can put storyboards in the police lobby," Callahan continued. "We have a lot of people who come in and out. Everybody from the city comes to the police station for something."

"I'm thrilled with your responses to me and looking forward to working very hard," Heiser concluded at the end of the discussion. "I feel passionate about it."

The commissioners next heard from Reuben Kantor, the chairperson of the city's Reprincincting Committee.

"This process was begun in April and we're in the homestretch," said Kantor, who presented the committee with the map of the new boundaries of the city's wards and precincts that his committee filed at City Hall that day. "The biggest shift is in Ward 2. All wards must be within the five percent of the average population of all the others. Ward 2 had to shrink and Ward 6 had to grow."

"The City Council will take it up Monday to start the process," Kantor continued. "We had 150 people participate in the process with their comments. We think the ward demographics are in line with the changes in our city's population over the past decade."

"We also worked hard to create 'natural' boundaries in terms of major roadways separating wards, rather than splitting-up neighborhoods, as happens under the present configuration," Kantor added.

The committee members thanked Kantor for all of his and his committee's hard work.

Prior to the presentations, Reinstein informed her fellow commissioners that she would be stepping down as the chairperson of the Cultural Holidays and Celebrations Subcommittee because of her work commitments. Grillo informed the commission that Hossani, the current vice-chair of the subcommittee, has accepted the chairmanship.

The next meeting of the committee is set for this Thursday, December 2.

NOVEMBER IS NATIONAL FAMILY CAREGIVERS MONTH

The month of November is National Family Caregivers Month which offers an opportunity to honor the countless family caregivers that work tirelessly each day to attend to their family members' needs. Mystic Valley Elder Services (MVES) is pleased to provide affordable and accessible services needed by these caregivers through the agency's Family Caregiver Support Program.

"Through this program, hundreds of caregivers are helped every year," says Kathy Learned, MVES Caregiver Support Coordinator. "When a new caregiver signs up for the program, a support coordinator sets up an appointment with them to go over an individualized action plan. We understand that every caregiver's situation is distinct from others which is why the plan is uniquely tailored to each caregiver's needs."

According to Learned, this plan comes at little or no cost to the caregiver. During the meeting, the coordinator will discuss the different kinds of services provided by MVES such as one-on-one assistance, peer support groups, family meetings, and community resources.

MVES' services range from support groups where a caregiver can form friendships with other caregivers to workshops focused on raising awareness to the issues a caregiver faces throughout their day. Many caregivers who have taken part in the program have befriended other caregivers who are in similar situations. The support group engages in thoughtful conversations about the difficulty of being a caregiver and the situations they can face. It also brings awareness to common diseases so that the caregiver doesn't feel alone in their journey.

"Some services may be needed at the home that the caregiver may not have which is why we have adaptive home equipment to support the family. From bed rails to a shower curtain, MVES strives to meet an individual's needs on an everyday basis," says Learned.

She continues: "We also understand that a caregiver may feel like their needs are delayed when taking care of others which can lead to a burn-out. Therefore, we have services tailored to giving some relief to the caregiver. This assistance, if caregiver is eligible, provides supportive services such as adult day health, companions, and helping find private duty assistance. These services are just a phone call away."

CLARK RELEASES NEW DATA ON CHILD TAX CREDIT'S IMPACT ON MA FAMILIES

Assistant Speaker Katherine Clark (MA-5) highlighted a new fact sheet from the Joint Economic Committee that outlines how the Democrats' Child Tax Credit (CTC) is already meeting the urgent needs of Massachusetts families by helping parents make ends meet and positioning the economy for stronger growth for generations to come.

"The American Rescue Plan's tax cut for families is working! This pandemic and its economic fallout have brought many Massachusetts families to their breaking point but since Democrats passed the American Rescue Plan last March, the extended Child Tax Credit — one of the largest tax cuts for families in U.S. history — has helped provide support to over 70,000 children in Massachusetts' Fifth District," said Assistant Speaker Clark. "Through the Build Back Better Act, House Democrats are continuing our work to help families and our economy to recover and thrive. The Child Tax Credit and the Build Back Better Act put the needs of families first and are key to building a just, inclusive, and equitable America."

In October 2021, new Child Tax Credit data shows that 72,000 children received payments totaling over $24.3 million in the Fifth District. Another monthly payment will be sent on November 15, 2021.

These successes prove the need to extend the expanded CTC through the Build Back Better Act. As outlined in a newly released White House fact sheet, the historic investments called for in the framework would bolster financial security and spur economic growth in Massachusetts by reducing taxes on the middle class and those striving to break into it.

Led by President Biden and Democrats in Congress, the American Rescue Plan was signed into law in March 2020 to help families recover from the COVID-19 pandemic. The Build Back Better Act extends the tax cut for families by continuing to provide families $300/month per child under 6 or $250/month per child ages 6 to 17.

Critically, the Build Back Better Act also includes permanent refundability for the Child Tax Credit, meaning that the neediest families will continue to receive the full Child Tax Credit over the long-run.

D'Ambrosio said he does not get to choose the area in the school budget where the funds from his salary will go. "Anything helps in preserving the overall, larger budget of the school district," said D'Ambrosio. "For me, School Committee was very much a public service action. It was a public service for me. It was a public service for my community. And I didn't feel comfortable accepting any compensation when that compensation could have gone to educating children or providing the services that we needed."

D'Ambrosio's decision was especially impactful because of COVID-19's financial impact on the school budget. "Coming into COVID-19, we had to make some serious budget adjustments," he said. "There were shortfalls everywhere, and we didn't end up getting the Student Opportunity Act funding that we needed as quickly as we thought we were. It was important to me to donate my salary during a time when the resources were lacking in the district."

D'Ambrosio was not a candidate for re-election to the School Committee in the Nov. 2 election. A graduate of Yale University, D'Ambrosio is running for the State Senate seat in the First Suffolk and Middlesex District that encompasses Revere, Winthrop, and parts of Boston and Cambridge. The Special Election is Dec. 14.

