Licensing Commission told of plans for Quality Inn to reopen

By Journal Staff

The Revere License Commission held its regular meeting last Wednesday, January 18, in the Council Chamber. Chairman Robert Selevitch and member Daniel Occena were on hand for the meeting.

The meeting was routine in nature with the exception of a hearing into the future plans of the Quality Inn at 100 Morris St., which has been closed for almost the past three years since the beginning of the pandemic.

The specific agenda item stated as follows: "Sudguru Hotel, LLC d/b/a Quality Inn, 100 Morris Street, Beth Scherer, Manager, Renewal Hearing: Hearing into business reopening plans and status of building and safety violations."

Jamin Patel, a principal with Sudguru, and Ms. Scherer appeared before the commission.

"The reason you're here basically is for us to find out what your intent is with this license," said Selevitch, who noted that Mr. Patel had appeared before the commission a year ago and said that he would reopen the hotel.

"We have been trying to reopen," said Patel. However, he said that he has had difficulty finding staff, but now he has found sufficient staff to reopen. He also noted that he has reached out to the various city departments to obtain the necessary permits for reopening.

"We've had two walkthroughs with the Fire Dept., Building Dept., and the Board of Health," said Patel.

However, Occena pointed out, "You're a-ways away from getting signed off, there are a host of issues and safety concerns that came out of these inspections, and you've done nothing since the walkthroughs to address them."

"We've addressed a number of them," said Patel.

Scherer stated that "95 percent of the work has been done."

"I know the list is extensive, but everything has been done," Scherer added, noting that burst pipes that had damaged the electrical systems while the hotel was closed during the pandemic had been the source of the problems.

"We're ready to open."

In response to a question from Selevitch, the pair pointed out that Sudguru operates a large number of hotels in the area and in Florida.

Arrigo, Rizzo battle over executive session

By Adam Swift

It was a mayoral showdown at Monday night's City Council meeting.

Current Mayor Brian Arrigo and former mayor and City Councilor-at-Large engaged in a sometimes heated discussion over Rizzo's ongoing efforts to garner information about police misconduct and settlements since 2017.

The council eventually entered into executive session to discuss several of the issues with Arrigo and City Solicitor Paul Capizzi, but not before Council President gaveled for order as Arrigo and Rizzo continued to debate.

Off the bat, Rizzo raised issues about the wording of the motions to enter into executive session Monday night.

"The two items on the calendar tonight being requested to go into executive session, the reality is the two items here have not really addressed the items I have asked about," said Rizzo.

The two motions asked the council to vote to enter executive session to discuss the reputation, character, physical condition, or mental health of Police Chief David Callahan and to discuss the City's litigating position in the case of Griffin v. Massachusetts Civil Service Commission et al.

"I did not ask about the chief's reputation, character, physical condition or mental health, that is nowhere in my motion," said Rizzo. "I specifically was looking for assessment center results that were presented but completely redacted. I also asked for the mayor to appear to discuss what he knew or didn't know about allegations of misconduct (in the police department) and what actions or financial settlements have been made as a result of those allegations."

Rizzo made the motions in August of last year following a public radio report on alleged misconduct within the Revere Police Department and the hiring process for police chiefs.

New high school price tag continues to be an issue for City Councillors

By Adam Swift

The price tag for a new Revere High School, how to pay for it, and whether the council should rethink the location of the new school all came up for debate at Monday night's City Council meeting.

Richard Viscay, the city's chief financial officer, gave a 30 minute presentation on Revere's long-range financial planning and how it relates to how the city could pay for the debt service for the new school. Council President Patrick Keefe referred the issue to the council's ways and means subcommittee, but not before

City mourns the loss of former Senate President Tom Birmingham

By Cary Shuman

The community is mourning the loss of former Senate President Tom Birmingham, who died on Jan. 20, 2023, at the age of 73.

Mr. Birmingham represented Revere in the Senate following his election to the seat in 1990. He succeeded Sen. Fran Doris as Revere's senator and was elected Senate president in 1996 and served as the leader of the esteemed body until stepping down in 2003.

Current Revere officials spoke fondly of Mr. Birmingham, who grew up in Chelsea and graduated from Harvard College and Harvard Law School and was a Rhodes Scholar.

"I was saddened to hear of the passing of Tom Birmingham, the former Massachusetts Senate President," said Mayor Brian Arrigo. "His passing is a loss for Massachusetts, and he will be missed by many."

Councillors-at-Large Dan Rizzo and Anthony Zambuto were members of the City Council during Birmingham's senate presidency.

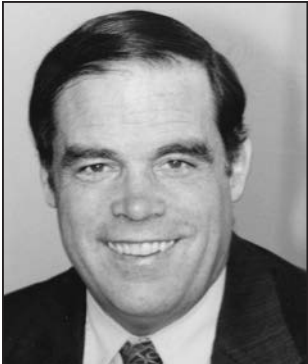

"Tom Birmingham was a trailblazer," said Rizzo. "He introduced Education Reform that dramatically transformed education in Massachusetts. He ensured that the school departments were going to get adequate funding that allowed them to provide a first-class education to children. He was passionate about that, and it's a legacy that has made a positive impact on countless children, families, and educators."

Rizzo admired how Mr. Birmingham could connect with people from all walks of life. "Tom was an extremely bright guy

His formal education, probably to this day, was unmatched, but he was a regular guy. He was a street guy. He could really communicate in a way that made everything he talked about understandable. He cared about district. He was always in Revere. It's good to see your state senator periodically, and we would see a lot of Tom Birmingham in the City of Revere. I'm grateful for his service. Tom Birmingham will be long remembered in a very positive way," concluded Rizzo, former mayor of Revere.

Zambuto said, "Tom Birmingham was just a great guy. He was very smart and genuinely just a decent human being. He was a real public servant. I was shocked to hear the news of his passing. I extend my condolences to his family. He will be missed."

State Reps. Jessica Gi-

Former Senate President Tom Birmingham.

annino and Jeff Turco praised Mr. Birmingham's legislative accomplishments and his commitment to education and students in Massachusetts.

"Tom Birmingham served the citizens of Revere, Chelsea, and other communities with distinction," said Giannino. "This, coupled with his unrelenting commitment to the education of children across the Commonwealth, is something that will be remembered forever. My thoughts and prayers are with his family and friends."

Turco said he was "saddened" the news of Mr. Birmingham passing.

"Senate President Tom Birmingham's legacy in the field of education is unparalleled in the history of the Commonwealth," said Turco, who was chief of staff to former Sen. Guy Glodis during Mr. Birmingham's reign as senate president. "It truly is a loss for Massachusetts, and I send my condolences to his family."

Sen. Sal DiDomenico, who was elected in 2010 to the Senate seat previously held by Mr. Birmingham, lauded Mr. Birmingham's contributions to the communities throughout the district. "Serving as a member of the Everett City Council, I know how instrumental Sen. Birmingham was in the construction of the new high school in Everett and how responsive he was to the needs of our community. "When he ran for governor in 2002, I supported his candidacy."

Former State Rep. Kathi Reinstein represented Revere and Chelsea in the House of Representative while Mr. Birmingham served in the State Senate.

Said Reinstein, "Tom Birmingham held many titles in his political life, but I know the ones he treasured most were father, husband, grandfather, son, brother, uncle, and friend. He will be remembered for his dedication to his family, his district, and to the children across the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; who will continue to benefit in perpetuity from his advocacy on their behalf. It was an honor to serve with him and share a district with him. May his memory be a blessing."

the Massachusetts Association of School Committees. Gravellese was elected to her second term as secretary.

Favors new high school at Wonderland property

Rizzo said she and her colleagues are closely following the progress of the new Revere High School project that has been proposed for the site of the former Wonderland Greyhound Park on VFW Parkway.

"Everyone thinks it's so easy to just build the new school at the original site (101 School St.), but it's going to cost the same as it would at Wonderland, and then we would have to take down the current high school building," said Rizzo. "The plan that we were open to is to put all the middle school students (from the Garfield, Rumney, and Susan B. Anthony Schools) at one school, and we could open up the other schools for elementary, because we are at capacity. I absolutely favor the new high school being built at Wonderland."

Will run for re-election to the board this fall

Rizzo said she will be a candidate for re-election to the School Committee this fall. She is waiting for a decision by the state legislature about the change in the city charter that has been proposed. The city is seeking to implement a format where six members would be elected to represent the six wards in the city, and two members would be elected at-large, for a nine-member committee (including the mayor as the committee chair). Currently, all candidates run for six citywide (at-large) seats.

Rizzo spoke candidly about whether she would run for a ward seat or an at-large seat if the change in membership is approved.

"I recently moved to Ward 5 from Ward 4, so it's not an area that I've lived in, that people know or I know my neighbors," said Rizzo. "[School Committeewoman] Aisha Milbury-Ellis is a Ward 5 resident and has been living here most of her life. And she also does a very good on the School Committee, so I don't want to run against someone who is already doing a very good job. Aisha has a great vision for our schools and does her homework. So, I would run at-large."

Rizzo said one of her goals is to educate voters about what the actual responsibilities of the School Committee are.

She also hopes to see an increase in the number of candidates running for School Committee in the 2023 election.

"I'm hoping with the change to a ward-by-ward membership, we can get some different faces running for School Committee," said Rizzo.

Stacey Rizzo and her husband, John Rizzo, have three sons Adam is a teacher at the Susan B. Anthony School. Their son, Nick, was a biology teacher at Revere High School, but has changed his career field. Another son, Jonathan, works in sales for solar panels. All three sons and their spouses proudly attended a recent Massachusetts Association of School Committees dinner at the Wharf in honor of Stacey Rizzo's election as the new president of the organization.

ment is interested in hearing directly from our small business owners on how the city can best support them in the new year," said Mayor Brian Arrigo. "We hope to learn more about the issues facing this community and work with local, state, and federal partners to create programming and offer grants that will propose solutions to the challenges they are currently facing. Our city is growing, and with that growth it is necessary to find opportunities for everyone to thrive in the City of Revere."

The survey will not only be targeting small businesses, but the largest employers in the City of Revere. It is part of a larger effort to focus more resources and attention to better support the business community.