"Serving on the School Committee has been the honor of a lifetime," said D'Ambrosio. "It's been a tremendous opportunity to enact change on the mental health front, on the equity front, on the curriculum front. I wouldn't trade it for anything. Obviously, COVID-19 presented huge challenges to all of us and the district as a whole. But I was very lucky to be surrounded by a group of students, a group of teachers, staff, and administrators, and fellow members of the School Committee that rallied around that hardship and did something quite extraordinary that not a lot of other cities in the state did, and still put together a good product for our school system."

D'Ambrosio said he will miss serving with his colleagues, "especially Carol Tye, who has been a mentor and an absolute titan of everything good and just in the City of Revere over the direction of her career."

Capachietti explained that the owner of the property presently has no plans to develop the land, which Shue described as a "hilly and rocky area," primarily because the land is accessible only through a residential neighborhood in the Town of Saugus, which has not given its approval to any development as of this time.

"We're seeking to have the wetland line be set ahead of moving forward with a project," said Capachietti. "There is no project in the pipeline because we need to get access through Saugus. There is nothing imminent because there are problems with access through the residential neighborhood."

However, Capachietti explained that if the property owner should get permission to move forward with a project in the future, having the wetland line already established will speed up the process.

The commission voted 5-0 to accept the wetland line as presented by Hayes Engineering.

2) MA DEP File #061-0688 Request for Certificate of Compliance; Existing Conditions – As-Built Plan, 245 Revere Beach Parkway; Site As-Built Plan, 205 Revere Beach Parkway; and 2021 Mitigation Monitoring Report, 205 Revere Beach Parkway.

Discussion and vote:

Rick Lentini, a civil engineer, appeared on behalf of the applicant. Three members of the commission had performed a site visit to the property at 205 Revere Beach Parkway, which is a residential apartment building, prior to the hearing.

The main issues before the board pertained to parking and the proper removal of snow from the parking lot.

"What kind of plan do you have in case of a 100 year flood for parking?" asked Lavalle,

"Do the tenants know their parking is in a flood plain?" Bisconti queried.

"Where will they pile snow?," Shue asked. "The issue is piling it up against a back fence (which abuts wetlands) and letting it melt without a treatment system."

The commissioners also wanted to see maintenance logs for the property. A representative from the property owner noted however, that there was a change of the property manager in June and therefore there were only a few months of property logs available.

"I think we should make it a condition of compliance that they provide quarterly maintenance plans and must make arrangements for snow to be trucked away from the site," said Shue, who noted that, "Everything else has been done in substantial completion of the conditions."

The commission then cited 5-0 to approve the Certificate of Completion with the added conditions.

3) Donation of land from Joseph Festa Construction Co., Inc. for conservation purposes. Lot C Emanuel Street – Blk-Pcl-Unit 018-324G-001B

Discussion and vote:

"We always are interested in land to protect for conservation purposes," said Shue. "The city would like to do it in case it needs to trade land with the state DCR for another purpose in the future. The City Council needs a letter from us accepting this property and donation."

The commission voted 5-0 to accept the property and send the appropriate letter to the City Council.

4) Potential Enforcement Action – 630 Revere Beach Boulevard.

Discussion and vote:

This matter pertained to work performed by the owners of 630 Revere Beach Blvd., who appeared on behalf of themselves. The issue for the owners is that they had attempted some self-help to alleviate a flooding problem on their property without obtaining permission from the Conservation Commission.

The homeowners told the commission that they have owned the property for about a year, but have had flooding in their garage and basement during heavy rains because of the pitch of the property.

They dug out their backyard to alleviate the problem, but did so without the necessary permits.

"I issued a notice of warning of potential violation and that we needed them to come here to explain to us what they're doing," Shue explained to his fellow commissioners. "They have done a bunch of work. A lot of soil has been removed without a permit from the commission."

When asked by the commissioners whether they have a plan, the owners replied that they wish to remove the soil and replace it with crushed stone.

"Our concern is that the back of the lot is near the turning circle to get to Riverview with a wetlands and drainage," said Shue. "We want to control sediment before it runs off the property. If you had come to us ahead of time, it is likely that you would have been approved."

"But the sides need to be stabilized and the final elevation needs to be adhered to," Shue continued. "We need a plan of what that's going to look like. You must file a notice of intent with proper notice to abutters."

After the owners explained that they had no intention of doing further work in the near-future,

Shue explained, "We're trying to work with you, but we need a timeline that is sooner rather than later. We want to address this at our January meeting, which means you must have a drawing and a Notice of Intent (NOI), with advertising in the newspaper, by mid-December."

"The issue is proximity to wetlands and we need to bring this back into compliance," Shue concluded.

Shue then brought before the commission another potential enforcement action for the properties at 8 and 10 Marsh View Terrace, a cul de sac located in No. Revere behind Rumney Marsh.

Shue explained that the owner of 10 Marsh View Terrace had obtained a permit from the city to fill in his backyard, in order to extend it, after seeing that his neighbor had done so and had installed a patio on the premises, with possible plans for a swimming pool.

"I was asked whether this falls within the commission's jurisdiction and after doing some research, I determined that this is in an Area of Critical Environmental Concern (ACEC)," said Shue, who said he had consulted with the State Dept. of Environmental Protection (DEP) to determine the appropriate enforcement mechanism by the commission.

"Rumney Marsh is nearby," Shue continued. "Construction debris and rubble cannot be used as fill, which is what they've done. This requires an enforcement order in order to tell them what they need to do to correct the problem."