"Over the next few months, we will be introducing several new business support strategies," said DPCD Chief Tom Skwierawski, "This will include both new grant and loan programs, but also strengthening existing technical assistance and incentive offerings to make sure they meet community needs. The results of this survey will be critical in refining these strategies and will ensure that we are doing our part to make Revere a great place to do business."

residents who were in attendance.

As expected, the largest traffic counts occurred during the morning and afternoon rush hour periods during the weekdays and from 2-3 p.m. on Saturdays. Sigourney and Charger Sts., which are the only streets in the grid with traffic signals that permit left turns onto Squire Rd., saw the largest volume of traffic with up to 200 vehicles during peak hours.

By contrast, some of the other streets in the grid saw traffic volumes as low as 20 vehicles per hour.

Steele fielded a number of questions from the audience and the commissioners regarding the collection of the data.

Argenzio said this was the first of three meetings to be held by the commission prior to making its final decision on signage for the neighborhood. Thursday's initial meeting presented the study results to the members of the community; the next meeting in February will feature recommendations from HTNB; and at the third meeting in March, the commission will make its final decision.

Last August the commission approved changes to one-way signage on certain streets (including Sigourney), at the request of the residents of those streets, that significantly reduced the high volume of traffic on those streets, but which had the expected domino effect of increasing traffic significantly on the adjacent streets.

After the predictable outcry from the residents of the adjacent streets, the commission reversed course in the fall, returning the signage to the original status quo and commissioning a traffic study to determine what, if anything, can be done to redirect traffic from the high-volume streets in an equitable manner.

However, any efforts to change traffic patterns in the area could face some significant roadblocks (no pun intended). Steele reminded those in attendance that Squire Rd. is a state highway, which means that any changes to traffic signage with all intersecting roadways will be subject to state approval.

In addition, a Popeye's Restaurant will be opening soon at the corner of Derby and Squire Rds. on the site of the former Honeydew Donuts and is expected to bring even more traffic to the area.

Finally, as one audience member stated, the huge increase in Revere's population in recent years, thanks to the construction of many high-density housing buildings, has contributed significantly to the ever-increasing volume of traffic on streets throughout the city that were not designed to handle such large numbers of vehicles.

In addition, the popular Market Basket grocery store, located across Squire Rd. in the Northgate Mall, is a huge draw, bringing thousands of cars who use the neighborhood as a cut-through to get to and from the mall.

The present, round-the-clock gridlock on Broadway and other city streets hearkens back to the early 1950s when the Mystic River Bridge first opened before the Northeast Expressway was built. Broadway in Revere and Chelsea became inundated with traffic from North Shore commuters who were seeking to get onto the new bridge, creating a nightmare for local residents.

The construction of the Northeast Expressway, which connected the bridge to Route 1, eliminated the traffic congestion problem immediately. But unless the city has plans for a tunnel or an overhead viaduct that would connect Malden St. to Squire Rd., the commission may be facing a situation of trying to fit the proverbial square peg into a round hole in any effort to try to make everyone happy.

Revere Kiwanis To Help Winthrop Men Organize Club

The Revere Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon meeting in the Legion Memorial building Wednesday, played host to a large delegation of Winthrop business men who plan to form a Winthrop Kiwanis Club. Charles R. Bennison, a member of the local club introduced the visitors who were given a cordial greeting.

The principal speaker was Fred C. Mitchell, principal of Lynn Classical High School and lieutenant governor of the sixth Kiwanis district. He outlined in brief the objects and aims of Kiwanis and gave a summary of the activities of Kiwanis International since its founding in Detroit 19 years ago.

Another speaker was Mayor Andrew A. Casassa, who gave an optimistic talk on general business conditions. He said that this country has gone through other periods of depression and has emerged greater and better than ever and that this one would be no exception. He greeted the visitors from Winthrop in the name of the City of Revere and lauded the work of Kiwanis, saying that it is work such as performed by service organizations which help make this world a better place for the less fortunate members of a community.

Dr. A. C. Benjamin, president of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, and three of his fellow members, Atty. Daniel Murphy, Charles Jones and William Harrington were in attendance.

Carmen Perrotti, captain of the bowling team, announced that there will be another match with the Chelsea team at the Chelsea Square alleys next Monday night. There was community singing led by Rev. E. Ambrose Jenkins with Arthur H. Curtis at the piano.

Mayors Support Ely's Relief Plan

Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Revere was one of nineteen Massachusetts mayors who on Thursday authorized Gov. Ely to report their support of his proposed legislation creating an emergency finance board with the authority to have the state guarantee municipal loans made in anticipation of taxes or revenue.

The approval of the 19 mayors was voted at a special meeting of the Mayors' Club, despite serious apprehension expressed by Mayor Carriere of Fitchburg, who predicted that banks will compel all cities to obtain approval of loans by the state board, thereby virtually vesting the state board with regulatory power over municipal budgets.

Four mayors, Quigley of Chelsea, whose remarks created a near riot, McGrath of Quincy, McGraw of Taunton and Torrey of Beverly, refused to approve the plan.

Through Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn, chief executives of cities not confronted by financial troubles expressed a willingness to submit to some measure of state regulation of budgets in order that the predicament of cities unable to pay salaries of workers may be quickly relieved.

Mayor More of Pittsfield mildly rebuked Quigley and Mayor Casassa of Revere did so more vigorously. Both demanded immediate action. They interpreted Quigley's declaration that many of the mayors are unfitted to hold their jobs.

G. & E. Employees To Aid Revere's Unemployed

Perhaps no better illustration of real charity ever demonstrated in this city was that which took place in the Mayor's office last week, when Mr. C. F. Chisholm gave His Honor, the Mayor a check in the amount of six hundred dollars which was donated by the Mutual Benefit Association, composed of employees of the Suburban Gas & Electric Company, to the Unemployment Fund.

This organization, in existence for a number of years, has always taken care of the sick and needy in its own company, now extends a helping hand to the city's unemployed. This assistance, will no doubt, swell materially the Welfare Fund and induce other organizations in our community to aid in this worthy cause.

A copy of a letter received by the Suburban Gas & Electric Co. from Mayor Casassa is published below:

Mr. Colin F. Chisholm,
Suburban Gas & Electric Co.,

My dear Mr. Chisholm:

Let me thank you and through you the members of your organization for the check for Six Hundred Dollars ($600.) which you delivered to me this morning as a contribution to the Welfare Fund of the City.

This contribution is a wonderful help to us and to the people of the city who are in distress and will prove a worthy example to other concerns in the city to do likewise.

With renewed thanks to all who helped in any way to bring this cheer to us, I am,

Sincerely yours,
ANDREW A. CASASSA,

CHIEF TIGHE FAVORS POLICE RADIO HERE

Chief of Police Edward Tighe favors the police radio bill filed in the State House by Representative Augustine Airola and Thomas Carroll.

Chief Tighe in expressing his approval of the bill said that radio is the only scientific means of combating and reducing crime in Massachusetts towns and cities.

Every city and town having a population of more than 15,000 people shall by Jan. 1, 1933, have and maintain police radio equipment, according to the terms of the bill.

The various Massachusetts communities are allowed three years to begin plans for the operation of this signal system which Chief Tighe stated today has operated in a highly successful manner in the State of Michigan.

It is expected that the bill will pass because many leaders in the Legislature have voiced their approval.

NEW BILL

A bill making it mandatory for special justices and masters to render their decisions within a year from the hearings over which they preside was presented to the House of Representatives Saturday by Representatives Augustine Airola and Thomas F. Carroll and William L. O'Brien, past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

No date for a hearing on this bill was announced but it is definitely known, however, that it will receive great support when it comes up for passage.

Rep. Carroll Tells of Affairs of the Revere Trust Company

Representative Thomas F. Carroll reports, from a conversation with the bank commissioner, that everything possible is being done to settle up the affairs of the closed Revere Trust Co.

All proofs of claims have been sent out, and out of approximately 750 accounts in the savings department, 50 claims remain unproven, and out of approximately 350 commercial accounts about 103 have not yet proven their claims.

Under the laws of Massachusetts it is necessary to wait three months from the date of the issue of the proofs of claims before any dividend can be declared.

In the meantime the liquidating agent is collecting all monies due the bank on outstanding notes, mortgages and other sources.

The more money that can be collected during this three months' period the greater the dividend. The agent is working and hopes to be able to declare between 20 and 25 per cent as an initial dividend.

The agent believes that this two billion dollar credit bill that is about to pass Congress will be a great benefit to the depositors of the Revere Trust Company and to the agent settling up its affairs in as much as it will establish confidence as far as the other bankers are concerned. They may possibly be induced to take over the present mortgagees of the closed bank so that the homes of Revere citizens will not be sacrificed should the agent be forced to take them over.

Everything that possibly can be done is being done, the bank commissioner told Rep. Carroll. The great difficulty is the low stock market and the low real estate market. It is to the advantage of the depositors that the securities held by the bank are not sold on the low market.

BEACMONT PLANNING CHARITY EVENT

Beachmont organizations are being organized by Commander Frederick Reinstein of the Beachmont Veterans of the World War to promote a huge charity event.

The entire proceeds will be used to aid the needy families of this section over the winter months.

Appointments to Fire Dept. Upheld by Civil Service Ruling

Mayor Andrew A. Casassa's appointment of four non-veterans as regular members of the fire department was upheld in a decision rendered by Paul E. Tierney, commissioner of civil service.

Some members of the city council had questioned the mayor's action in appointing non veterans in preference to those who had seen service and attempted to nullify the appointments on the grounds that civil service rules required that ex-service men be given preference.

The matter was put up to Civil Service Commissioner Tierney with the result that Mayor Casassa was informed in a letter Thursday that he was within his rights in naming the four men that he did. The commissioner called attention to the fact that as Revere has adopted the legislative act for the establishment of a reserve fire force for Revere it is possible to appoint regular members of the fire department from the reserve force so long as the appointees have performed duty whenever called upon to do so.

Appointments as regulars to the police department are covered under a special act passed in 1930, the commissioner stated in his communication. Under that act regulars to the police department must be appointed from a reserve list provided by the civil service department, he stated. The only way a change can be made in appointments to the fire department, he said, was through a change in the legislative act.

City Employees Will Help Revere Un- employed

All city employees, heeding the requests of Mayor Andrew A. Casassa, have agreed to give five percent of their salaries this year for the unemployment relief.

Heeding the request of Mayor Andrew A. Casassa, policemen, firemen, school teachers and all other city employees have agreed to contribute five percent of their salaries this year or unemployment relief.