"Since their property drains into Rumney Marsh, an erosion sediment barrier needs to be out up and the owners

NICHOLLS AT THE COMMONWEALTH CLASSIC BALLROOM DANCE

Revere Resident Albert Nicholls participated in the Commonwealth Classic Ballroom Dance Competition held on November 5 of this year at the Burlington Marriott in Burlington, Mass. With his Instructor Mrs. Saori DeSouza as his partner, Albert entered 12 dances heats in the Beginner and Silver 1 in the 51-60 and 61-70 year age levels and placed first in 12 / 12 in the American Rhythm dance styles: East Coast Swing, Rumba and Cha-Cha.

In addition, Albert is participating in and placed second in 3 dance scholarship challenge. Albert enjoyed cheering for his other teammates and appreciates the dedication of his teacher/owner of the Dancesport Academy of New England of Brookline challenging him to make his best effort in his Ballroom Dancing.

must hire a wetlands scientist to restore the wetlands with native species to replace the invasive species that are there now," Shue added.

The commission voted 5-0 to accept the DEP's recommendation to proceed in this manner. The commissioners signed an enforcement letter ordering the homeowners to appear at the commission's next meeting on December 1 with a plan and that all work must be completed no later than March.

In their final matters on the agenda, the commissioners acknowledged the resignations from the commission of Bisconti, effective at the end of the meeting, and Pardo, effective November 30. Shue noted that they are pursuing career opportunities in Washington, D.C. and South Africa.

VETERANS DAY -- HONOR OUR VETERANS

It was 103 years ago on November 11, 1918, that World War I formally came to a conclusion on the "11th hour, of the 11th day, of the 11th month."

Americans observed the first anniversary of the end of the war the following year when the holiday we now know as Veterans Day originated as Armistice Day in 1919.

The first world war was referred to at the time as "the war to end all wars." It was thought that never again would mankind engage in the sort of madness that resulted in the near-total destruction of Western Civilization and the loss of millions of lives for reasons that never have been entirely clear to anybody either before, during, or since.

Needless to say, history has shown us that such thinking was idealistically foolhardy. Just 21 years later, Hitler invaded Poland on September 1, 1939, and the world again became enmeshed in a global conflagration that made the first world war seem like a mere practice run for the mass annihilation that took place from 1939-45.

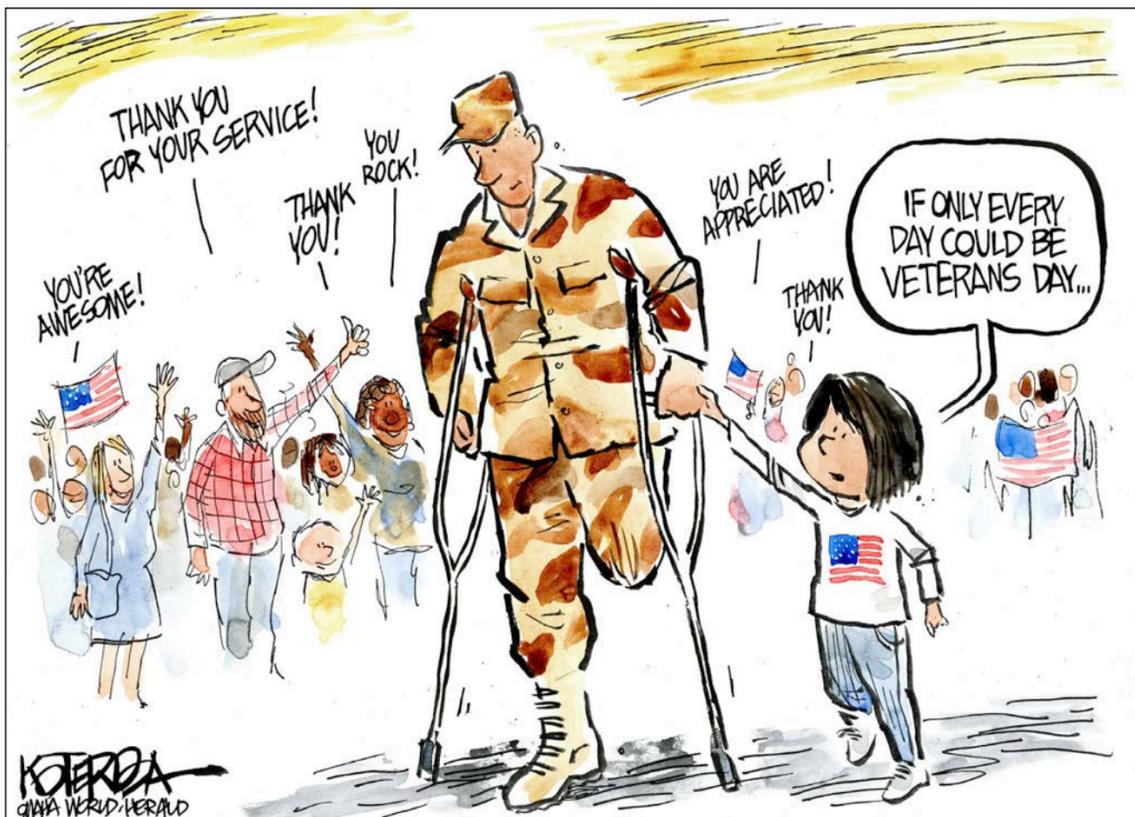

Even after that epic second world war, America has been involved in countless bloody conflicts in the 76 years since General Douglas MacArthur accepted the Japanese surrender on the Battleship USS Missouri. and millions of our fellow Americans have fought and died in our nation's numerous wars and military engagements since then.

"Peace is at hand" has been nothing but a meaningless slogan for most of the past 103 years.

Armistice Day officially became known as Veterans Day in 1954 so as to include those who served in WWII and the Korean War. All of our many veterans since then also have become part of the annual observance to express our nation's appreciation to the men and women who bravely have answered the call of duty to ensure that the freedoms we enjoy as Americans have been preserved against the many challenges we have overcome.

Although Veterans Day, as with all of our other national holidays, unfortunately has become commercialized, we urge our readers to take a moment, even if just quietly by ourselves, to contemplate the debt we owe to the veterans of all of our wars and to be grateful to them for allowing us to live freely in the greatest nation on earth.