The Mayor has had distributed pledges among all those receiving pay from the city asking this voluntary contribution, said sum of five percent to be deducted either weekly or monthly, and calling attention to the fact that this money will be used to help defray the expenses of the public welfare department. As soon as received, both the police and fire departments signed up 100 percent with other departments following suit.

Accompanying the pledges as sent out was a letter addressed to heads of departments which read as follows:

"In order to conform with the voluntary contribution of five percent of their salaries as has been voted by the school teachers of this city, (Continued on Page Eight)

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION STUDENTS IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

Some students from the Immaculate Conception Eighth-Grade class, Mrs. Tracy, and parent chaperons joined together with many others from the Archdiocese of Boston, traveling to the annual March for Life in Washington, D.C. previously. The trip included attending a Christian rock concert called "LifeFest," followed by adoration, Mass, and the March itself. It was a memorable experience for all. Students accompanying the Archdiocese this year will be leaving on Jan. 28 to participate in the March for Life in Washington, D.C.

Wonderful to be together again at St. John School!

By Rebecca Griffin

Nestled in the heart of Boston's historic North End, St. John School has educated children since 1895. Welcoming students in PreKindergarten Three through Grade Eight from over thirty five zip codes, we instill Catholic values while focusing on Faith and academic excellence.

In September 2020 during the pandemic, St. John School remained open. Every child continued to learn either in-person or through remote learning. We were able to remain open without closure throughout the past two years, while also continuing to focus on students' academic and spiritual growth because of the exceptional hard work of our entire community. Through diligent planning and execution, we kept our school healthy, safe, and open. To be able to remain open, our ages did not mix, our families did not come into the building, and we did not gather as a community.

This past Christmas Season, it was such a joy to bring everyone back together again as our greater St. John School Community. It was wonderful to celebrate through several school wide events:

Our Advent Angel initiative matched older students with younger students to spend time together, share snack times, and to create a multi-week nativity craft. Our very own art teacher, the amazing Mr. Barber drew our nativity scene that St. John School students added to each week of Advent. At the conclusion of this initiative, our older Advent Angels accompanied our younger Advent Angels, and sat together at our whole school Christmas Mass at our beautiful Parish Church, St. Leonard's Church. (St. Leonard's Church is celebrating 150 years this year, www.saintleonardchurchboston.org/150thcelebration). It was wonderful to see friendships develop and flourish across grade levels through this initiative. It is wonderful to be together again at St. John School!

HISTORY OF NATIONAL CATHOLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

National Catholic Schools Week is held for seven days, starting from the last Sunday in January. Aside from its promotion of education, it's also a great opportunity to recognize the value, principles, and contributions that the Catholic schools have relayed to the Church and every citizen for decades. Showcasing what makes Catholic schools the best for every parent, family, and child is the priority for conducting Catholic Schools Week.

What usually happens during National Catholic Schools Week is the observance of catholic masses, assemblies, open houses, seminars, and many other activities for every family, parishioner, and community member. The quality and distinction of Catholic schools can be seen through these, especially for the young, those who will attend and enter school. The theme and logo for National Catholic Schools Week for the year 2022 is "Catholic Schools: Faith, Excellence, Service."

The first Catholic school that opened in the United State was called St. Mary's School in Philadelphia, in 1783. After some time, the enthusiasm and curiosity for Catholic education grew and the nation noticed a massive inflow of Catholics from all over the world. By the 1920s, more than 6,000 Catholic elementary schools accepted and enrolled almost two million students and employed 42,000 teachers. By the latter half of that century, enrollment grew, even more, reaching double the number of students. Ever since Catholic schools have been widely perceived and established as a viable means of education.

THE MAURA HEALEY ERA HAS BEGUN!

Governor Maura Healey wasted little time since her inauguration a few weeks ago in setting the pace for what we're sure will be an active -- and activist -- administration with her announcement last week that she will be filing her first two pieces of legislation, one of which is a $987 million "immediate needs" bond bill targeting housing and economic development and another for an additional $400 million for MassWorks that will make grants available to cities and towns for infrastructure projects.

Governor Healey, who highlighted economic development as a top priority during her campaign, said she filed the "immediate needs" bill "to ensure critical housing and economic development programs across the state can continue to serve people in Massachusetts without interruption."

The $400 million for infrastructure will continue the funding stream for MassWorks, which was established in 2010, that will ensure that this key program will create essential infrastructure improvements in communities across our state,

In our view, Governor Healey's announcement represents a burst of energy that portends a refreshing change in the atmosphere on Beacon Hill.

To be sure, her predecessor, Charlie Baker, was the most popular governor in the country during his eight-year tenure. But it was clear that after two exhausting terms in office, Baker's enthusiasm for the job had waned -- which, by the way, is to be expected, especially after three years of battling a pandemic.

But beyond that, Healey represents a true changing of the guard in politics on Beacon Hill. For all of his progressive views, Charlie Baker was a straight, male Baby Boomer who, like all of us, was a product of his age and his times. There were some things he just could not accept, such as marijuana legalization and providing driver's licenses for non-citizens, that showed that he was out-of-step with the times.

By contrast, Maura Healey is a gay, female Gen Xer -- and accordingly will bring a perspective to the job of governor that will be based on her personal experience. (We also would note that both Baker and Healey are Harvard graduates where they both played basketball, but Healey was the captain and a star player, whereas Baker was...not so much.)

Yes, the times they are a changin' -- and we're looking forward to the Maura Healey era in Massachusetts.

JACINDA ARDERN: A TOTAL CLASS ACT

We wish to make note of the incredibly classy announcement last week by New Zealand Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern, who told her country that she will be stepping down from the post after almost six years in office.

Ms. Ardern took over the job at the age of 37, making her at the time the youngest head of state in the world.

She admitted very forthrightly that she had "nothing left in the tank," and that she was shifting her focus in life to her family (she has a four year-old daughter.)

Jacinda Ardern epitomized the term "political courage." Her tenure will be remembered for her compassionate response to a massacre in a mosque in the nation's capital, Christchurch, and for her subsequent spearheading of a ban on assault weapons in that country. She also guided New Zealand through the worst of the COVID crisis with courage, determination, and competency that saw New Zealand ultimately have one of the lowest COVID mortality rates in the world.

Ms. Ardern will be missed on the world stage. We can only hope that political leaders in our country might learn from her example.

EXTEND YOUR DRY JANUARY INTO FEBRUARY

Over the past few years, Dry January has become more and more popular. It is estimated that 15% of regular drinkers choose not to drink during the month as a means of detoxing their minds and bodies from the pernicious effects of alcohol.

Those who are nearing completion of their Dry January may want to consider a recent report from the Canadian Centre on Substance Use and Addiction which stated:

"Research shows that no amount or kind of alcohol is good for your health. It doesn't matter what kind of alcohol it is -- wine, beer, cider or spirits. Drinking alcohol, even a small amount, is damaging to everyone, regardless of age, sex, gender, ethnicity, tolerance for alcohol or lifestyle."

The Canadian report confirms what scientific studies have been reporting for the past few years. The World Health Organization has labeled a Class 1 carcinogen, with even small amounts of alcohol linked to many cancers, particularly breast cancer in women.

Alcohol presently outranks drug abuse as a leading cause of death in our country, behind only heart disease and cancer. In addition, the direct cost to our health care system and the hidden toll on families and individuals from alcohol abuse far outweighs the damage to society caused by legal and illegal drugs.

If you've been able to complete a Dry January, then try to extend it for another month into a Dry February. Your mind and body will appreciate it.

DEFUND FRANKENSTEIN RESEARCH

Dear Editor,

There are many ugly sides to Abortion Practices in this country. This atrocity continues because it generates a lucrative money making business. So who cares if innocent babies are tortured and killed in the process! Recently, congress debated the "Born Alive Bill" that states that an aborted baby born alive should be given medical care. It passed by a slim margin but what is appalling is that so many of our representatives thought this bill should not pass! Imagine, they refused to give a living baby medical care after a botched up abortion? Have we sunk so low in our moral judgement? Consider our National Institute of Health (NIH). Using our tax dollars, the NIH is funding research to grow baby's hair on the back of rodents! To what purpose? NIH has also funded scientists who have developed protocols

Monterey Park, Evansville shootings, Hero Brandon Tsay, We need the news, good and bad

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

We like good news but typically the news is not good. Too often no news is good news. In reality, no news is bad news for us all.

There is lots of recent bad news. A crazed gunman entered a dance hall in Monterey Park, California killing 10 people and wounding many innocent people. A former employee walked into an Evansville, Indiana Walmart and shot an employee in the face in the store break-room. The shooter was killed by local police. A planned protest in downtown Atlanta turned violent when protestors damaged stores and burned a police car over the weekend.

We did hear astonishing good news from Monterey Park. Brandon Tsay confronted the gunman at a second location where he was about to enter and kill more people. He heroically wrestled the gun away from the killer and pointed it at him causing the gunman to leave the scene. Only God knows how many lives Tsay saved. He is a true hero.

News is always happening nationally, locally and individually to us all. We need the information whether it's good or bad. We need the national and regional news but the local news is up front and close to us.

For example, all around us we are targets of scams, thieves and prowling bad people. Americans were scammed to the tune 5.8 billion dollars in 2021. (Digital Guardian). We are never beyond being duped. Today, daily text messages, emails, phone calls and mail come to Americans phishing for a sucker who will buy the false story they are telling. They are good at what they do.

My son was away in a foreign country when I was duped out of $350 years ago. The caller was very professional sounding and convincing. I believed that if I did not pay the money owed by my son it would negatively impact his career. This was at the beginning of the telephone scam industry and I paid him the money. Later I realized that I had been scammed.

Years ago, a dear friend received a telephone call from someone posing as an IRS agent. The scammer told the senior adult man that he owed $45,000 in back taxes for various reasons. The friend was about 90 years old and living on a meager retirement income. He didn't realize he was being scammed, was overwhelmed with anxiety and killed himself.

"At every level of life there is a new devil," an old friend once said. At every stage of life there are new twists, turns and curves. We are never beyond being informed, learning and developing. Young people make mistakes but so do old people. We often think we've lived long enough and know most everything, but we don't. Most of us have become more aware of this problem but crooks work at catching people off guard and are constantly developing new schemes.