If nothing else, Veterans Day should remind us that freedom isn't free and that maintaining our freedom since our nation's founding has required the personal sacrifice of the millions of our fellow Americans who have placed their lives on the line to preserve our ideals and our way of life.

The Experience to Change Things

By Anthony D'Ambrosio

The Covid-19 pandemic disrupted our community in virtually every way imaginable. It laid bare all our society's vulnerabilities and inequities, as well as the ways in which our leaders are failing in their obligations to Massachusetts residents. The pandemic also accelerated our country's shift to online learning, remote work, and virtual health-care and legal services. Many of these changes are never going away, and we need leaders who thoroughly understand them. I am the right person to lead this district forward as we begin to not only recover from the pandemic but also rebuild for the 21st century.

At Yale and the University of Cambridge, I studied how periods of dramatic technological change altered America's culture and economy. My classes often drew comparisons between the present day and the Gilded Age, with our technology CEOs acting as glorified robber barons. Those comparisons are accurate but also inadequate; the rise of big data and mega-monoplies within the technology industry today poses a truly unprecedented threat to jobs, privacy, and economic development. We have never seen anything like this before.

In my private sector career, I have worked with some of the most innovative technology companies in the world. The integration of technology companies into our economy grows exponentially every day, which is why it is absolutely vital that we have representation that understands how these companies work and how their decisions impact our communities. I am the only person in this race with the experience to secure a real seat at the table with the CEOs, Boards of Directors, and key stakeholders of the organizations that are driving change within this state and country. I have sat across the table from technology executives before, and, if elected, I will do so again to fight for the interests of our residents. The power of workers will not be ignored.

I also have a deep background in education. I have served as an elected member of the Revere School Committee, and I played a pivotal role in guiding the City through the COVID-19 pandemic. At the height of pandemic turmoil last spring, my colleagues and I posited a data-oriented approach for determining how and when to re-open schools.

During the pandemic, I made it my mission to work directly with students and school administrators on developing new strategies to overcome the many psychological and physical challenges that children face today. I have observed many of these challenges firsthand while teaching public school classes on disability and mental health issues related to social media and academic performance. That is why I joined my School Committee colleagues in implementing enhanced districtwide mental health services for students. It is clear that many of our children are suffering.

On the School Committee, I also spearheaded the creation of a citywide Equity Advisory Board that brings together parents, teachers, students, and other community stakeholders to develop creative solutions to address educational inequities. In developing the Board, I drew on my previous experience as the leader of Dwight Hall, a 3,500-person non-profit organization. Dwight Hall's mission is "to nurture and inspire students as leaders of social change and to advance justice and service." Dwight Hall's programs strive to form a more just society that meets the needs of the community in a fair and dignified way. I have sought to continue this mission through my work on the Revere School Committee.

My experience in education, technology, and finance, within both the private and public sectors, provides me the experience to ensure that our Commonwealth recovers fully and that our children are properly prepared for the jobs of the 21st century. Please join me in this effort.

Anthony D'Ambrosio is a candidate for State Senate, who graduated with a B.A. from Yale University and with a Masters from the University of Cambridge.

LETTER to the Editor

RESPONDING TO THE EDITORIAL "IF TAIWAN IS ATTACKED, SHOULD WE DEFEND IT?"

The Revere Journal published an opinion piece on Taiwan last week that asked the question, "If Taiwan is attacked, should we defend it?" My hometown newspaper concluded that, in their view, "Taiwan is not worth shedding one drop of American blood." This is a dangerous point of view, and it required a response.

There's no denying that politically, Taiwan is a stain on the Chinese Communist Party's resume and that tactically, the People's Republic of China's efforts to unite the Republic of China (Taiwan) with the mainland through measures like economic intimidation and political maneuvering have backfired (support for Taiwanese independence is continues to gain traction on the island). There's also no denying that China is publicly posturing for war considering it abandoned the "one country, two systems" policy in Hong Kong to reclaim control over the port city and as recently as October 1st-4th, China dispatched a record-setting number of sorties into Taiwan's air defense zone. Further, the United States recognizes that it has "few credible options" to respond if China were to seize a set of islands administered by Taiwan in the South China sea.

But does this mean China will truly invade?

A successful invasion of Taiwan requires an element of surprise (China is currently openly posturing for war) as well as a massive well trained amphibious invasion force and the ability to maintain shipping lanes between mainland China and Taiwan. Further, to even make it to the island, the People's Liberation Army would need to make an eight-hour trek across the Taiwan Strait through the heart of Taiwanese defense with limited areas to land troops since roughly only 10 percent of Taiwan's coastline is suitable for an amphibious landing. This means Taiwan could mass troops and artillery on these specific landing zones to exact a heavy toll on the PLA's force while waiting for western allies to help close the strait and prevent the mainland from resupplying the first few waves of the island assault. These facts do not account for the elephant in the room in that Chinese forces have minimal experience with amphibious operations and an invasion such as this is extraordinarily complicated for a force with such limited expertise in combining ocean and land war combat.

The Revere Journal failed to realize, like many pundits, Taiwan is a red herring. An invasion of Taiwan makes little sense, because above all, the likelihood of failure is too great and taking the island by force would not solve China's existential strategic problem - the United States and her allies can deny China access to global oceans. It's difficult to display without a map, but the United States directly or through her partner nations control every major sea lane along China's coastline. What's really happening: China is pushing buttons to get away with what it can while working actively to undermine U.S. relations with key nations such as Indonesia and the Philippines. Their focus is on driving wedges between us so that western resolve in supporting Taiwan wanes and or we turn our back on each other. Now, more than ever, we need to double down on our commitment to our Pacific friends and stand with Taiwan. It's this unified global resolve against the Communist Part of China that keeps them at bay and anyone with an isolationist mentality directly undermines that.