Today, we have search engines and are inundated with news and information. However, we don't hear all the news nor do we know everything we need to know when we need to know. Often, we learn the hard way. This is why education is expensive. Life experience education is often the most expensive and difficult of all learning processes. Even in life education we learn but we don't always utilize the life experience very much. Too often we repeat the same mistakes hoping for a different outcome.

We can't go wrong with good information. This is why you need the publication you are reading. Your local paper and online news sources are crucial to a community's health and overall well-being. Local newspapers, blogs and online sources tell what is happening in your local town and county.

Support this news source with your subscription and advertising needs. County newspapers that have been around for years continue to close. Every week I receive notification of a newspaper printing its final edition and that's not good news.

Glenn Mollette is the publisher of Newburgh Press, Liberty Torch and various other publishing imprints; a national columnist – American Issues and Common Sense opinions, analysis, stories and features appear each week in over 500 newspapers, websites and blogs across the United States.

“Lastly, I asked for an accounting of all public funds to settle claims,” he said.

Rizzo said the City Council has a right to be made aware of the issues he raised in his motion last year.

“They are not pleasant,” he said. “This is not a political move, this is trying to get an understanding of where we are going in respect to our public safety here in the city.”

Rizzo said he was willing to go into executive session to discuss the issues, but said he would rather see them discussed in an open meeting.

“It seems very unfair to me that we would withhold this information from the people that we represent,” said Rizzo.

Councillor-at-Large Steven Morabito noted that the council has gone into executive session to discuss sensitive matters when Rizzo was mayor, as well as under the current administration.

“I think the purpose of executive session is that the information is very sensitive and there could be pending legal action, and that’s the reason we go into executive session,” said Morabito.

Rizzo countered that several of the issues with the department were not part of ongoing investigations and some were financial settlements that have already happened.

Council President Patrick Keefe said it was likely any questions raised by Rizzo could be addressed in executive session.

“I certainly agree that if it is a public record, it should be public, but some of these things, I have been informed on some of the things happening with the police department, whether it was the mayor bringing me into his office or the chief calling me,” said Keefe.

Keefe said that he was not aware of all the issues in the department, but he said there were certain items that should not be part of the public record for legal reasons.

“I was a little fuzzy about the language (of the executive session order) as well, but I think it is more of a legal language, if we are going to talk about someone it can be a character or health issue,” said Keefe. “I certainly don’t think we will talk much about that, but we might as well do this right now. We have been talking about this for quite some time.”

Arrigo, who was also on hand to discuss the high school building project with the council, said he was happy to discuss some of the questions raised by Rizzo in public.

“So, number one, the motion that was presented by the City Council asked that I appear before the City Council in executive session,” said Arrigo. “I find it interesting that now we want to talk about this publicly, but that was the motion that was presented, and I think that was the understanding we all had.”

Arrigo said the council was presented information about all the settlements that were requested.

“There are six settlements that have been made since 2017, and I do want to make sure everyone keeps in mind that at least ... five of the six were in relation to incidents under Chief (Jospeh) Cafarelli,” said Arrigo Cafarelli was appointed by Rizzo when he was mayor in 2012. In 2017, Arrigo opted against renewing Cafarelli’s contract.

Arrigo noted that the most expensive settlement, at $175,000, was due to harassment that was taking place under Cafarelli.

“I would be happy to go into details about these,” Arrigo said. “Fortunately for us, we do have insurance and our insurance compensation covered that $175,000 settlement that Lynn Romboli endured under Chief Cafarelli. That was not direct taxpayer money, but that was the largest of the six, and I’d be happy to go into further detail.”

Arrigo went on to state that one of the settlements included an incident that involved current Police Chief David Callahan while Cafarelli was still chief that Cafarelli did not inform the mayor about for 11 months.

“Obviously, we want to make sure, and I’m sure any former mayor would agree, that you want a chief that is telling you what is happening immediately,” said Arrigo. “The other thing I will say, and I think this is important to call out, was this kind of sense that things might not be going well for the men and women of the department. I am proud to say that at least we have a handshake agreement with our police officers union, and I think that is a sign of the work that we are willing to do.”

He said his administration has always been willing to work with everyone to make sure the police department does not become a political football.

Rizzo took up the opportunity to question Arrigo in public session, to the consternation of Keefe.

“So Chief Cafarelli never came to you with a complaint about the current chief?” said Rizzo.

Arrigo said he had the letter that he presented to Chief Cafarelli in 2017 and started to read from it as Keefe asked the mayor to stop.

“No, no, everyone should know, everyone should know the situation,” said Arrigo.

Arrigo stated there was an incident on May 30 of 2016 that Cafarelli did not inform him of until April of 2017 as Keefe asked for a roll call to go into executive session.

“We’re going to discuss this in executive session,” said Keefe.

“This is unbelievable,” Rizzo said, as he was the only councillor to vote no to go into executive session.

The executive session lasted for about 40 minutes and there was no further discussion when the council came back into regular session.

ConsComm to hire consultant to advise on new Revere High School

By Journal Staff

The Revere Conservation Commission (ConsComm) held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening, January 18, in the City Council Chambers.

Chairman John Shue and fellow commissioners Joseph LaValle, Brian Averback, and Nicholas Rudolph were on hand for the meeting.

The principal business conducted by the board involved a presentation of the potential impacts on wetland areas by the construction of the proposed new Revere High School at the old Wonderland Dog Track at 190 VFW Highway.

Claire Hoogeboom, a wetlands scientist with LEC Environmental Consultants in Plymouth, presented a number of drawings of the site that highlighted the many areas both within and around the property that must be taken into consideration by the Conservation Commission.

Hoogeboom noted that all of the former racetrack buildings have been torn down, leaving only remnant pavement and foundations that are overgrown with invasive species of plants.

She said the site is bisected by the so-called county ditch, which is a "perennial stream" that ultimately drains into Diamond Creek, which is part of the Rumney Marsh Wetlands.

Hoogeboom stated that there are some wetlands on the property itself, but those have been degraded over the years dating back to the time the track was constructed in the 1930s (when there were no wetlands protection laws).

She said that the city is seeking to have the commission make a declaration regarding the jurisdictional status of those areas within the locus of the property. Hoogeboom proceeded to list a host of matters that will require decisions by the Conservation Commission and noted that the commission's decisions on each one ultimately will affect the final design of the high school project.

"This is pretty complicated," said Shue, who acknowledged that the many issues presented by Hoogeboom were beyond his expertise. "There's a lot in this."

He then suggested that the commission hire a consultant to advise the commission with a peer review.

"I think that is a great idea," said Averback. "This project is so massive we have to make sure we do it properly."

The commission voted unanimously to approve the hiring of a consultant, which will be paid for by the city.

The next date for the commission to take up the matter will be March 1.

about the Quality Inn's long-term goals." He also noted that during this past summer, an unauthorized Park and Fly business operated on the premises.

"There are rumors swirling about the hotel's management goals and speculation that they have opted to move up their renewal for means other than as a hotel," Serino said.

Scherer responded that finding staff, particularly a qualified property manager, has been difficult.

She also briefly addressed the issue of the City of Boston's request to use the hotel as housing for that city's homeless back in 2021 by former Boston Mayor Kim Janey. The hotel had been at the center of controversy when Janey had suggested that the hotel be used to provide temporary housing as a solution for the homeless population in the encampment at the so-called Mass. and Cass intersection.

That prospect blew up in the Boston media and drew the ire of Revere officials, including Mayor Brian Arrigo.

"This is the 'elephant in the room', but that is not happening. Our intention is not to do anything behind anyone's back," Scherer said, thereby essentially putting the issue and the rumors to rest.

2 Motor Vehicle Dealer license to Ana and Cleison Sarnaglia from Jeffrey Castaldo. The number of cars for sale is to remain at 60.

This matter had been continued from the commission's December meeting.

Mr. Sarnaglia presented his application to the commission. He said he recently bought both the business operation and the building. He further said the present auto body repair and auto sales shop will remain unchanged.

After Selevitch questioned whether 60 cars can fit on the lot, Sarnaglia pointed out a parking area on the lot. There were no opponents and the commissioners approved the application unanimously.

The second item was an application of Primos Partners, LLC d/b/a Fajita's Sports Bar & Restaurant, 46 Revere St., Nicolas Portillo, manager, for a change of closing hours to 2 a.m. from 12 a.m.

Mr. Portillo presented the application. He noted that other establishments in the area remain open until 2:00 and said that a lot of his customers have requested that he remain open until 2:00.

These babies are alive and feel pain during this process of harvesting their organs! Can research be more cruel? The NIH has funded other disturbing research using aborted baby organs from Planned Parenthood Clinics making abortion their primary function.

Congress must act to stop this evil Frankenstein research. I do not want my tax dollars to be used for such evil! Do you?

High School //

fore there was a lengthy discussion about the high school cost at Monday night's regular meeting.

Late last year, the council was asked to submit a schematic design plans for approval to the Massachusetts School Building Authority.

While the council was not asked to finalize a cost or bonding for the project, the price tag associated with the project came in at $499 million, causing sticker shock for a number of councillors and residents. The latest estimates have an MSBA grant covering about $160 million of that estimated cost.

Viscay's presentation touched on a wide range of avenues to cover the expected debt service for the new high school, ranging from expected new growth from the HYM Suffolk Downs development, to increased city fees, to tightening the city's operating and capital budgets, to the eventual extra capital that will be available when the city's pension plan is fully funded in 2034. Viscay also noted that the city does not have any income from cannabis sales, and the council may want to rethink allowing recreational cannabis sales in the city as an avenue to raise money.

Viscay said the peak debt payment of about $19 million would happen around 2029. Once the full new growth kicks in from Suffolk Downs, and the pension plan is fully funded, Viscay said the city should be able to easily take care of the debt payments from 2034 on.

Viscay and Mayor Brian Arrigo said the challenge for now is bridging about a four to five year gap from the peak payment to that date to cover the debt service for the new school.

"Our debt payments are going to start rapidly increasing with the maximum debt payment probably coming around 2028, so that's a challenge," said Viscay.

Viscay did bring up the option of a debt exclusion vote, although he said it is unlikely to happen. With a debt exclusion, voters would be asked to approve an increase in their property taxes to pay for the high school project.

As an example, Viscay said raising an additional $10 million per year would mean an increase of about $470 on the average property tax bill.

"I don't think many people want that, but I have to talk about it," Viscay said.

Viscay said one of the things the city will have to do in the coming month is look at why the high school cost estimate is so high.

Currently, the owner's project manager for the high school project is looking for the city to approve the schematic design plans by March 1, meaning the city and council have a number of questions and issues to work through by that potential date.

"I think we have to find out why our school is so expensive," said Viscay. "I'm curious to know what we can do to reduce cost so it becomes more affordable. I also think a very important part of this is the ability to use a portion of the Wonderland to generate some private development which will generate some tax dollars."

Viscay noted that the possibility of building a municipal garage on the Wonderland site to provide parking for the high school and to generate revenue has been raised.

"All ideas need to be teased out to tackle this very expensive project that we all say we want to build, but we've got to make some tough decisions," said Viscay.

Ward 6 Councillor Richard Serino said he hopes the city can look toward cost savings through the budget rather than raising fees to help pay for the new high school.

"What I hear every day is that the average taxpayer is burdened as it is," said Serino, adding that the city has to look at ways to maximize revenue from large developers in the city such as Amazon, HYM, and Redgate," said Serino.

Councillor-at-Large Anthony Zambuto thanked Viscay for making the presentation, but made it clear that he wasn't happy with a lot of what he heard.

"Most everything on here is goddamn offensive, excuse my language, and I don't see a lot of support for it," said Zambuto. "If you think a million dollars (from) marijuana is going to pay for a $500 million high school, I think you're dreaming."

Zambuto said his fear is that the country ends up in a recession and the city lacks the money to make its debt payments for the new high school.

Councillor-at-Large Gerry Visconti said his major concern is the price tag of the project, and that the council based its decision to go ahead with the Wonderland site, in part, because of a lower cost estimate.

"I'll be honest with you, the cost of this high school when we first went into discussions about design and everything, we were given a $338 million price tag," said Visconti.

Decisions were made based on that $338 million estimate, said Visconti.

"To be off that much, when decisions like purchasing the Wonderland site were based on it, is not fair to the council," said Visconti.

Last year, the council agreed to bond $29.5 million to take the Wonderland site by eminent domain. Visconti noted that the price tag on the land could easily increase.

"Maybe that is no longer a valid purchase because we are so off," Visconti said.

Councillor-at-Large Dan Rizzo said he was also concerned about the looming deadline to submit to the MSBA and the price tag.

Arrigo said the city is looking for a financial plan that helps pay for the project, with the full debt payment not being due until 2029.

"We are throwing around a lot of numbers, and they are all over the place, and that's just a function of the fact we are in an interesting economic time, and this is a project that is a long-term project," said Arrigo. "Obviously, there is sticker shock when we talk about hundreds of millions of dollars."

The mayor said the vote on March 1 is around the design of the project.

"There are implications that correlate between design and the amount of money it is going to cost, but we're going to be talking about different numbers for a pretty significant amount of time," said Arrigo. "As we go through this and as we work and come up with solutions, the end goal is to build that school that we all agree we want to build, and that will take us all working together to make that happen."

Zambuto replied that he did not think there was any intent to deceive the council on the cost of the project, but said the council did not have the proper information to make a decision on the Wonderland site selection.

"The figure changed $120 million after the fact, and that in my mind is reason to pull it back and look at another option," said Zambuto. "I want to build a high school that we can pay for."

Arrigo said that reversing course at this point will only increase the cost.

"I want to make sure that it is clear that we have picked a site, everyone has picked a site and we've gotten this far with the design," said Arrigo. "Technically, there is going to be another vote after this one for a bond authorization, so we are not even talking necessarily about money. The design is tied to the money, I get it, but at the end of the day, there is going to be another call and another conversation and another vote to take on the actual bond authorization."

Arrigo said going back to the original high school site would not be a cheaper option.

Keefe said the city and the council ultimately have to look at reducing the cost of the high school project.

"No one is happy about that figure," he said.

The city will also have to look internally to see how it can afford to pay for the project, Keefe said.

Conservation Commission approves NOI for Salem Street apartment building

By Journal Staff

In addition to the discussion of the proposed new Revere High at the old Wonderland Dog Track (see accompanying story), the Conservation Commission (Chairman John Shue and fellow members Joseph LaValle, Brian Averbach, and Nicholas Rudolph) voted upon a number of other matters.

Chief among them was the commission's approval of a Notice of Intent (NOI) for the construction of a 25-unit apartment building at 344 Salem St., at the corner of Clifton St., within a buffer zone of the adjacent vegetation wetland.

Atty. Nancy O'Neill represented the petitioner, Zepaj Development LLC.

O'Neill told the commission that Zepaj will be razing the longstanding auto garage structure on the 18,000 sq. ft., half-moon shape lot in order to construct an apartment building of 22,000 sq. ft. with 24 one-bedroom apartments and one studio unit. There will be parking for 50 vehicles, mostly under the building.

She said that the Zoning Board of Appeals granted zoning relief for variances based on the irregular shape of the lot.

"This project will entail environmental benefits over the prior use. It will remediate the prior use on the site of the garage and will be less intrusive to the neighboring wetlands," said O'Neill.

Rick Salvo of Engineering Alliance made a presentation to the commission about potential environmental impacts. He explained that the adjacent wetlands area is not a river, but rather is an "intermittent stream." All of the paved areas will pitch away from the wetlands resource area and into a deep sump catch basin that will go into a water quality unit with a sub-surface infiltration facility that will be able to handle a 100-year storm.

Salvo said the project will comply with all of the 10 standards set forth by the DEP for projects of this nature.

"This is a buffer zone project without any direct impact on any wetland resource areas, but we've managed the stormwater to make a significant improvement," compared to what presently exists, he told the commission.

There were no opponents to the project and the commission voted 4-0 to approve the NOI, though adding special conditions pertaining to a possible septic tank and removal of existing construction debris on the site.

In another matter, the commission took up a request for a Notice of Intent (NOI) on Avon St. in which the city wants to install 220 feet of drainpipe from Avon St. to the storm drain system on Bay Rd. The project will consist of underground PVC pipe that will improve drainage for the area.

Representing the city was Danielle Osterman, the Community Development Program Manager. She said there is a dry-well in front of one of the homes and that the dry-well will be connected to the storm water drain, which will improve drainage in the whole area.

Shue noted that the project is a standard procedure for this type of project.

However, because the state DEP had yet to issue a file number for the application, the Conservation Commission could not take any action on the application per the statute. The DEP presumably will issue a file number in time for the commission's next meeting, when it then can approve the NOI.

The commission took up a Request for a Certificate of Compliance for 320 Charger St., which presently is a large, paved area storing rental cars.

Salvo appeared on behalf of the applicant.

He explained that the project entailed the removal of a crushing yard, the construction of a retaining wall, and installation of a robust stormwater management system with 1000 feet of linear perforated pipe for stormwater that initially is treated by draining into various other systems, before eventually draining into a water infiltration system.

Shue noted that everything is in compliance and recommended that the commission issue the Certificate of Compliance.

"This is a drastic improvement over what it was," noted Rudolph. "The debris that used to get into the adjacent areas has been removed."

The commission took up a request for an NOI for the construction of a single-family dwelling on Agneous Ave. on which a portion of the work is being done on land subject to coastal storm flowage

Salvo once again presented the application to the commission on behalf of Cavallo Construction Co.

"This is a 60' x 60' vacant lot, which is a 'qualified lot' under the zoning ordinance, which makes it a 'buildable lot'," said Salvo.

Salvo explained that the proposal calls for construction of a 25' x 35' single-family dwelling on pilings, similar to one at the end of the street. The lot coverage is 28 percent. Water from the roof will be infiltrated into a dry well and the building will have no impact on the resource area, other than by the pilings themselves. He said there will be a small retaining wall to create a flat grade under the dwelling for parking.

The galvanized steel pilings, which are only eight feet in length and will connect to each other, will be helical in shape and will literally screw into the ground. Salvo said the pilings will go to a depth of about 33 feet in order to rest on sufficient material needed to support the structure. Altogether, it is expected there will be eight pilings.

"The big advantage is there is no pounding and no impact on adjacent homes," said Ronald Cavallo, who was on hand to answer questions from the commissioners. "The old-fashioned pounding of wooden pilings is becoming obsolete," Cavallo added, noting that he built a similar house one street over and that he intends to sell this house upon completion.

Christine McLaughlin, a resident of Newton who owns a neighboring property at 166 Broadsound Ave., had a number of questions about the impact of the grading of the site on her property in terms of flow of stormwater.

Salvo explained that there will be no water flow impact either during the construction or from the completed project.

Michael Morgan of 5 Agneous St. asked about the size of the dwelling and was informed that the 25' x 35' size is the footprint of the proposed structure.

Averback, who is a neighbor in the area, said, "I've seen the work of this builder and this will be a benefit for us."

The commission unanimously approved the NOI, though adding special conditions of requiring the maintenance of the dry-well and a permeable surface for the parking area under the house.

The commission will be making a site review visit this Saturday to 801 Washington Ave. in No. Revere, where a developer is proposing to construct an apartment building.

Another item on last week's agenda, a Notice of Intent for new home construction at 6 and 14 Beverly St., was continued until the commission's next meeting at the request of the applicant.

City councillors are set to hold a public hearing this coming Monday night, Jan. 28th, on an ordinance that would effectively ban medical marijuana dispensaries from locating in Revere – and council leaders indicated that the ordinance has plenty of momentum to pass. Councillor Tony Zambuto, who proposed the change last December, said most of the voters he speaks with are adamant about keeping marijuana dispensaries out of Revere. He said most don't believe it will be good for business or property values.

learning how to settle with the ball. It doesn't always have to be. 'Go, go, go!' You still need to have urgency, but having control with the ball is just as important."

Lea Doucette provided a huge spark for Revere in the second half.

"Lea is our reigning Hustle and Spirit Award winner from last season and she showed why in this game," said Porrazzo. "She is willing to do whatever is asked of her on the court and is one of the most-coachable and hardest-working players in the program. She is always fighting for boards, playing top-notch defense, and making hustle plays that matter. So it's nice when she is able to score some points for us too. She impacted the game so much that her scoring was just an added bonus to her other contributions."