Honor and Care for our Veterans

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

During World War II, on April 9, 1942, 75,000 United States soldiers and Filipino soldiers were surrendered to Japanese forces after months of battling in extreme-climate conditions.

Soon after the bombing of Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, Japanese forces began the invasion of the Philippines. The capture of the Philippines was crucial to the Japanese. It would bring them one step closer to the control of the Southwest Pacific. The Philippines were just as important to the U.S. Having troops in the Philippines gave the U.S. footing in the Southwest Pacific. After the invasion of the Philippines, U.S.-Filipino troops defended the crucial lands.

These brave soldiers were responsible for the defense of the islands of Luzon, Corregidor, and the harbor-defense forts of the Philippines. They fought in a malaria-infested region, and survived on little portions of food. Some lived off of half or quarter rations. The soldiers lacked medical attention. U.S. medics did what they could to help their fellow soldiers. They fought with outdated equipment and virtually no air power.

The soldiers retreated to the Philippine Peninsula when Japanese forces were reinforced and overwhelmed the U.S.-Filipino soldiers.

On April 9, 1942, the U.S. and Filipino soldiers surrendered after seven months of battle combined with exposure to the extreme elements, disease, and lack of vital supplies.

The tens of thousands of U.S. and Filipino soldiers were forced to become prisoners of war to the Japanese. The soldiers faced horrifying conditions and treatment as POWs.

The soldiers were deprived of food, water, and medical attention, and were forced to march 65 miles to confinement camps throughout the Philippines.

The captive soldiers were marched for days, approximately 65 miles through the scorching jungles of the Philippines. Thousands died. Those who survived faced the hardships of prisoner of war camps and the brutality of their Japanese captors.

The POWs would not see freedom until 1945 when U.S.-Filipino forces recaptured the lost territory.

In 1945, U.S.-Filipino forces recaptured the Philippines and freed the captive soldiers who were suffering in the confinement camps. These soldiers would be impacted by the poor conditions of the camps and the mistreatment by their Japanese captors. About one-third of the prisoners died from health complications after they were freed. (The above information is from Bataan.com).

My wife's grandfather, Lyle C. Harlow, was one of the thousands who lived through the 65-mile march and almost four years as a prisoner of war. When he and the others who survived were freed, he came back to his wife in Kentucky who had also survived and a daughter born right after his departure overseas. He returned broken, weighing less than a hundred pounds and had to rebuild his life essentially from zero.

Harlow like thousands of others, never received a dime from the United States government after his release from the military. He received some VA medical benefits and would later die in a VA hospital. Until the last few years the VA has been a very undesirable place for medical attention but there has been improvement in recent years.

He and so many others had to rebuild their lives with no help from our country. This makes it difficult to understand how our government can consider handing out thousands of dollars to illegals pouring into our nation. Do we just hand them the American dream simply because they made it across our border?

Most Americans are charitable people. We do more than any nation to help others. Yet, when our homeless Veterans are sleeping on America's streets while shelters, medical insurance and even cash are made available for those who are unwilling to salute our flag, hate our culture and despise many of our values, then something is seriously wrong.

Glenn Mollette is the publisher of Newburgh Press, Liberty Torch and various other publishing imprints; a national columnist - American Issues and Common Sense opinions, analysis, stories and features appear each week in over 500 newspapers, websites and blogs across the United States.

To my constituents, family and campaign workers,

I am humbled by your overwhelming vote of confidence and support! I will continue to work tirelessly for you, the betterment of Ward One, and the City of Revere.

Thank you!

Sincerely yours,
Joanne McKenna

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Lydia Edwards endorsed by State Reps.

Aaron Michlewitz, Adrian Madaro

Special to the Journal

In the special election to State Senate, Lydia Edwards has been endorsed by House Chair of Ways & Means State Representative Aaron Michlewitz and State Representative Adrian Madaro. Primary Election Day is December 14, 2021. General Election Day is January 11, 2022.

Chairman Michlewitz said, "Lydia Edwards is an advocate who understands the power of good public policy. Just in her role as a City Councilor, she has crafted state legislation and built the coalitions around her work to secure real results for the people she serves. Lydia is an incredible public servant and I look forward to working with her in the State House."

Chairman Michlewitz

serves as the State Representative for the Third Suffolk district, representing parts of Downtown Boston including the North End, Chinatown, Bay Village, Back Bay, Beacon Hill, and the South End. The current district geographic boundary overlaps with those of the Massachusetts Senate's 1st Suffolk and Middlesex district and 2nd Suffolk district. As a North End resident, he has been a constituent of Lydia Edwards since she was sworn in as a Boston City Councilor in January 2018.

In endorsing Lydia Edwards, Representative Madaro said: "I have worked side-by-side with Lydia Edwards for years now, and I have had a front-row seat to her strength, tenacity and determination. She understands the unique challenges facing East Boston and nearby waterfront communities and she has consistently used her role on the City Council to be a voice for the people. I am excited to partner with her again in the State House. Lydia has my vote on December 14."

Representative Madaro had considered a run for this Special Senate election, but in mid-September, opted not to run to spend time with family, including his infant son Matteo. Rep. Madaro serves as the State Representative for the First Suffolk district, representing Boston's Ward 1 (East Boston). As a lifelong East Boston resident, he is also a City Council constituent and neighbor of Edwards.

Healey and Unite Local 26 endorse Edwards

Special to the Journal

Attorney General Maura Healey endorsed Lydia Edwards for Senate with a canvass kick-off at Lopresti Park in East Boston. The campaign was joined by Unite Local 26, which also formally endorsed Edwards today. Members and over 100 volunteers rallied their support and then hit the doors to ask voters across the district to cast their ballots for Lydia Edwards for Senate on December 14, 2021.