This past Friday, Revere took on non-league rival Winthrop and came up on the short end of a 47-27 decision.

"Much like the rest of the season, in half court sets, we played them well," said Porrazzo. "But when the game opens up with pressing and fast breaks, it tends to get away from us. We have to keep learning how to handle the pressure and play with poise, something that will be put to test next week against the Lynn teams."

Porrazzo and his crew were set to take on Lynn Classical last night (Tuesday) and will host Lynn English tomorrow (Thursday). They will travel to Medford next Tuesday.

With their season two-thirds over, the Lady Patriots stand at 5-8 overall (5-4 in the GBL) and must win five of their remaining seven games in order to achieve the .500 record that is necessary to qualify for the state tourney.

RHS BOYS BASKETBALL DROPS HEARTBREAKER, 48-45, ON HALFCOURT BUZZER SHOT

The Revere High boys basketball team traveled to Somerville last Thursday night for a Greater Boston League matchup with the much-improved Highlanders, who were looking to avenge a 53-35 loss to the Patriots in mid-December.

The first quarter got off to a slow start for both teams. Revere senior captain Vincent Nichols (13 points, five rebounds on the night) got things going with a strong drive to the basket. Sophomore guard Ethan Day (four points, four rebounds) tossed in a floater in the lane and senior captain Alejandro Hincapie scored three buckets in the frame, but Somerville led 11-10 at the end of the period.

The Highlanders found their touch from behind the three-point arc in the second quarter, scoring all 12 of their points on a quartet of treys. Revere senior captain Vinny Vu (seven points, four rebounds) and sophomore guard Josh Mercado knocked down three-pointers of their own to keep things close, but the Patriots trailed 23-20 at the intermission.

The third quarter went back and forth between the two teams and the scoring came more often, as Nichols got to the basket and scored plus the foul, Day got in the lane for two, and Hincapie (who finished with a strong stat line of 18 points, six rebounds, and four steals) found his touch, knocking down back-to-back three-pointers to bring the teams back to level at 36-36 heading into the final quarter.

Revere came out and scored the first two baskets of the fourth quarter on a nice fast-break layup from Vu and a slash to the hoop by Nichols, giving the Patriots their largest lead of the game at four points, 40-36.

But Somerville responded with back-to-back hoops to bring the game even at 40-40 with less than three minutes to play.

Hincapie got fouled and made one of two free throws, but the Highlanders answered with another three-pointer to go up 43-41 with 1:47 left on the clock.

Nichols then scored two straight baskets and again put the Patriots ahead, 45-43, with less than a minute to go.

"This game was back-and-forth the whole way, so it had the feeling that whoever had the ball last would win the game," said RHS head coach Davie Leary.

A Somerville player was fouled on the next possession and sank both free throws to deadlock matters at 45-45 with the clock winding down. Revere brought the ball up the court and was going to try to play for the last shot, but a Somerville defender tipped the ball out of bounds with 3.9 seconds remaining.

Leary called a timeout to draw up a play to go for the win, but a controversial offensive foul on Revere was called before the ball was even inbounded, turning the ball over to Somerville. With the Highlanders needing to go the length of the court to win the game, Somerville called a timeout to draw up a play of their own. Somerville senior forward Rodrigo DiFusco caught a pass, took two dribbles and let it fly from half court -- and the shot went in at the buzzer for the 48-45 final score.

"That was a tough one to lose, but it was an amazing shot he made," said Leary after the crushing loss. "We just made too many little mistakes throughout the course of the game and it added up to a big thing in the end. We just need to regroup, keep working hard, and hopefully get some guys back healthy."

"We played hard -- we just need to execute better," Leary added. "The whole night felt like whoever had the ball last would win, and unfortunately it was them."

Leary and his crew were scheduled to travel to Lynn Classical last night (Tuesday) and will trek back to Lynn tomorrow (Thursday) evening to take on the undefeated Lynn English Bulldogs. They will host Medford next Tuesday at 7:00 at Merullo Fieldhouse.

BOYS TRACK RUNS PAST CHELSEA, 59-26

The Revere High boys indoor track and field team glided to a 59-26 triumph over Chelsea last Wednesday at Merullo Fieldhouse.

The Patriots took first place in eight of the nine individual events, including sweeps of the 50 yard hurdles behind the trio of Isaiah DeCrosta (7.0 seconds), Javan Close (7.4), and Fajr Riazi (9.0) and the 50 yard dash thanks to Allen Hou (6.1), Latrell Ashby (6.2), and Brandon Carvajal (6.4).

Revere went 1-2 in the high jump (Giancarlo Miro with a leap of 5'-6" and Javan Close with a jump of 5'-2") and the 1000 (Zariaus Bilimoria in 3:16.9 and David Roth in 3:23.4).

Other first-place finishers for the Patriots included Gabriel Santana in the shot-put with a throw of 35'-8"; Sami El Asri in the 300 dash in a time of 40.8; Ahmed Bellemseh in the 600 in a clocking of 1:38.5; and Youness Chahid in the two mile run in 12:06.5.

Adam Assour added three points in the mile with a second place finish in a time of 5:48.6 and Kevin Alves added a point to the Revere score sheet with a third-place effort in the 600 (1:44.7).

The Patriots, who now are 4-1 on the season, are scheduled to host Malden today (Wednesday) and Lynn Classical Monday.

Two new museum exhibits celebrate contrasting elements of maritime life

The USS Constitution Museum, in partnership with the USS Constitution Model Shipwright Guild and the Seafarer's Trust, proudly presents the 43rd annual exhibit, Masters of Miniature: Ship Model Show, and the new companion photography show "Life At Sea 2022". The exhibits, opening on Saturday, January 28, showcase the intricate and spectacular handcrafted models from local modelers alongside photography documented by seafarers worldwide, shining a light on the human side of the experiences and challenges this essential workforce faces.

Ship modeling is an art as old as shipbuilding itself and one for which USS Constitution has been a favored subject. Model shipbuilding provides a glimpse into vessels' remarkable history and intentional design. The process reveals much about the original shipbuilder's design, engineering, form, and functional considerations as they built a ship to accomplish a specific purpose. This year's Model Show showcase over 70 exquisite, handcrafted models of all types created by USS Constitution Model Shipwright Guild members across New England. From ninth-century ships to pleasure craft of today and everything in between, the show includes vessels of many kinds made by skilled Modelers representing Master Craftsmen and a new generation of modelers. They will be available daily to answer questions and demonstrate the craft of model building. Attendees can vote for their favorite model.

This year, the Museum also features a companion exhibit, ITF Seafarers' Trust LIFE AT SEA 2022, to convey the human side of maritime life. Featuring submissions to the ITF Seafarers' Trust photography competition, the images were taken by seafarers at work, communicating their unique perceptions and experiences while forging lives connected to ships and the sea. In contrast to the perfectly and intricately designed ship models, the emotionally charged imagery conveys the challenges and incredible passion of people who work in various ways connected with the sea. Robert Kiihne, Director of Exhibits at the USS Constitution Museum, explains, "These personal, moving images shine a light on the experiences of people who are often invisible to us; the seafaring men and women from around the world that make trade possible. By presenting their reality alongside the work of highly skilled Model shipwrights, we hope to explore the engineering beauty of ships throughout history and the realities their human crews face daily."

The Masters of Miniature and LIFE AT SEA 2022 exhibits will run from January 28 through February 25, 2023. Both exhibits are open to all visitors during regular Museum hours, from 10:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. daily. Admission is by suggested donation.

The USS Constitution Museum serves as the memory and educational voice of USS Constitution by offering award-winning exhibits where all ages can have fun while learning and exploring history together. The Museum's mission is to engage visitors in the story of Constitution to spark excitement about maritime heritage, naval service, and the American experience. The Museum is open seven days a week with a pay-what-you-wish admission policy, and the Virtual Museum is open 24/7. The USS Constitution Museum is a 2022 winner in USA Today's 10Best Readers' Choice in the "Best History Museum" category and Boston Parents Paper's Family Favorites in the "Historic Sites & Tours" and "Museums & Attractions" categories. Visit Carmella's Italian Market, a neighborhood treasure

Story & Photos by Marianne Salza

Following the bustle of lunchtime in his Jeffries Point corner store, Nick Moulaison, owner of Car-mella's Italian Market, is stuffing cheery peppers with rolled prosciutto, salami, ham, and provolone.

The space has been a neighborhood deli since 1927, and has the original floor and countertop. Moulaison's brother, Clark, purchased the store in 2012, and re-named it Carmella's Italian Market, after his wife. Moulaison acquired the business upon his brother's retirement in March 2022.

"I grew up in this neighborhood, and this is the store I came to as a kid," notes Moulaison. "Before us, it was called Gloria Food Store. It was a chain of food stores at one point. It's an old school-type place."

"Lately, we've become famous for these hot peppers. We soak them in a vegetable/olive oil blend and secret seasoning," Moulaison chuckles. "I like to put them in the jars so you can see the pinwheels."

Carmella's Market supplies the fundamentals for an Italian kitchen: pasta, canned tomatoes, and olive oil. Another essential that Moulaison supplies is dog treats, as a dozen dogs frequent Carmella's Market with their families each day.

In the entrance is a candy and chocolate display. Images of family, friends

Nick Moulaison, Owner of Carmella's Italian Market, with his employee and family friend, Renee Taylor.

-- and Moulaison's bulldog, Zeus -- decorate the walls. Framing the front door are his parents' wedding picture, his mother, Virginia's, First Holy Communion portrait, and a photograph of his father, Clark, wearing his Marine uniform.

"I like to keep the old-school feel of the neighborhood here, but with modern things," Moulaison explains. "A few months ago we started doing espressos, cappuccinos, lattes, and regular coffee. There really is no other coffee shop in this neighborhood."

Moulaison's all-day breakfast sandwiches (served on a bagel, Portuguese muffin, or spuckie roll with bacon, ham, or sausage) have become popular. Carmella's Market also sells muffins and cookies, as well as homemade sheet pizza sold by the slice.

Carmella's Market serves specialty subs named after Moulaison's loved ones who created them. The "Felicia Special," titled in honor of his daughter, is a chicken cutlet sub with prosciutto, bacon, mozzarella, pickles, onions, tomatoes, balsamic glaze, and seasoning.