"Lydia always shows up for the people she serves, but most importantly, Lydia knows that good change comes from public policy rooted in humanity. It's not enough to protect workers' wages; she protects their dignity," said Attorney General Healey. "No one will fight harder for this District than Lydia Edwards. This election matters and we'll do everything we can to make sure she wins on December 14."

"Attorney General Healey is a champion for working people and beyond, and I am so grateful for her support and excitement about this campaign," said Edwards. "This energy is the perfect way to hit the ground for the final sprint to Election Day, and as I see the strong voices and leaders who have joined us today, I am overwhelmed by your faith in me. I am inspired everyday by the strength and character and grit of the people who live here and you are the reason why I am fired up to go to Beacon Hill as your next senator!"

Standing with Edwards and Attorney General Healey were dozens of members from UNITE HERE Local 26, representing workers in the hospitality industries of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. "For our members to recover from the pandemic, we need to elect Lydia Edwards to State Senate," said UNITE HERE Local 26 President Carlos Aramayo. "We have six weeks to change the lives of generations in Massachusetts with the courage and commitment of Lydia Edwards. When we endorse, we put in the work and we will be getting out the vote – for our moms, our kids, and our future."

Edwards was also joined by City Council colleagues Kenzie Bok and Ed Flynn, as well as State Representative Nika Elugardo. A number of organizations joined the rally and hit the streets in Winthrop, Revere, Boston and Cambridge, including: OPEIU Local 453; the North Atlantic States Regional Council of Carpenters; UFCW Local 1445; Iron Workers Local 7; Teamsters Local 25; IBEW Local 103; SEIU 509; Massachusetts Nurses Association; the Brazilian Workers Center; and the Chinese Progressive Association.

UNITE HERE Local 26 represents workers in the hospitality industries of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Its members work in Boston and Providence's best hotels, restaurants, and university dining halls in addition to the Boston Convention Centers, Fenway Park and Logan International Airport. Local 26 members clean hotel rooms, greet guests, and prepare and serve food for hundreds of thousands of travelers to Boston and the northeast.

Prior to entering the City Council, Councilor Edwards worked extensively in the legal field serving as a judicial law clerk with the Massachusetts Superior Court and the Massachusetts Appeals Court. Edwards worked as a public interest attorney with Greater Boston Legal Services focusing on labor issues such as fighting for access to unemployment insurance, back wages, fair treatment for domestic workers and combating human trafficking. She served as the statewide campaign coordinator for the Massachusetts Coalition for Domestic Workers, which advocated for the passage of the Domestic Workers Bill of Rights. In 2015, she was named Bostonian of the Year by the Boston Globe.

Lydia Edwards is a candidate for State Senate representing the First Suffolk and Middlesex District, following the departure of Senator Joseph A. Boncore. For a full and up-to-date list of endorsements, visit: LydiaEdwards.org/endorsements.

Research Station dedicated to Kermit Norris

By Marianne Salza

The Friends of Belle Isle Marsh dedicated an Education and Research Station in memory of founding member, Kermit Norris, a pioneer advocate for the conservation of Belle Isle Marsh. Following the November 6 ceremony, friends and family joined for refreshments and a walk through the meadow.

“I wish Kermit could be here because the research station would give him extraordinary pleasure,” said Norris’ wife, Debbi, who generously donated funds to build the shed. “Kermit’s relationship with Belle Isle Marsh and its importance to the local environment were ever-present in his mind. This is a reason to celebrate.”

Norris, an East Boston resident, served as the president of Friends of Belle Isle Marsh during its conception in 1985, during a time when the land was abandoned and unhealthy. Belle Isle Marsh was surrounded by a dilapidated metal fence, and littered with beer cans and fast food wrappers. Plastic bags were stuck on the branches of trees.

Norris’ friend and founding member, Gail Miller, described him as warm, knowledgeable, and passionate about preserving the environment. Norris was committed to protecting the “finned, furry, and feathered friends” that live in the park’s habitat.

“Kermit relished giving tours,” said Miller, who remembers first meeting Norris during his presentation of exotic birds living in Belle Isle Marsh. “You felt his passion for this sacred environment, which he hoped to inspire others with. Kermit believed this place had to be protected for current residents and generations to follow.”

City Council approves special legislation on firefighters’ retirement benefits

Cary Shuman

The City Council unanimously approved special legislation: An Act Relative to the Reserve Time of Public Safety Personnel in the City of Revere at its meeting Monday night.

Revere Firefighters Local 926 President Kevin O’Hara appeared at the Council Ways and Means Subcommittee meeting to answer questions from Council members prior to the vote about the measure that affected the future retirement benefits for firefighters. Several members of the Revere Fire Department were in attendance.

Ward 6 Councillor Richard Serino sought a clarification from President O’Hara that the Council’s $1.7 million appropriation for the legislation “was already appropriated but it was taken away from you guys.”

“The number of $1.7 million that’s being accounted for, from the Retirement Office – we had an evaluation done and when this ruling took place in February, 2020, there was a misinterpretation of the PERAC [Public Employee Retirement Administration Commission]. They took away time from the reserve time for firefighters. I want the citizens, the councillors, and the mayor of Revere that this isn’t extra money they’re putting towards it. This is already money appropriated for. There are 65 firefighters that are affected by this.”

Before voting on the matter, councillors universally praised the firefighters for the work they do in protecting the safety and well-being of Revere’s residents every day. The department, led by Fire Chief Christopher Bright, has been commended particularly for its exceptional efforts during the unprecedented COVID-19 health crisis that hit the city hard. The department also battled major fires in Revere in 2020 and 2021 in adverse weather conditions.

“This is an easy lift, the answer is yes,” said Councillor-at-Large George Rotondo before casting his vote. “You entered people’s homes with minimal PPE at one point. This is a yes all day long. You’ve got my full support for this legislation.”

Ward 4 Councillor Patrick Keefe said, “We talk very often about how we can support our public safety officials, and this is an opportunity for the Council and the residents to actually act on supporting those public safety officials, and not just talking the game.”

Ward 2 Councillor Ira Novoselsky asked whether the $1.7 million appropriation would be a one-time appropriation.

“It’s going to be $1.7 million – it’s not every year going up and up, that’s the number that they appropriated for the retirement system that they’re using,” said Novoselsky, adding that the Revere Fire Department is “the best and you get my vote.”

Councillor-at-Large Gerry Visconti said the Fire Department had a difficult year because of the pandemic. “The fires that have happened in the city over the last 10-11 months has been quite a bit, and you guys have gone through a lot the last 18 months – so the fact it’s not money that’s costing the taxpayers now, it’s already been set aside – you have my support and I think it’s something you guys deserve,” said Visconti.

The firefighters were accorded a standing ovation by the councillors following the vote.

unmet needs that they’re seeing already in the school year. And I know, one of the things is the increase in enrollment of English Learner students. We are way behind in some areas of paperwork with our ESL department, but we also really do have a need to increase our EL staff right now because the classes are already bursting. We anticipate, as we do every January, that we’ll have a large influx of students after the first of the year.”

In asking for the redesign of the PIC office, Kelley said right now it feels very chopped up and secluded.

“It’s not like a welcoming environment,” she said. “We had talked about making it more of a place where families would come in, sit down at a table with one of the employees and go through all of the paperwork together. We’d like to really get a good chunk of the registration process taken care of in person and have it be more of a customer service kind of program than a drop off papers, isolated environment.”

Kelley said the committee should consider hiring a Director of Social, Emotional and Physical Health and Wellness, Director of Fine Arts and a Director of Academic Technology.

However, these three positions combined would cost $360,000 and when added to the previous asks for the carry forward funding would total $825,000 or $249,495 over the available carry forward funding.

“These are other ‘asks’ that I think are important but the committee can consider whether these things should happen now or maybe in the summer or not at all,” said Kelly. “These three positions come out to another $360,000 which would give us a grand total of $825,000 and would exceed the available carry forward by almost $300,000. So that’s definitely something that the committee is going to need to consider—whether or not those are positions that you want to fund.”

Ways and Means Committee member Carol Tye

said she was very much in favor of the first set of spending outlined by Kelley totaling $465,000 as well as hiring a Director of Social, Emotional and Physical Health and Wellness at a cost of $120,000 but was of the opinion that the School Committee should wait to hire a Director of Fine Arts and was on the fence about hiring a Director of Academic Technology.

Ways and Means committee member Fred Sannella said over the years RPS has been accused of being “top heavy with directors” and wondered if this was the right time to add three more.

“We’re trying to save money to cover shortages in the future,” he said. “So I question adding another $360,000. My recommendation would be for the proposal as submitted by the superintendent, with the exception of the three directors.”

The School Committee will vote on what to spend the carry forward money on during their next scheduled meeting.

Thank you for your support! I look forward to continuing to work hard for your interests!

RHS SPORTS Roundup

EARLY EXIT FOR ALL RHS TOURNEY TEAMS

The Journey to the Tourney turned out to be a short visit for the three Revere High teams that qualified for the post-season state tournament.

Coach Lianne Mimmo and her volleyball Patriots made the long (one hour and 40 minutes) bus ride to Sharon last Wednesday for a preliminary round contest in the Division 2 tourney. Revere was seeded 36th among the 39 schools that qualified in D-2, while Sharon was ranked 29th.

The Patriots started slowly, but came on strong to capture the first set. However, the Patriots were unable to maintain their momentum and fell by a final score of 3-1.

The Revere High girls soccer team met a similar fate in the Division 3 tourney. The Lady Patriots, who were seeded 38th among the field of 44 qualifying teams, made the long ride to Glodis Field in Worcester last Thursday to take on St. Paul Diocesan, which was seeded 27th.

Revere came out on the short end of a 6-0 decision, ending the Lady Patriots' season.

It should be noted that St. Paul, which advanced to the round of 32, knocked off Dover-Sherborn, the sixth-seed in D-3, by a score of 2-1. St. Paul now will meet Groton-Dunstable, the 11th seed, in the round of 16.

The RHS boys soccer team, the 32nd seed in Division 1, dropped a heart-breaking 2-1 contest in overtime to 33rd-seeded Central Catholic of Lawrence last Thursday evening at Harry Della Russo Stadium. RHS fans can take some consolation in noting that Central Catholic then took on Hingham, the top seed in D-1, and dropped a 1-0 decision in overtime.

Waiting for the big game between the boys and the girls, Jazmine and Michaela Brown enjoy their chips.

Trophies and hot chocolate at the park, enjoyed by champs, Marco Spiriti and Michael Biasella.

Missed opportunities and miscues proved a combination that the Revere High football team was unable to overcome in a 25-6 loss to Lynn Classical Friday evening at the Manning Bowl in Lynn. Classical took an early 12-0 lead, but Revere struck back quick as lightning thanks to a 50 yard TD jaunt by Drew Lauria (who racked up 105 yards on the night) to slice the Classical margin to 12-6. The Pats then settled down and the Revere defense, which was bulwarked all night by the linebacking trio of Andy Restiano, Comlan Adjinah, and a banged-up captain Rob Sasso, held firm until the intermission. The Patriots had opportunities to tie the game early in the second half, but could not finish their drives. Classical then scored two TDs to seal the win.

OBITUARIES

Andrew Procopio, Jr.

Former Director of the Revere Housing Authority and dedicated family man

Family and friends are invited to attend Visiting Hours on Saturday, November 13, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Vertuccio & Smith, Home for Funerals, 773 Broadway (Rt. 107) Revere for Andrew J. "Andy" Procopio, Jr. who died on Wednesday, November 3 at the Bear Hill Nursing Center in Stoneham, following a long illness. He was 91 years old.

A Funeral Mass will be celebrated in St. Anthony of Padua Church, 250 Revere St., Revere today at 12 noon followed by entombment in Woodlawn Cemetery – Versailles Mausoleum, Everett.