"My kids do a lot for me. My grandkids work here on the weekend," says Moulaison, who operates the family business with friend, Renee Taylor, and children, Nicolette and Nicholas.

Moulaison sells fresh and frozen homemade calzones, but in the next few months, hopes to offer prepared meals like pasta and meatballs, and chicken parmesan.

Visit Carmella's Italian Market Monday-Saturday 8am-6pm, at 86 Cottage Street, East Boston. View a menu at www.CarmellasMarket.com, or call (617) 567-6373. Follow Carmella's Market on Facebook to watch Nick Moulaison prepare subs with his freshly-sliced cold cuts.

Kick off the New Year with an updated COVID-19 booster and $75 gift card

Staff Report
The Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH) has extended its $75 gift card offer through March 31 for Massachusetts residents who get a COVID-19 vaccination or booster at participating "Get Boosted" vaccination clinics in Chelsea, Everett and Revere. The clinics offer first and second doses of the vaccine as well as the updated bivalent COVID-19 booster, which is approved for everyone ages six months and older.
Staying up to date on vaccines, including boosters, is the most effective way to prevent serious illness from COVID-19. Commonwealth residents who get vaccinated or boosted against COVID-19 at any of the designated clinics can receive a $75 gift card to a local retailer for each dose administered, while supplies last.

DPH is working with local partners to make the COVID shots accessible to as many people as possible.
• In Chelsea, clinics are currently scheduled at the Senior Center, 10 Riley Way, every Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Feb. 26;
• In Everett, clinics are currently scheduled on Tuesdays and Saturdays at Eliot Family Resource Center (times vary), and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Pope John High School through March;
• In Revere, clinics are currently scheduled at Women Encouraging Empowerment, 50 Walnut Ave., on Tuesdays Jan. 24 and Jan. 31 from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.
To find a clinic offering the $75 gift card near you, go to Mass.gov/GetBoosted. No ID or proof of health insurance is required.
In October 2022, DPH launched the Get Boosted campaign as part of its Vaccine Equity Initiative to increase vaccination rates, with a focus on boosters. Massachusetts is a national leader in COVID-19 vaccination; according to the CDC, 93% of the state's population age 6 months and older has received at least one dose, compared with 81% nationally. Some 64% of fully vaccinated individuals in Massachusetts have had a booster.

"We'd like to see as many people vaccinated as possible, so we are offering these community-based COVID vaccination clinics – including a $75 gift card incentive at select locations – to make it easier for people to protect themselves and those around them," said Massachusetts Public Health Commissioner Margret Cooke. "These boosters provide the best protection against the Omicron subvariants, which are currently the most prevalent strains of COVID-19 in Massachusetts. The vaccine and boosters are proven to be safe and effective for adults and children. If you've been thinking about getting the vaccine, now is the time."

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING JR. HONORED BY THE PEOPLE'S A.M.E. CHURCH AND CPS

Monday January 16 was celebrated as Dr Martin Luther King Jr. Day, a national holiday. King is best remembered for his nationwide peaceful protests and marches, bringing racial injustice to the forefront of America. Dr. King was a prominent civil rights leader and an outstanding orator. King's "I Have A Dream Speech," that was delivered in Washington, D.C. on Aug. 28, 1963, is regarded as one of the greatest speeches in the nation's history. Shown above, Senator DiDomenico presents Christina Griswold her certificate for her award-winning drawing themed with the celebration of MLK Day.

the developers of the affordable units get a tax break for those affordable units, and that the price of the market rate apartments are driven up and aren't affordable for Chelsea residents.

"You build 70 units, and 10 out of those 70 units are affordable, and seven go to Chelsea people, so all the other units are not affordable for Chelsea people," he said.

Recupero said he would like to see the next major building development in Chelsea consist of 100 percent affordable units and for the city to continue to advocate for affordable units for Chelsea residents.

District 1 Councilor Todd Taylor questioned the numbers used by Ambrosino from the state.

"I believe the state put out numbers in 2014," said Taylor. "These numbers are fairly antiquated and I didn't realize we had to go back to 2010. I believe there are state numbers from 2014 and they have a higher percentage of affordable housing than 19 percent, I believe it is 21 or 22 percent."

Ambrosino noted that the information from DHCD was from April of last year, even though the statistics relied on 2010 census data.

"The total housing unit number that is the denominator is based on the 2010 census," said Ambrosino. "They will change it eventually based on the housing statistics from the 2020 census. As soon as they change that denominator, I expect our percentage, even with additional units, will drop from 19 percent. "We will still be far and away one of the communities in the commonwealth with the most affordable housing, but we could be in the 17 percent range."

ATHLETES NAMED AS ALL SCHOLASTIC

EVERETT - Everett High School senior quarterback Karmarri Ellerbe and junior wide receiver and safety Christian Zamor were named All-Scholastic by the Boston newspapers.

Ellerbe was selected to the Boston Globe and Boston Herald Football Teams. Zamor was selected as a Boston Herald All-Scholastic.

Both players made major contributions to Coach Rob DiLoreto's 2022 team that captured the Greater Boston League title and advanced to the quarterfinals of the Division 1 state playoffs.

Ellerbe, who was voted the Greater Boston League's most valuable player, led Everett to a 17-3 record in his two seasons as Everett's starting quarterback. He rushed for 888 yards, passed for 750 yards, and scored 10 touchdowns this season. He had 19 career touchdown passes.

The 6-foot, 225-pounder averaged close to 10 yards per carry during his two-year reign at the helm of the Everett offense. Ellerbe is considering prep school or a four-year college for the next chapter in his football career.

Zamor became one of the leaders of the Everett defense this season. "In many ways, he is clearly a Division 1 college-level player on the defensive side of the ball," said Coach Rob DiLoreto. "He made a lot of our coverage calls. He really understood what we were trying to do schematically on defense."

Zamor has received an offer from Boston College and will join the Division 1 program in Chestnut Hill following his graduation from Everett High in 2024. His older brother, Ish Zamor, is a wide receiver for the Eagles.

Everett's non-league opponents set

Everett High will play Xaverian High School in its non-league opener to the 2023 season. In Week 4, Everett will host Boston College High School.

The Crimson Tide have not been able to find an opponent for their Thanksgiving game.

Likely completes successful NFL rookie season

Former EHS football star Isaiah Likely completed a successful inaugural season for the Baltimore Ravens in the National Football League with an appearance in the Wild Card game against the Cincinnati Bengals Saturday. The Bengals prevailed, 24-17, over their AFC North divisional rival. The Ravens were without their No. 1 quarterback Lamar Jackson for the game.

Likely, a 6-foot-4-inch, 235-pound tight end, had 36 pass receptions for 373 yards for a 10.4 yards-per-reception average. He scored three touchdowns and emerged as a strong blocker and de-

Mike Sainristil will return to Michigan

Everett's Mike Sainristil has announced online that he will return for another season in the University of Michigan football program. Sainristil was a starting defensive back for the Wolverines who finished the regular season undefeated and won the Big-10 championship game before falling to TCU, 51-45, in the national semifinals in the Fiesta Bowl.

Sainristil had considered making himself eligible for this year's NFL Draft, but he opted to return to Coach Jim Harbaugh's surging program that has qualified for the College Football Playoffs the past two seasons.

Sainristil moved from wide receiver to defensive back at the start of the 2022 season.

PROTEST LEADS TO ARREST

EAST BOSTON - Just before 7 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 17, activists protesting Eversource's electric substation blocked the entrance to the construction site at 400 Condor Street, leading to multiple arrests.

According to a press release from Extinction Rebellion Boston (XR), a group that has vehemently opposed the substation, six of their activists were arrested early Tuesday morning during the demonstration.

At the time of this writing, the Boston Police Department's (BPD) Office of Media Relations could not provide any information on the arrests.

Jule Manitz, an XR Activist, indicated that she was none too pleased with the response from BPD.

"I am very impressed with how fast the police has acted because construction is not allowed to get started before seven, and we did not block any construction, so this was a proactive arrest," said Manitz.

"We should be able to be here to state our opinion that we still don't like the substation, and I don't understand why we are not allowed to say these things anymore."

XR's Song and Chant Leader Nora Maynard also did not seem thrilled with BPD's response alluding to the fact that it seemed excessive.

"I would say that the police response was unnecessary in its magnitude. There were at least 20 police officers and several large vehicles, and there just weren't that many of us here," said Maynard.

Following the arrests, activists moved to the other side of the street opposite the entrance of the construction site holding a large banner that read "No Eastie Substation." The activists then held signs, sang songs, and chanted in opposition to the substation.

This latest demonstration is not the first protest in recent memory, as there was a smaller one last week. In a fight that has drawn on for almost a decade, it seems like the situation has reached a boiling point.

The most significant issue with the substation among these activists is safety because there are concerns about flooding at the site. Moreover, the site is directly across from a playground, and activists fear flooding could lead to a disastrous explosion.

"It's [the site] is in a flood zone, and these things tend to explode when flooded. The location is not good; it needs to be moved to Massport," said Manitz.

Now XR is calling on Governor Maura Healey to step in and do something about the construction before it is too late.

"She [Healey] is in office; she has power; she can do this now. We have been talking with her, GreenRoots has been talking with her for over a week now, and it's time to actually put power and to put action behind her words of opposing the substation and work with us, the community," said Manitz.

"We would very much like for the Governor Maura Healey to get the message that the community and the environment would be very poorly served by this substation being built right here," said Maynard.

Furthermore, Maynard made the point that a lot of frustration has come out of this process because it does not seem like the community is being listened to. Just a couple of years ago, in a 2021 ballot question, over 80% of voters opposed the substation's construction.

"Why would the public think that their vote or their voice is worthwhile if nothing that they ever say actually comes into action," said Maynard.

As tensions rise in the saga of the Eversource substation, Manitz urged residents to come out and make their voices heard.

"I want to say to not be afraid to join us; you can be part of this. You can be chanting, you can be singing with us, you can be part of this and this opposition," said Manitz.

TOWN LOOKING TO FILL POSITION ON FINANCE COMMITTEE

WINTHROP -The town

is seeking a new member for its Citizens Finance Committee after a longtime member has stepped down.

"Jan Twombly has been a member of that committee for over a decade and has provided so much to that committee, from her professionalism, her ability to listen to both sides of an issue and just come up with the right suggestion," said Town Council President James Letterie. "Her unique financial skill set has just been so admired by everyone on that committee, and I thank her for her time."