An excellent student academically as well as athletically, he thrived in baseball and was drafted as a shortstop by the Philadelphia Phillies organization and played in the minor leagues in Georgia.

While Andy was in Atlanta playing baseball, he was drafted by the United States Army during the Korean Conflict. He served his country from 1951 until 1953, when he was honorably discharged with the rank of Corporal. When Andy returned home, he furthered his education at Boston College earning a bachelor's degree in 1957.

Andy met and married his wife, Marie A. Sarno, in 1960 at St. Anthony of Padua Church in Revere. The couple remained in Revere where they began their family. The counting of ballots in the city's second-ever

Plan E election of proportional representation finally was completed last week. The counting did not go as smoothly as it did in the first Plan E election in 1949, thanks to arguments and interruptions during the counting process. Frederick G. Reinstein, who received the most number one votes with 1762 first-place votes, was the first candidate to reach the required 1884 votes in the City Council race. Reinstein reached his quota after candidate Leonard Ginsburg was eliminated and his second-place votes were distributed to the other candidates. Harry Della Russo, who had 1746 first place votes, was the next candidate elected, followed by Edward R. White, who was elected after the 17th counting of the ballots, Raymond W. Carey, Thomas U. Kelley, Louis Kirsten, and newcomer Carmine DiPietro. Incumbents Gerald Woodland and Joseph DelGrosso, both of whom had joined with Carey in an attempt to remove City Manager Edward C. Monahan earlier this year, were rejected by the voters. Carey himself received 27 percent fewer votes than in 1949. Altogether, 26 candidates had vied for the seven council seats.

In the School Committee race, incumbents Mrs. Ida Webber, Paul Buonfiglio, Mrs. Grace Rizzo, and John J. Riley will be joined by newcomers Mrs. Katherine Collins and Francis H. Farrell. The seventh member of the School Committee will be the City Council member who will be elected mayor by his colleagues.

Two local men, ages 66 and 73, will go on trial for the illegal sale of wood alcohol, which killed four people and left an East Boston man blind. They face up to five years in jail.

Massachusetts National Guard concludes School Transportation Mission

Staff Report

The Baker-Polito Administration announced on Monday that the Massachusetts National Guard has successfully completed its school transportation mission. From September 14 - November 5, 2021, nearly 200 Guard members drove thousands of routes and travelled over 300,000 miles, ensuring nearly 15,000 safe pick-ups and drop-offs for students throughout the Commonwealth.

In response to requests for assistance by local government officials, Governor Charlie Baker activated the Massachusetts National Guard to support school districts amid an unprecedented, national shortage of bus drivers. Governor Baker's order made available 250 Guard personnel for transportation assistance. With the local school districts who had requested assistance now able to meet transportation needs through civilian drivers, the Guard is now able to conclude its mission.

"The Commonwealth is grateful to the men and women of the Massachusetts National Guard for answering the call and supporting the safe transportation of students in communities across Massachusetts," said Governor Charlie Baker. "By working collaboratively with local districts who requested assistance, the Guard was able to provide critical school transportation support at a time when schools, students and families needed it most."

"Time and again throughout its history, the Massachusetts National Guard has stepped up to serve the communities of our Commonwealth, and that has never been more true than during the last year and a half," said Lt. Governor Karyn Polito.

"We appreciate the professionalism and dedication of the members of the Guard who supported this mission, and thank them for their service."

In total, the Guard provided school transportation support in 13 districts, including Brockton, Chelsea, Framingham, Haverhill, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Quincy, Revere, Wachusett (regional), Woburn, and Worcester.

Final Mission Metrics:

- 236 Soldiers participated in the mission
- 14,626 student pick-ups and drop-offs
- 329,224 miles driven

- 3,002 total routes
- 13 total municipalities supported

To successfully perform this mission, more than 190 members of the Guard completed the driver's certification process to operate transport vans known as 7D vehicles. In accordance with school transportation worker requirements, the orientation process included vehicle training, background screening, as well as a thorough review of all health and safety measures.

Beyond those certified as drivers, approximately 40 members of the Guard provided operational support for the mission.

The Massachusetts National Guard trains regularly with law enforcement, civilian, and other military agencies to provide a broad spectrum of services in support of security, logistics, disaster relief, and other missions. The Guard has a proven track record of success supporting civilian authorities. Their frequent side-by-side training with state and local first responders makes them well-suited for a variety of missions.

Fifth annual Dance for Dana Dance-A-Thon set for Sunday, Nov. 21

Staff Report

On Sunday, November 21, local dancing schools and teams will join together to host the 5th Annual "Dance for Dana" Dance-A-Thon to benefit Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Nicole Paolo founded the event in 2017 in honor of those who courageously fight or have lost their battle to cancer. The event exemplifies dancing for a purpose, an important philosophy for the "Dance for Dana" team.

The "Dance for Dana" Dance-A-Thon is a fun, finessed-based event for dancers of all ages and levels that instills the importance of coming together as a community to help others. The event will be held virtually this year to ensure the safety of all dancers and instructors. There will be live dance performances, follow-along routines, event day drawings, and prizes for the top earning dancing schools. Over the last four years, the event collectively raised over $99,000 for vital cancer care and research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. "Dance for Dana" was also awarded the "Team Spirit Award" by the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute

As we embark upon the holiday season, please consider giving back by making a monetary donation or donating an auction item to the event. Cancer patients need our help now more than ever as they face new pressures and vulnerabilities brought forth by COVID-19. Dana-Farber is continuing to do everything it can to ensure patients and families - and the brave staff who care for them - are kept as safe as possible.

You can register to participate and or donate directly by visiting: <https://dancefordana.weebly.com>. All donations are appreciated immensely, and one hundred percent of all money raised is given directly to Dana-Farber. For more information, please email dancefordanafarber@gmail.com.