Letterie said Twombly's work schedule has made it next to impossible for her to continue on the finance committee, so she will be stepping down.

"She will be sorely missed, but we are looking for someone on the Citizens Finance Committee," said Letterie.

In other business, the council approved the reappointment of Paul Flanagan to the MWRA Board of Directors for the town for a term that runs through Feb. 15, 2027.

Town Manager Tony Marino is also looking for additional feedback from the Town Council on a new trash ordinance before the council takes a vote on it.

Council Vice President Stephen Ruggeiro said the new ordinance seeks to make sure there are rules in place that can be enforced by the town so that everyone in Winthrop is following the same set of rules for the disposal of trash.

The ordinance also establishes an enterprise fund so that the trash program is funded through the money it brings in, much like the town's existing enterprise funds for water, the hockey rink, and parks and recreation.

Ruggeiro said the ordinance will be discussed in more depth at a future meeting.

Council President James Letterie said he still has questions about the financial aspect of the ordinance that he would like to see answered.

"I want to make sure we are aligned with what the end goals are and why we think it is right for the town," he said.

Letterie said the discussion over the trash ordinance will be kept on the council agenda, and that implementation of the new ordinance should move ahead quickly when and if it is approved.

Boston Festival Orchestra and Boston Athenaeum to offer unique chamber music series

Special to the Journal

Deep in the pandemic, when the concert halls were shuttered, the Boston Festival Orchestra now and then used the Boston Athenæum as a practice space, and their music filled the building. A friendship began, and from that, an artistic collaboration.

Now, in an innovative multidisciplinary artistic collaboration, the Boston Festival Orchestra (BFO) and the Boston Athenæum have formed a partnership to reflect on special Athenaeum exhibitions through the lens of chamber music.

With three 2023 chamber music concerts in the intimate setting of the Athenaeum's Henry Long Room, the BFO will perform compelling and relevant repertoire that blends the familiar with the unknown, according to BFO conductor Alyssa Wang. "The concerts will span many time periods, cultures and mediums, prod- ding us to ask questions such as: Who is art for? In what ways can we use art to connect with our heri- tage? In what ways can we use art to reconcile with the past?" she said.

Each chamber music concert will reflect on a specific Athenaeum exhibi- tion:

- February 9 - Materialia Lumina, the BFO pairs new and old works of clas- sical music with stunning selections of artists' books showcased in the Athenæum's current gallery exhibi- tion, Materialia Lumina / Luminous Books.

- April 8 - Performing previously hidden and game-changing voices in classical music, the BFO reflects on the ramifica- tions of an exclusionary past and reconsiders the constructs of race, gen- der, and class. The music is inspired by Re-Reading Special Collections, a new Athenaeum initiative to reinterpret and recontextu- alize works of art from its permanent collection.

- June 22 - A Place I Never Knew explores a series of photographs by local photographer Tira Khan., The BFO will use music to reflect bridges among Khan's Indian, American, British heritag- es.

Departing from tra- dition, the concerts will include opportunities for audience participation. Concert-goers will be able to walk through the featured exhibits and converse with artists during the receptions following the concerts.

"For many audience members, these events may serve as the first introduction to the Boston Athenaeum or the Bos- ton Festival Orchestra," said Boston Athenaeum director Leah Rosovsky. "We hope that by mixing communities we strength-

The Boston Festival Orchestra, founded in 2019, brings the highest caliber of artistic performance to the Greater Boston community through its Summer Stage, Chamber Series, and partnerships with local nonprofits. By employing local professional musicians, presenting creative and relevant programming, and engaging with the community through education and outreach programs, the BFO fosters a welcoming and inclusive environment that enriches the culture of the city. Since its inaugural season in 2021 - when they became Boston's first orchestra to perform live concerts since the start of the pandemic - the BFO has grown to become one of Boston's celebrated music institutions, redefining young leadership in classical music and what it means to make music today.

Founded in 1807, the Boston Athenaeum is a unique combination of library, museum and cultural center. The Athenaeum's present home at 10 ½ Beacon St., designed by Edward Clarke Cabot, opened in 1849 and was named a National Historic Landmark in 1965. One of the country's oldest and most distinguished independent libraries, the Athenaeum's circulating collection includes over half a million books, from works published in the 1800s to the latest best sellers. Special collections include active research holdings of 100,000 rare books, maps and manuscripts, and 100,000 works of art, from paintings and sculpture to prints and photographs. Members, visitors and the community enjoy a year-round calendar of cultural programs -- book talks, exhibitions, concerts, speakers, social gatherings and other opportunities for connection. The Athenaeum is a member-supported not-for-profit institution that everyone is invited to join. Bostonathenaeum.org

North Suffolk Office of Resilience and Sustainability publishes annual report

By Adam Swift

The North Suffolk Office of Resilience and Sustainability published its annual report in January, sharing with its constituents in Chelsea, Revere, and Winthrop information on projects that were completed in 2022, updates on the upcoming phases of ongoing projects, and details on new initiatives that will launch in 2023.

The NSORS was created by the communities of Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop to address climate change issues using a regional approach. Since its creation, NSORS staff have worked on both regional and individual municipal projects to address issues such as heat mitigation, the reduction of greenhouse gas contributions and more.

“Like the rest of the Boston area, Chelsea, Revere, and Winthrop were impacted by heat waves and drought this summer, and by extreme high tides periodically throughout the year,” stated the introductory letter to the report, signed off on by former Chelsea City Manager Thomas Ambrosino, Revere Mayor Brian Arrigo, and Winthrop Town Manager Tony Marino. “And as energy prices rose this summer and fall, the need for energy efficiency took on new urgency. As we start to feel the impacts of climate change in real time, regional efforts like NSORS have become increasingly more important as tools to protect our communities and reduce our greenhouse gas contri-

The office manages over $3 million in grant funds from projects specific to the three regional communities as well as projects that have an impact on the entire North-Suffolk region.

In Chelsea, the NSORS is managing ongoing projects to address the flood mitigation and restoration of Mill Creek, implement Phase I of the Microgrid Initiative, and instill neighborhood-scale resiliency measures. The neighborhood projects include a study of Eastern Avenue to combat frequent flooding caused by the Chelsea Creek, designing a new park at the foot of the Chelsea Street Bridge, developing a permanent park at 212 Congress Street, a white roof pilot project at the Jordan Boys and Girls Club, and the Bellingham Square Plaza redesign.

In Revere, the city is moving forward with a tree inventory and management plan under the NSORS. Obtaining an accurate inventory of Revere's public trees, as well as a plan for maintaining and growing the urban canopy, will provide heat mitigation and flood control benefits to Revere, according to the report. In collaboration with Davey Resource Group, which has conducted similar projects in nearby communities and nationwide, Revere will begin its inventory this winter.

In Winthrop, the NSORS is taking the lead on updating the town's hazard mitigation plan, which has expired and must be updated in order for the town to be eligible for FEMA funding. Winthrop has applied for funding to support a plan update, and expects to hear the status of this request this month, according to the report. If funded, the update would begin in early 2023, bringing together stakeholders in Winthrop to identify hazards and critical infrastructure, and to highlight priority mitigation measures.

The NSORS is also taking part in regional efforts with impact beyond its core communities. The Zero Carbon Action Plan (ZCAP) project kicked off in early 2022, with a core team composed of staff from NSORS, the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC), Chelsea/Revere/Winthrop municipal staff, and GreenRoots staff. The office conducted stakeholder interviews to gauge their understanding of, and interest for, climate mitigation. The MAPC team developed a GHG emissions inventory for each of the communities as well as a regional inventory.

The core team held workshops throughout the communities, with a mix of in-person and virtual gatherings to educate on the scope of the project and its overall goals.

In early 2023, the core team will be holding regular meetings with a steering committee composed of municipal staff and Green-Roots which will provide more concrete ideas for strategies and actions that are to be included in the ZCAP plan.

Home Economics

came from an assignment in his “home economics” class.

His exposure to household management resulted in a career path. It might provide the skills needed to be a great single parent, partner, caregiver, or healthier human for a different person.

Vital Life Skills

Feeding yourself and your family food that is healthy, nutritious, safe, and within your budget takes more education than you can obtain by watching a few TikTok videos or following food influencers on Instagram. Training in these vital life skills could result in better decisions about how we spend our food dollars, differentiate between good nutritional information and puffery, and minimize food waste. These topics are essential to our personal well-being, economy, and environment.

Going back to that definition of home economics, we like the idea of teaching anyone who wants to learn how to be the CEO and CFO of an organization called a household. In addition to classes held in schools, community-based continuing education could make it possible for anyone suddenly responsible for feeding themselves and others to learn how to do it well. This might include young people on their own for the first time, seniors who need to adapt to cooking for one, or those who become single parents and need to feed a family.

So Much To Learn

WBUR reported on the diminished availability of home economics classes and teachers. In that article, they quoted Carol Werhan, an FCS educator and member of the board of the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences. The article's author, Tove Danovich wrote, "...cooking taught through FCS courses is more about having the confidence to experiment in the kitchen than becoming a trained chef. 'People don't need to have perfection — you have to know what are the failures that are OK.' 'Burnt edges can be cut off. Overcooked meat can still be served.' Werhan said."

This photo of a home economics class was taken circa 1900–1919 when it was thought that only women needed the skills to manage a home.

the way is to be expected is a valuable lesson. The WBUR article also talked about students seeing the relevance of what they were doing and learning in FCS classes. At first, they may not realize they are using mathematics, chemistry, resource management, financial acumen, and organizational skills to follow a recipe or set up a menu. Still, before long, they see the connection.

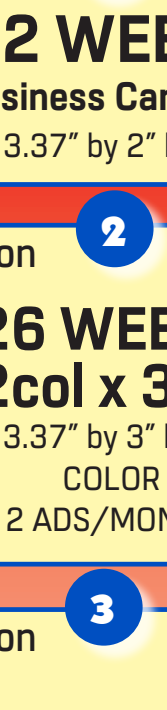

Once, these skills were passed from generation to generation as they shared space in multi-generational households and large connected families. However, now we also hear of cases where the young are teaching their older family members to make better choices for the family and the environment. Any knowledge we can provide through FCS education at school or in the community can help ensure we have a new generation of home-ec teachers, young and old.
